SPRING 2012 PENALTY SUMMARY

Ok, the bottom line here is that you guys had a really good season in terms of penalties. One of the best I've seen in my time here in the RDL. Throughout the entire season, all 63 teams combined for only 19 penalties and a total loss of only 174 points. More remarkable is that we had TWO divisions (A and C) that went the entire season without a single infraction. There was 1 captains' meeting penalties (for 5 total points), 10 phone penalties (50 total points), 6 mail penalties (96 total points), and 2 ineligible player penalties (23 total points). F division had the most total penalties (6) and most points lost (52), but H division had the most penalized teams (4). All in all, only 14 of the 63 teams were hit with any penalties at all, and only 4 of those 14 received more than one penalty. And… of those 4 that took more than one penalty, 3 of them were a phone/mail penalty pair from the same forgotten week (meaning they really only messed up once each, just having messed up a little bigger than usual). The only team that was hit with a penalty in more than one week of the season is also the only team that received 3 total penalties: Liquor Posse of F division. And the only two teams that lost a standings spot due to penalty both only fell from 5th to 6th in their respective divisions: Death Throw in E, & Dysfunction in F.

SUMMER DARTS

Well, we're about at that time when most of us take a Wednesday break for a couple months, with the Fall season not starting up until July/August. But what about those of us who don't live near Durham or Chapel Hill (where the local leagues run through the summer months)? Well, maybe it's time to start picking up a blind draw or two! Sure, it will cost you five bucks to play, but you might win significantly more than that. And much better than that, you will likely get to play doubles with someone that isn't one of your regular every week partners! It's really a great way to meet some of the others in your league, and is also one of the best ways to network and meet others (often in higher divisions) if you are looking for new options yourself, or if you're looking for players to add to your own team. And how about this? Over the summer, you don't even need to add a new dart night!! There are regular weekly draws in the Triangle on Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday all year (see page 8 of this issue for details, and page 4 of the weekly issues all season every season), but the Upper Deck on Harrison Avenue has added a weekly Wednesday draw until RDL starts back up! 8 p.m. close of registration, double-elimination, bar matches the pot, just like their regular Friday and Sunday draws. Maybe I'll see you out there one of these weeks…

And for those more inclined to hit a bigger tournament…

Please note that the summer months are some of the heaviest in terms of weekend-long dart tournaments within driving distance (although some are not drive-and-come-back-same-day distance). Fliers for some of those tournaments can be found on pages 19-21 of this issue of the newsletter, but also note that the Savannah Open will be held this coming weekend, and there just wasn't room for the flier here. That means there are tournaments in Savannah (May 25-27), Richmond (June 8-10), Greensboro (June 23-24), Charlotte (July 13-15), and Nashville (July 27-29). And that doesn't even include the most important one of them all… which is…

THE 7TH ANNUAL WRECK AT THE DECK!!! (see pg. 19)

It's not every day that an ADO-sanctioned tournament lands in your back yard. But that's exactly what happens during the span of June 1st-3rd. It all goes down at The Upper Deck on Harrison Ave. in Cary, and there are events for both men and women, alone or in pairs (or even trips), both regular tournament-style and blind draw format! If you can't find an event you like, then you don't really like darts very much… This is really a top notch event that always runs smoothly, has great raffles, and always ends up with a few birthday celebrations getting out of hand. I recommend you check it out. Julie Payne, Mark and Maridy Knight, Angela Gaulthier, and the rest of the Carolina Dart Association (and the Deck!) do it up right.

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5+ ASPs; "B" = 4.0+ ASPs; "C" & "D" = 3.5+
"E", "F" & "G" = 3.0+ ASPs; "H" = 2.5+ ASPs
Also: perfect throws, fast games (15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, 24-dart cricket games), high ins/outs (over 100), or other pretty impressive stuff (e.g., Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:
for all Divs. except "A" and teams G4 & G7 (8 teams / div.):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for Division "A" (7 teams / division):
min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams G4 and G7 (due to 1 forfeit received.):
min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played

THE THIRTY-FIRST SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	Required Elements	E Division	Vicente Martinez	The Mayan Dartist
B Division	Billy Lloyd	Is It In?	F Division	Chad Massengill	BullsHitters
C Division	Eric Klann	Drunk on Arrival	G Division	Andy Krestalude	Charlie Don't Surf
D Division	David Hoyt	Rif Raf	H Division	David Huffman	Brown's Bombers

All of RDL -- Chad Massengill -- BullsHitters

"A" Division (oh, I soooo wish there two more spots...)

Tom Brown	Required Elements	Even when he's 'off', he just keeps winning.
Kyle Gaulthier	Hu Flung Pu	The 4-perfect-throw match is instant legend.
Robbie Phillips	Required Elements	Maybe the best the RDL has ever had.
Robert Ray	Appetite for Destruc	What a strong return to A that was…
Mike Seward	Hu Flung Pu	Not full time, but I don't want to face him.
Scott Stankevich	Rednecks	Probably throws fewer misses than anyone.
Wil Tan	Required Elements	More huge finishes than ever this season.
Bob Terry	Lunatic Fringe	Still one of the most truly feared opponents.

"B" Division

Kent Butters	Absolut Confusion	Could it be a changing of the Butters order?
Scott Butters	Absolut Confusion	Nah… Scott's still one of the best around.
Randy Crites	Triple Threats	Imagine if he hadn't miss half the season.
Simon Healy	Triple Threats	Delivered at all the biggest moments.
Michael Johnson	Triple Threats	Led the top B team in wins this season.
Billy Lloyd	Is It In?	What the hell didn't he do this season?
Alberto Sandoval	Mug Hunters	Strong again, will do well when he hits A.
Matt Varnadoe	Is It In?	Look what happens when he's a regular!

"C" Division

Jim Gallagher	Coral Reefers	Oh, did he try to just will this team to wins.
Josh Hall	Excalibur	Superb first three sets for big C winners.
Justin Harvey	Ale-ing Archers	The C -01 king was decent in cricket too.
Bob James	Excalibur	Mr. C doubles brought it home this season.
Eric Klann	Drunk on Arrival	Four 10-win sets? Not drunk on arrival…
Andy Schwochow	Ale-ing Archers	Part-timer could've made a big difference.
Jerry Shengulette	Drunk on Arrival	When this is your 3rd best, you'll do well.
Randy Wilcox	Drunk on Arrival	He's making himself at home on this page.

"D" Division

Aaron Fitzgerald	Big Bulls	Most consistent for easily strongest D team.
Stephen Flanagan	Big Bulls	Not spectacular, but very solid first 3 sets.
David Hoyt	Rif Raf	Good enough to carry a team when needed.
Barry Jackson	Throwin Stones	Great resurgence for the new captain.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	Could be D's best if work travel cooperated.
Ronnie Knott	Choot 'Em!	Another solid season for often-top 3 team.
Keith Ohrberg	Rif Raf	Dangerous shot for the runners-up.
Chris Toolan	Big Bulls	After 301 was on fire nearly whole season.

"E" Division

Sean Ackley	Cuban Dart Crisis	Perpetual all-star slipped a bit in doubles.
Tim Bunn	Force 8/Planet XXX	Big Dummy is just a big flippin' winner.
David Gelberg	Dublin-Dublout	Driving force behind the season titlists.
Matt Goss	Double Tap	Wow, what a season. Again. Awesome.
Dave Goyen	Force 8/Planet XXX	One/two punch with Bunn is almost unfair.
Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	Huge singles, tailed off in doubles. Hmmm.
Vicente Martinez	The Mayan Dartist	Carried oft-shorthandeds to win after win.
Jeff Rudy	Dublin-Dublout	Solid across all four sets is always nice.

"F" Division (wow, there could've been 14 different guys here…)

Josh Frumkin	Backyard Brawlers	If only the cricket results matched the -01s.
Ernie Gilyardi	BullsHitters	So we sit him in 501… the other 3 sets rock.
Donald Grubb	Salute-A-Bulls	Was the team hammer before he moved.
Ted Marks	Liquor Posse	Lots of singles wins, ASPs, and plaques.
Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	Dominated like no other thrower this spring.
Pat Merkle	Backyard Brawlers	Just another first-3-sets solid winner.
Dave Tanner	The Dysfunction is I	No dysfunction for him this season.
Derek Williams	Sharkshooters	Holy crap did this guy ever bust out…

"G" Division

Sheldon Citrak	Method. Madness	22-8 in the first 3 sets is tough to beat.
Mike Horrall	Method. Madness	Got better as the match sets went on…
Andy Krestalude	Charlie Don't Surf	Wow, this guy WAS cricket for his team.
Eric Long	We Be Triplin	When 9-4 is your bad set, things are alright.
Phil Murphy	One Armed Bandits	SCkt and 501 clearly drove this choice.
Mark Powell	UZMAgain	Singles king struggled a bit in doubles.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	At any given moment, maybe the best in G.
Mike Venable	Method. Madness	Just solid record for regular season champs.

"H" Division (geez, there were maybe 13 worthy guys in this one)

David Huffman	Brown's Bombers	List, throw, win, hit fast games, clinch Mug.
John Iager	Grateful Darts	Singles champ needs a bit of doubles help.
Dennis Morgan	Fullabull	-01s were fine, but cricket is where it's at.
John Owens	Brown's Bombers	31-11 after 301 makes him just 3rd on team.
Joe Strang	Tips & Shafts	Nearly hit 40 wins for the runners-up.
Dan Therrien	Y'All Ain't Ready!	Strong singles, strong doubles = strong.
Patrick Todd	Tips & Shafts	Put up a huge record in both SCkt and 501.
Justin Vick	Brown's Bombers	Stellar season second only to Huffman's.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): 7 throwers in the club this season! [side note: A division only had 12 matches, so it only produced one player with as many as three 10-win sets (Robbie Phillips).] The seven holder of all 10+-win sets: Billy Lloyd of Is It In? in B division (who actually had all sets of 11+ wins), Eric Klann and Randy Wilcox of Drunk on Arrival in C division, Aaron Fitzgerald of Big Bulls in D division, Matt Goss of Double Tap and Vicente Martinez of The Mayan Dartist in E division, and Chad Massengill of the BullsHitters in F division. Congrats to all the big winners!

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: Well, the Ducks got so shorthanded that they went ahead and forfeited a couple this season, which means a non-Duck can take the top spot here again. And that's exactly what happened. Barry Thompson of The Mayan Dartist came through with a solid 66 games this season. Certainly no record, but not bad considering there are generally only 56 sets per season. One of his teammates (Joshua Walters) actually tied for second-highest in the league with 62, so they clearly spent some time shorthanded. Honorable mentions for this season, as division leaders: Sal Reitano of The Locals in a 7-team A division with 53 (on this list for a 2nd season in a row); Hugh Vance of the Traveling Beer Bellies in B with 61; 3 Archers in C @ 61 each; Scott Fink of Sharky's Machine in D with 61; Aaron Mooty of Liquor Posse in F with 59; Erin Hartmann of Charlie Don't Surf in G with 62; & Tisha Marriott of Con Dartists in H with 61 (2 seasons in a row).

-The Team Attendance Award winners: For a third straight season, we're getting ever closer to a return of the regular six-man squad! SIX teams sort of came close, but there are two who were simply ahead of the rest in their single-lineup unity. Brown's Bombers rolled through H sharing only 13 of their 336 player slots outside the main six. But the closest to a solid-six-pack? Choot 'Em! in D division, who had a 7th player play only 3 games all season, and all in the same night!

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

Holy crap, what do I say here? Do I try to build a big story and explain away what we all already know? Do I blame it on you guys? Or do I just tell it like it is and be done with it? I think I'll go with that last option…

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season, but this time around, what's the difference?), I hit 3 of the 8 first-place teams, and had a couple more that finished 2nd or 3rd. But to be honest, I missed some of these divisions by more than I ever have in any previous season. I picked the E winner last (shocker!). I had three top-three picks end up in 7th spots. I had a few of my top picks finish down in 4th. What a flippin' mess… That column is generally pretty accurate. But Hu Flung Pu finishing 5th in A is about all you to need to see how tough this was.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. After 5 pick rate improvements in 6 seasons that saw my correct pick percentage climb higher than 76%, I crashed to a 13% drop this season! What the heck could I possibly say here? I had maybe my worst pick season ever, and I mostly blame E division! I went 25-31 in E, 4 E teams fooled me more often than not, and for two of them I was an atrocious 4-10. That… is… pathetic. Oh, and… I started the season 0-9 with Double Tap; I had two other teams with whom I had 6-match incorrect strings; and I was over 2/3 right for A div., but no others.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And this time, when we went to best-of-three my picks took the hell off in comparison to my preseason and weekly picks, despite the fact that I'm picking semifinals & finals that I conceivably could have wrong before the match is even played. I was 25-5 in the quarterfinals, a whopping 13-3 in the semifinals, and then I also nailed 5 of the 8 Mug champions! That's a final record of 43-12, I hit every match in A and H divisions, and the three finals I got wrong were the three that were down to only a dart or two! Oh, and… my Sure Things were all perfect! My Dark Horses though? Maybe a little too dark.

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page sixteen seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the two 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the three 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [And thus ends one of the craziest, most ridiculous (and least successful prediction-wise) seasons in RDL history… E division? Y'all can kiss my butt!! Did you guys flip coins to decide winners? Draw straws?]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 5 question(s): How many teams since 1995 (my tenure as statistician) have pulled the double (regular season AND tournament titles in the same season) in BOTH seasons in a calendar year? Who are they?

Week 6 question: How many February 29th issues of the Tons of Newsletter have I ever written?

Week 7 question: The RDL shifted its award structure to a divisional style for High Ins/Outs and Fast Games in the Spring 2007 season. In the 10 seasons we've given awards this way, what is the greatest number of divisions in a single season for which the High In was exactly 120?

Week 8 question: Alyssa Leggett of We Be Triplin leads G division in ASP Average. How many times in my 32 seasons as statistician has a female claimed a division ASP Average title?

Week 9 question: When was the last change in the RDL match format (change in players per set, blocker usage, what sets are played, anything like that)?

Week 10 question: What was the last change in the RDL match format prior to the change in the 1001 scoring noted above?

Week 11 question: The Ducks (presently known as the Quackerjacks) have hit one of the RDL's longest-ever runs of attendance issues. In the past three seasons plus the first ten weeks of this season (that's 52 regular season weeks), how many times have they played shorthanded?

Week 12 question(s): This is the 10th season in a row (the only 10 in league history) that RDL has had 8 or more divisions. In that time, what was the average number of members per season? And how many different individuals have played at least one season during that time?

Week 5 answer: In the 16 years that I've been statistician, 11 teams have pulled the full-calendar-year sweep. The odd part of that is that all 11 times happened in only 5 of the 16 years, and further, 3 of those 5 years were my first 3 years! That means that it has only happened in 2 of the last 13 years. Of the 11 times that it happened, it has been only 9 different teams, as 2 two teams have done it twice. The teams with that super year under their belts: Lunatic Fringe (A-1996); Bottom Feeders/The Dart Party (D/C-1996); Lunatic Fringe (A-1997); Diddler's Choice (C/B-1997); Shameless & Aimless IV/V (D/C-1997); No Clue (C/B-1998); The Elusive Element/The Intrusive Element (A-2004); Wireless (D/C-2004); Elemental Truths/Element Horizon (A-2010); Imports & Domestics/Domestic Rednecks (D/C-2010); Mug Hunters (I/E-2010).

Week 6 answer: Counting last week… 1. February 29th is on a different day of the week for each of the 7 leap years in a 28-year run. The last time that date was a Wednesday then, was 1984 -- 12 years prior to my tenure as the statistician. [The best answer to this question during the season came from the fourth person to respond: Matt Heimbach of Lunatic Fringe (who didn't offer up an actual answer, but clearly knew it) asked a question to the effect of "I'm sort of new to the RDL… has the league ever been played on a different night of the week?" Pretty insightful thought…]

Week 7 answer: This one is a little interesting to me… The straight answer to the question is FOUR divisions (out of only 7!) in the Spring 2007 season (the first in which we separated the awards by division). The interesting part of this question though is how the change in the High In interpretation (to first-turn only, with which I completely agree) four seasons ago has affected this situation. In the first six seasons, 8 of the 47 divisions had 120 for a High In, with 6 of those 8 being a tie (2 120s once, 3 120s twice, 4 120s twice, and 5 120s in a division once). In the four seasons since it went to first-turn-only, 9 of the 33 divisions had 120 for a High In, with only 4 of those 9 being a tie (2 120s once, 3 120s twice, and 6(!) 120s once). [Interestingly, those last three big-tie instances were all in the same season, Spring 2011.] Also, it appears that E division is the king of the 120, having that as the High In in 5 of the 10 seasons. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: new record time! This season we broke this record when FIVE of our 8 divisions ended up with a 120-In as the leader. And in those five divisions, 14 different people got an award for a 120-In, with one guy (Jon Kenney of Required Elements) doing it twice.]

Week 8 answer: Twice. Well, sorta three times, but sorta not… I'll explain. Our first female division ASP champ was Paula Delp, who took the C crown in the Spring 2000 season with 1.147 ASP/game; and our second was Deb Blackwelder, who claimed the D title in the Spring 2006 season with 0.805 ASP/game. The sorta kinda one came during the Spring 2009 season, when we had split the ASP awards into '01 and cricket - Blackwelder claimed the '01 portion in E division, but was not the overall ASP leader for the division. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Alas, we did not add another female overall divisional ASP champ this season…]

Week 9 answer: At the beginning of the Fall 2003 season, the RDL stopped awarding a point for winning a tiebreaker. Until that time, a non-shorthanded tiebreaker match ended with a 13-12 score, creating an extra point out of nowhere.

Week 10 answer: Between the Spring 1995 and Fall 1995 seasons, singles '01 was switched from straight-in 501 to double-in 301. Keith Wall of Pig Tour 95 claimed the last RDL singles 501 fast game with a 14-darter, tossed a little over two months before he won the Singles 501 crown (as well as the Doubles 501 title with Mike Hall, and the Four-Person 1001 title on a team that included Wil Tan) at that spring's Charlotte Open.

Week 11 answer: The Ducks have been shorthanded an astonishing 43 times in that 52-match regular season string. They had 6+ players for exactly zero matches in the Fall 2010 season, for 5 matches in the Spring 2011 season, for 1 match in the Fall 2011 season, and for 3 of the first 10 matches this season. Painfully, they have been short by 2 players relatively often, have dropped to 3 short during a couple other matches, and forfeited a small handful of times as well. No wonder some of their players are always in the running for the Iron Man Award for the player throwing the most games in the league… [Answer update for the banquet Tons: In the last 4 weeks of this season, things got no better for the Ducks. They were short for two sets one week, they were two players short twice, and they flat out forfeited the other week. But… they didn't have the Iron Man this time… sadly, because of the forfeits…]

Week 12 answer: Over the past 10 seasons, the average number of RDL members is just under 540 members per season (we have 547 this season; the record is 586 in the spring 2010 season, our only 9-division season ever). And in those 10 seasons, I believe we've had 1271 different people as a league member for at least 1 season. That means that 724 people who played in at least 1 of the last 9 seasons before this one are not league members now - I know that life changes, people move, etc., but 724 people? Where the heck did all those people go? Go out and get them back people!! I division! J division! K division! Why not? We're already the biggest and best dart league in the state (by a lot, mind you). Let's get even bigger! Who can't always use a few more dart friends?

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page. No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "Like a hurt, lost and blinded fool, fool, oh no, I've said too much"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "And I found a dream that I could speak to, A dream that I can call my own"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "I don't care if it hurts, I want to have control, I want a perfect body, I want a perfect soul"

Week 3, song #2 lyric: "Do you believe in Heaven above? Do you believe in love? Don't tell a lie, don't be false or untrue, It all comes back to you"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "And I'm thinking what a mess we're in, Hard to know where to begin, If I could slip the sickly ties that earthly man has made"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "One town's very like another, When your head's down over your pieces, brother"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "And well, he's on the table, And he's gone to code, And I do not think anyone knows, What they are doing here"

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "I work hard every day of my life, I work till I ache my bones, At the end I take home my hard earned pay all on my own"

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "And I will go on shining, shining like brand new, I'll never look behind me, my troubles will be few"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "He said 'give me all you've got, I want your money not your life, But if you try to make a move I won't think twice'"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "What do you see when you turn out the light, I can't tell you but I know it's mine"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "Take a little trip, take a little trip, Take a little trip and see"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "It's funny that you're calling me tonight, And yes, I've dreamt of you too"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "Piano man makes his stand in the auditorium, Looking on she sings the songs, the words she knows the tune she hums"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "If you took all the girls I knew when I was single, And brought them all together for one night"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "Freedom's just another word for nothin' left to lose, Nothin', don't mean nothin' hon' if it ain't free"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "He's leaping buildings in a single bound, I'm reading Shakespeare at my place downtown"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "You called me strong, you called me weak, But still your secrets I will keep"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "Little Joe never once gave it away, Everybody had to pay and pay"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "I don't understand at best, I cannot speak for all the rest, In the morning rise a lifetime's passed me by"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "And all of a sudden goin' fishin', Wasn't such an imposition, And I went three times that year I lost my Dad"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "Against the grain should be a way of life, What's worth the price is always worth the fight"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "On disco lights your name will be seen, You can fulfill all your dreams, Party here, party there, everywhere"

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "Well, I'm a bum in the sun and I'm havin' fun, And I know you know I got no special plans"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "Time is the essence, Time is the season, Time ain't no reason, Got no time to slow"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "And I'm talking to myself at night, because I can't forget, Back and forth through my mind, behind a cigarette"

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "Welcome to a new kind of tension, All across the alien nation, Where everything isn't meant to be okay"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "There's no bathroom, and there is no sink, The water out of the tap is very hard to drink"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "Push the fader, gifted animator, One for the now and eleven for the later"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "When it was all over, we had to find another place, Swiss time was running out, it seemed that we would lose the race"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "My beacon's been moved under moon and star, Where am I to go, now that I've gone too far"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "Nobody wants him, They just turn their heads, Nobody helps him, Now he has his revenge"

Week 14, song #9 lyric: "I went to see the doctor of philosophy, With a poster of Rasputin and a beard down to his knee"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "Well, I was raised up beneath the shade of a Georgia pine, And that's home you know"

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "Tap on my window, knock on my door, I want to make you feel beautiful, I know I tend to get insecure"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "I don't wanna be the girl that has to fill the silence, The quiet scares me 'cause it screams the truth"

Week 14 answers: Song 11 = "She Will Be Loved" by Maroon 5 === Song 12 = "Sober" by Pink.

[I can't believe how few people picked up on the band name color theme in the 12-song week 14 set… The other themes I used were all a LOT more subtle (and only included two songs) - week 8 was the two area concerts on the same day, week 10 was obviously Superman, week 12 was about recognizing that you only get one life and you should live it, and week 13 was the big concert in Greensboro that week. I have no idea if the themes make it easier or harder, or if anyone even cares, but they keep me interested, soooo… there…. - JK]

WATCHING RDL HISTORY HAPPEN

At my team's A division semifinal two weeks ago, my team was all set for a big match against one of our top rivals, Hu Flung Pu (often known as the Daddies in recent seasons). In the first pairing in 301, Kyle Gaulthier of Hu Flung stuck a big old Ton-80 in the first leg of the night. Nice, right? Well, it got better. For him, at least… He stuck another Ton-80 in the second leg of that same set! Holy cow! How many of you guys have ever hit two perfect throws in the same night, much less the same best-of-3 match? Well, before you answer, let me tell you this - Gaulthier stuck a 9-mark in singles cricket for his THIRD perfect throw of the night! Oh, crap, are you kidding me?! Three in one night? That's nuts! But not as nuts as the fact that he hit another 9-mark in doubles cricket!!! I'm not kidding - he tossed FOUR perfect throws against us in the same damn night! I have never heard of that, much less seen it. [And p.s. Kyle is still only 16 years old!]

And what that ridiculous number doesn't show is that at least three other times in the same match he started turns with two triples, so the number was very nearly higher! On my team, when a guy hits a perfect throw each of his teammates gives him a dollar. Glad (I suppose) that Kyle was on the other team that night or I would've been broke. (And yes, Kyle is my teammate, but only on Saturdays.)

How did my team eventually win the match anyway? Well, I guess it's partly due to the fact that Gaulthier slipped a bit in 501. He only hit a 140 in each game rather than a 180 (choker!), and we managed to slide past his pair in that set. Turns out we have a national champ on our roster too. :o)

THIS IS ALMOST UNFATHOMABLE

Every now and then as I peruse the mountain of RDL information I have amassed in my 17.5 years in the RDL (16.5 as the newsletter editor), I notice something that seems unlikely enough that I have to recheck the old records to make sure that there wasn't some database error that reported some ridiculous outcome. And it is, basically without fail, always accurate, regardless of how surprising the feat is. It turns out that some of you guys really do just put together feats sometimes that are beyond any logical expectation. And this past week, I absolutely came across one of those feats.

Now I want you to read this slowly and carefully and really digest just exactly how silly the numbers I am about to present really are. A cursory read of these facts really will not do them justice…

I joined the RDL in the spring of 1995. I was a new member of Pig Tour '95 in A division, and I was joined there by team newcomers Tom Brown (in his first RDL season ever) and Keith Wall (who had played one season in B). I had no idea what was starting that day. I played 2 seasons with Tom and Keith, then we split for 15 seasons because of friends on other teams, etc., and then we re-joined as Element for the last 18 seasons. That means it has been 35 seasons since we entered the RDL A division (plus Keith's one B season). I've had a lot of success in my day, but let me tell you about some real success…

In those 35 seasons, Tom Brown has played in THIRTY-THREE A division tournament finals matches!!!!! And despite the fact that Brown and Wall went to different teams for eight seasons, Keith Wall has played in THIRTY-TWO A division tournament finals matches!!!! Even when they weren't together, they were facing off in the finals against each other! The only season that had neither of them in the finals was the Fall 2000 season, when they lost in the semis together on Fringe. Brown's A finals tournament record? 23 wins, 10 losses, 2 absences. Wall's A finals tournament record? 19 wins, 13 losses, 3 absences. That… is… flippin'… silly…

SOMEWHERE JASON THOMAS IS SMILING…

Ok, that headline was too easy, I admit. RDL Pres. Jason "JT" Thomas is almost always smiling, so that's not news. (Constant unbreaking smiling, by the way, is likely a sign of some chemical imbalance or psychotic disorder… I'm just sayin'…) Anyway, a couple years ago when Thomas was playing on my team in the Bull City Dart League over in Durham, there was a string of matches in which Thomas somehow left either himself or his partner a double-3 about a million times (which, translated from dart-speak to English, probably means about 4 or 5 times in a half of a season or so - which is still a lot considering that… it's a double-3). This quickly got him the nickname Double-3 (creative, right?) among our teammates, even to the point that two different team names contained Double-3 in his honor.

Well, the finals matches this past Wednesday at Mac's Tavern (the E and B division finals) were right up JT's avenue. I saw something that I had never seen before that night, and then I saw it again! Let's set the stage… The only two matches this past Wednesday that went to one do-or-die set for both teams were the two at Mac's. 11-11 in both matches, tension building.

On the left in the E final, Dublin-Dublout had just climbed out of a big deficit against Force 8 from the Planet XXX to force the deciding pairing. Frank Hall, the shall we say much-embattled captain of Force 8, took game 1 for his side to put them on the brink of Mugs. Then, in game 2, with his team holding a very slight lead, he stepped to the line with 37 remaining. He threw his first dart at the 5, which while a little risky with two even numbers next to it, is mathematically a strong play. Unfortunately for him, the dart sank a touch down into the 12, leaving 25. A little team powwow ensued to discuss how to approach the shot at 25. I figured the discussion was a decision between throwing at the 9 to leave 16, or throwing the safer second dart of the 17/3 wire to leave either 8 (ideal) or 22 (at least it's a shot). Ummmm… nope. The team consensus was to throw the fat 19 to leave 6. WHAT?! Who the hell sets up double-3 on purpose (you shut up here, JT - none of us believe you ever did it on purpose, and if you did, why would ever admit that to us?)?! And why, when there are other more preferable doubles on the board (including basically everything but 2)? Well, that first dart goes right in the heart of the 19 to "strategically" move the score to 6. Which, I must admit, is indeed at least an "out". I know that it's an out, because the next dart buried in the right corner of the double-3 and a whole heap of screaming and jumping ensued (which is not usually what happens when you don't throw the winning dart, unless you're a part-time One Armed Bandit - see page 1). So, there it was. The first time I had ever seen a Mug won on a dart in the lowly double-3. Then I find out something incredible… Hall had won his 301 set a couple hours earlier by taking out BOTH of his wins on double-3 as well!! Are you kidding??? THREE double-3 winners for one guy in one match? Could there possibly be even one other double-3 left for the entire RDL on this night? Turns out there could…

We turn our attention now to the B final on the right board. Not only did this match go to 11-11, but it went to the third leg of that final set too!! And this one was getting way interesting, because although these two teams accounted for 5 of the 8 players on my B division all-star team, none of those all-stars were in the final pairs! Awesome drama!! After Dana Bither put the Triple Threats up a game, Mark Sellers caught a couple minutes of fire and tied the set at a game apiece. In a final deciding leg that saw both teams shooting multiple turns at the out, Sellers claimed the Mug for Absolut, with… a double-3!!! No way!! Most excellent.

HOW'S THIS FOR TEAM SPIRIT?

Anybody else got anything that identifies you as a member of a specific dart team beyond a shirt? I'll bet that's pretty much… none of you. Unless you happen to play for Death Throw or the Mug Hunters, that is!! You see, those two teams have a few specialized team items. For example, check out these team flights!

Rumor has it that Death Throw has not only these flights, but they also have things like beer cozies, dart cases, and who knows what else, to go with their standard shirts (of which, they of course have both home and away models). But to be fair, here, I believe that Death Throw is a commercially available line of darting gear, so it isn't as if they had to go out and make the stuff. They just had to be crazy enough to all show up in it/with it. I've met some of Tolson's guys… no issue there…

So, to me, the real diehards here are the Mug Hunters. Check out those flights!! I mean really take a look. Not only are they team-personalized, but they feature the RDL-style black ceramic tournament champion Mug! That is a pretty damn slick inclusion.

THE RDL LIVES AT ADO NATIONALS LATELY!

If you read this newsletter with any regularity at all, you already know that Robbie Phillips (of Required Elements) qualifies for ADO Nationals events roughly four times per year (for those who don't know, there are exactly four ADO Nationals per year :o). [Coincidentally, Phillips is throwing at the ADO Masters Nationals as I sit here and type this…] And you also know that Phillips won the ADO 501 National Championship last year. And you also know that Kyle Gaulthier (of Hu Flung Pu, and 4-perfect throws in one match fame - see previous page) won the ADO 501 Youth National Championship that same day.

Well, it's almost time for the ADO 501 National Championships (once again held in Stamford, CT) to come around. And guess who qualified by winning a regional? Yep. Phillips in the main portion and Gaulthier in the youth (under-18) portion. They are both headed back to defend their titles!! The tournament will take place Friday, August 10th, and you'll be able to track part of it online through the ADO website if you are so inclined.

But wait! There's more! How boring would it be if we just sent back the same two guys to represent RDL in the same two events? (Well, ok, not really all that boring, but go with me here…) What we need is some more RDL muscle representing this time around. Well, lucky us! Chad Massengill (of BullsHitters) won a different regional than Phillips entered, and he is headed to Nationals too! No way! Most excellent! RDL is so freakin' deep that a 20-year-old in F division is good enough to advance to a National final! How much does RDL rock, right?

Well, I'm still not done. Cody Gaulthier, Kyle's slightly older brother (who is in college and taking a few seasons off from RDL, but still lives here part-time and still plays on the Raleigh NCCDL team) won the Junior (age 18-20) All-Star regional, and is also off to Stamford to play in the East/West All-Star National events!

Two in the open, one in the junior, one in the youth!! Wow!

Every divisional tournament had at least one upset. Cool…

FURTHER PROOF THAT "E" DIVISION IS JUST NUTS

Anybody who knows most of the players in this season's E division will already recognize that most of them are out of their minds. It's alright, they mostly seem to revel in it. So, that's cool. But for those that need mathematical proof that the dart outcomes associated with those crazy people are equally crazy, check out this astounding statistic… There were 56 matches played in E division during the regular season this spring. Of those 56, 15 included two teams that had the same record (the week 1 matches are obviously 4 of these). That leaves 41 matches in which one team entered the night with a better record than the other (and sometimes significantly better). Well, this is E… and just as I suspected, the teams with the lesser record entering the matches had a WINNING record against the teams with a better record. The lesser team won 23 of those 41 matches (obviously losing just 18). It's no wonder my pick percentage was so terrible here; there is just no rhyme or reason as to who wins here. Ever. Wow.

TWO THINGS I NOTICED WHILE DRIVING

#1 - Cars with personalized plates are fine and all, and sort of interesting. That is, right up until you pull up behind one at a red light and you notice the car next to that has a personalized plate too. All of a sudden, a cute little self-expression becomes a bit of a who-here-is-the-bigger-nerd-with-some-witty-word-play contest. I'd never seen two little word tricks side by side before, but I'm glad I did. I know now that a personal plate is not for me.
#2 - Want me to hate you as a driver? Then do one of two things: First, go slow in the left lane and refuse to get over, then when I move around to your right, immediately drive whatever speed I am going and then some, until I slow down, then go the exact same slow speed again. And second, drive up right on my butt when I'm going something like 15 over and get within inches of my bumper while there are cars in the right lane so I can't move over, and then when I do have room and I move over, go the same speed as me or slower, and refuse to pass me. Awesome.

IT'S NOT JUST CURRENT RDL MEMBERS…

If you look at the column to the left, the stories there basically gush the praises of current RDL members who are making waves nationally. Some ex-RDL members are kicking some national butt as well. Today's example? Jeremiah Millar, who was a member of the Element a couple years ago. Since moving to the soft-tip heavy world of Michigan darting, Millar has taken the hell over! After claiming the singles 501 title at the BullShooter last year (and finishing second in the Top Gun singles cricket at that same huge event), Millar never looked back. This year, after earning a professional sponsorship with Shelti/Radikal darts (a professional partnership that will be sending Millar to Las Vegas for over a week - they seem to think that's a good idea…), Millar earned a spot on Team USA for soft tip (the team events for which are in Vegas), and is now ranked in the top 8 in the country for soft tip. What a run… Millar was always a really good player with us here, but nothing quite like this. Not sure what the difference is… maybe the steel-tip darts were just too heavy for him? :o) (For those who don't know, Millar almost makes ME look a little tall…)

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and once again much of it was written when it was already today… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- I'm back to the Survivor first tradition… but sadly, it's to say this: that was the single stupidest cast of Survivor contestants I've ever seen. They were so preposterously dumb that for the first time I didn't enjoy the season. My head hurt from watching them. I think they should have just decided that nobody gets the million bucks. One painfully stupid decision after another. After another. After another. With some of them being the dumbest things ever to have happened on the show. That's it. That's all I have to say about that.

-- The gas station on the corner by my building has one of those LED signs where they put the daily special, so as to entice you to come on in for something wonderful like 2 Monster drinks for "only" four dollars. Well, this week, they turned their attention to ice cream treats. However, seeing the sign advertising 2 Nutty Butty for two dollars made me think they need to look at the label a little more closely. Sort of an unfortunate typo there, BuDDy…

-- The National Hockey League system of "creating" an extra point for games that go to overtime or a shootout has just got to either go the hell away or at least be altered to be mathematically logical. This season, the Florida Panthers lost in overtime so often that they won the Hurricanes' division despite being SIX games UNDER 0.500. What's worse is that the team behind them (the Washington Capitals) had a winning record, so it's not like the whole division was just too awful to win games. Somebody tell me how that makes sense.

-- In the ever-growing tradition of people constantly justifying their jobs by doing "something", my workplace (the Durham VA Medical Center - yes, I work for Duke, but I mostly work at the VA) has been altering all of the lighting on the hospital campus. Now there are some motion-activated lights in the parking deck (in the driving lanes, of course, not in the "less logical" places like the corner stairwells). And there are new kinds of light bulbs (maybe those save energy). But I would love to know who the genius was that put the new light above the entrance to my research building. Have you seen those lights that are used to immediately fry something in one of those science fiction pressure chambers? They come on for about three seconds, they're brighter than the sun, and they immediately burn anything within two light years of it? Well, there is now one of those above our door. I swear I can't even see to put the key in the door (it's a locked facility) because the light is so blinding. Progress! At least any would-be attacker will fail because he is blinded too, I suppose. On the plus side, I swear get a better tan every time I'm at our building after hours.

-- I still laugh about how many people over the years have used the song Every Breath You Take by The Police for their weddings, proms, whatever. Have you ever listened to the actual lyrics, people? That song is about a stalker! He wants to control the one he can't have! It is NOT a love song. Oh, yuck. Makes my skin crawl just thinking about how many gooey-eyed young lovers have mouthed those lyrics to their significant others…

-- I'm not the biggest NBA fan by any stretch of that definition, but I have to admit that I thought it was cool when the whole Jeremy Lin craze with the New York Knicks exploded. That story was so big so quickly, and he became such a hero, that their games were being broadcast worldwide with Mandarin-speaking play-by-play guys. Now THAT is globalization of a sport.

-- Note to all you captains who pre-print your scoresheets and misspell your own names. Please don't ever go away.

-- I tend to talk about the best throwers here in the RDL quite a bit (since this is, last time I checked, a dart league newsletter). And sometimes I hold back a bit so that you guys don't read about the same people repeatedly. But… the best are the best, and the stuff they do is often the coolest stuff. Simple truth. The fact that I happen to play with and against the best throwers also gives me a front-row view for much of the coolest action. I could easily fill an entire page every week with all the stuff I see, but that would be so frickin' repetitive. Instead, I pick and choose my moments. And, oh look… Here's one now! -- In week 7, in the big matchup at the top of A between Element and the Rednecks, David "Mo'Tea" Murray got what most of would consider an unlucky draw: Robbie Phillips in singles cricket. Oh, ugh, right? Not for Mo. What did he do? He jumped out early for a couple turns, then stuck a 9-mark on him. Unfortunately for him, the other guy was still Robbie… who immediately answered with a 9-mark on his way to another win. How many of you have ever hit a 9-mark in league play? Can you imagine doing it on the turn after somebody else just threw one on you? How nasty is that?

-- Anybody here watch American Idol? I don't watch it all the time, but I catch it now and then. And this year, I caught one of the contestants' families in a flat-out lie that the Fox producers didn't seem to notice. There was this Milli Vanilli-looking guy who sang in a damn falsetto voice almost all the time (wow, I did not like him), and he was reported to be 17 years old (of which we were reminded seemingly every 43 seconds or so). In his family's on-camera interview, they were gushing about him and his mother went on and on about how when Deandre (the falsetto singer) was 4 years old, he sang for… something… in front of… somebody, and everybody was telling him he would win American Idol when he grew up. Which is particularly interesting since the show didn't come on the air until he was about 7.

-- For a sport that claims to be completely aware of the dangers of potential organized gambling elements, I find this story about the NFL more than a bit odd. The Associated Press reports, "The NFL will allow teams to accept advertisements for casinos and other state-licensed gambling-related establishments during the next two seasons. Those ads can appear only in game programs, on local radio broadcasts and in the upper bowl and inner concourses of stadiums. 'We remain steadfast in our opposition to the proliferation of gambling on NFL games,' NFL spokesman Brian McCarthy said. 'There is a distinction between accepting advertising in a limited fashion and gambling on the outcome of our games.' " Ummm… yes… technically there is a difference between those two things. But if you think I'm dumb enough to believe that advertising gambling at games leaves it completely separate from the games themselves, that's just ridiculous. This NFL statement is just silly.

-- A couple weeks ago I went to the Rise Against concert down in Charlotte with my teenage son. The band A Day To Remember was one of the opening acts and they had all kinds of gimmicks going on. One of them was just not something you see every day. A guy in a full Gumby outfit running around shooting t-shirts out of a t-shirt cannon. Let that one sink in. A t-shirt-launching Gumby.

That simply isn't enough Random Thoughts… see the next page for more mostly useless ramblings…

MORE(!) RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

No, really… I have more silly pointless stuff to share. Interested? Then read on… and leave yourself wondering why you didn't have something better to do… Sad for you, right?

-- One of our collaborators here at work is taking a job here with us and leaving his previous position. Which is pretty normal. What is not so normal to me is where he was previously employed: The Carolina Center for Excellence. That's it. That's the entire name. I can already sort of hear their answers when asked about what they do there. "What do you guys do there?" "We're excellent." "But, what do you make there?" "Excellence." "Uhhh… ok… how do you do that?" "Excellently." "But what do you guys do when you are at work." "We excel." … … How awesome is that?! Oh, uh, I mean, how excellent is that?!

-- I am making the unilateral decision, on behalf of the entire English-speaking portion of the world, to forever bury the word 'fierce'. From the very first time that every fake wanna be TV personality / model / reality star / singer / whatever heard Tyra Banks say that term (and she says it roughly 968 times per day), that word was doomed. It is so completely overused by so many millions of people who are really anything at all but fierce. It really wouldn't hurt my feelings to never hear that term again. Ugh. [And rest assured that somebody else at this banquet has already wittily (or more likely, not so wittily) used 'fierce' in a conversation with me before you even thought of it…]

-- And I know that some time ago I buried another term, but it seems to be like some sort of zombie word that has returned as part of the ever-nearing zombie apocalypse. Thus, I don't bury the word 'diva', but rather banish it to another dimension in the time-space continuum. About 98% of the people here have no idea what diva actually means anyway, so unless you're some self-glorifying turd who doesn't even know what you're calling yourself, you won't miss it. Of course, there seem to be a hell of a lot of those self-glorifying turds hanging around. Problem is that almost none of them have ever been a singer of any kind. And certainly not any that have enjoyed much public acclaim.

-- Less than ten minutes from my house, there is a little tiny strip of stores with a sign out at the street that has only this on it. I'm assuming there is a dentist in that plaza, I suppose. Not sure that makes this better. That's all I have to say about that.

-- If anybody else is going to see The Avengers movie (or if you already have), don't even try to tell me that Robert Downey, Jr.'s role as Tony Stark / Iron Man doesn't simply make that movie. The writing for that character is just brilliant; just the right amount of sarcasm at all times (which is generally "a lot"). If that character was real, I think he would work at the Center for Excellence.

-- When I was growing up, Van Halen was my no-contest, hands-down, undisputed favorite band. (And no, not that only somewhat interesting two-decade interlude with Sammy Hagar.) It sort of sucked that they weren't together much after I was old enough to really be music-aware. But I maintained my love and allegiance for all those years, and now they're back in their old form (well, almost… sorry, Michael…). And at their concert last month in Greensboro they gave me a whole new reason to love and admire their excellent (Center for Excellence?) rock-and-roll-ness. In one five-second span, they did away with one of my least favorite traditions in rock: the seemingly mandatory wait-and-chant before the "surprise" encore. Why the hell do we bother with that crap at shows? We know they're coming back, they know they're coming back, and the house lights don't even come up. We just waste 3 or 4 minutes while they sit in the back and we wait. That is just dumb. Well… not at Van Halen shows! They finish the main set with a hugely popular classic, they turn the lights off for about five seconds, then David Lee Roth says something to the effect of "ok, that's the set, we both know we're coming back out for an encore, so let's skip that dumb wait and just play the rest of the songs right now", and the lights come back up and it's time for more rock! Logic and rock at the same time! I love those guys!

-- I caught an American Idol clip a few months ago in which they were discussing the stuff the judges were wearing. Steven Tyler (of Aerosmith fame) was wearing… well… hell, I have no idea what he was wearing. But he acknowledged exactly what I was thinking when he said "hey, you have no idea how expensive it is to look this cheap." Which got me to thinking about the dart banquet… Now that I've pointed out that it's expensive to look really cheap, I wonder how many of you guys I will catch looking around to see who here at the banquet looks so cheap they must be rich. But be careful if you play this game… if you don't see anyone that fits the criteria (HIGHLY unlikely), then it might be you that looks the cheapest (which maybe makes you the richest, I suppose?).

-- I love dart team names with great histories, especially if they are both simple and funny. For example, I'll bet almost none of you know why the team Frank is called Frank. It's so simple that it's beautiful. In the previous season their name was Total Eclipse of the Dart, and routinely wrote TED on the top of their side of the scoreboard. So, most teams began referring to them as Ted. They decided the next season to leave Ted behind and become Frank.

-- Anybody who has a "smart phone" and texts knows that unless you turn off the feature, when you type in words that it doesn't recognize, it constantly auto-corrects and offers other words that are supposedly close in terms of spelling. And we all know how funny those autocorrects can be (if you don't, then check out www.damnyouautocorrect.com when you have some free time). But sometimes I type in a word that it autocorrects that isn't really funny, but rather just surprises the crap out of me that it isn't in the phone's internal dictionary. For example, when you type "ouch" into my Thunderbolt, it tries to change it to "Lucy". Really? It doesn't have "ouch"? Is that word that far out of the ordinary? Or out of the ordinary at all, for that matter?

-- I think Scott Butters, captain of Absolut Confusion in B, is one of the nicest guys in the entire RDL. But I promised him that I was going to call him out in the Tons, and so that's what I'm doing. See that bag and tiles in the photo? Well, Scott has 7 players on his roster. And sometimes this is his method of picking who plays. Draw the angry face tile and you're out that set. I think he might even use the numbers to make his doubles pairings. As a 33-season captain, to that I say "chicken!" Of course, he'll say that it must've worked because they finished in the top two in both the season and tournament. To which I'll say he could've listed them to the top spot in both! He does get bonus points for the Crown Royal bag, though…

-- I think I've realized the only thing that bugs me more than how much basically everyone sucks at driving… That places like Live Nation and TicketMaster can charge $10/15/20 in fees. Per ticket!

The "Holiday Break Means Something A Little Different When You First Have A Child Away At College" Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - Narfle the Element (13-9)
Element, in its 19th season, survives a very tough final against Klitzkrieg to add its 12th tournament Mug to its 15th regular season title, completing its 3rd undefeated season (all in the last 6 seasons).

"B" Division - Mug Hunters (13-7)
After a one-season hiatus from living out their team's stated goal (hunting Mugs), the Hunters add their fifth tournament title in the team's six seasons, avoiding an 0-3 season against Is It In?.

"C" Division - 1 to Potato (13-5)
Rif Raf, who won their first two tournament matches in the final 501 and in 1001, has their Cinderella run ended pretty quickly by 1 to Potato, in the only tournament final that didn't make it into 501.

"D" Division - Dublin-Dublout (13-9)
After needing a tiebreaker to get past the #8 seed, and then rolling right through the semis, Dublin-Dublout claims the first two 501s in a nailbiter final with Choot 'Em! that was 9-9 heading to the last set.

"E" Division - BullsHitters (13-9)
One of the wildest divisions in years ends up producing a Mug winner that was also the regular season winner, and a tournament featuring only the minor upset of the #3 over the #2 in the semis.

"F" Division - Projectile Dysfunction (14-6)
Projectile completes the least challenged tournament run of the season, giving up a total of only 10 points in their three matches, defeating the sort of unusual team path of the #8, #5, & #3 teams.

"G" Division - Brown's Bombers (13-7)
After being pushed to the last 501 by the division's bottom team, the Bombers picked up some momentum, closing out 2012 with a second straight regular season/tournament victory double.

"H" Division - The Misfits (13-7)
In the only division to produce a Mug winner from outside the season's top two finishers (and one of only two Mug winners that hadn't taken the season too), the #3 knocked off the #4 in the final.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - Narfle the Element (12 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Lunatic Fringe

"B" Division - Is It In? (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Mug Hunters

"C" Division - 1 to Potato (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Fire for Effect

"D" Division - Dublin-Dublout (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Choot 'Em!

"E" Division - BullsHitters (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Death Throw

"F" Division - Projectile Dysfunction (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Methodical Madness

"G" Division - Brown's Bombers (10 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - We Be Triplin

"H" Division - Lunchbox in the Alley (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Grateful Darts

Rosters of all season- and tournament-winning teams are on page 4.)

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Same number of divisions and teams as last season, so the same number of matches as last season. Not quite as much awesome parity this season though… as we dropped to a total of 40 tiebreakers played (with 3 of those 40 occurring during the divisional tournaments). G division led the way with 9 tiebreakers (with none of those in the tournament), followed by E (8, with 1 in the tournament), C (6, with 1 in the tournament), and D (6, with 1 in the tournament) divisions. H division added 5 tiebreakers, F division added 3 tiebreakers, A division had only 2 tiebreakers (both won by the same team), and B only produced 1 tiebreaker throughout the entire Fall.

This season's Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) goes to Five-OH! Whizzle of G division, who played in a solid 5 tiebreakers, including a relatively astonishing 4 in a 5-week span from weeks 8 to 12. Whizzle inched above 0.500 in 1001 with a 3-2 record, with the two losses being to the top two G teams, meaning that had they snagged those two also, they would've actually taken the division title!

The Heartbreak Award (for most tiebreakers lost) goes to Wire We Back in E division, who tied for the second most tiebreakers played, and… lost all four(!). (Only one other team lost even as many as three.) And while the first three of their 1001 losses dropped them from 3rd to 6th, it was the last that probably hurt most, ending their tournament.

SPRING 2013 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

These dates (or at least some of them) are on page 8, as well as on pages 1 and 40, but I am putting them in many locations because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, January 2nd - Spring season registration, High Park (online registration available in days immediately prior to the 2nd)
Wed., Jan. 16th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, High Park
Wednesday, January 23rd - Start of Spring season match play
Monday, Feb. 25th - Fifth week captains' meeting, High Park
Wed., May 1 / 8 / 15 - Spring season divisional tournaments
Saturday, May 18th - Spring season banquet, site TBD

RDL QUOTES

Quote #1 : from Chris Montesi of Dublin-Dublout, after his team won the D division tournament final: "Good news and bad news… Bad news is that your prediction was wrong for C League…" [Ummm, nope… I got the C pick right, Mr. D division captain. - JK]

Quote #2 : from Jimmy Davis of Klitzkrieg, in a comment that was probably funniest only to those who were at our tournament finals match. After Keith Wall of my team celebrated his Mug-winning dart with a relatively deep and loud "Yeeeaaaahhh", within about 0.08 seconds Jimmy yelled just as deeply and loudly "NOOOOOO!!!", as he smiled and offered a handshake. It was just so damn quick…

Quote #3 : from my teammate Robbie Phillips on Narfle the Element: "Jon [Kenney] is the second funniest guy I know… right behind how funny Tom [Brown] thinks he is…" [I can't describe how hard I laughed at that. That is some seriously funny stuff… - JK]

Quote #4 : from Jerry Shengulette of Tattoo the Red Eye, in response to the week 6 lyrics quiz: "Zombie - Cranberries. I've never heard this song completely. It's a ring-tone for one of my kids. I had to text them to get the answer. They replied. It's 9:20 a.m. Why are they responding to texts NOW, during school? Also, Russ's phone plays 'The Real Slim Shady' - and not the clean version - when he gets a text so I hope he was somewhere inappropriate. :-)" [Ha! Parenting at its finest!! Jerry is my new hero… - JK]

Quote #5a : from Eric Stoakes of Five-OH! Whizzle, after their week 3 win: "Five-OH! Whizzle had to earn the name last night in doubles 5-0-whizzle. First time team had to experience what we like to call, 1 double OH! Whizzle win. Shook the drizzle from a squirrel frizzle." [?!?!?!?!?!? - JK]

Quote #5b : from Eric Stoakes of Five-OH! Whizzle, in response to my message sent in response to quote 5a above: "Same as saying 'we were fending off a Flying Blind Squirrel frenzy'... I don't know, we make this up as we go…..'izzlisms'(sp?)" [Somehow, that actually does seem to help me understand. A little… - JK]

Quote #6 : from Joe Munroe of the Brawlers, describing how quickly his personal talent switch can flip (much like my own, I'm afraid): "I hit a nice 101-In, then proceeded to throw 75 more darts."

Quote #7 : in honor of the start of every Force 8 from the Planet XXX match in recent seasons, as captain Frank Hall joins the RDL Board: "Allright, allright, allright – we're gonna play some darts now…"

FALL 2012 PENALTY SUMMARY

Well, it couldn't be two awesome seasons in a row… Last season was one of the best ever in the RDL in terms of a lack of penalties. But this season our 63 teams combined for 32 penalties and a total loss of 254 points. Every one of our eight divisions had at least one penalty, but that's not really that surprising in an election season. There were no captains' meeting penalties, but there were 14 election ballot penalties (for a total of 70 penalty points), 8 phone penalties (40 total points), 8 mail penalties (128 total points), & 2 incomplete 1001 penalties (but for only 16 total points, because one of these two was already penalized 16 points for being mailed late). F and H divisions tied for the most total penalties (7), and F had the most points lost (57). F division also had the most penalized teams (5). All in all, 21 of 63 teams were hit with any penalties at all, but only 5 of those 21 received more than one penalty.

The bigger story is what those penalties cost some teams… Bel Biv Dethrow in H and the Overtime Outlaws in B got the most penalties (4 each), but didn't actually lose any spots in the standings. FIVE teams did drop a spot in the standings though… and two of them lost out in hardware spots! Klitzkrieg's 5 points in A cost them 2nd place, and We Be Triplin's 37 points in G cost them the regular season division crown!

HOLIDAY BREAK BLIND DRAWS

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still). If you have more free time, you might want to try one or more of the other 7 weekly/monthly draws as well. For a full list, see the bottom half of the right column on page 8.

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

If you're quick, and you live on the Chapel Hill side of things, you might be able to pick up a second league this coming season if you are so inclined. The Triangle Dart League will be holding their registration meeting this coming Wednesday, Dec. 12th, at 7:30 p.m., at the Top of the Hill restaurant at 100 E. Franklin St. For more information about the league, the registration, etc., visit: http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/

ANOTHER LEAGUE ALREADY THROWING…

A third option if you are looking to add more darts throughout December (and beyond) is the Bull City Dart League in Durham. Unfortunately, this one is already 3 weeks into their 18-week regular season, so full teams can't sign up right now, but every now and then a teams is looking to add another player or two. If you are interested for now or for later, you can visit the BCDL at www.thebcdl.org, for more information.

AND THE NEW REIGNING BCDL CHAMPS…

Congratulations to my teammates on Our Moms Say We're Special, on this past month's league championship victory (see page 14, right column, for related story from that finals match). If you want to come take a shot at the defenders this season, you'll be aiming for a bunch of RDL members (left to right, below): Paul Jacobi (of Lunatic Fringe), Jason Kilts and Tom Brown (both of Narfle the Element), Alberto Sandoval (of Mug Hunters), and Robb Beeson and Mark Knight (also both of Narfle the Element).

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divisions = 3.0 or more ASPs
"H" Division = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

THE THIRTY-SECOND SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	Narfle the Element	E Division	Tim Bunn	Force 8 from the Planet XXX
B Division	Billy Lloyd	Is It In?	F Division	Rod Stacy	Sharkshooters
C Division	Tim McNamara	1 to Potato	G Division	Alyssa Leggett	We Be Triplin
D Division	Tom Kubel	Blind Squirrels	H Division	Justin Blessing	Lunchbox in the Alley

All of RDL -- Robbie Phillips -- Narfle the Element

"A" Division

Tom Brown	Narfle the Element	Came up biggest at all the biggest times.
Kyle Gaulthier	Klitzkrieg	I want to throw just one turn that smoothly.
Simon Healy	Triple Threats	Truly powered the upset bunch. Until 501.
Matt Heimbach	Lunatic Fringe	For a "retired" guy, he sure wins a bunch.
Shane Murray	Rednecks	Unfazed by literally anyone or anything.
Robbie Phillips	Narfle the Element	Robbie the Robot needs no words from me.
Mike Seward	Klitzkrieg	Can take over a game in the blink of an eye.
Wil Tan	Narfle the Element	Ok, so it wasn't his best DCkt season…

"B" Division

Ramy Banna	Is It In?	Newcomer part-timer stepped this team up.
Tony Keller	Is It In?	Mr. League Record was great all around.
Billy Lloyd	Is It In?	The most dominant player outside of A.
Vicente Martinez	Mug Hunters	What a frickin' pick up for the Hunters!
Sal Reitano	The Brews Bros	Seemingly willed his team to some wins.
Alberto Sandoval	Mug Hunters	Can hit any shot. See page 14 for proof.
J.J. Tant	Overtime Outlaws	Had a nice four-set record for 3rd placers.
Randy Wilcox	We're Sexy and We	13-0 in SCkt; won over 50% of team's dbls.

"C" Division

Kyle Gardner	Coral Reefers	Not just strong for Reefers, but present!
Matt Goss	Fire for Effect	Superb singles guy needs a few doubles.
Justin Harvey	Ale-ing Archers	Carried the season mostly in SCkt & 501.
David Hoyt	Rif Raf	Oh, this guy moving is such a bummer…
John Mays	Nine Lives	One of RDL's most subtle top winners.
Tim McNamara	1 to Potato	Main reason Potato finally bounced back.
Jeff Watson, Sr.	1 to Potato	8+ wins in each set is a nice support record.
Lee Whitehead	1 to Potato	Finally back, and owning mostly in SCkt.

"D" Division

Frank Allison	Sharky's Machine	Alright, so he's not the RDL's '01 monster.
Barry Jackson	Throwin Stones	Captain Bump just needs a few more 501s.
Ronnie Knott	Choot 'Em!	A bit of a slow starter, gets hot after 301.
Tom Kubel	Blind Squirrels	Q-Ball was seeing just fine all season…
Mike Litzsinger	Tattoo the Red Eye	Singles ace for a team with softer doubles.
Mark Ray	Leftovers	Basically solid for the early-season leaders.
Jeff Rudy	Dublin-Dublout	Holy crap… 13-0 in 501? That is just nuts.
Tony Thomas	Leftovers	A couple big sets, a couple decent ones.

"E" Division

Tim Bunn	Force 8/Planet XXX	Wow, huge winner on a 0.500 team.
Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	Captain Menace was great all season.
Ted Marks	BullsHitters	Hitters' big addition of three 10-win sets.
Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	Nationals qualifier had a sick win total.
Randy Massengill	BullsHitters	Is he now the top Massengill? Possibly…
Brady Price	Menace 2 Sobriety	Made for a nice 1-2 punch with Johnson.
Brian Reiser	Hammered Heads	Clearly, the least Hammered of the Heads.
John Wylie	BullsHitters	The fourth-best Hitter also wins 68%+?!

"F" Division

Brad Hamilton	Method. Madness	One of the best seasons in all of the RDL.
Roger Loving	Method. Madness	Truly great in singles, passable in doubles.
Ryan Raymond	Projectile Dysfunctic	The picture of consistency for top F team.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Season after season, just keeps winning.
Rod Stacy	Sharkshooters	Put whole team on his back some nights.
Dave Tanner	Projectile Dysfunctic	Top team, top player. This one was easy.
Tim Welborn	Projectile Dysfunctic	Another team with a great offseason add.
Derek Williams	Sharkshooters	Ummm… we sit him in doubles, I guess?

"G" Division (this was a really hard division to cut down…)

Randy Baldwin	We Be Triplin	When this is your third wheel…. Nice…
Randy Deemer	We Be Triplin	36-7 in the first three sets can't be argued.
David Huffman	Brown's Bombers	Clear leader of the season&Mug winners.
Andy Krestalude	8T0 Proof	With a few DCkts, he would race for MVP.
Alyssa Leggett	We Be Triplin	Led team to the division's best win %-age.
Bob Rube	UZMAgain	Just solid winner year after year after year.
Mark Slawter	Five-OH! Whizzle	This Whizzle was the Shizzle, my Dizzle.
Paul Spaulding	Brown's Bombers	Decent singles guy became a doubles pro.

"H" Division

Justin Blessing	Lunchbox in the Alley	… … … Duh. … … …
Debbie Dudley	Lunchbox in the Alle	34 wins in the first three sets is just huge.
Fritz Herman	Grateful Darts	Still regularly thumping guys half his age.
John Iager	Grateful Darts	Best H record outside the Lunchbox.
Adam Schoch	The Duck Stops Her	New Duck wins a lot! And he shows up!
Andrew Strickland	The Misfits	Yes, they're family and all… but they'd be
Craig Strickland	The Misfits	tough to differentiate dartwise anyway.
David Woodard	Bel Biv Dethrow	Great singles, and VoiceMail tunes…

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): There was quite a pile of people with three 10-win sets, or four 9-win sets… but only two people put together the pure Quadruple Double. This season's two biggest set-wide winners? Alyssa Leggett of We Be Triplin in G division, and Justin Blessing of Lunchbox in the Alley in H division (who actually put up four 11-win sets!). [A quick honorable mention though for Robbie Phillips of Narfle the Element, who came closest in the 12-match A division schedule with three 9-win sets that were obviously key to his league best 0.921 win percentage.]

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: The Ducks' grasp on being the most regularly shorthanded team was loosened this season, and Lunchbox in the Alley stepped in to take their place. That consistently short produced resulted in this season's Iron Woman, Alexa Aronson, putting forth a relatively Herculean effort with 82(!) games played this season. That is a remarkable number for a season that had only 56 sets and 2 tiebreakers. Nobody else was even close… But let's recognize those who led the other divisions with the following honorable mentions: Trey Rodgers of Pour Boys in A division with 51; Whit Bryant of The Brews Bros in B with 59; Tom Mushow of the Ale-ing Archers in C with 67 (tied for 2nd most in the league, with one of Aronson's teammates); Don Sautter and Shawn Leonard of Choot 'Em! in D with 58 each; Tolson Willis of Death Throw in E with 61; Rod Stacy of the Sharkshooters in F with 57; and Marc Garzon of We Be Triplin in G with 63.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Wow, I tagged a full 14 squads that were actually starting to move back toward this old trend (of starting the same 6 players every set every week). In the end, I picked out three teams that were the closest: #3 was Big Bulls in C division, who shared only 18 games with 2 other players; #2 was Brown's Bombers in G, who also shared the same 18 games with 2 players; and #1 was We Be Triplin in G, who played only 6, just with a couple short nights.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

Well, I would have had to work pretty hard this season to do as badly as I did last season… that was just a mess. I didn't even come close to my record-setting rates from 2 and 3 seasons ago, but I did ok at least… Let's review, shall we?

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season, as evidence by the H division stuff this season), I did pretty dang well. I hit a few division winners, had a couple more division winners slotted for second, and even lost one winner just due to penalty points. I was way off in H division, but that division info got altered in a big way in a big hurry right after I published my picks… so… sorry, but there was just no chance. The only team that I really truly honestly missed this season was Dublin-Dublout, who WAY outdid my picks. Kudos to them!

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I had improved in 5 of 6 seasons before last spring (when the crash happened and dogs married cats and Coke lovers also switched to Pepsi), so getting better this time was easy relative to last season. And that is saying something considering that I had two divisions below 60% this season (C and D), nine teams fooled me as often as not (or more!), and I was a horribly sad 4-9 in matches involving Nine Lives. Of course, if you consider the fact that I started 0-6 with the Niners, one might argue that I finished with a decent little run there…

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And as usual, we jump to best-of-three, and my picks look generally pretty strong, despite the fact that I'm picking semifinals & finals that I conceivably could have wrong before the match is even played. I was 23-8 in the quarterfinals, a pretty strong 12-4 in the semi-finals, and then I hit 4 of the 8 Mug champions (with my pick losing in the final in 3 other divisions! That's a final record of 39-16, which is just a touch worse than I did last season. Sadly, I didn't hit every match in even one division this time. My top Sure Things and Dark Horses picks were pretty damn nice though!

(I introduced this page seventeen seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the six 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the three 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [C and D divisions were almost random events in my eyes this season. And in F, G & H divisions, there were 2, 1 & 1 teams I simply couldn't figure out… despite the fact their division mates were no problem!]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 5 question(s): We all know that division-winning teams climb up a rung in the next season, but most people don't really recognize how well they do the season after. What was the combined record last season of the teams that won the season before? And what is the current combined record of last season's division winners?

Week 6 question(s): Let's flip that week 5 question around… What was the combined record last season of the teams that had finished in last place in their division the season before? And what is the current combined record of last season's last-place teams?

Week 7 question(s): The state championships [were] held right here in one of RDL's host establishments next weekend (the 28th-30th, not the 21st-23rd - see page 6). How many times in the last decade has that occurred, and in what years?

Week 8 question: What dart of the seven in Tony Keller's record game [7-dart 301, see week 8 newsletter, page 1] did he miss? [I'm completely assuming that Tony is a man of at least normal intelligence (teammates on Is It In? please hold your snickering here…), and thus there is only one logical shot in the 7-dart string that could be the miss.]

Week 9 question: How many current RDL members have won a state championship shirt? (the tournament began in 1990)

Week 10 question: How many seasons out of my 33 as the statistician has RDL had 0 undefeated AND 0 winless teams?

Week 11 question: What is the lowest team win percentage (in terms of percentage of the 24 slots per match that the team won) for a team that won a regular season division title (at least in the last 33 seasons, the length of my tenure as statistician)?

Week 12 question(s): What is the earliest point in the season that a team can clinch a season title in an 8-team division? In a 7-team division? (And for the purposes of this question, we are disregarding the unlikely possibilities of double-forfeit matches and teams getting a series of late mail penalties that eventually begin removing their match wins.)

Week 13 question(s): Has any team clinched a division at the conclusion of week 10 during my tenure as statistician (the most recent 34 seasons, counting this one)? If so, who? If not, what is the fastest a division was claimed?

Week 5 answer(s): Ok, first let me point out that all of the division winners that could (obviously the A winner couldn't go anywhere) moved up exactly one division. And those 8 winners put together a very nice combined record of 67-41 (a fact that is even more impressive when you note that one team finished 2-12)! 3 of the 8 division winners claimed their division again (in A, E, and G), while another (in F) took 2nd place hardware. Two more finished 3rd (in A and B - yes, the B winner from the previous season went all the way up to 3rd in A!). Nice! And last season's division winners? They are pretty much kicking butt again, even with 7 of the 8 in a higher division: 28-10 total so far (24-7 at the time I published the question), with all but 1 of the 8 teams at 3-2 or better and in 4th place or higher (with three of them still undefeated). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: last season's first place teams combined this season for a 74-34 regular season record and a 14-4 tournament record, with 4 first place season finishes and 4 tournament titles.]

Week 6 answer(s): As with last week, first let me point out that all of the cellar dwellers that could (obviously the bottom H team couldn't go anywhere) moved down exactly one division (except for the last D team, which folded). And those remaining 7 bottom teams put together a respectable record of 43-55, and had 1 team immediately claim a division title and climb back up (but another team finished last again - eek!)! And last season's bottom teams? Well, that story isn't as great - 2 of the 8 folded before this season, and of the other 6, only one has a record above 2-4 (and oddly enough, that was the team in H that couldn't move down). They presently have a 12-24 combined record. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: last season's last place teams (the 7 that played, at least) combined this season for a 36-62 regular season record and a 6-6 tournament record, with one team coming through with Mugs!]

Week 7 answer: That weekend's NC State Championships were the third championships held in the Triangle in the last decade, but only the second held in an RDL establishment (unless you count the Cary VFW as an RDL spot because we used to hold our season-ending banquets there). Still, that's quite a few, and a nice benefit for local throwers. That's also second most of any area in the last 15 years combined: Greensboro (10 - 1998-2001, 2003-2006, 2010-2011), Cary (3 - 2008, 2009, 2012), Boone (1 - 2002), and Charlotte (1 - 2007).

Week 8 answer: Logically, it has to be dart #4. We know his 160-In left 141, so it's probably safe to assume that he threw at the triple-20 on dart 4. If he hit it, he would've been left on 81 and would've switched numbers, leaving almost no chance of ending up with 125 on his second turn. And if was dart 6 he missed, then… we need to talk to Tony about his math skills… [Turns out he hit a single-20 on dart 4, then set up his 16 with triple-17/triple-18 on darts 5 and 6.]

Week 9 answer: There are presently 24(!) active RDL members who have claimed a North Carolina State Championship shirt! In the 23 years of the NC championships, 495 shirt titles have been awarded, to 163 different people (extra note: this number could be a touch higher, as the 1991 open four-person 701 event winners were not recorded anywhere… can you imagine that?). The 24 active RDL state champs have won an astonishing 104(!) shirts between them, meaning they possess more than 21% of the shirts ever given, due in large part to the fact that the RDL presently has 3 of the only 7 people to ever amass 14 or more shirts. The current RDL members with state titles: Brian Blake (21 titles, 2nd most ever); Robbie Phillips (15); Tom Brown (14); Jim Budelman (8); Steve Hoffmann, Lis Pleasant, and Wil Tan (5 each); Michelle Stacy (4): Mike Hall, Mike Seward, Allen Smith, and Keith Wall (3 each); Robb Beeson, Maridy Knight, and David Murray (2 each); and Deb Blackwelder, Jimmy Davis, Kyle Gaulthier, Doug Jeffcoat, Kris Kilsdonk, Mark Knight, Tim Lane, Sean O'Brien, and Lee Whitehead (1 each). [Note: with the recent replacement of the four-player 701 event with singles 301, it will likely be more difficult in the coming years for people to join the state champions list…]

Week 10 answer: In my 33 seasons as the statistician, 3 times the RDL has produced neither an undefeated team nor a winless team (Fall 1998, Spring 2004, and Spring 2006). The last of those is the most remarkable, as there was a bye in each of the seven divisions, meaning every team played only 12 matches. Only two undefeated and two winless teams stand in the way of that so far this season.

Week 11 answer: In the Fall 2000 season, the Starving Dartists took home the D division regular season crown despite winning only 52.1% of their player slots!! They finished 9-5 that season, and outran Nine Lives (who had gotten a five-point penalty in week 11) by a whopping three points. Throughout the season, the

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page. No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "Loving you forever is what I need, Oh let me be the one you come running to, I'll never be untrue"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "Hangin' 'round downtown by myself, And I had too much caffeine, And I was thinkin' 'bout myself"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "Heaven help me for the way I am, Save me from these evil deeds before I get them done"

Week 3, song #2 lyric: "If you know your history, Then you would where you coming from, Then you wouldn't have to ask me"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "Now over at the temple, They really pack 'em in, The in crowd say it's cool, To dig this chanting thing"

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "Many times I've tried to tell you, Many times I've cried alone"

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "Now the only thing a gambler needs, Is a suitcase and trunk, And the only time he's satisfied, Is when he's on a drunk"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "But you see, it's not me, it's not my family, In your head, in your head they are fighting"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "One hand in the air for the big city, Street lights, big dreams, all lookin' pretty"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "It was so easy, living day by day, Out of touch with the rhythm and blues"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "Started out this morning feeling so polite, I always thought a fish could not be caught who wouldn't bite"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "DJ Soul was on a roll, I've been told he can't be sold, He's not vicious or malicious"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "I made it down the coast in seventeen hours, Picking me a bouquet of dogwood flowers, And I'm a hopin' for Raleigh, I can see my baby tonight"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "I'm stranded in a sleet of rain, Don't think I'm ever gonna make it home again, The mornin' sun is risin', It's kissin' the day"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "I said 'look man, a-what time is it?', He said 'the clock on the wall say three o'clock, Last call for alcohol'"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "You could be someone, you could be my scene, You know that I'll protect you, from all of the obscene"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "I'm so scared, in case I fall off my chair, And I'm wondering how I'll get down the stairs"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "...Is my private cul de sac, I can't get from the cab to the curb, Without some little jerk on my back"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "Even if I say, It'll be alright, Still I hear you say, You want to end your life, Now and again we try, To just stay alive"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "Though we really did try to make it, Something inside has died, And I can't hide it, And I just can't fake it"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "You're in hiding, and you hold your meetings, I can hear you coming, and I know what you're after"

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "In a tavern or in a honky tonk or on a four-wheel drive tailgate, I've got posters on my wall of Skynyrd, Kid and Strait"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "Who could ask for more, Everybody's comin', leave your body at the door"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "You can't get romantic on a subway line, Conductor don't like it, says 'you're wastin' your time'"

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "Tell me your troubles and doubts, Giving me everything inside and out, and love's strange so real in the dark"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "It's so easy to blow up your problems, It's so easy to play up your breakdown, It's so easy to fly through a window"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "You know you got me goin' now, Just like I knew you would"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "And you're playing so cool, Obeying every rule, I dig a way down in your heart, You're burning, yearning for songs"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "I touched you once, I touched you twice, I won't let go at any price, I need you now like I needed you then"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "But it's been no bed of roses, No pleasure cruise, I consider it a challenge before the whole human race"

Week 14, song #9 lyric: "Call me a relic call me what'cha will, Say I'm old fashioned say I'm over the hill"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "Ain't there one damn song that can make me, Break down and cry?... All night"

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "I can see a new horizon, Underneath the blazin' sky, I'll be where the eagle's flying, Higher and higher"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "Plastic tubes and pots and pans, Bits and pieces and, Magic from the hand, We're makin'..."

But none of them was as recognized and appreciated as the biggest hit songs from a dozen iconic '80s movies (listed in alphabetical order by movie title) in week 14. The movies were: #1 - Back To School, #2 - Better Off Dead, #3 - The Breakfast Club, #4 - Fast Times at Ridgemont High, #5 - Ferris Bueller's Day Off, #6 - Footloose, #7 - Pretty In Pink, #8 - Revenge of the Nerds, #9 - Risky Business, #10 - Sixteen Candles, #11 - St. Elmo's Fire, #12 - Weird Science. - JK]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED…

Dartists only surpassed 14 points twice, getting a win with 15 points and a win with 16 points (all the way back in week 1). Their season-long set records were 45-39 in 301, 42-42 in SCkt, 19-23 in DCkt, and 25-17 in 501 (yes, they had a losing overall cricket record), for a total overall player slot record of 175-161. I guess it's not how many you win, but how well you balance the number of those wins each week. For those who are curious… yes, we have two teams this season for whom this record just might be in reach: Choot 'Em! in D (presently 3rd, but only by points, and sporting a 0.530 winning rate so far), and 8T0 Proof in G (presently 2nd, but only by points, and sporting a 0.527 winning rate so far). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: that record is safe this season… the lowest win rate for a division-claiming team this season was the Brown's Bombers' 56.0% rate in G division.]

Week 12 answer: Barring a bunch of heavy point penalties or forfeits or heavily shorthanded matches (all of which could have excessive effects on any point race situations), an 8-team division can't be clinched before week 10. After week 9, it isn't possible to have greater than a 5-match lead (with 5 weeks to play). That means that Projectile Dysfunction and BullsHitters each clinched their division titles this season only one week after the fastest possible time. A 7-team division also can't be clinched before week 10, but that would obviously be with fewer than 10 wins (since every team would have had to have had at least one bye by that point).

Week 13 answer: In my term as statistician (the last 34 seasons), not one single team has clinched a division during week 10 (the fastest time possible, see week 12 question above). Quite a few teams have clinched division titles in week 11, with the most recent being… both 1 to Potato in C division and the BullsHitters in E division just one month ago.

LEAGUE RECORD TIED AGAIN!!!!!

Earlier this season, I told you all about how Tony Keller of Is It In? had tied an all-time RDL record with a 7-dart 301 game. That is scary fast… 6 perfect darts and only 1 miss. Tough to top that. So tough that nobody ever has in league play here in the RDL. In fact, only one person had ever thrown a 7-darter in the RDL before Tony did it. And now… that same person is also the only one to throw a 7-darter since Tony did it! Tom Brown of Narfle the Element, who held that record all alone for several years, evidently wasn't satisfied with holding 1/2 of the record, so in the A division tournament final he threw a 7-darter again! I guess he sort of holds 2/3 of the record now… in a way… record held by Brown, Keller, and… Brown again. This time Brown led off with a smooth 149-In, stuck a triple-20 on the fourth dart, but only hit a single-20 on the fifth dart. Triple-16 on the sixth dart set up the double-12 winner on dart 7. (And yes, Brown did win the set. And then he won his singles cricket. And his double cricket… taking that last one with a third-leg final turn of 3 15s and 3 bulls!)

HOW ABOUT THIS FOR A SET?

The 7-darter above highlighted what was a pretty excellent night of darts in the A division final between Element and Klitzkrieg. But that certainly wasn't the first time those teams had gotten together for some big throws… In week 13, those same two teams played their second regular season match, and the 301 set that night was won in games of 12, 12, 13, 15, 15, and 17 darts. That is only 84 total darts for the six winners in that set!! 14 darts was the average game in that set. And what you don't see in that initial number is that only one of those six games wasn't actually really close and coming down to one turn. Nice!

EVER HIT THAT DREAM SHOT?

Ok, so if you're reading this, the odds are that you're a darter. And you're probably one of the hundreds of weekly warriors like the rest of us, all dreaming of those big nights when we help our teams to the big victory… Those are the best things that most of us will ever pull from our nights at darts (since most of us are not multi-time national champions), and we wouldn't trade those days for anything. But in addition to those great team victory nights, I will bet that each and every one of you has had at least a fleeting daydream about being the hero in one of those matches. About being that guy or girl who hits the monster shot in the most clutch of moments, with the season's victory or defeat hanging in the balance. And I will bet that for almost every one of you, the shot you hit in the daydream is not just a one-dart double or something… it's probably a three-dart perfect throw. Great little daydreams, right? Well… how many of us have ever actually hit that dream shot? Very few of us ever even end up in the situation to face one, much less hit it. I've personally hit things like a 170-Out in the RDL… in the second leg of a 301 set in the quarterfinals, in a match in which my team would barely have noticed if I had skipped the match entirely. Big shot? Sure. Clutch shot? Debatable, at best. The fact is that the very very very very large majority of us will never join that perfect-throw-team-hero club. But that majority no longer includes one of my teammates in the Bull City Dart League (BCDL) in Durham.

A few weeks ago, my team was in the championship match of the BCDL leaguewide tournament, against a team (made up of all RDL members, by the way) that was undefeated for the entire season to that point. My team fought for a slight lead heading to the final three games of the night (2 DCkt games and a four-player 801). My team would win the League Cup, and prevent our opponents from completing a perfect season (something that has been done VERY rarely in the handicapped league's history, and only by our team) with both DCkt wins, or with the 4-player. After my team had won the first DCkt, my teammates Alberto Sandoval (of Mug Hunters) and Robb Beeson (of Narfle the Element) in the other game reached the bull down by 8 marks and about 35 points. It certainly looked like we were headed to the 4-player for a one-game showdown. But… after a few odd darts from their opponents, Beeson and Sandoval threw turns that included 4B, 3B, 3B, and 2B+triple-to-close+single (this being one of Sandoval's final three turns of the night…). After Beeson had pointed again and the opponents had pointed by a handful more, Beeson told Sandoval to just go load it up. And then came the turn that probably none of us will forget for years (if ever). Load it up, he did… With the League Championship Cup on the line, with one of the biggest comebacks I've ever seen in a game well on its way, against the opposition's two best players who had both been playing very well, Sandoval stepped to the line, and… Double-bull… double-bull… double…bull!!!!!!! A perfect throw, with all three shots in the smallest target on the dartboard, with an entire team on his back (and some of our team is pretty dang heavy, pal… some of us in terms of weight, and some like me in terms of ability…). Sandoval had hit the frickin' home run. Like so many of us have daydreamed about so many times. Now sure, it wasn't the 'final' turn, but it was just a few more singles to end the match (and Sandoval hitting two singles with two darts on his next turn to end it might actually be almost as impressive of a turn, since some might expect the post-excitement letdown). The only throw I can remember being as big as this one was Jon Kenney's 137-Out in the third leg of 501 in the RDL A final for Element, against the opponents' best pair (see Fall 2010 RDL banquet Tons, pg. 14, for the story of that masterpiece).

THE RDL STILL SO ROCKS!!

Remember last December when I wrote this exact paragraph?:

"North Carolina is, honestly, quite a hotbed of dart talent in the southeast. Many of the best players around hail from our state, and I don't mean just the National Champs (e.g., Robbie Phillips) and the ADO #1s (e.g., Brian Blake). It's the next hundred or so top guys that really make North Carolina shine. And on top of that, a large portion of the state's talent calls the RDL home!"

I wrote that after the North Carolina City Dart League (NCCDL) & North Carolina Ladies' Cup (NCLC) championships were both claimed by teams chock full of RDL members. In addition, almost all of the best regular season stuff in 2011 was also done by RDL members. Well… guess what… the 2012 NCCDL and NCLC seasons and tournament just completed, and do you want to take a random shot at what happened this year? Yep! The RDL stocked the winning teams in both leagues again!!!

The NCCDL and NCLC are leagues featuring the best players from the entire state, basically organized into sort of city-wide all-star teams. They play a year-long calendar of travel matches highlighted by some long-standing inter-city rivalries and some of the highest level darting most of us might ever see without the aid of an internet feed from a European tournament. (For full results from this year, see pages 18 and 19). And this year was another great year for RDL league members…

In the NCCDL, the Durham team (comprised of 14 players, 13 of whom are RDL members) defended its title in strong fashion, taking its 8th state title in the last 13 years!! And did so this year with an undefeated regular season to go with the tournament victories. Add in the fact that Durham was the losing finalist in 4 of those remaining 5 years (all to Wilmington) and you have the makings of quite a run… Congratulations to my Durham teammates (from left to right): standing - Wil Tan (of Narfle the Element), Todd Lemons, Allen Smith (Element), Mike Seward (of Klitzkrieg), Mark Knight (Element), Robbie Phillips (Element), Robb Beeson (Element), Chad Massengill (BullsHitters), Kyle Gaulthier (Element), Jason Kilts (Element), Paul Jacobi (Lunatic Fringe); kneeling - Tom Brown (Element), Keith Wall (Element); missing from photo - Jeremy Dziczkowski (Element).

RDL RULE CHANGE FOR 2013

Just a quick notice from the RDL Board, a rule change effective immediately for all coming seasons: "effective January 2013, the RDL Board has REMOVED the exceptions to the 15-mile radius (for the old After Hours and Varina Sports Bar)."

Summary of the rule change from JK (meaning not actually written by the RDL Board): Given the fact that After Hours is now at a new address within the 15-mile radius, that portion of this change is really just paperwork. And since no teams have played at Varina Sports Bar recently, that portion was really just the closing of the last loophole allowed many years ago. This rule change means one very simple thing that will make life easier for all Board members, as well as for any teams looking for a new home establishment. It means you should use the RDL website map feature that allows you to put in an address and see if it's within the 15-mile radius… If your new place is within the 15 miles, hang the dartboards and call the RDL Board for inspection and approval. If your prospective new place is not within the 15 miles, don't even bother asking. The rule is 15 miles, and that means 15 miles, and asking repeatedly or having different people ask the same question will not change the rule or the outcome. Simple, right?

MORE MEMORABLE DOUBLES PAIRINGS…

Every so often teams turn in a scoresheet listing a doubles pair with names that make me chuckle when I read them together. Then, sometimes I share them here in case they amuse you too…

In week 1, the Blind Squirrels (with the assistance of Sharky's Machine, who picked half the team as a blocker for the short-handed Squirrels) won a game with the pair of Tom/Cruze (as Michael Cruze is often listed solely by his last name)

Also in week 1, Wire We Back won a game with the 101.5 FM morning show pairing of Bill/Linda

In week 8, Fire for Effect dropped a 501 with the pairing of John/Kenny (clearly losing because their guys misspelled the name of my multi-Mug-winning teammate Jon Kenney)

In week 13, the Blind Squirrels painted a nice 501 victory with the pairing of Michael/Angelo

And in week 14, the Ducks put together a winning 501 pair for all the Liam Neeson fans out there with Martin/Harris (if you don't know that one, go rent Unknown…)

I LOVE THE RDL BRACKET SETUPS…

Some people will always complain about space, travel distances, quality of the setup relative to what they are used to having, etc., but I personally think the bracket style that Membership Director Heather Bohanan has put together (all divisional semifinals held in the same bar as the other division match, all the finals held next to other finals) is brilliant. Really adds something to it all.

In the NCLC, there was a changing of the guard this year, but just from one team full of RDL members to another team full of RDL members! Congratulations to the Fuquay-Varina ladies, who won an absolute nailbiter over Hickory, in a match that went to the third leg of the third set of doubles cricket. Yes, that's right, an entire year-long season of darts and travel came to down to the very last game of the very last set in the very last match on the very last day of the season. Tami Wells came through the Cup-winning dart in just a monster set. After Sherry Barnette of Hickory hit a 4-bull and Deb Blackwelder of Fuquay-Varina followed with a 6m on 16s, Hickory needed 1 bull and 2 16s. Lora Josey hit the bull, but wired the double-16 on her last dart, leaving Fuquay-Varina needing just 1 bull… As Deb herself put it: "Of course, Tami the over-achiever hits a double bull (with her 1st dart) to win the match and the Cup…" The new reigning champion team (photo on left) is: standing - Karla McCray, Kris Kilsdonk (of Fire for Effect), Tami Wells (Wire We Back), Deb Blackwelder (Wire We Back); kneeling - Lisa Dendy, Linda Jones (Wire We Back), Allyson Blackwelder (Onemoregin).

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and once again much of it was written when it was already today… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- If I was to change my last name to "No", don't you think that would be one of the most functionally beneficial name changes ever? Just imagine how many parking areas I would have all to myself. It's not like there are entire streets with signs that say Smith Parking or Miller Parking… but No Parking areas are frickin' everywhere.

-- Do you ever fly on Southwest Airlines? You know, the airline that doesn't have assigned seats? I personally sort of love the rates that you can get from Southwest, and I don't mind signing in online to get my spot in the seating line. But I'll tell you what… I have encountered on a few occasions couples who get on the plane in the early portions of the passenger groups, and then sit in something like seats A and C in the same row, leaving the seat between them empty. Nobody is required to sit in any specific seat, but to come in as a pair, leave a seat open between you, and then proceed to talk back and forth over the person stuck between your window-hogging and aisle-grubbing asses, is just plain self-centered and rude. Sit in those two seats if you want, but don't put some other person in the middle of your conversation. You're going to get me tossed off my flight when I lose the ability to resist smacking both of you in the head.

-- Every now and then a great television commercial comes along that I (and maybe you?) just never get tired of seeing. [For reference, see: Orbit gum lint-licker ad. :o)] But every now and then, a commercial (or in my case two) comes along that admittedly isn't really all that good at all, but for some reason I still love it. My two commercials that I love right now are the Toyota "grounded to the ground!" ad, and the Galaxy S III phone ad where the guy's daughters and wife make him videos for his trip. In the Toyota ad, it's the way the announcer growls the catch phrase. And in the Galaxy S III ad, it's the way his wife just barely raises her eyebrow when she warns him that he shouldn't watch her video on the airplane… she is awesome. Love that one.

-- My favorite bumper sticker of this past year? "I have no intention of tiptoeing through life only to arrive safely at death."

-- Maybe this isn't all that rational, but you know those giant stuffed sumo wrestling suits they use at stuff like baseball games? Those things look fun as hell. Anybody got a set of those I can borrow?

-- But then again, after I think about that… I don't want to borrow anybody's set of those. Can you imagine how much sweat must be soaked into the interior lining of those things? Especially in the ones used during summer sporting events… Oh, yikes. Those would likely remind me of some of our darting brothers' t-shirts during the spring season tournament matches in May…

-- You want to know what bugs the crap out of me? Well… of course you do… that's probably half the reason why half of you even bother reading this column, right? And maybe you're tired of these guys too. Which guys do I mean? Local television news reporters who "report live!" from someplace during the 11 o'clock news show. They are almost without fail reporting from someplace where something happened at some point in time that isn't now. It's usually in front of places like the local courthouse, where a trial happened ten hours earlier, involving people that you can't see or hear now, with lawyers and officers involved who are now at home watching this very same broadcast. Why the heck is that reporter live from outside that building? To show us the color of the bricks used to construct the building? To give us a view of the ever-present plastic bag blowing by on the deserted sidewalk? There is frickin' NOBODY there!! Why do you think we need to see you at THAT spot? There is zero added news value associated with you being there. All you did was burn up some gas driving you and your camera man over to that location. It's wasteful and it's stupid. What…in…the…hell…

-- You know how your smartphone (at least for those of you that have one) shows your location in some apps? I don't keep the GPS on my phone turned on, but I do have a weather app that is part of the clock program, and it reports the weather for whatever my current location is just by reading the tower that it is pinging. And it's usually pretty accurate, and generally uses pretty standard town names…Durham, Pittsboro, Apex, Roxboro, etc. But a few weeks ago I went to Greenville to see a concert with some friends of mine, and we passed the town Conetoe. Now that name itself is pretty much odd enough to be interesting, but it's what my phone read that was really odd. It said my location was "2, Lower Conetoe". Where the heck did that numeral 2 come from? Does its presence imply that there is a 1, Lower Conetoe? Or is 1 associated with Upper Conetoe? Which begs another question… when the heck did Conetoe become big enough to have a Lower?

-- Did anybody here happen to see those Pittsburgh Steelers throwback uniforms they wore a couple times this season? Those horrid things look like some sad combination of the bumblebee costume the kid wore in that Blind Melon music video a couple decades ago and a prison outfit from some early 1900s Keystone Kops movie. I just couldn't stop looking at them, as if they were some sort of awful train wreck that had locked in my attention. The only thing that really made me look away was that those silly pants they were wearing almost seemed to be nude tone. Oh, yikes. I still find it hard to believe an entire organization thought those were a good (or even passably acceptable) idea for public use.

-- You guys all know that stupid or inaccurate crap that people perpetuate bothers the hell out of me. I just want to slap all those people that aren't smart enough to see the obviously incorrect side of whatever the issue is. For example, remember when a giant pile of people celebrated a new millennium when the year number switched from 1999 to 2000? Ummm…the new millennium started in 2001, ya tools… Well, as the new year nears, I'm now reminded by an ad of one of these stupidly inaccurate names that was first brought to my attention by longtime RDL member Bill Buckley. And this one is about to bombard you for a week or two as you live and work in our state capital… As Bill pointed out, the New Year's celebration in many places (including here in Raleigh) is called "First Night". Why the heck is it First Night when actually it is the last night of the year? If they want it to be first something, shouldn't it be first morning or first day? But first night? Ummm… nope. Not even close. As Bill said then, 'maybe someone can clear that up at last - or maybe I should say "at first".....?'

-- Do you have a Bluetooth phone? Is it one of those really little ones that isn't even all that obvious from looking at you straight on? If yes, then please do me a favor… Don't have a phone conversation near me… especially one where you weren't talking for the first 30 seconds or so when you are first in my presence… You just blurting out something out of context is uncomfortable.

That simply isn't enough Random Thoughts… see the next page for more mostly useless ramblings…

MORE(!) RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

No, really… I have more silly pointless stuff to share. Interested? Then read on… and leave yourself wondering why you didn't have something better to do… Sad for you, right?

-- So I'm driving down the road the other day and I'm coming up behind a Volkswagen Passat, and it's license plate reads: MYVWP! Cute, right? Just flippin' adorable… This just HAS to be a woman of about 22 years old in her first car that she ever bought for herself, doesn't it? Well, I thought so. Right up until I saw that the driver was a curmudgeonly old man that was about 70 years old. Someone please tell me he borrowed his granddaughter's car…

-- You know what I love? People who are either too stupid or too lazy to look at the actual cost of something. Like the people who buy the 12-pack of something for $7, because the bulk pack is always the cheapest, despite the fact that the 6-pack of the same thing right next to those is only $3. Two x $3 is only $6, people. Well, I encountered an interesting one that most people probably would never even consider. I went into McDonald's (because I had something like 2 minutes to get food, not because I love McD's) and was planning on ordering the 2-cheeseburger meal. It comes with a medium fry and a medium drink, and that seemed like enough food for me. But then I looked at the price for that "Value Meal"… $5.19. Not a king's ransom or anything, but I perused the rest of the board, then walked to the counter and ordered: "2 cheeseburgers, not the meal, just the burgers. A medium fry. And I'll have a large Coke." That's actually the same food and more soda, so it should cost more, right? Cheeseburgers? 1.09 each. Medium fries? 1.39. Large Coke? 1.00 (because all drinks are a dollar now). That means that my food totaled $4.57. Yep, 62 cents LESS than if I had gotten the same thing as a meal, (even with my bigger drink). Nope, 62 cents will not change my outlook on life, but knowing that I'm not paying more than I should because I'm not a dolt might.

-- I'm going to miss American Idol… I was never a hardcore fan or anything like that, but I enjoyed catching some shows each season. Some of the early ones to laugh at the clueless, and some of the later ones to see who is making it, who I like, whatever. And I had just convinced myself that I could learn to ignore new judge Mariah Carey enough to watch. Then they announced that the poster child for trash, Nicki Minaj, would be a judge. Done. Over. Never watching again. That disgusting bit of filth that record executives love because she can sell drivel to teenagers has ended any chance of me watching. At all. Ever. Oh, yuck… vomit… Minaj replaced Kesha (nope, still not putting a stupid dollar sign in her name) as my least favorite act a long time ago. Hell, Kesha can't even see Minaj from her spot on my hatred scale.

-- While we're on the subject of dropping a couple rants, let's invite my rant-compadre Heather Bohanan in, shall we? She shares a pure unadulterated hatred for a commercial that I have. I think I will let her speak for herself, taking some text straight out of an email she sent me last week, when she said that her ire reminded me of the rants I run in the Tons: "The K-mart commercials with the annoying music about the layaway leap and crap were annoying, but the one that goes 'The lights, the lights, the lights that light the lights' makes me want to shoot my TV. Not only is it highly annoying, its moronic. Hello, let's try to have a basic understanding of the functionality of electricity – LIGHTS don't light other lights. If they are waiting for that to happen, it's gonna be real damn dark in your local K mart……" Ha! I love her. I couldn't have said it better myself. But you know what I can't decide if I love or hate? The fact that we found out that somebody actually released that schlock as a song!!! That makes me weep a bit for humanity.

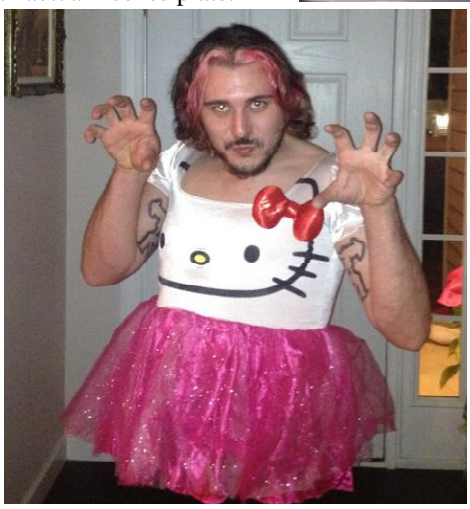
-- Hey, should we run a few photos that I've collected over the past few months for you guys? I never know what to do with them, so this seems like as good a time as any to share them…

Left photo in first pair: I work at the Durham VA Medical Center. Yep, that's a government facility. And yep, that's a door about 18 feet off the ground on the top floor of our parking deck. Open. Why? I've learned not to ask questions like that too often.

Right photo in first pair: If you want to sell something, you need it to be new, better, or at least different. Kudos to Coke on their hot new idea! The 2-liter family bottle. Brilliant, I say!

Say what you want about me for including this next one, but I think it's frickin' funny that a Chinese Trampolinist has the name Dong Dong. Too bad if you think that makes me insensitive or xenophobic. You're wrong. It makes me able to recognize really funny st. Plus, he won the gold medal!! Yep, the announcers had to introduce a national anthem played in honor of Mr. Dong. (And no, it was not Let's Get It On or Sexual Healing…)

I get that it's in honor of breast cancer awareness, and I personally love it… but I'm still surprised that North Carolina let this be an actual license plate.



And my final Tons thought for 2012… What exactly do you think you would do if Zak Mayhew (of Pulled Cork) showed up at your doorstep on Halloween in this outfit and asked you for some candy?

No, stop laughing… Seriously, what do you think you'd do??

Zak, my man, that is righteous…

2012 SINGLES WIN/LOSS AWARD WINNERS

(Eligibility for these awards in the NCCDL requires playing in 60% of your team's singles sets, while also playing in at least two "away" matches.)

(Eligibility for these awards in the NCLC merely requires playing in 50% of your team's singles sets.)

NCCDL "West" Division -- Mike Elderbroom - Pineville - 14-0 (sets), 28-4 (games)

NCCDL "East" Division -- Bob Gargan - Wilmington - 10-0 (sets), 20-1 (games)

NCLC "West" Division -- Amber Reece - Asheville - 10-0 (sets), 20-1 (games)

NCLC "East" Division -- Candi Ellis - Wilmington - 10-0 (sets), 20-1 (games)

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE OCTOBER MEETING

NCCDL and NCLC: The NCCDL will operate with a 15-team league (the same 14 from this season, plus the newly added Pineville Dart Club), using the Central/Peripheral style of divisions that we have employed in odd-numbered years for a while now. The Central division will include Piedmont, Chapel Hill, Durham, Raleigh, Fuquay-Varina, Cary, and Capital Area. The Mountain/Beach division will include Asheville, Lake Norman, Charlotte, both Pineville teams, Jacksonville, Wilmington, and Port City. Central teams will play 8 matches and the Mountain/Beach teams will play 7 matches, with all matches during the regular season being inter-divisional. == The NCLC will operate with either 11 or 12 teams, in a similar division format, with the following team groupings (since some leagues have only one team or the other): Piedmont/Chapel Hill/Apex/Capital Area/Fuquay-Varina/ (and maybe Durham? - but almost certainly not...), and Asheville/Hickory/Pineville Dart Club/Charlotte/Jacksonville/Wilmington. The NCLC will add intradivision matches as needed to bring their match total to 7 for all teams (although if it's an 11-team league, one team will have something different).

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Cary NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 17 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte
1997: Piedmont over Durham
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
2000: Durham over Charlotte
2001: Durham over Wilmington
2002: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham
2004: Wilmington over Durham
2005: Durham over Wilmington
2006: Durham over Charlotte
2007: Durham over Charlotte
2008: Durham over Charlotte
2009: Wilmington over Charlotte
2010: Wilmington over Durham
2011: Durham over Lake Norman
2012: Durham over Wilmington

Request to the NCLC Ladies: if any of you have a history of the results like the one above for the NCCDL, I would love to have a copy of those so I can periodically run an NCLC history as well. Drop me a line please if you're willing to share.

TONS OF NEWSLETTER

Home to the Spring Session of the Raleigh Dart League for the Banquet, Saturday, May 18, 2013 Issue #JK560
The "I Really Can't Imagine A Decade Going A Whole Lot Better Than That One Just Did" Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - Klitzneckers (13-5)
Klitzneckers started throwing smoke about mid-match, ending Element's two-and- a-half-season win streak by turning a 5-5 tie into a bit of a romp with a huge set of doubles cricket wins.

"B" Division - Slop and Shots (13-11)
One of the league's best matchups (Slop vs. Reaperz) produces nailbiter awesomeness, going to game 3 of the final set, and then… devolves into a (very) extended d1 battle won by Paul Beaudoin.

"C" Division - Dublin Dublout (?-?)
The only team from outside the top two in a division to make a finals match finishes the job, as Dublin Dublout completes the sweep of the #2, #3, and #1 C division finishers in succession.

"D" Division - BullsHitters (13-5)
They might've dropped a match during the season, and then been trailing during a playoff match, but the highest-scoring team of the regular season didn't face a tournament match closer than 13-6.

"E" Division - Methodical Madness (14-4)
In a division tournament full of close scores, the Madness rolls through three straight matches only having to play 501 in one of those, as they head toward their 5th different division in 5 seasons.

"F" Division - Brown's Bombers (14-6)
In what might be starting to sound like a broken record to We Be Triplin, the Bombers complete their second consecutive season/ tournament double (with Triplin finishing second in all of those).

"G" Division - Five-OH! Whizzle (13-11)
Whizzle is one of five teams (divs. D-H) to complete the season/ tournament double, but they were probably the most nervous, winning their only two matches played by identical 13-11 scores.

"H" Division - Same Day Different Darts (13-7)
Same Day ends the spring as the only RDL team to go undefeated in both the season and tournament, giving up only 9 total points in the tournament (with 78% of those coming in this finals match).

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Decennary Element (12 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Klitzneckers

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Wow, in the same season that we had a seemingly impossibly low league total of penalties (see page 6), we also had the least amount of tiebreaker drama that we've had in many seasons! Wow, what a weird season… We only 34 total games of 1001 (and only 1 of those came during the divisional tournaments). No team lost more than 2, only 2 teams won more than 2, and only two teams played as many as 3. E division led the way with 9 tiebreakers (including the only one in the tournaments), followed by C with 7, D and G with 5 each, and then all of A, B, F, and H with only 2 each. Yep, that's right, four different divisions had only two tiebreakers each… all season…

This season's Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) is shared by Julie's Angels in C division, Menace 2 Sobriety in E, and Ton 80 Proof in G. Both the Angels and Ton 80 managed a 3-1, thus being the only 3-tiebreaker-win teams in the league (Menace was 2-2).

The Heartbreak Award (for most tiebreakers lost) is shared by five teams, and since the greatest number lost is only 2, I don't really think that's all that heartbreaking. I suppose maybe the most heartbreaking one would be Menace's 2nd loss since it was in the tournament semis, but one could argue the Red Dragons' first (to Nine Lives) was most painful, as it cost them the C title (but occurred way back in week 1).

FALL 2013 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

These dates (or at least some of them) are on page 8, as well as on pages 1 and 40, but I am putting them in many locations because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, July 24th - Fall season registration, Rally Point (online registration available in days immediately prior to the 24th)
Wed., Aug. 7th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Rally Point
Wednesday, August 14th - Start of Fall season match play
Monday, Sept. 16th - Fifth week captains' meeting, Rally Point
Wed., Nov. 20, Dec. 4/11 - Fall season divisional tournaments
Saturday, December 14th - Fall season banquet, site TBD

A MATCH MADE IN… THE UPPER DECK??

People can find love just about anywhere in their daily lives. So, why not at a dart match, right? Ok, to be fair, I don't actually know if they met through darts, but Lauren (Schmidt) and Bryan Gaines (of Show Us Your Tips) are certainly darters to the core. And now they're married to the core!! Back in March (on the 23rd, I think), Bryan somehow tricked Lauren into saying 'yes', and now she has to live with that silly mistake for years to come. Of course, if the second photo is any indication of home life, I'm thinking maybe it might not have been a silly mistake after all… Check out that hands-covering-mouth reaction. They claim it was all about a garter. Ok, actually only Lauren claimed it was all about a garter…

Anyway, our most sincere congratulations to the happy couple.

(And you really should see the before/after rehearsal/wedding photos to see Bryan's hair. They said they were going to share, but haven't yet.)

Ton-80s

(none reported - yep, that's right, ZERO 180s in the divisional tournaments!)

6-Bulls

(none reported)

Ton-70-Ins and Outs

(none reported)

For those who are new or simply were not aware of it: fast games, high ins and high outs in the tournament do not win awards unless they are perfect shots (170s) or games.

OTHER TOURNAMENT HOT DARTS (Sorry, no award -- but they're still great shots)

Kenny Persson	Klitzneckers	"Perfect" 8m (two triples & a double-bull)	Donald Grubb	Triple Threats	146-Out	Mike Seward & Scott Stankevich	Klitzneckers 17-dart 501, 18-dart 501, in same set
Wil Tan	The Decennary Element	8m	Paul Beaudoin	Slop and Shots	120-Out	And while it's not actually from a match, this warmup game action was pretty awesome in back-to-back '01 games:
Tom Brown	The Decennary Element	5-Bulls	Paul Beaudoin	Slop and Shots	12-dart 301

SPRING 2013 PENALTY SUMMARY

WOW!! This is one of the best seasons in terms of penalty that the RDL has had during my tenure. Seriously. If I went back to check the all-time historical records, this might well be the least-penalized season ever! And on top of that, the penalties that did exist had almost zero effect on… anything. Only two teams in the entire league got more than one penalty (and those two only got two each), and one division (H) had zero penalties at all. In total, there was 1 preseason captains' meeting penalty (for 5 total points), 7 phone penalties (35 total points), 4 mail penalties (64 total points), 1 incomplete tiebreaker penalty (16 points), 1 ineligible player penalty (that only cost 5 points), and 1 penalty for the deliberate defacement of a scoresheet (10 points). That means the league as a whole had only 15 total penalties, for a total loss of only 135 points. And something rare happened: not one single team lost even one spot in the standings due to a penalty. None, zip, zero. Awesome.

Even rarer than that though is the last penalty in that list above… The deliberate scoresheet defacement was, to my knowledge, the first in RDL history. It was also the first intentional penalty in my tenure. You really should see it… really… so turn to page 14…

SUMMER DARTS

Well, we're about at that time when most of us take a Wednesday break for a couple months, with the Fall season not starting up until July/August. And for those of us that really need to replace our regular Wednesday night out at darts, there are quite a few options, from leagues to blind draws to tournaments…

Tuesday league - BCDL - in Durham

Ok, this one just started this past week, so initial team registration is already over. But that doesn't mean there might not be a team looking for another player or two. You can visit www.thebcdl.org to peruse rosters, and you can contact league officers for any information on teams looking for players through the website as well (you should probably start with Treasurer Maridy Knight).

Thursday league - TDL - in Chapel Hill

The registration information for the TDL isn't out yet, but the spring finals are June 13th. So I would expect the registration meeting to occur sometime in that next week. You can check www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ for information updates soon.

possible Monday league - in… Raleigh-ish area?

Tom Wiegand let me know that he is trying to start up new league with a minimum of 4 players (max of 8), with a 14-week season plus playoffs. Dues would be $20 per player, format would be best-of-3 doubles 401 & cricket and singles 301 & cricket. Play would begin on June 10th, and registration would be done via their website (www.nextdaisportsleague.com). Bars that might participate are On the Snap, The Brick (Fuquay), Chevy's Ale House (Apex), The Local Bar (Apex), Jack Piner (Apex), Champions in Morrisville and Raleigh, and Rally Point.

Or maybe a blind draw…

Page 8 lists the regular weekly blind draws offered by RDL host establishments, and there are a bunch. But I'm also sure that The Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday draw for every week this summer. It will have basically the same features as the Friday and Sunday draws, with the same entry fee and pay out.

And for those lookin' for a bigger tournament…

Lots and lots of weekend tournament action is available within a moderate distance as well. You can see pages 20 and 21 for fliers for events in such nearby locales as Richmond (June 7-9), Greensboro (June 21-23), and Charlotte (July 12-14). There's also a big tournament in Nashville (July 26-28). And that list doesn't even include the most important one of them all… which is…

THE 8TH ANNUAL WRECK AT THE DECK !!! (see pg. 20)

Yep, one of the best ADO tournaments on the annual calendar is right in your back yard again. May 31st-June 2nd at The Upper Deck on Harrison Avenue. Too good and too close to pass up…

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:
for all Divisions except "A", and all "B-G" division teams except B7, F2, F6, G1, G4, G5, G6, G8, & H5 (8 teams/div.):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for Div. "A" (7 teams / div.), teams F6, G8 (due to 2 ffts. rcvd.):
min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams B7, F2, G1, G4, G5, G6 & H5 (due to 1 forfeit rcvd.):
min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played

THE THIRTY-THIRD SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Shane Murray	Klitzneckers	E Division	John Carroll	Methodical Madness
B Division	Jerry Oakley	The Reaperz	F Division	David Simpson	Home Grown Wolves
C Division	Randy Wilcox	Julie's Angels	G Division	Andy Krestalude	Ton 80 Proof
D Division	Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	H Division	David Martin	Duck Dynasty

All of RDL -- John Carroll -- Methodical Madness

"A" Division (really had ten guys for this one)

Tom Brown	The Decennary Elen	Nothing flashy, just dozens of wins again.
Simon Healy	Triple Threats	A matchup almost nobody wants to draw.
Jon Kenney	The Decennary Elen	Hit roughly 2,394 huge turns this season.
Sid Mitchell	Appetite for Destruc	Gets on strings of 10-15 near perfect darts.
Shane Murray	Klitzneckers	Was an absolute machine all season long.
Robbie Phillips	The Decennary Elen	Still maybe the best the RDL has ever seen.
Alberto Sandoval	Mug Hunters	Put his team on his back week after week.
Mike Seward	Klitzneckers	Threw his best games when needed most.

"B" Division

Ryan Anderson	The Reaperz	Just solid in both singles and doubles.
Scott Butters	Slop and Shots	Beats you soundly yet politely. Repeatedly.
Mikey Hindle	Excalibur	Someone is going to have explain that 501.
Steve Holland	Slop and Shots	70% winner for team that coulda won it all.
Tim McNamara	She Doesn't Look D	Druish is dangerous anytime he is there.
John Murdaugh	Fire for Effect	Just a monster for team that got hot late.
Jerry Oakley	The Reaperz	Clearly belongs where his team is headed.
J.J. Tant	Overtime Outlaws	Biggest, baddest Outlaw all season long.

"C" Division

Aaron Fitzgerald	Big Bulls	Only real standout for good balanced team.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	Clearly the best Rif Raffer in down season.
Eric Klann	Julie's Angels	Could be top player for several C teams.
Ronnie Knott	Red Dragons	When 8-4 is your bad set, things are good.
John Mays	Nine Lives	Just the lead guy for a balanced winner.
Sal Reitano	The Locals	Really jumped up this season in a big way.
Jeff Rudy	Dublin Dublout	Top shot for team that is a bit of an enigma.
Randy Wilcox	Julie's Angels	Every season, every set, so consistently.

"D" Division

Angelo Azevedo	You're Supposed To	11-0 in SCkt is nearly enough by itself.
Dave Krasnow	Carry Oakie	The D division Giant Killer was clutch.
Tom Kubel	You're Supposed To	12-0 in 501? Seriously? That's finishing.
Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	Just passing through on his way to A.
Randy Massengill	BullsHitters	Maybe 2nd best in D, still 2nd in his family.
Hugh Vance	Carry Oakie	Top full-time winner for the runners-up.
Tolson Willis	Death Throw	Carried DTs to 0.500 in first season in D.
John Wylie	BullsHitters	Excellent singles, not so much the doubles.

"E" Division (ended up with 14 legitimate candidates here)

Frank Allison	Sharky's Machine	Holy cow, this guy owned the first 3 sets.
John Carroll	Methodical Madness	But this guy… he owned all 4 sets…
Galen Gillett	XXX^3	2-to-1 W-L ratio in every set is excellent.
Brad Hamilton	Methodical Madness	Great in singles, just passable in doubles.
Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	The biggest Menace came up just huge.
Mike Snyder	Nick the Green	Wow, what a huge jump from last season!
John Wells	Got Wired!	John Boy just hangin' out… winning…
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	Three 11-win sets? Yes, please.

"F" Division

Randy Deemer	We Be Triplin	Wins like crazy for regular runners-up.
David Huffman	Brown's Bombers	Best shot on the clearly best team.
Aaron Mooty	Liquor Posse	Just can't will his team to more DCkt wins.
Phil Murphy	One Armed Bandits	Super consistent once again, of course.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Gaudy SCkt record is the big draw here.
David Simpson	Home Grown Wolve	Constantly pulled out the big winners.
Paul Spaulding	Brown's Bombers	38-4 in the last 3 sets is pretty sick.
Patrick Todd	We Be Triplin	Great addition was the doubles master.

"G" Division

Brad Adams	Five-OH! Whizzle	Tough to get 301 time on a team this deep.
Bradley Hamilton	Five-OH! Whizzle	'New' Brad Hamilton was a great pickup.
Andy Krestalude	Ton 80 Proof	Led his team in every set yet again.
Mark Powell	UZMAgain	Seems like I write his name every season.
Bob Rube	UZMAgain	And this guy too… consistency, man…
Mark Slawter	Five-OH! Whizzle	Ok, so we play the other guys in '01.
Rob Stuckey	Five-OH! Whizzle	Why don't they list his clutch shot in 501?
Dan Therrien	We Ain't Ready!	Well, HE was ready… rolling in first 3 sets.

"H" Division (holy cow, there were a LOT of possible picks here)

Ken Brinson	That's What She Sai	Team champ (pg.14) carried them to 2nd.
Mike Kyle	Same Day Different	Could he really be only the team's #2 or 3?
David Martin	Duck Dynasty	Maybe never has a pickup meant so much.
Vince Martinez	The Misfits	If he was full time, Misfits move up a bit.
Terry McAfee	Duck Dynasty	Another great new addition to the flock.
Greg Stahl	Same Day Different	Maybe he just doesn't like playing '01?
A.J. Strickland	The Misfits	Super singles covers for average doubles.
Bill Wissinger	Same Day Different	Where did this find new rock star? Wow.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Only 4 people in the true Quadruple Double club this season: Jerry Oakley of The Reaperz in B, Chad Massengill of BullsHitters in D, John Carroll of Methodical Madness in E, and David Huffman of Brown's Bombers in F. Not surprisingly, I picked 3 of those 4 as my division MVPs… A quick honorable mention (again) for Robbie Phillips of The Decennary Element, as he amassed four 9-win sets while playing in a 12-match division (A had 2 byes) AND missing two matches.

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: Oh, The Lunchbox folk were all set to snag this title again with their regular shorthandedness… but then, they got so short-handed that they forfeited out of the league! That left the race wide open, with lots of contenders, but in the end we crown another Iron Woman this season: Denise Vithorkus of Tips & Shafts in H division rang up a league-leading 69 this season (I'm betting that just made her giggle, for which I'm proud of her). 15-18 games per set, plus one tiebreaker, and poof, she got more games for her buck than you did! Honorable mentions as division leaders: Matt Heimbach (Fringe), Justin McCurry (Appetite) and Alberto Sandoval (Mug Hunters) in A with 50; Dan Clark & Chris Peterson (Outlaws) in B with 64; Whit Bryant (Locals) in C with 63; Rick Dysard & Sean Bosier (Death Throw) in D with 58; Brady Price (Menace) in E with 59; David Huffman & Paul Spaulding & Sean O'Brien (Bombers) and Gus Martinez (Posse) in F with 56; and Erin Hartmann (Ton 80 Proof) in G with 61.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Six teams all warranted a look-see for this category, but I decided Missing Flights, TBD, and Appetite for Destruction were all close, but not close enough. In the end, the three I tagged as closest to a pure 6-player lineup: #3 was Tips & Shafts in H division, who only played 6 all season, but with scattered attendance; #2 was Overtime Outlaws in B, who only had 6 on the team at all; and #1 was Brown's Bombers in F, with 6 guys playing 50-56 games.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I did pretty well. Sure, I only hit a few of the division winners, but what I really did was predict exactly which teams would be in the close battles, and even what divisions would be messy free-for-alls. A few of my picks might've finished 2nd, but they did it in a close fight that I predicted. And I really only missed overall season calls on a small handful of teams in all of RDL. Apologies to Appetite, Red Dragons, Carry Oakie, and Death Throw…

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I improved for a second consecutive season (after that disaster last spring), this despite the ridiculousness most of you know as C division. What a pile of poopie that division was this season. Ugh. Outside of C, I had a winning record for every team not named Ton 80 Proof (and when you consider the fact that I started out 2-8 with them, but closed with 4 straight picks in the season and dead-on calls for their two tournament matches, I would say I pretty much figured out everybody outside of C). Now if only there was no C…

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And as usual, we jump to best-of-three, and my picks look generally pretty strong, despite the fact that I'm picking semifinals & finals that I conceivably could have wrong before the match is even played. I was 25-5 in the quarterfinals, an awesome 14-2 in the semifinals, and then I hit 4 of the 8 Mug champions (with my pick losing in the final in ALL 4 other divisions)! That's a final record of 43-9, which is pretty damn good if you ask me. I even nailed every match in two divisions (D and E), and all three of my my Surest Things rolled to Mugs (my Dark Horses, though, sort of flopped).

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page seventeen seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the two 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the three 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [Ok, it wasn't as bad as E division a year ago, but C division this time around was just a mess for me. I was 0.500 or less for FIVE C teams, but only ONE team from the entire rest of the RDL. You C folk suck.]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 5 question: This coming Monday we will finalize the RDL rosters for this season (barring extraordinary late-season circumstances), and we will have one of the biggest numbers of members in league history. What is the record, and during what season did the RDL have that number?

Week 6 question(s): What is the highest point total ever achieved in a single regular season? What is the highest total ever in a division with a bye (meaning 12 matches instead of 14)?

Week 7 question: In my 35 statistician seasons, what is the greatest number of weeks it took to get the league's first 180?

Week 8 question: Let's follow up with a similar question… In my 35 statistician seasons, what is the greatest number of weeks it took to get the league's first 9-mark?

Week 9 question: What is the RDL record for greatest number of divisions played in by a single team, and how long did it take them to play in all of those divisions?

Week 10 question(s): How many host establishments have hosted teams in every one of my 35 seasons as newsletter editor? Which ones are they?

Week 11 question: We're going with a follow-up question to the one above… Of the four establishments that have had an RDL team in each and every one of my 35 seasons with the Tons, which is the only one to have more than one team in each of those 35 seasons?

Week 12 question(s): In the past decade prior to this season, which player(s) has won the most tournament Mugs? How many?

Week 13 question: How many times in the past 6 seasons has an RDL Board member resigned his/her position (stepping down mid-term instead of just not re-running)?

Week 5 answer: The all-time RDL membership record was set in the Spring 2010 season, when the RDL boasted 586 members. I didn't have the final player additions for this season prior to the writing of this issue of the Tons (additions were allowed all the way up to 8 p.m. this past Monday night), but this season was a pretty good one in terms of membership numbers (but likely did not catch the 2nd highest total ever of 561, set in the Spring 2011 season). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: we ended up with 536 league members this season.]

Week 6 answer: Ok, I forgot to add my standard disclaimer: "during my 34 seasons as statistician, since records from before that are a little dicey…" With that in mind, the point record is 265 (that's 18.93 points per week!) by Element Horizon in the Fall 2010 season, in A division! The same team holds the 12-week point record too, as No Element of Doubt in the Fall 2008 A division put up 216 points (18.00 points per week). Ya think the BullsHitters in D division can haul in a new record? They have 111 (18.50 per week) so far… [Answer update for the banquet Tons: The Bulls-Hitters ended up with a respectable 237 points, but no record…]

Week 7 answer: As I suspected when I wrote the question, the longest it took for the first 180 (at least during my tenure as the statistician) is 5 weeks. And that happened, of course, this very season. Yep, we were void of Ton-80s for the entire first month of this season. But then the floodgates opened and five of them poured out on the same night.

Week 8 answer: Ok, I know that 9-marks are more common than T80s in the RDL, but I'm a little surprised by the answer to this one. In my 35 seasons, not one single season went more than one week without a 9-mark. Four seasons (Fall 1997, Fall 2001, Fall 2002, and Spring 2004) each went to the second week. I suppose that Fall 2001 was the most interesting of those four, as it was the only season of my 35 in which no perfect throws of any kind at all were thrown in week 1.

Week 9 answer: Initially when I asked this question, I thought the answer might be Mug Hunters (sometimes I know the answer before I ask the question, sometimes I don't), but then I realized they had a jump straight from I to E in their second season. Because of that leap, their 6 different divisions leave them 1 short of the record of 7 divisions, which has been achieved by SEVEN teams! Team lineages (sometimes exact names change) that have played in every division from H through B include two teams: the Grateful Darts and UZMAgain; and team lineages that have played in every division from G through A include five teams: Appetite for Destruction, Overtime Outlaws, Off Constantly, Horsemen, and Dodge Darts. 'Who might be in line to break that record?', you ask… Well, there are two current teams that have methodically climbed from humble beginnings… Ale-ing Archers have played in the six divisions from H to C, but have dropped back down to D at the moment, so they have some work left to break the record. But Big Bulls… they have the same H through C history, and are presently only 5 points out of first in C division, so they are looking good for a jump to B next season, giving them their 7th division and tying the record. Could a subsequent jump to A (and an 8th division) be in the future too? [Answer update for the banquet Tons: due to a 4-match losing streak to end the season, the Big Bulls dropped to 3rd in C and might well still be in that same division in the Fall season.]

Week 10 answer: Four of our host establishments have hosted one or more teams in each and every one of my 35 seasons as editor and statistician. Those four are Sharky's Place, The Upper Deck, Snooker's-Ridgewood, and High Park Bar & Grille (which has also been known as The Profile and The Upper Deck Profile during that time window).

Week 11 answer: Ha! I thought most people would guess The Upper Deck… and they did. But the answer is the establishment of those four that has hosted the lowest total number of teams in those 35 seasons: Snooker's-Ridgewood! Just plodding along with 2 or 3 teams, season after season, year after year. That's consistency.

Week 12 answer: Well, the only answer I received for this one was "any original Element members still on the team". Close, but nope. The answer is Wil Tan, Tom Brown, and Keith Wall, who each have 13 tournament winner Mugs (all in A div.) in the past 20 seasons. They've won 12 together during Element's 19 seasons, Tan added a Mug in the Fall 2006 season (the one season he fulfilled a prior commitment to play for what has now evolved into Klitzneckers), and Brown and Wall both played for Lunatic Fringe in Spring 2003, the season before Element formed.

Week 13 answer: Sadly, 6 different people have stepped down from Board positions mid-term in the last 6 seasons. In the Fall 2010 season, John Howley gave up the Membership Director spot; then the next season, Thom Dunn gave up the Rules & Grievances Director position; then last season, Jim Gallagher relinquished the Secretary position, and Matt Huff relinquished the Treasurer position; and then two weeks ago, Frank Hall gave up the Treasurer spot, and William McEwen gave up the Secretary spot. I'm thinking the take-home message from this question might be that everybody should probably be pretty damn nice to Jason Thomas (15 seasons as a Board member), J.P. Evans (11 seasons), Jim Hunsberger (5 seasons), Tim Mozzetti (2 weeks! :o), and Heather Bohanan (25 seasons, including several holding down 2 or 3 offices!).

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page. No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "Keep holding on, When my brain's ticking like a bomb, Guess the black thoughts, Have come again to get me"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "Watch me unravel, I'll soon be naked, Lying on the floor, Lying on the floor"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "Firm stands her line of blue, For they are loyal through and through, Fighting with the spirit true"

Week 3, song #2 lyric: "Hold that line, hold them fast, We will reach victory at last, We're behind you, keep fighting for state"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "I won't tear the sack up, Punk you'd better back up, Try and play the role and the whole crew will act up"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "This is how I show my love, I made it in my mind because, I blame it on my A.D.D. baby"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "And it all comes down to you, Well, you know that it does, And lightning strikes, maybe once, maybe twice"

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "So baby talk to me, Like lovers do, Walk with me, Like lovers do, Talk to me, Like lovers do"

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "Little darling, I feel that ice is slowly melting, Little darling, It seems like years since it's been clear"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "And all the night's magic seems to whisper and hush, And all the soft moonlight seems to shine in your blush"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "Not about to see your light, But if you wanna find hell with me, I can show what it's like, Till you're bleeding"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "Don't mess around with those silly toys, We'll beat you up if you don't hand it over, give all the toys to the little rich boys"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "Paranoia, paranoia, Everybody's comin' to get me, Just say you never met me, I'm runnin' underground with the moles"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "Say, we can act if we want to, If we don't nobody will, And you can act real rude and totally removed"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "Waitin', watchin' the clock, it's four o'clock, it's got to stop, Tell him, take no more, she practices her speech"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "Love of two is one, Here but now they're gone, Came the last night of sadness, And it was clear she couldn't go on"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "Well, you gave me all your loving, And all your turtle doving, All your hugs and kisses, And your money too, well"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "Bye, bye, it's been a sweet love, Though this feeling I can't change, But please don't take it badly"

Week 10, song #3 lyric: "Day by day, night after night, Blinded by the neon light, Hurry here, hustling there, No one's got the time to spare"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "I can't remember anything, Can't tell if this is true or dream, Deep down inside I feel to scream"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "Got a surprise especially for you, Something that both of us have always wanted to do, We've waited so long"

Week 11, song #3 lyric: "She says it's cold outside and she hands me my raincoat, She's always worried about things like that"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "Although she may be cute, She's just a substitute, Because you're the permanent one"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "Picket lines and picket signs, Don't punish me with brutality, Talk to me, so you can see"

Week 12, song #3 lyric: "I can think of younger days when living for my life, Was everything a man could want to do"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "Bootlegging boozer on the west side, Full of people who are doing wrong, Just about to call up the DA man"

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "They got little hands, little eyes, They walk around tellin' great big lies, They got little noses, and tiny little teeth"

Week 13, song #3 lyric: "I've been singing with my band, Across the wire, across the land, I've seen every blue eyed floozy on the way"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "And baby it's true, You're the one, Who caught me baby you taught me, How good it could be"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "The heart is a bloom, Shoots up through the stony ground, There's no room, No space to rent in this town"

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "If I were the king of the world, Tell you what I'd do, I'd throw away the cars and the bars and the wars"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "You and I must make a pact, We must bring salvation back, Where there is love"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "I've done things that you won't, There's nothing like a trail of blood to find your way back home"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "Too heavy, too light, too black or too white, too wrong or too right, Today or tonight"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "Will you chew until it bleeds? Can you get up off your knees? Are you brave enough to see?"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "She said I don't know if I've ever been good enough, I'm a little bit rusty, and I think my head is caving in"

Week 14, song #9 lyric: "Boy mercury shooting through every degree, Oh girl dancing down those dirty and dusty trails"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "Late night, come home, Works sucks, I know, She left me roses by the stairs, Surprises let me know she cares"

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "Whenever I'm alone with you, You make me feel like I am home again"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "C'mon now, try 'n' understand, The way I feel under your command, Take my hand, as the sun descends"

[I started increasing the weekly song groups to three at mid-season, each with it's own theme (some of the two-song groups in the past couple seasons also had themes, but it wasn't so consistent before now). The number theme in the band names was a moderate hit in the big week 14 lyrics set, but I think it's going to be hard to beat the '80s movies set from last season… - JK]

TWO RDL FIRSTS IN ONE FELL SWOOP…

As noted in the week 14 Tons, Alberto Sandoval of the Mug Hunters became the first person in my tenure as statistician (17.5 years), and possibly the first person in RDL history, to do two things. First, he became the first to intentionally receive a penalty (others have been penalized repeatedly out of laziness - read: Fulton Crowley - but none ever took 'intentional' penalties before now). Aaand… he also became the first to ever be hit with the RDL's "deliberate scoresheet defacement" penalty. As I told you then (and again on page 6), you really had to see this thing to believe it. He raided his daughter's sticker box, he colored on it, he wrote weird stuff, and then… he recruited assistance from a bunch of people from other matches at the bar where his team was playing that night (including a select few who had actually already traveled back to that establishment from another where they had played earlier). It's even got comments in multiple languages on it! Wow. Yikes. Congratulations(?!), I guess, to Alberto? On a job, uhhh… well done?

WAYS TO MAKE A FORFEIT SUCK LESS

Forfeits suck. It's a fact. They suck for the team that wins by forfeit, and they suck even more for the team that loses by forfeit. But, the bottom line is that they suck for everybody. And some teams when they win by forfeit just sort of give up on the night and go home and watch television, or do chores, or ack(!), work… But some other people? Those others are not giving up their night out having fun. And it's right about here that you can file the members of That's What She Said in that other group. When The Misfits had to forfeit to them in week 11 (with lots of very polite and awesome notice in case That's What She Said didn't want to drive around town for no reason), the members of That's What She Said held their own best-of-three, double-elimination singles tournament! Most excellent! And I think that sort of team dedication deserves some recognition, so… here are the results:

Tisha Taylor and Ken Brinson started off lucky with first-round byes… Meanwhile Eric Hodgen took out Meghan Howard (is it a good idea or a bad idea to beat the captain?), and Kaushal Doshi dumped John Geraghty. The advancement of both Hodgen and Doshi was short-lived though, as the well-rested Taylor and Brinson sent them to the losers' bracket, after which Brinson took the winners' bracket top spot.

In the losers' bracket, Hodgen sent Geraghty packing and Doshi did the same to Howard. Hodgen then outlasted Doshi for the right to play Taylor (who had just lost the winners' bracket final). The hot streak for Hodgen continued, as he quickly dispatched Taylor to move on to the finals, where he also handed Brinson his first loss, setting up a one-match championship between the two survivors, each now with a loss in the double-elimination format. It was here though that Hodgen's four-match win streak would come to an abrupt and agonizing end. And thus, here in the Spring 2013 season, Ken Brinson is the That's What She Said team singles champion. Which I suppose is fitting since he had the team's best record this season. Would've been a lot better story if Hodgen (the clear underdog) had won though…

WHILE WE'RE CLEARING UP FIRSTS…

In light of the two RDL "firsts" above, this might be a good time to add some clarification to an RDL record that happened last season (Fall 2012). Tony Keller tossed a 7-dart 301 that was reported here as tying Tom Brown's two 7-darters for the RDL record. While that information is still true, I would like to add a third name to that list: in culling through old records provided to me by some of the longer-tenured league members, I found that Don Bingham (formerly Don Butman) also has a 7-darter to his credit. So, make that three people, four games, and all just one dart short of perfect. [Are you an old-time RDL member? Do you have any pre-1996 records on a shelf somewhere? If so, I would love a crack at copying them! For just this kind of thing… Call or email (contact info on page 8). Thanks. - JK]

RDL MEMBERS OWN THE TRIANGLE

Given the amount of darting fervor here in RDL-land, combined with the talent that our league boasts, it really shouldn't surprise anyone that some RDL members choose to basically spend their non-Wednesdays roaming the Triangle area, claiming titles in the other local leagues. Case in point: We Got Time for Dat Dirty Box in the Bull City Dart League in Durham! The five RDL-ers below just took the league championship Cup (it's a handicapped league with an all-divisions-included league tournament). From left to right, Billy Hamilton (of Lunatic Fringe), Zak Mayhew (of Suck My Cork), Sid Mitchell and Tim Mozzetti (both of Appetite for Destruction), and Joel Eason (also of Lunatic Fringe). Congrats to all five, but especially Mitchell and Mozzetti, as this was their first BCDL title!

MY FAVORITE QUOTE FROM THE ENTIRE SEASON

There were a lot of really funny things said this season, from getting ghetto married by yours truly, to hilariously inaccurate guarantees of match results. But my favorite, for its simplicity and dead-pan delivery, is still this one from Alberto Sandoval of Mug Hunters, whose team plays at Cleveland Draft House, commenting when my son was perusing the menu there: "The Wednesday fish special is really delicious. And it's huge, so it's an awesome deal. Unless… you don't like fish… then it's not that great of a deal."

OTHER QUOTES I STILL HAD AROUND…

from Tolson Willis of Death Throw in week 6, letting us know just how excited teammate Neal Hogan was to hit the 1001 winner: "Neal nailed it then nearly broke my hand with the high five."

from Mike Roberts of You're Supposed To Beat Us!, highlighting his displeasure with a specific opponent's demeanor: "Sportsmanship - If your dart playing doesn't increase your tax bracket, relax, have fun and be nice!"

from my teammate Robbie Phillips, describing a weekend night at a dart tournament, that probably should worry me: "I was sipping beers to sober up…"

from Mike Steppe of Projectile, the day after a particularly unique VoiceMail message: "Having a good time shooting darts...free. == 9 or 10 Miller lite beers in 4 hours... $28. == Calling in an impossible Ton92 IN to Jason Kilts while blasted...PRICELESS."

WANNA SEE SOMETHING FUNNY?

The photo to the right was taken from inside my golf cart when some of my City League team members hit the course for a day near Lake Norman. Pretty standard golf cart windshield, warning, right? Well, turn to the very next page to see why this particular cart with this particular warning sign was such a funny pair…

BEST RDL DECADE EVER?

Ok, first off, a little disclaimer… I generally try not to write too much stuff about my own team here in the newsletter, because nobody wants to hear me just talk about my own stuff repeatedly. But the fact of the matter is that, by its position/standing in the league, and by the successes of the individual members of the team, my team is certainly one of the more newsworthy groups here in RDL. And if I didn't point out some of the newsworthy stuff, that would just be a disservice to my teammates resulting from nothing more than the fact that the newsletter editor is on their team. Thus, I'm taking this opportunity at the one-decade anniversary of the formation of our team (The Element) to point out, hopefully in a somewhat objective fashion, what I think might well be the greatest decade of darting success the RDL has ever seen, and probably by quite a decent margin. Sure, there will be people that will argue that Lunatic Fringe in the '90s was close, but I've seen much of the results of those seasons (and played in a lot of them too), and the fact is that teams came and went that took the titles and glory from Fringe for periods of time (e.g., Pigs, Shadows). That really just isn't the case for Element. This despite the fact that quite a handful of teams have formed for the primary purpose of nothing but defeating our team. These have even included such silliness as a team of players that was recruited (by a 100% non-playing captain) from quite a distance with gas money, hotel rooms, and even job opportunities. And the greatest threat to the Element's standing came from a one-year stint put together by a team of players from all of Wilmington, Southern Pines, Fayetteville, Fuquay-Varina, Wake Forest, and Raleigh. It has been quite a barrage of challengers… but through it all, Element has just kept on winning.

But don't take my word for it… how about some cold hard numbers to support that statement? Element is now 10 years (20 seasons) old, playing every single season in A division, and here is the team history to this point:

== In every one of the 20 seasons, Element has been 1st or 2nd in the regular season, finishing 1st 16 times and 2nd 4 times

== In every one of the 20 seasons, Element has been 1st or 2nd in the tournament, with 12 wins and 8 runner-up finishes

== Element's 20-season regular season record is 236-20 (a number that probably could have been higher if A division hadn't been saddled with a bye in 12 of those 20 seasons)

== Element's 20-season tournament record is 41-8 (with Element also earning the first-round bye in 11 of the 12 bye seasons)

== Only 1 team in 20 seasons has ever finished a season with a better win/loss record than Element, that being the team in Sp11 with guys from Wilmington to Southern Pines (the other three 2nd place season finishes were based on point tiebreakers)

== Element has only lost a match prior to 501 three times in its 20 seasons (sadly, with one of those being this past Wednesday… sigh… Klitzneckers were on frickin' fire)

== The worst Element has ever finished a season in terms of season/tournament combined losses is 3 -- the team has had 3 seasons with 0 combined losses, 10 seasons with 1 combined loss, 3 with 2 losses, and 4 with 3 losses

And before anyone thinks that Element is just a bunch of rotating hired guns, please note that 6 of the original team members are still on the team today (Jason Kilts, Tom Brown, Keith Wall, Wil Tan, Robbie Phillips, Mark Knight), and a 7th (Allen Smith) re-joined us as a teammate after a self-imposed RDL break 14 seasons ago. Add Jon Kenney (6 seasons) and Robb Beeson (2 seasons) to that group, and that's the full lineup. To borrow a line from Fringe, I have to admit that I'm damn proud to be associated with each and every one of these guys. Yes, even him… And him… and him…

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and once again much of it was written when it was already today… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- Yes, it's Survivor time! If you didn't watch this season, you missed out, plain and simple. The scrawny, gawky uber-nerd with the self-admitted lifelong obsession with the show OWNED it. He won challenges, he engineered the banishment of conniving competitors, and then he absolutely rocked the other two finalists in the last tribal council with the speeches and the questions. Got all 9 votes. Should've gotten more. Yep, he was so good he should've received more votes than even existed. Cochran!!!

-- How bad was the pressure and nerves in this season's divisional tournaments? Well, one team called me at my match to ask if they could pick a guy as his own partner in a doubles game with a blocker. And another team wanted to know if they could go back and protest the fact that a team was even in their division at all, from the start of the entire season. The first of those I've heard a few times before, but that second one… that's a new one for me…

-- Did you know that a 14-year-old was in the Masters last month? Did you know that he then made the friggin' cut to play on the weekend?! What the hell were you doing last month? Or when you were 14? Whatever it was, I'll bet now it sucks in comparison.

-- So my wife… she's a little bit crazy. (Yes, I know, she married me… ha, ha…) But she's crazy for other reasons. Like… she runs half-marathons. Doesn't she know that people are technologically advanced and we don't have to do that?! Well, she runs anyway. And several weeks ago I went out before sun-up (literally before sun-up) to see her run in Cary. Well, imagine my surprise when Joe Kunesh of UZMAgain went trotting by my sideline position! Turns out Joe is crazy too. Heck, he might've even been crazy enough to have been in the full marathon (a condition for which I'm certain many good medications have been developed). That puts him in with the crazy RDL-er group that includes such other lunatics as Ryan Anderson and Rachel Wallach. The bumper sticker that says "my sport is your sport's punishment" says it all. Fools, I tell ya…

-- Which brings me to this… You know how half the cars on the road nowadays have some white oval with an abbreviation or something in them? Well, runners have a couple of those too… generally 13.1 or 26.2 for half-marathoners and marathoners. Well, I was behind somebody who is clearly on my side when it comes to this little slice of lunacy. Here is their white oval:

-- What are the odds of this? I played 301 in 4 of the first 5 weeks of the season, and in those 4 games, 3 different people hit a first turn double-20 on me. But that's no big deal. The odd part is that all three of them also splashed another double-20 on that same turn. Yep, double -double-20s on the opening turn, 3 times in a 4-game span.

-- You know that new item at McDonald's, the Fish McBites? I think that name really McSucks.

-- And while we're talking about food (or at least 'near-food'), why is it that we eat 'chicken sandwiches' and 'fish sandwiches', but we never say we're eating 'cow sandwiches'? And don't try to tell me it's about being a mammal and not being a mammal… People eat things like buffalo or bison burgers, so that doesn't wash.

-- So now that 7th place Dublin Dublout has won the C division tournament, does that mean they'll be drinking from their Mugs at D matches next season? Hmmm… tough one there…

-- Hey, back in week 5, Missing Flights was short one player in singles cricket. And just singles cricket. Not the set before it or the two sets after it. You don't see that every day…

-- So this past Wednesday, Kyle Gaulthier hit a whole bunch of triples, won a bunch of games, and took the Mugs over my team in the A division final. Then afterward we talked about his plans for prom this weekend. Seriously. Geez, I am so old nowadays. I guess it's better than a couple years ago when he was beating me before he could even get his driver's license. Damn kids…

-- The other day I'm watching television and an ad for satellite service comes on… The guy on the ad keeps repeating that dish prices are "a fraction of the cost of cable". Well, I'm good at math, so I know that means frickin' nothing! Heck, 15/8 is a fraction… Doesn't mean I want to pay 15/8 of my bill next month instead.

-- How is this for an awesome and unusual game? In one of our matches this season, Simon Healy of Triple Threats threw 10 darts in our 501 game. Every one of his darts was in the 20, including the out (yes, obviously, that one was a double). I think he hit a 140, a 100, a 60, and a 40-out. Think about that… have you ever thrown every dart of your half of a doubles game in the exact same wedge, including the out?!

-- As a service to any of you who might forgot your scoresheet at a match and need to draw a new one, or are simply in need of a place to plot polynomial equations, included here is a photo supplied by one of Mike Seward's teammates, who took to calling him "Graph Paper" when he wore this rather graph-paper-like dress shirt to a tournament match when he came straight from work. You can feel the love, right? I hope it's useful.

-- Ever notice when a company puts an April Fools' Day joke up on their company website on April 1st? Often witty, sometimes dumb, but I appreciate their willingness to mock themselves a bit. This year the email from Redbox was introducing "Lunch Meat - now sold at Redboxes!" Little red plastic boxes with a couple slices of meat in them. That one was particularly awesome to me.

-- Are you one of those guys who lets your pants sag so we can all see your underwear? You look good, right? Cool? Wrong. You're a fking tool and you need to pull your pants up. Moron.

The warning sign at the base of the golf cart windshield (see closer image on the previous page) was evidently more spot-on than they might have ever planned. It seems hard to believe that a golf ball did that (as opposed to an angry golfer's club or a branch that jumped out in front of a terrible driver), but either way that's some funny shit. I wondered a bit if somebody might have even done that on purpose…

TEN-YEAR (20-Season) TEAM PROGRESSION RECORDS (this page and the next)

Ok, those of you who weren't around in 2008 (the last time I made one of these) are probably wondering what the heck this is. Well, it's a table listing where each team has finished in each of the last 20 seasons. You can track just how your team has moved up or down over the past twenty seasons of play, and maybe relive that one great season just one more time. What each set of information means: Division / Regular Season Finish Position / W-L Record / Tournament Result (xx = first round loss) (Whenever a team changed its composition significantly from season to season, I just did the best I could.) (This list only includes teams that played in the current season.) (Whenever possible, I also included the different team names for those groups that change their name from season to season.) [Notes: H division came into existence in the Fall, 2007 season. I division only existed during the Spring, 2010 season.]

TEN-YEAR (20-Season) TEAM PROGRESSION RECORDS (this page and the previous)

Ok, those of you who weren't around in 2008 (the last time I made one of these) are probably wondering what the heck this is. Well, it's a table listing where each team has finished in each of the last 20 seasons. You can track just how your team has moved up or down over the past twenty seasons of play, and maybe relive that one great season just one more time. What each set of information means: Division / Regular Season Finish Position / W-L Record / Tournament Result (xx = first round loss) (Whenever a team changed its composition significantly from season to season, I just did the best I could.) (This list only includes teams that played in the current season.) (Whenever possible, I also included the different team names for those groups that change their name from season to season.) [Notes: H division came into existence in the Fall, 2007 season. I division only existed during the Spring, 2010 season.]

"A" Division - Element Twenty Won (14-8)

Element completes the season/tournament double in yet another close match with Bullklitz that was tied at 8-8 before Element slowly pulled away, in large part due to Wil Tan's huge 141-Out in 501.

"B" Division - Excalibur (12+-12)

The greatest division in the history of all organized competition in the entirety of mankind ends exactly as it should, with the #7 and #8 seeds playing a 1001 for the Mugs before possibly heading to C.

"C" Division - BullsHitters (13-7)

In one of only two tournaments in which the better seed won every match (along with A division), the Hitters claim both the regular season and tournament for a 4th consecutive season (F,E,D,C divs)!

"D" Division - Projectile Dysfunction (12+-12)

Projectile, this season's #1 nail biter match winners (taking regular season matches with 12,12,12,13,13,14,14,14,14,14,15,16 points) take down the Madness in the only way that seems appropriate, in 1001.

"E" Division - We Be Triplin (11-4)

In a tournament final pairing of teams that had quite a few short-handed nights, Triplin wins another shorthanded battle to shake off their recent bridesmaid tag and take home their first Mug set.

"F" Division - Liquor Posse (12+-12)

The F tournament ends the exact same the way the F regular season did, with Danny Caputo popping a double in 1001 to bring the title to the Posse, this time over the upstart #6 seed Whizzle.

"G" Division - Shootin Da Bull (14-8)

After being the only team to beat Your Mom in the six weeks before the finals, Shootin Da Bull spanks Your Mom again to finally stop Your Mom from being on top for the first time in literally months.

"G" Division - Why Not (13-10)

Well, they don't really share results willingly (in almost any week of the tournament), but Why Not finally breaks through against Missing Flights to end the RDL's last bid at an undefeated season.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - Element Twenty Won (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Bullklitz

"B" Division - Despicable Us (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Fire for Effect

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Same number of divisions and teams as last 2 seasons, so the same number of matches as those seasons. Despite the historic parity we experienced, we somehow dropped the tiebreaker total for the second straight season, falling to only 34 tiebreakers played (with 4 of those 34 occurring during the divisional tournaments). B and D divisions led the way with 7 tiebreakers each (with B having 2 in the tournament, and D having 1), followed by F (6, with the only other 1 in the tournament), E and G (4 each), and C and H (3 each) divisions. A division ended up without even one solitary tiebreaker all season.

This season's Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) is shared by three teams, each with very different outcomes. While Menace 2 Sobriety in D division was a strong 3-1, the Home Grown Wolves in F was a decent 2-2. But sadly, the third team in that group is also the recipient of the Heartbreak Award (for most tiebreakers lost). Not only did Nine Lives drop 3 of their 4 1001 games, the last of those eliminated them from the B division tournament.

Probably the team that most appreciated the presence of a tiebreaker though was the Liquor Posse. The Posse only played in two 1001s, but those two? They won both, and the first clinched the F regular season title in week 14, while the second claimed the F Mugs this week.

SPRING 2014 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

Wed., Apr. 30, May 7 / 14 - Spring season divisional tournaments
Saturday, May 17th - Spring season banquet, site TBD

JOE McCARTNEY IS HUMAN, LIKE US

Sometimes I think the agony of the game and the never-ending chase for that one moment, that one achievement… those are the things that keep us coming back. And keep us beating ourselves up…

From Joe in week 13: "I do have to share my frustration, my wife has been hearing my disappointment since I came home last night - I had a chance at Dart Greatness (for an E player). I had an 8 dart 301 in my finger tips - T02 in, T39, single 20 leaving with me with 40 on my 8th dart. And in typical 'Joe McCartney Fall 2013 Dart season', where I cannot get my dart game going, my 8th dart is .... a F'n 5. Yes, a five. One single 5. Net of it, it took another 15 darts before I closed. Damn making one single double-20, which I have done many times in the past… I would be on cloud nine today. Oh well.." [I'm so glad he at least still won that game… That could've been cruel… - JK]

BUT ALBERTO SANDOVAL EVIDENTLY IS NOT

Some guys always deliver at the biggest moments. And we all learn to hate those guys. (Unless they're on your team, as Alberto is with mine. :o) Seems like he could share some of the glory as he has been getting pretty gluttonous in the past several months. Some examples:

-- Biggest doubles cricket of the Bull City (Durham) League title match… Alberto is trailing. Soooo… Six-Bull, win, take title, smile.

-- Final 4-man set for the top teams in the NC City League. Match on the line. Soooo… T80, both double-outs (best of 3), win, smile.

-- Final 501 of final RDL week, with the game deciding the RDL A div. title. Pair with Robbie Phillips, hit 3 triple-20s, 2 single-20s, and a near-miss on the double. 13 dart game for the division win, smile.

-- Late doubles cricket set in NC City League semis. Trailing again. Six-bull again. Win set, smile. == Sooo… anybody hate him yet?

FALL 2013 PENALTY SUMMARY

Holy cow, this column might as well just be written directly about H division… While H only had 26% of the teams that were penalized, that division was responsible for 58% of the penalties and 60% of the total points lost. And one of the teams set a new league record… but more on that in a minute….

Overall, there were 38 total penalties for a total of 313 lost points. That is a crapload, people. In total, there were 2 preseason captains' meeting penalties (for 10 total points), 7 fifth week captains' meeting penalties (35 points), 10 election ballot penalties (50 points), 7 phone penalties (35 points), 10 mail penalties (160 points), and 2 ineligible player penalties (23 points).

Nineteen of the 64 teams got a penalty, including at least one in every division, with C and H leading the way with 5 penalized teams each.

As noted above, H led the way with 22 total penalties for a loss of 189 total points. And that record-breaking team? Why Not, in its 7 total penalties, hit a loss in SIX different categories!! Those 53 points ended up costing them 2nd place and a set of team awards too! (And no, the 37 points that second place team also dumped to penalties would NOT have been enough to keep second if Why Not hadn't been penalized at all.)

HOLIDAY BREAK BLIND DRAWS

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still). If you have more free time, you might want to try one or more of the other 5 weekly/monthly draws as well. For a full list, see the bottom half of the right column on page 8.

AND THE ANSWERS ARE: YES, AND YES

But two of the Wednesdays during the break this year are going to be on Christmas day and New Year's Day, you say. Is the Upper Deck really going to be holding a blind draw on Christmas? Yep! And New Year's too?! Yep! Both days… Registration will close at 8 p.m. on both of those days, just like always. When I confirmed both of those draws with Maridy Knight (of Cork Blockers, who runs most of the Upper Deck blind draws with her husband Mark, of Element Twenty Won), I texted back to her "Addicts… dart addicts, I tell ya…" Her response? "I resemble that remark."

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

If you're quick, and you live on the Chapel Hill side of things, you might be able to pick up a second league this coming season if you are so inclined. This past Thursday, the Triangle Dart League held their Organization & Information Meeting, followed by their Captains' Meeting. I've gathered that it was at these meetings that they were planning the upcoming season and setting registration times and locations. For more information about the league, the registration plans, etc., visit: http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/

FUNNY SCORESHEET STUFF

From the week 13 Bullklitz scoresheet… This is when you know your team loves you. In the Hot Darts section were these listings: 120-In - Scott [Stankevich]; 2-In - Mike [Seward].

In week 9, the Duck Commandos listed their Total Games Played on the back of the scoresheet as 4.0, 3.0, 1.0, 3.0, etc., prompting captain Bob Carawon to leave me this note there: "I was just trying to be precise on our games played."

Oh, and you know that scoresheet template file I send out at the beginning of the season? The one with my team's template in it too? Well, some of those files end up in odd places. One H team, that just formed, was sending me scoresheets with my Fa12 Narfle the Element team's player information printed in place of theirs.

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for singles win %-age & all-star point ave. awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:
for ALL teams except the ten listed below (8 teams / div.):
Singles = 19 Games Played, ASPs = 37 Total Games Played for B1,C6,D7,E3,E8,F2,F6,F7,G4,H1 (due to 1 forfeit rcvd.):
Singles = 18 Games Played, ASPs = 35 Total Games Played

THE THIRTY-FOURTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs (four of whom were Divisional MVPs last season too!)

A Division	Robbie Phillips	Element Twenty Won	E Division	Dave Krasnow	No Bulls Hit
B Division	Randy Wilcox	Despicable Us	F Division	David Simpson	Home Grown Wolves
C Division	Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	G Division	Joe Rigert, Sr.	Show Us Your Tips
D Division	John Carroll	Methodical Madness	H Division	Kevin Timmons	Brewster's Pub

All of RDL -- Robbie Phillips -- Element Twenty Won

"A" Division

Tom Brown	Element Twenty Wo	One of the two A throwers ≥ 9-4 in all sets.
Kyle Gaulthier	Bullklitz	On fire right now like few have ever been.
Simon Healy	Triple Threats	And he played all the best guys repeatedly.
Sid Mitchell	Appetite for Destruc	Becoming a fixture on this division's list.
Robbie Phillips	Element Twenty Wo	What more can I say at this point?
Mike Seward	Bullklitz	Awesome 21-2 in cricket covers for '01.
Wil Tan	Element Twenty Wo	Mr. Clutch delivered at all the best spots.
Bob Terry	Lunatic Fringe	Still the guy the others don't want to play.

"B" Division

Matt Goss	Fire for Effect	Ok, so he's not exactly a 501 wizard…
Mikey Hindle	Excalibur	I'm betting he led the underdog Mug run.
Ronnie Knott	Red Dragons	Led his team (or tied) in wins in all 4 sets.
Zak Mayhew	Cork Blockers	Really took over as the Corkers' top gun.
John Mays	Nine Lives	Solid in all sets, and great in a couple.
Kevin Scott	Despicable Us	Is he late for 301? Or just on a big roster?
J.J. Tant	Overtime Outlaws	Big cricket winner was bit of an '01 weight.
Randy Wilcox	Despicable Us	Headed to A. Where he absolutely belongs.

"C" Division

Rick Bradshaw	The Locals	Not his best season, but he intimidates in C.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	Won better than 4 of 5 for runners-up.
Billy Maccini	The Locals	Gets a little ragged by the end of the night.
David Martin	Rif Raf	Great pickup, nearly pushed team to top.
Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	Finally almost up to the proper division…
Randy Massengill	BullsHitters	Could he be the actual best Massengill?
Robert Ray	Traveling Beer Belli	Dropped from A, still played like an A guy.
Sal Reitano	The Locals	Three 10+-win sets and some passable 501.

"D" Division

Frank Allison	Sharky's Machine	One of the best throwers most don't know.
Angelo Azevedo	You're Supposed To	Holy cow, I guess we call him Mr. Singles.
John Carroll	Methodical Madness	25-1 in cricket, 16-6 in '01. Wins and wins.
Dave Tanner	Projectile Dysfunctic	2/3+ in both singles and doubles is strong.
Jason Thomas	Ted's H&S Emporiu	Doesn't write down ASPs, but hits a lot.
Billy West	Projectile Dysfunctic	He's back; throwing like he was never gone.
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	What a machine this guy was for Menace.
John Wilson	Methodical Madness	What a great second fiddle for strong team.

"E" Division

Randy Baldwin	We Be Triplin	SCkt is awesome, and the rest is decent too.
Randy Deemer	We Be Triplin	Nothing flashy, but just kept winning.
David Huffman	Brown's Bombers	When 10-3 is your bad set, that's just nuts.
Dave Krasnow	No Bulls Hit	Beats all the best players… repeatedly.
Jon Lesher	Blind Squirrels	Huge singles winner stole a few doubles.
Michael Raquet	The Dartists	Season after season, solid, solid, solid.
Mike Snyder	Drinkers with a Dart	Monster season carried the Drinkers.
Paul Spaulding	Brown's Bombers	Could be top gun on any other team in E.

"F" Division

Danny Caputo	Liquor Posse	Big winner, and hit two huge 1001 doubles.
Andy Krestalude	I Got Nothing	Nobody in any division is more 501 clutch.
Frankie Langston	Home Grown Wolve	Wins so much he's an honorary Simpson.
Mark Powell	UZMAgain	Wow, 13-0 in SCkt. Anything else is gravy.
Bob Rube	UZMAgain	Can't remember last time I didn't pick him.
David Simpson	Home Grown Wolve	Nobody delivers what his team needs more.
Tyler Simpson	Home Grown Wolve	The Simpson family is taking over a bit…
Denny Williams	UZMAgain	After 301 was one of F division's best.

"G" Division

Jim Dunham	Same Day Different	Most consistent set-to-set for #2 G team.
Seth Fagan	Your Mom	Successful season in the face of adversity.
Josh Frumkin	Your Mom	Almost never lost in the first three sets.
John Geraghty	That's What She Sai	Just a solid season throughout all four sets.
Mike Kyle	Same Day Different	Wow, Joe DCkt Guy needs a 501 partner.
Joe Munroe	Your Mom	Won more games than most even play.
Joe Rigert, Jr.	Show Us Your Tips	Looks like darts might run in the family.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Show Us Your Tips	Responsible for huge portion of team's pts.

"H" Division

Andrew Borgna	Tips & Shafts	While the cricket was moderate, '01 rocked.
Andrew Bowen	Why Not	He certainly won't be the captain here…
Kevin Casey	Missing Flights	Almost led team to an undefeated season.
Fulton Crowley	Why Not	Slow starter, but picks it up in a hurry.
Sebastian Foster	Missing Flights	The rare guy who is great in every set.
John Keleher	Why Not	Doubles were good, singles were better.
Bob Lane	Brewster's Pub	Was especially good earlier in the match.
Kevin Timmons	Brewster's Pub	Sets w/9 wins, 10 wins, 11 wins, 12 wins…

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Oh, man, down to only 2 people in the true Quadruple Double club this season: Robbie Phillips of Element Twenty Won in A, and David Huffman of Brown's Bombers in E. Phillips is (not surprisingly) a regular in these parts, and this is Huffman's second consecutive season with this achievement. We also had a set of four honorable mentions, for throwers who were only one win in one set away from joining the list: Tom Brown of Element in A, Joe Rigert, Sr. of Your Tips and Joe Munroe of Your Mom in G, and Kevin Timmons of Brewster's in H.

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: We didn't have a team show up with something awful like only 4 players every week, but we did have a team or two with a handful of shorthanded weeks. And one of those teams provided a chance for the Spring Iron Woman to come back and defend her 'more games for the buck' title! Denise Vithorkus of Tips & Shafts in H div. went well beyond the 69 games she played in the spring, putting up a league-leading 77 game total. A full 10 more than anyone else in any division! Honorable mentions as division leaders: Justin McCurry (Appetite) led A for a 2nd straight season, with 60; Aaron Fitzgerald (Big Bulls) in B with 65; Bob McCredie (Bellies) in C with 58; Gregg McCurry (Leftovers) in D with 65; Ryan Cusman (No Bulls Hit) in E with 65; Henry Dougherty (EZDUZIT) in F with 67; and Joe Munroe (Your Mom) in G with 60.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Six teams all made a nice attempt for this category, but The Locals, Blind Squirrels, All BullS hit, and Tips & Shafts each sprinkled in too much of a 7th player, or played shorthanded all the time. In the end, there were two far more aligned to a pure 6-player lineup than all the rest: #2 was Shootin Da Bull in G division, who shared only 7 games with a 7th thrower; and #1 was I Got Nothing in F, who ended up a classic uniform 6-pack of players! I Got Nothing carried three emergency players, but never needed a single one!!

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I actually seemingly did my best predictions of the fall. Outside of B division, I mostly just mis-slotted about one team per division. My picks weren't "perfect" orders for several divisions, but I was really close to hitting all but one… B division. But even there, I wrote the following: "literally any of those teams could end up in A division next season." Looks like I kind of knew what a mess that whole division could become.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I dropped from last season, almost entirely due to my B division record (still didn't even come close to the debacle of Sp12 though, so I must've been doing pretty well aside from my B picks). Those picks in B were pretty historic though… I was below 0.500 for every last team in the division, with 6-8 records for the Dragons and Big Bulls being my high bar. And with the Outlaws, I finished 3-10… 3 and friggin' 10! I got 9 in a wrong with them at one point. The odds of that seem nearly unbeatable. I promise I was trying…

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And as usual, we jump to best-of-three, and my picks look generally pretty strong, despite the fact that I'm picking semifinals & finals that I conceivably could have wrong before the match is even played. But… not as strong as in some years… I was a great 27-5 in the quarterfinals, but then I slipped to only 9-7 in the semifinals, and then really stumbled in hitting only 2 of 8 Mug champions (but at least my team won, right?)! That's a final record of 38-18, which is decent, but not awesome. My Dark Horse picks were pretty inspired though… figures… given how oddly this season went.

(I introduced this page eighteen seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the two 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the twelve(!) 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [Well, what can I possibly say here? B division fooled me like no other division ever. Below 0.500 with every last team in the division? That hardly seems possible… but… there it is. And 9 wrong in a row with the Outlaws? How could that happen?! Yikes.]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 9 question: For this first question of the week, we are bringing back a question we've had in a past season, in honor of B division. What is the worst match record, in my 35 seasons as statistician, to claim a regular season division title?

Week 10 question: We presently sit with a 101-In and a 92-Out taking High In/Out awards in a couple divisions if things hold up. What are lowest "In" and "Out" awards the RDL has awarded in my 35 seasons as statistician?

Week 11 question(s): What is the greatest total number of forfeits in any one season during my 35 seasons as statistician? What is the greatest number of teams to have lost at least one match by forfeit in the same season?

Week 12 question: In my 35 seasons as statistician, what is the greatest number of divisions in any one season that had not produced a division title-clinching team prior to the final week?

Week 13 question: Of course I'm going to follow that last one up… In my 35 seasons as statistician, what is the lowest number of divisions in any one season that had not produced a division title-clinching team prior to the final week?

Week 14 question: In my 35 (and for the purposes of this question, now 36) seasons as statistician, what is the worst record to have claimed a divisional singles win percentage title?

Week 9 answer: In my 35 seasons, the worst record to ever claim a division title has been 9 wins, 5 losses. And that has happened 3 times - No Clue took D division in the Fa97 season, the Starving Dartists claimed D division in the Fa00 season, and Dublin-Dublout won E division in the Sp12 season. Each of those teams won a point race, as 2, 2, and 3 teams had finished with a 9-5 in those three divisional races, respectively. So what do you think… is this season's B winner headed to an equal (or worse!?) record? [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Despite the leader of B div. sitting at a very moderate 4-3 at the midway point of the season, it turns out the division didn't even come close to the record. While 7 of the 8 B teams finished 8-6 and worse, Despicable Us ended the season with a 7-match streak that ran them all the way up to 11 wins.]

Week 10 answer: Well, the first thing to recognize here is that we've only given divisional High In and High Out awards since the start of 2007. That means the first 22 seasons with me as statistician included only leaguewide High Ins & Outs. In that time, the lowest Ins and Outs that were awarded were a 149-In (Spring 2003, by both Tom Brown and Jim Budelman) and a 126-Out (Spring 2000, by both Lee Scott and George Sutphen). But in the 13 seasons since we separated the awards divisionally, we've (predictably) had some significantly lower winning numbers. Thus, the real answers to this question are: a pair of 105-Ins (both in Spring 2011, in H division, by Michael Solomon and Shannon Lougher), and a 55-Out (in Spring 2010, in H division, by Norm Klein - this is the only Out award ever given for a score below 80). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: While we came nowhere near the low High Out record this season, H division missed out on the low High In mark by just 1 point. Not a record they would really want, I suppose, but one they almost got anyway.]

Week 11 answer: Ok, well, the greatest total number of forfeits in a season is 18, with that number produced by only 3 teams in the Fall 2008 season. Two of those teams were removed from the schedule due to repeated forfeiting, with one team eventually dropping 10(!) matches due to the administrative removal. The greatest number of different teams that have forfeited is 7, with that occurring twice - Fall 1997 (for a total of 15 forfeits) and Fall 2012 (for a total of only 8 forfeits). This season we've already had 6 different teams forfeit, so the team record is actually in jeopardy (I hope we don't reach it); but they've only forfeited once each, so the total forfeit number record is likely pretty safe this time around. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Wow, oh wow, did we smash the "number of teams with a forfeit" record this season! In the end, we had an astonishing TEN teams forfeit a match this time around. Ten. Out of only 64. 15.6% of the league forfeited a match this season. That is flippin' crazy. At least those ten teams only forfeited once each during the season (although one did go ahead and forfeit its quarterfinal also).]

Week 12 answer: Ok, this question was a little bit cooler to go back and research than I expected when I wrote it. Just seeing the amount of final week drama (or sometimes lack thereof) that has occurred was really pretty interesting. And it turns out that the most drama- packed week 14 happened in the Spring 2012 season, when 7 of 8 division races went to the final week! Sadly (I guess), the drama didn't produce a lot of changes, as 6 of the 7 unclinched leaders held on for their titles. Better drama was found back in Spring 2007, when 6 races were still on, and 3 leads changed hands in week 14!

Week 13 answer: Holy cow, the Fall 1998 season was short on drama… ALL SEVEN division titles had been clinched before the last week of the season. Wow. When you add in this season's 5 division races that have yet to be decided, it turns out that we average 3.4 divisions per season that go to the final week (out of an average of 7.3 divisions per season). So this season has more drama than usual! Excellent. I don't know about you guys, but I'm pulling for the teams that presently sit in second place… [Answer update for the banquet Tons: This season, 2 of the 5 teams that entered week 14 in first place but had not yet clinched the title gave way in the final night. Element Twenty Won passed Bullklitz in the final 501 of their head-to-head match in A division, and the Liquor Posse leapfrogged both I Got Nothing and UZMAgain with a 1001 win in the final week to take the F title from the third slot!]

Week 14 answer: [This one is automatically an update for the banquet Tons, because I didn't have room to run the answer in the tournament edition of the Tons. Thus, here is your first look at this particular answer…] First, the short answer that directly answers the rather simple question: Tim Lane holds this record, with a 0.750 win percentage (15-5) in the Fall 2007 B division season, making him the only singles champ to lose a quarter of his/her games. And now for the longer answer: over our 36 seasons, featuring a total of 262 competitive divisions, 13 times the player with the best singles win percentage in a division has won less than 80% of his/her games. It has never happened in A, G or H divisions, and E leads in terms of most seasons with super-balanced individual stats (with 5 of the 13 sub-0.800 singles champs - although it should be noted that 3 of those 5 were all tied in the same Fall 1998 season). The full list of the 13 sub-0.800 singles champs is: Tim Lane (0.750, 15-5, Fa07 B), Tim Davis (0.760, 19-6, Sp98 F), Stan Converse (0.769, 20-6, Sp98 E), Vicente Martinez (0.786, 22-6, Sp11 C), Andrew Bacanskas (0.783, 18-5, Sp02 F), Bob Rube (0.783, 18-5, Sp96 F), Tom Winters (0.783, 18-5, Fa07 D), Jacky Buckman/ Justin Cunningham/Bill Stasko (0.786, 22-6, Fa98 E), Tom Kubel (0.792, 19-5, Fa09 B), Steve Wilcenski (0.792, 19-5, Sp10 E), and Andy Schwochow (0.792, 19-5, Sp10 F).

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "Feel the fire, he's entering the ring, His mindset only knows how to win, This Danish fighter will break you in two"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "There's no blame only shame, When you beg you just complain, The more I come the more I try, All police are paranoid"

Week 2, song #3 lyric: "Feel the rhythm with your hands, Steal the rhythm while you can… Speak the rhythm on your own"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "I look around but it's you I can't replace, I feel so cold, and I long for your embrace, I keep crying baby, baby please"

Week 3, song #2 lyric: "As the river flows gently to the sea, Darling so we go some things were meant to be"

Week 3, song #3 lyric: "Got me hoping you page me right now, Your kiss's got me hoping you save me right now"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "Two o'clock this morning, If she should come a calling, I couldn't dream of turning her away"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "Something in the moonlight catches my eye, The shadow of a lover goes dancing by, Looking for a little bit of love to grow"

Week 4, song #3 lyric: "I like to draw marijuana, It gives me a deep meditation, It keep the natty deadlocks jumping, It keep the natty dreadlocks rocking"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "I miss my baby and I feel so sad, I guess my race is run, Like she's the best girl I ever had"

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "When I was just a baby, my mama told me Son, Always be a good boy, don't ever play with guns"

Week 5, song #3 lyric: "All around in my home town, They're trying to track me down, They say they want to bring me in guilty"

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "And it's two bare feet on the dashboard, Young love and an old Ford, Cheap shades and a tattoo"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "Here it is the groove slightly transformed, Just a bit of a break from the norm, Just a little somethin' to break the monotony"

Week 6, song #3 lyric: "One of these mornings you're going to rise up singin', Yes you'll spread your wings and you'll take to the stay"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "I don't really want to stop the show, But I thought that you might like to know, That's the singer's going to sing a song"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "Well, the rain exploded with a mighty crash, As we fell into the sun, And the first one said to the second one there"

Week 7, song #3 lyric: "Out on the road for forty days, Last night in Little Rock put me in a haze, Sweet, sweet Connie was doin' her act"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "I dial it in and tune the station, They talk about the U.S. inflation, I understand just a little, No comprende, it's a riddle"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "We watch the shows, we watch the stars, On videos for hours and hours, We hardly need to use our ears"

Week 8, song #3 lyric: "They took the credit for your second symphony, Rewritten by machine and new technology"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "Through all the cities and all these towns, It's in my blood and it's all around, I love you now like I loved you then"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "Waiting on a Sunday afternoon, For what I read between the lines, your lies, Feelin' like a hand in rusted shame"

Week 9, song #3 lyric: "Lay back, enjoy the show, Everybody gets high, everybody gets low, These are the days when anything goes"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "Well the crowd cleared away, and I began to pray, as the water fell on the floor, And I'm telling you son"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "To avoid complications, she never kept the same address, In conversation, she spoke just like a baroness"

Week 10, song #3 lyric: "You got problems in your life of love, You got a broken heart, He's double dealin' with your best friend"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "Silverado, candy-painted, Ray-Bans got the whole world shaded, Chrome piece tucked in the console"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "Masquerading as a man with a reason, My charade is the event of the season, And if I claim to be a wise man"

Week 11, song #3 lyric: "I poked my finger down inside makin' a little room for an ant to hide, Nature's candy in my hand or a can or a pie"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "I'm gonna singe those songs that offend the censors, Gonna pop my pills from a Pez dispenser"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "Twenty-five years ago they spoke out and they broke out, Of recession and oppression and together they toked"

Week 12, song #3 lyric: "Hope you got your things together, Hope you are quite prepared to die, Looks like we're in for nasty weather"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "Castles of stone, soul and glory, Lost faces say we adore you, As kings and queens bow and play for you"

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "Living is easy with eyes closed, Misunderstanding all you see, It's getting hard to be someone, But it all works out"

Week 13, song #3 lyric: "And I've been knocking but no one answers, And I've been knocking most all the day, Oh and I've been calling"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "I count the falling tears, they fall before my eyes, Seems like a thousand years, since we broke the ties"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "Mirror queen, mannequin, rhythm of love, Sweet dream, saccharine, loosen up"

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "Now it's the middle of the night on the open road, And the heater don't work and it's oh so cold"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "Ragz to richez or so they say, ya gotta keep pushin' for the fortune and fame, It's all a gamble, when it's just a game"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "Skydive naked from an aeroplane, Or a lady with a body from outerspace"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "They say I spend my money on women and wine, But I couldn't tell you where I spent last night"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "Well, I'm frustrated, outdated, I really want to be over-rated, I'm a finder and I'm a keeper"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "The night is calling, I have to go, The wolf is hungry, he runs the show, He's licking his lips, he's ready to win"

Week 14, song #9 lyric: "Bang Bang, Shoot'em Up, the party never ends, You can't think of dying when the bottle's your best friend"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "Turn it down you say, Well all I got to say to you is time and time again I say 'no! No! No, no, no, no, no!' "

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "Tho' I keep searching for an answer, I never seem to find what I'm looking for"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "Daddy says she's too young, but she's old enough for me"

[Unlike in previous seasons, this season we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and proved pretty popular. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 twelve-song set that proved to be one of the most popular lyric quiz weeks we've ever had - pretty clear that I hit a bit of history for quite a segment of our league there…]*

Week 2 theme: All bands that cancelled their "Rain or Shine" sets at the Carolina Rebellion this summer, because of… rain!!! No, seriously. Because of rain. Week 3 theme: Sadly, those were the #1 songs in the nation 30 years, 20 years, and 10 years ago that week. Week 4 theme: Obviously, all three songs have the same name… Week 5 theme: Criminals, penalties, etc. I guess the performance of H division so far had inspired me. Week 6 theme: Another week with three songs with the same name… Week 7 theme: It's all about 'the band'. Week 8 theme: A week all about 'radio'. Week 9 theme: Hitting the road, in some fashion or other. Week 10 theme: Bands whose original lead singer from their successful time passed away; additionally, all of those songs were recorded with that original lead singer. Week 11 theme: The states, of course! Week 12 theme: Star, sun, moon… celestial bodies… etc. Week 13 theme: Yard/field/garden stuff. Week 14 theme: 1980s hair bands, with the songs listed alphabetically by band name.

I said you would see this again…

RULE CLARIFICATION NEEDED BY R&G COMMITTEE

As noted in the tournament issue of the newsletter, I was forced to make an executive decision after week 14 on something teams had never done during my time as statistician. In the Missing Flights - Ton-sters match, the Ton-sters were shorthanded two players. And in 501, Missing Flights picked the same person to fill both blocker slots (giving that person 3 games in the same set). And the Ton-sters agreed. So both teams ignored the rule (which is actually included in bold on front of the scoresheet… twice…), making them both at fault. So, hmmm… This is where we need a rule/interpretation. Is this an ineligible player? And for which team? Both? In the end, I decided that the game simply didn't exist and nobody got the points. Both teams played a game that can't exist in the RDL, so… at least this time, the game didn't exist to the statistician… I expect that you can likely count on an updated rules set (or at least a clarification to be added) at the preseason captains' meeting for the spring season.

ALL-TIME RDL RECORD TIED AGAIN!

For years, Don Bingham (then Butman) and Tom Brown sat alone in the 7-dart 301 club. Then, just a season ago, Tony Keller punched himself a membership card in that club. And now, we have a newly appointed fourth member of the club!! Dave Krasnow of No Bulls Hit came within a single dart of perfection during his quarterfinal match against the Blind Squirrels. After starting with a decent, but seemingly still somewhat pedestrian, opening turn of double-16/ single-5/triple-20, Krasnow still had a stout 204 points remaining. No matter… Just a little Ton-80 to leave 24 on turn two, followed by a first-dart double-12, and bang!... league record time! Three decades of darts in RDL, and nobody has ever finished a game faster. Congrats, Kraz! I feel a little bad that you won't be here at the banquet to hear us applaud your achievement. Of course, you're on a cruise with Dad instead, so… I don't feel that bad you're missing it…

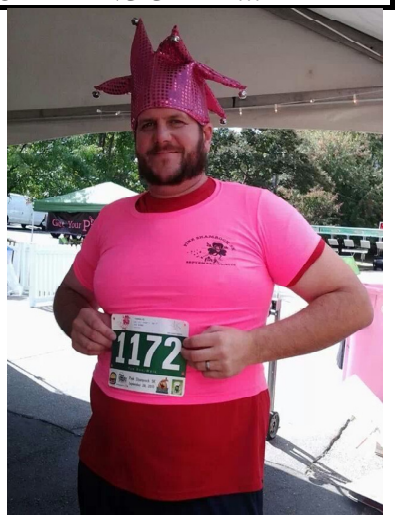
[On a related note, I wish I knew the dart order of Don Butman's 7-darter early in 1995. Of the four games/three people since his, only Tom Brown has gotten a look at a double on dart 6 (and in only one of his two 7-darters). Just curious how often the league has flirted with one single dart at complete perfection.]

[Extra side note: while it wasn't a perfect "game", in April 2008, Kevin Kendall threw his part of a 10-dart DCkt in a perfect fashion. His six darts were five triples and a double-bull. Pure awesomeness.]

FIRST, SOMETHING BAD, AND SORT OF SAD

Just a quick reminder here to everyone before we crank up the next season: if your behavior dips to such a level that one (or more!) of the league's host establishments ban you from their premises, the league's stance in general will be "too bad for you." So if your team has multiple matches at a place where you are persona non grata (look it up if you need to...), your team had better find somebody to play in your spot. [And a note to our establishments: feel free to let me or any Board member know if there is anyone that is no longer welcome at your business.] [Also a last note to the membership: it is very very very very sad that an item like this is ever necessary.]

BUT NOW FOR SOMETHING GREAT…



In stark contrast to the very negative item above, I present to you here an item very much the opposite. The sexy beast to the right is RDL President Jason Thomas! And the most exceptional outfit which he is sporting is his wife's racing gear for the Pink Shamrock 5K! Yep, that's right… JT is wearing Jill's women's small racing shirt and race number. You see, Jill had signed up to run in the fundraiser race for "1in9", a nonprofit dedicated to raising funds for women and their families as they deal with the costs of various treatments, prescriptions, and medical supplies necessary for their care as they battle breast cancer. However, shortly before the race, Jill injured her foot and couldn't run. So what do you do if you're a self-confident, well-adjusted, athletic male, who knows that he most decidedly "married up", and who respects the cause his wife was supporting? You put on her gear and you go run the race for her! And you pose long enough for a photo you know will make others chuckle. And you maturely laugh and agree when a guy who writes a newsletter for one of your favorite hobbies says he is going to show the photo to everyone. Hats off to you, President Thomas… === Interested in donating or volunteering? Visit 1in9.com and make a real difference.

THE LADIES OF THE RDL KICK BUTT AND TAKE NAMES

North Carolina Ladies' Cup

Remember last year when the Fuquay-Varina ladies' team (featuring multiple RDL members) took home the North Carolina Ladies' Cup? Well, this past weekend, it was time to defend that title, and wow, did they ever! While 75% of the matches that didn't include them went to nail biting 13-11 finishes, the Fuquay ladies rolled through their three opponents by a combined score of 41-19, including a 14-2 pasting of Chapel Hill in the finals! (see full results on page 19) Congratulations to Lisa Dendy (front row in photo), Kris Kilsdonk and Karla McCray (2nd row), Allyson Blackwelder, Carol Federline, Tami Wells, Deb Blackwelder, and Linda Jones (back row). [Note: this photo was taken on Saturday, when the Fuquay ladies started a great tradition of snapping a photo of every team in the tournament. A second Fuquay ladies photo was also supplied to me, from after their victory… complete with drunken smiles, Tami hanging on the Amer. Legion commander, Linda biting the cup, and general goofiness. I used the photo to the right instead to protect the guilty.]

North Carolina/South Carolina Mixed Challenge Cup

But having the NC Ladies' Cup here in the Triangle isn't enough! Don't believe me? Just ask the Apex ladies! They put together a Mixed Cup squad chock full of RDL members and went down to Wilmington on August 24th and brought the NC/SC Mixed Cup back! (Yeah, yeah, I'm a little late reporting this one… but thankfully, after a Cup defense and then another by forfeit, they still have it.) Congrats to: (front row) Zak Mayhew, Angela Jeffcoat, Cody Gaulthier; (back row) Julie Payne, Joel Eason, Lis Pleasant, Robbie Phillips, Maridy Knight, Scott Butters, and Barbara Cotton!

BANQUET TONS COMPILATION GROWS

As I noted to those on the Tons email list prior to this past season, this summer I was able to go back and create clean, organized copies of all of the banquet issues of the Tons since I took over 36 seasons ago. Older issues with some pretty rushed cut/paste jobs and other items that generally just weren't available electronically are now all compiled, with versions saved as pdfs, as well as in both the current Excel format and an older-Excel-compatible format. Also, I've created a single pdf compilation file of all 36 seasons together. However, due to the size of that file (1200+ pages, 40 MB), it can't be emailed easily. You'll have to get that one from the league website or from me on a flash drive. Email me (address on page 8) if you're interested in any.

FURTHER PROOF OF THE BEST

We've all seen players come and go over the years who have been dominant here in the RDL, even stomping through A division unimpeded at times. Some of those times we've seen evidence of it in gaudy numbers like ASP Averages above 2.5/game. But having been around these top guns for years, I've seen them play and I've seen how truly dominant (or not) that they've been. Which is what brought me to an interesting task this season… Despite how often I've included items about Robbie Phillips (which will happen when you win multiple national championships and come within two legs of a World Cup), I highly doubt that most people have any idea how truly high his ability ceiling is. So, I decided to try to figure out a way to help you understand. And here is what I came up with: for the first month of the season, I counted how many turns throughout the night at our matches that Phillips had a turn where he could legitimately hit an ASP - turns in '01 where he started the turn at 100 or more, and turns in cricket where he needed at least 5 marks or at least 3 bulls to end the game. Now, mind you, he didn't always 'choose' the ASP route, as throwing 97 from 137 is certainly a better choice than throwing a Ton, so if anything these numbers are actually deflated, rather than being inflated, which is more than a bit scary when you see the numbers below.

Phillips is such an efficient player of the game that in the first four matches of the season, he only had 66 total turns in which an ASP was in play. Yep, despite playing 4 games a night for 4 weeks, he only had 66 turns for open scoring. That's only 4.125 turns/game! And how many ASPs did he hit? 11.5. In week 1… Then 10.0 in week 2, 10.5 in week 3, and 12.0 in week 4. For a total of 44.0 ASPs in those 4 matches. In only 66 turns.

For the mathematically challenged, I'll calculate that for you… Phillips had an ASP Average of 0.667 during that first month when I was watching. Oh… but… that's 0.667 all-star points PER TURN. No, not per game, like the rest of us use as a measuring stick. Per turn. That means that when you throw three turns, if you don't already have 2.0 ASPs, you're falling behind.

Just for comparison: there were 549 members in the RDL this season. Of those, 13 did not play in the regular season, leaving 536 league members throwing. Of those 536 (one of whom is, of course, Phillips himself), 458 averaged less than 0.667 ASPs per game. That means that the average TURN for Phillips scores more ASPs than the average GAME does for 85.6% of the league. How's that for some perspective?

WHICH BRINGS ME TO…

What happens when you hit huge turns all the time, win national championships, and nearly win a World Cup? Well, you end up getting sponsored and producing your own signature line of darts! How freakin' bada is this?! When you go to the Puma Darts catalog, you can get yourself a set of the Robbie Phillips signature model darts (available in multiple weights, including light enough for soft-tip conversion). Below is the actual photo from the catalog, complete with an image of his name laser-written right on the dart!

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and once again much of it was written when it was already today… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- Once again, it's Survivor time! But this season, this first item is just a touch different… I'm watching this season (of course), but I admit I'm a week behind (yay, DVR). That's not important though… what is important is that there's a new format this season: each Survivor came on the show with a loved one. Pretty excellent. Which got to me thinking… Can you imagine a dart team Survivor? Which of your teammates would you blindside in a Tribal Council vote first? Which one would you pick to go on challenge rewards with you? Or more to the point… which would you not pick? Oh man, that would be so fun. The fact that it would probably destroy your team isn't maybe the most ideal thing ever, but it would be really fun for the rest of us to watch at least…

-- So lately I've been seeing seemingly more and more people opening their car windows a bit, sticking their fingers out, and then rubbing and flicking their fingers and thumbs together. Could that really be anything but people flicking off boogers while they drive? And with that in mind, does that mean nose-picking is on the rise? Or just that I'm noticing it more?

-- This is the label off of an actual bottle of beer. There's nothing more to this one… I just thought this looked really awesome, and thought that a beer with hot peppers added was pretty interesting.

-- Not that I really want to associate myself with the throwing talents of a guy who, shortly after this, drunkenly informed me that I was "mentally distressed" and "mentally disturbed" because my team had too many good players to win anymore, and we were all both mad and dead (no, really), but… if I was to ever throw two 9-marks in the same game, it would probably be similar to the fashion in which Steve Chorba of Wilmington did it in the state finals this past weekend: 0-mark, 0-mark, 9-mark, 0-mark, 9-mark.

-- I kept meaning to include this item in the Tons, but I always thought that whatever location it was in the newsletter where I had space was just a little too prominent to keep Deb Blackwelder from beating me (or maybe her daughter) for embarrassing her in print. But this one just has to be passed along, beatings be damned… At the state championship this past September (full results on page 20), Allyson Blackwelder teamed up with the happily degenerate and debaucherous pair of Paul Jacobi and Alberto Sandoval to enter the Mixed Triples event. As many teams do, they chose to sign up for the event not just under their own three names, but also under a "team name". In this case, Allyson was somehow convinced (and by 'convincing her', I mean they said 'how about this?' and she said 'hell yeah!') to play under the team name of Allyson and Her Ta-Tas. Paul and Alberto even went so far as to rename themselves Left and Right. I've never seen teams so happy to come to a board to meet their opponents! My only lament here is that they didn't win the state title - I would have loved to have seen what they chose to put for their names on their state shirts.

-- I really don't know that the true awesomeness of this season's B division can be overstated. After the seemingly thousands of matches this season (out of the 56 played in B, which makes that a pretty high percentage) that were won by the team lower in the standings, for the #7 and #8 seeds to roll to the tournament final together was just perfect. I think that the teams in that division should be made to stay together as its own separate division in perpetuity. Nobody can change teams or stop playing, ever. No teams can ever leave or join the division - just the same eight teams playing, and almost certainly crowning 8 different winners in every 8-season run. Let's look at just a few of the statistical features of B that made it so silly:

The highest win percentage for any team equated to only 54.2% success, while the lowest two were down at 46.4% and 46.2%. Those lowest two are, of course, the tournament finalists.

Each of the eight teams had a losing record in at least one set.

Only one team (the 4th place team) had a singles win rate over 51.2%. And they were only at 54.2%. If I hadn't seen that happen, I would've said that was nearly impossible.

And six of the eight teams finished with ASP averages within 0.053 of each other. The only team above that range lost in the first round of the tournament, to the only team below that range. That below-range team? They also happen to be drinking out of the Mugs today.

Craziness, I'm tellin' ya… I'm going to miss this division…

-- Most people are proud of their kids (even if there is really no reason to be), and I fully admit I'm one of them. But in the past week or two, I've really had two moments where I just sat and glowed at how great my 12-year-old son is. In one of those, he was just talking along and he dropped the word 'sentient' into his sentence as he was rolling, and it was completely accurate usage. (Go ahead, check out the definition on your smartphone… I'll wait… no, really, go ahead… ok, got it?) So, he's as smart as a whip, which is awesome. Then in another discussion, he starts his thought out with "so, the front man for Radiohead…" And the rest of the sentence was completely logical and a great music discussion, but that really didn't matter. Just starting what he was saying like that was enough for me. He's as smart as a whip and he's cool. Man, I got way lucky… I sure love that kid.

-- So is it really great when an opponent wears your team's shirt? Or is that them trying to steal some of your karma? This is from last season, but clearly Paddy Diamond of Rif Raf is of the mind that it was awesome that Julie Wilcox (of Despicable Us) was sporting Rif Raf's colors. [For the record, Julie's bunch won…]

That simply isn't enough Random Thoughts… see the next page for more mostly useless ramblings…

MORE(!) RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

No, really… I have more silly pointless stuff to share. Interested? Then read on… and leave yourself wondering why you didn't have something better to do… Sad for you, right?

-- You guys all know that I hate when words are simply sucked into the lexicon because so many people use a word (or non-word) so often and so incorrectly that it sort of becomes 'accepted'. Well, I'm not alone in that one. Ever watch football on TV? Ever hear the analysts refer to a team's or player's "physicality"? I dare you to walk over to Maridy Knight (she's probably around here somewhere selling dart supplies) and tell her all about physicality. Just be ready to deal with some physicality as you do so.

-- I'll bet most of us know who "those teams" are in our divisions. You know the ones… the ones that are generally disliked due to their behavior, and the ones where everyone else is pulling for you to beat them every week, just because… But do you think they know who they are? I'll bet most of them do. And that, I think, makes it even sadder. I can assure you that, for the most part, I certainly know who those teams are…

-- It was killing me during the season to not share this one… but I said I would wait so that they could pull it again a couple times if they felt like it. Which I'm sure they did. But now it's time to share, and what better time than in the banquet Tons? From Mike Seward of Bullklitz back in October: "Last night Doug [Jeffcoat, Mike's teammate] had his old man reading glasses so he could see the score sheet. Every time he set his glasses down I smeared pink lip gloss (borrowed from Joey's girlfriend) on the nose piece. Doug's entire nose was shiny and reddish/pink all night - and he never figured out why his glasses kept slipping down….I couldn't even look at him. I wonder if Angela questioned his Rudolph Red nose appearance when he got home---oh honey, you must have a cold!" Geez, you need to be on your toes to play for Bullklitz…

-- You guys have heard me mock concert-goers who spend their whole time trying to record songs on their phones instead of just enjoying the show. But at one of the concerts I went to recently, a woman there raised the pathetic-ness (that's a word, but only for the purposes of this discussion) bar for me… She spent most of her time at the show recording videos on her phone, but… she was recording the images on one of the side screens! She wasn't even recording the performers directly! What a waste of money her ticket cost was… no idea why she was even there…

-- I've decided that there is a new entry in the 'dumbest drivers' category that I unintentionally keep in the back of my head. Can someone tell me how low on the list to put the woman who feels the need to tailgate a school bus? [Some karma here though… the bus was actually pulling over, not to pick up kids, but rather to stop on the side of the road because it was ahead of schedule for its next route (I'm assuming that's why, based on the time of the day). She was tailgating so closely that she didn't see the driver get off the bus at the curb, and when all the cars were going around the bus to continue onward, she was so close to the bus that she couldn't pull around without waiting for everyone else to go and then backing up. Even today that makes me smile.]

-- Some guys simply have the demeanor and calmness to be a great dart thrower. At our tournament final this past Wednesday, with my team ahead by a narrow score of 10-8, Wil Tan and Jon Kenney trailed in game 1 of their 501 set, sitting on 141 while their opponents sat on 30. Tan stepped up and threw triple-20, triple-19, double-12 with a calm pace that made it look like he was tossing warmup darts. Then he just turned and shook hands. How many of you would be jumping up and down and shrieking?

-- Are you a woman who tries to hover over the toilet when you go in to pee in a public restroom? Do you realize that's its you who pees on the seat and makes it all yucky? Yep, it is YOUR fault, not the others'. Which means it's also your fault that my wife has to come out of public restrooms all the time telling me how nasty you are. Just sit your butt down. Turns out others are cleaner than you are anyway.

-- An awesome email quote from Heather Bohanan that I saved from some time ago: "Hey, something strikes me as weird, and you seem like the kind of person who may also think it is weird [note from JK - she was right]. Now, I Googled this but couldn't find confirmation that it is the same woman, but it sure sounds like it. Ok, you know the British woman who does the voiceovers for Victoria's Secret? I guess it's sexy if you are a dude. Well, this weekend there is this commercial for Benefiber Orange and she is doing that too!! Now, to me it seems really ironic that there is a (supposedly - doesn't do it for me personally...) woman selling sex appeal doing ads for lingerie and a product to help you poop?!?! Am I the only one who thinks this is weird??"

-- So when you go into East Coast Wings, and they have that super-hot wing challenge, they'll put your picture on the wall if you can eat the required number. And if there was to be an RDL member on that wall of 'fame', how could it be anyone other than Matt Varnadoe of Is It In? And how could he be labeled as anything other than Carnie Matt? If you don't know Matt, just trust me… it's Matt who would've been the league's odds-on favorite to show up there.

-- You know what I think is cool? (Yes, some of you might well disagree with me, but you people would be wrong.) I think it's cool when people come out to watch the finals of the league championship match. Not just in RDL, but really in any league in which you participate. I just think it's a little bit excellent to enjoy and respect a hobby so much that you'll come share in the finale of the season at the top levels of competition. Or really at any level. Just come revel in the excitement of the moment for people that like to do what you like to do. Adds a little something for them too, so don't think they don't appreciate it. Sort of a little extension of a darting family. I like it. (And as a side note: thank you to those that come out to hang out at our finals match on Wednesday. I like you all more than I did before Wednesday. I don't care what your teammates say about you…)

-- I hope I'm not too hung over when I see you guys during this party. Last night was the faculty dinner dance over at Duke, and my wife and I love good formal dinner parties with cocktail hours, open bar, and hours of dancing. You have no idea how much energy I poured into this issue to make sure it was done in time to go to the dinner. But I made it, and I'm down to these last four lines. So here, I will just say this: thanks for reading, thanks for making our hobby go, and thanks for making regular old weekdays so much fun. I hope the holidays find you healthy and happy…

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE SEPTEMBER MEETING

== The NCCDL will operate with the same 13 teams as in 2013, and divisional play will return to the East/West format employed in even-numbered years for a while now. The exact division lineup has yet to be decided, as Port City has come through with a confirmation that they will be playing in 2014. The exact division alignment has yet to be decided as Port City was not part of the initial planning discussion at the recent state meeting. Discussions between the League Directors and NCDO officers will address the main issue of which division will play with 7 teams - being the geographic swing team, Durham will be the team in question as to division assignment. The West division will certainly include Asheville, Pineville, Charlotte, Lake Norman, Piedmont, and Chapel Hill. The East division will certainly include Port City, Wilmington, Jacksonville, Capital Area, Raleigh, and Cary. Whichever division ends up with 6 teams will play 7 matches, whichever division ends up with 7 teams will play 8 matches, and all teams will have 2 interdivisional matches on their schedules (except for 2 teams in the larger division, who will have one extra intradivisional match). == The NCLC will operate with the same 11 teams as in 2013, also with an East/West format. The West division will include Asheville, Hickory, Pineville, Charlotte, Piedmont, and Chapel Hill. The East division will include Wilmington, Jacksonville, Fuquay-Varina, Capital Area, and Apex. The West division will play 7 matches, and the East division will play 6 matches, and all teams will have 2 interdivisional matches on their schedules (except for 2 teams in the larger West division, who will have one extra intradivisional match).

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Cary NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 18 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte
1997: Piedmont over Durham
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
2000: Durham over Charlotte
2001: Durham over Wilmington
2002: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham
2004: Wilmington over Durham
2005: Durham over Wilmington
2006: Durham over Charlotte
2007: Durham over Charlotte
2008: Durham over Charlotte
2009: Wilmington over Charlotte
2010: Wilmington over Durham
2011: Durham over Lake Norman
2012: Durham over Wilmington
2013: Wilmington over Lake Norman

Request to the NCLC Ladies: if any of you have a history of the results like the one above for the NCCDL, I would love to have a copy of those so I can periodically run an NCLC history as well. Drop me a line please if you're willing to share.

TONS OF NEWSLETTER

Home to the Spring Session of the Raleigh Dart League for the Banquet, Saturday, May 17, 2014 Issue #JK592
The "Why Do The Youth Soccer Schedulers Seem To Have It Out For Me During Dart Season?" Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - Bona Fide Element (13-5)
Though the score doesn't fairly show the closeness of the final, Element becomes just the 4th A division team since 1995 to win the Mugs without playing any 501 sets (2 of the other 3 were Element too).

"B" Division - BullsHitters (13-7)
The Hitters end the season on a 13-match run (losing only to the Niners in week 4), losing only 9 total points during the tournament & completing their FIFTH consecutive season/tournament double!

"C" Division - Projectile Bombers (13-9)
They had to go almost the full distance in each of their tournament matches, but the Projectiles (who ended the regular season with back-to-back losses) take the Mugs for the 3rd time in 4 seasons.

"D" Division - We Be Triplin (13-5)
After barely surviving both their quarterfinal and semifinal matches, Triplin rips through the Machine in the final to take their second straight Mug (though they're still hunting their first season title).

"E" Division - Liquor Posse (14-4)
The Posse bounces back from a tough loss in the regular season extra tiebreaker match to mostly cruise through the E bracket, claiming their 2nd consecutive Mug (and 3rd in the last 5 seasons).

"F" Division - Home Grown Wolves (13-11)
The Wolves end the Spring on a roll (Spring roll?), ending a strong upset run by the Bandits (who the Wolves hadn't beaten except by forfeit this season) when 70-year-old John Jenkins pops the winner.

"G" Division - The Sofa Kings (13-7)
They might not be able to actually sit anywhere near their own matches, but The Sofa Kings still shoot down the lowest-seeded finals participant (the 5th-place Gratefuls) to claim the G Mugs.

"H" Division - Train Station Shooters (14-10)
The Shooters went nearly the distance in all three tournament matches (I think, since the official semis score wasn't reported), giving them 12 of 17 Spring matches decided by one doubles or less.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - Bona Fide Element (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Wil. Take Shots

"B" Division - BullsHitters (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Inconceivable!

"C" Division - Methodical Madness (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Traveling Brown's Billiards

"D" Division - Sharky's Machine (9 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Death Throw

"E" Division - I Got Nothing (12 wins, 2 losses, plus 1 extra win!)
2nd place - Liquor Posse

"F" Division - Home Grown Wolves (10 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - Darty Deeds

"G" Division - Shootin Da Bull (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - The Sofa Kings

"H" Division - Quack Hos (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Misfits

Rosters of all season- and tournament-winning teams are on page 4.)

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Fewer teams than in the last 3 seasons, and 14 fewer total matches, but that didn't prevent there from being a veritable avalanche of 1001 tiebreakers. 45 total tiebreakers played (with 3 of those 45 occurring during the divisional tournaments). B division had a colossal 13 1001s (12 in the season and 1 in the tournament), more than double the total in any other division. E and G each had 6 tiebreakers, D and H each had 5 tiebreakers (both with 4 in the season and 1 in the tournament), A and C each had 4 tiebreakers, and F trailed the rest with only 2.

An astonishing NINE teams played 3 or more tiebreaker games, with 7 of those 9 each playing 4 or more! Poppin' parity, Batman!

This season's Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) is shared by three teams, with two of them (No Quarter and Rif Raf, both in B division) sadly sitting with 1-4 records in the extra leg (which also makes these two teams the recipients of this season's Heartbreak Awards). The third team with five 1001s (What Does the Cork Say?, also in B, of course) fared much better at 3-2, including a tiebreaker win in the tournament.

Probably the teams that most appreciated the need for a tiebreaker though were the Big Bulls (in B) and We Be Triplin (in D). Both rang up 4-0 records in the extra leg, but it was Triplin that really lived large in extra time, winning 1 of their 4 on the way to a tournament title.

FALL 2014 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

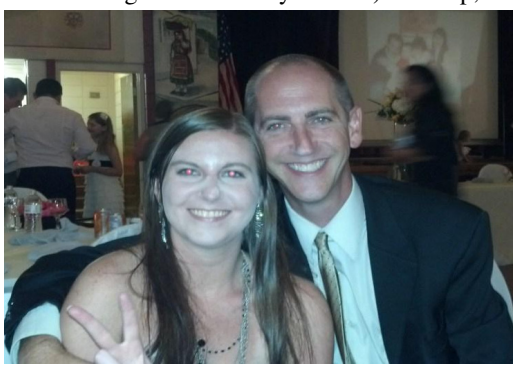
MATCHES MADE ~~IN HEAVEN~~ IN A DART BAR

Well, ok, maybe the matches were "made in heaven" in terms of the happiness of those involved… but the actual time put in that grew these pairings was spent at dart matches. That's right, we have two new dart couples that are tying the knot!! (Sure, the couples aren't necessarily new, but their wedding vows certainly will be.) First up, we have Barry Jackson and Kelly Haller of Armed & Hammered. They actually got married this past weekend, so this one is sort of a "post"-notice. Stupid Barry made the rest of us guys look bad with a storybook proposal on top of the Empire State Building. I think he must be compensating for something… Oh, not that… Well, maybe not that, I guess… But I meant that he is an Ohio State fan… That might be worse, don't ya think? :o)



And second up, we have upcoming nuptials for a couple of the E champion Home Grown Wolves. David Simpson & Rhonda Gregory will be getting married June 14th! I freakin' LOVE the description of their notice that David shared with me: "We just did our Facebook announcement… which is apparently required now!" Hahahahaha! How great that David clearly thinks of Facebook much like I do…

Congratulations and best wishes to the happy RDL couples!!

SPRING 2014 PENALTY SUMMARY

Oh, flippin' wow! At some point I am going to have to go back and add a penalty history to my growing file of cumulative RDL records. I have banquet issue summaries of penalties, and a few listings of the most historically bad captains, but I think this season approaches a whole new set of records that we generally don't get to discuss…

It is entirely possible that this season had the FEWEST penalties in my 37-season tenure as statistician! Sure, there was no fifth-week captains' meeting and no Board election, so there were fewer chances for losses due to laziness, but the bottom line is that the penalty total was LOW.

Overall, there were only 12 total penalties for a total of 93 lost points!! That is 220 fewer lost points than last season! That is an astoundingly low total, so kudos to all (or at least most) of you guys. In addition, there were only two types of penalties assessed all season: 9 phone penalties (45 points), and 3 mail penalties (48 points).

Only 8(!) of the 63 teams got any penalty at all, and only 2 teams (Nice Grouping with 2, and Train Station Shooters with 4) received more than a single penalty. Heck, A and C divisions didn't ring up any at all. And on top of all that, not one team lost even one spot in the standings… what a great and nearly penalty-free season this was. Excellent job.

SUMMER DARTS

It's that time again when our standard Wednesday league takes a break for a couple months. That's ok for some of us, but not so much for others… Looking for a replacement? Try these options.

Thursday league - TDL - in Chapel Hill

The registration information for the TDL isn't out yet, but the spring finals were this past Thursday. So I would expect the registration meeting to occur sometime very soon. Check www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ for information updates soon.

Or maybe a blind draw…

Page 8 lists the regular weekly blind draws offered by RDL host establishments, and there are a bunch. But I have also confirmed both The Upper Deck AND Sharky's Place will be adding weekly Wednesday draws for every week this summer. They will have basically the same features as their regular draws listed on page 8, except that there is no Wednesday "triple shot" at the Deck.

And for those lookin' for a bigger tournament…

Check pages 20 and 21 for fliers for events in nearby locales, and also the calendar on page 8 for a couple more. If you can only hit one of those, I wholeheartedly recommend… THE 9TH ANNUAL WRECK AT THE DECK !!! (see pg. 20). Yep, one of the best ADO tournaments on the annual calendar is right in your back yard yet again. May 30th-June 1st at The Upper Deck on Harrison Avenue. Too good and too close to pass up…

BEST THROW OF THE TOURNAMENTS?

I think the best throw at any tournament match this season was Julie Scheppele's throw of… PAPER?!?! Yep, paper! Scheppele (center below) was part of the self-titled Crazy Bit*hes trivia team, along with Bianca Gentry (left) and Dawn Bocchinfuso (right), that won a $50 certificate at Brewster's during the A division semifinals. Where does the 'paper' come in? Well, they tied for for first and had to play Roshambo (rock-paper-scissors) for the win, best 2-of-3. After taking the first round and losing the second, Scheppele threw the winning 3rd round paper for the title!

TerraFin Station 919-773-2220

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:
for all except Div. "D" & teams A7, B8, F4 (8 teams/div.):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for Division "D" (7 teams / division):
min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams A7, B8 and F4 (due to 1 forfeit received):
min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played

THE THIRTY-FIFTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs (the first three of whom were Divisional MVPs last season too!)

A Division	Robbie Phillips	Bona Fide Element	E Division	Vince Martinez	I Got Nothing
B Division	Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	F Division	Seth Fagan	F Your Mom
C Division	John Carroll	Methodical Madness	G Division	Andrew Strickland	Shootin Da Bull
D Division	Alex Mathews	Death Throw	H Division	Tom Wiegand	Misfits

All of RDL -- Robbie Phillips -- Bona Fide Element

"A" Division (had 2 more that were so close)

Tom Brown	Bona Fide Element	He's like the Ener-winner Bunny…
Kyle Gaulthier	Darts of Anarchy	His absences were a huge hurdle for team.
Simon Healy	Appetite for Destruc	Maybe RDL's most dangerous non-Phillips.
Donnie Lassey	Wil. Take Shots	Main reason shorthanded team thrived.
Dan Naylor	Wil. Take Shots	Nationals thrower drove a long way to play.
Robbie Phillips	Bona Fide Element	I'm running out of sufficient superlatives.
Mike Seward	Darts of Anarchy	Still able to beat anyone at any time.
Wil Tan	Bona Fide Element	Always plays his best at the biggest times.

"B" Division

Jeff Dahulich	Inconceivable!	Hooch returns with a winning vengeance.
John Dunleavy	What Does the Cork	Quietly one of the best below A for years.
David Hoyt	Rif Raf	Welcome back, Diablo! Like you never left.
Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	Has done nothing but win for years now.
Randy Massengill	BullsHitters	Ever closer to being the best Massengill…
Zak Mayhew	What Does the Cork	Ok, so maybe DCkt wasn't the best ever.
Tim McNamara	Inconceivable!	When was his last time not on this page?
Jeff Watson, Jr.	Inconceivable!	The captain finally started listing himself.

"C" Division (this was a DEEP division…)

John Carroll	Methodical Madness	Just huge before his schedule changed.
Josh Hall	Excalibur	Solid or better all season for near-winners.
Mikey Hindle	Excalibur	Was a cricket monster and good in '01.
David Huffman	Methodical Madness	Stepped to the front for Mug champs.
Robert Ray	Traveling Brown's B	Part-time, but so strong when he was there.
Sal Reitano	The Locals	Biggest Local for several seasons now.
Steve Wilcenski	Traveling Brown's B	And to think they wanted him to play in D.
Joe Work	Traveling Brown's B	Awesome singles record, decent in doubles.

"D" Division

Frank Allison	Sharky's Machine	Led basically a season-long comeback.
Randy Baldwin	We Be Triplin	Not a doubles king, but that's sorta Triplin.
Randy Deemer	We Be Triplin	See Baldwin comment immediately above.
Joshua Janssen	Leftovers	Not unbeatable, but solid for 5-man squad.
Alex Mathews	Death Throw	Newcomer made a massive difference here.
Jim Peele	Shark Shooters	Great to see the Sharks add a new gun.
Tony Thomas	Leftovers	There's a reason he isn't picked as blocker.
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	Good player, here because of DCkt run.

"E" Division

Will Bennett	Blind Squirrels	Wow, what a pickup! Owned in cricket.
Ryan Cusman	Nice Grouping	Most solid for just a solid Grouping team.
Danny Hall	Village Idiots	Should I make a "Biggest Idiot" comment?
Andy Krestalude	I Got Nothing	What..is..that..501..record? Aberration.
Vince Martinez	I Got Nothing	So huge in all sets all season for E champs.
Aaron Mooty	Liquor Posse	Biggest gun for team that nearly won it all.
Mike Snyder	Drinkers with a Dart	Bit of a slow start in 301, but then rocked.
Jason Thomas	Gift Returns	The President drilled people all season.

"F" Division

Brad Adams	Five-OH! Whizzle	Does he just show up too late for 301?
Ryan Anderson	Darty Deeds	Really? Ryan Anderson in F division? Ok.
Seth Fagan	F Your Mom	Carried shorthanded squad along so often.
John Geraghty	Darty Deeds	01 champ? Nope. Ckt champ? Maybe!
Mike Kyle	Same Day Different	A fixture here, just solid wins all across.
Phil Murphy	One Armed Bandits	Team is so much better when he is playing.
Tyler Simpson	Home Grown Wolve	Couple seasons in a row on this roster.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	This one arm was a great one all season.

"G" Division

Rich Bialaszewski	Northern Flights	A dozen wins in each cricket set is smokin'.
Andrew Bowen	Whynot!	Most dependable on always-so-close team.
Bob Lane	Northern Flights	Oh, yikes… ok, he just plays singles here.
Ken Moore	The Sofa Kings	Most balanced on a very balanced squad.
Andy Morse	Shootin Da Bull	Super solid 9+ wins across the board.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	On the Wire	So maybe the doubles weren't all that…
Andrew Strickland	Shootin Da Bull	Almost unbeatable in singles to lead team.
Craig Strickland	Shootin Da Bull	Leader of one of league's most dominant.

"H" Division (had 11 or 12 I wanted to pick here)

Charlie Frazier	Ballistic Behavior	Exactly 9-4 in every set is so excellent.
Roger Genzlinger	Who Darted?	Easily the best for tough underachievers.
Charlie Long	Misfits	Wiegand's top compadre for newcomers.
Chad McGhee	Train Station Shoote	Great second fiddle for the H Mug winners.
Richard Oakley	Train Station Shoote	Why the heck does he sit himself in SCkt?
Adam Schoch	Quack Hos	Biggest Duck on the pond until last set.
Kenny Spencer	Tips & Shafts	A monster for 3 sets, then… other.
Tom Wiegand	Misfits	Holy cow, this guy is in the wrong div.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Once again only 2 people in the true Quadruple Double club this season: Chad Massengill of BullsHitters in B, and Tom Wiegand of Misfits in H (which isn't all that surprising given how long Wiegand played in higher divisions and the fact that he is in H mostly because they formed a new team). We also had four honorable mentions, for throwers with at least two 10+-win sets and 9 wins in the others: Randy Massengill of BullsHitters in B, Ryan Anderson of Darty Deeds and Seth Fagan of F Your Mom in f, and Andy Morse of Shootin Da Bull in G.

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: No teams were relegated to something silly like only 4 players every week, but there was one team that continually showed with only 5. Thus, for the first time ever, I'm giving the Iron Man Award to someone who didn't play the most games leaguewide! Gregg McCurry of Leftovers missed the league lead by 1 (playing 61 games), but he did it in a 12-week D season! Wow. More than 5 games a week. McCurry also led D last season, so we've seen him here before. Honorable mentions as division leaders: Michael Johnson (In Treble) led A with 60; Aaron Fitzgerald (Big Bulls) led B for the 2nd straight season (and the whole league this time!) with 62; Jason Crowe (Outlaws) led C with 59; Jason Thomas (Gift Returns) led E with 60; Joe Kunesh (UZMAgain) led F with 59; Rich Bialaszewski (Northern) led G with 61; & Norm Thaxter (Bull Busters) led H with 60.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Five teams this season made a run at this category this season (some unintentionally), and all are worthy of note this time! In Treble in A division became a solid six after about week 4; the Leftovers in D tried to be a solid six, but were more of a rotating five; We Be Triplin in D became the closest to a weekly six we had this season; I Got Nothing in E planned to be just a six, but had to call up their emergency #7 a few times; and Ballistic Behavior in H actually only rostered 6 players, but seemed to play with 5 just about as often.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I actually did really well. I had a large percentage of the teams in every division within one spot of their finish, but there were some glaring misses… First off, I had WAY too much love for Armed in D, and for UZMAgain and MoonShines in F. Next, I simply didn't see I Got Nothing in E and the Misfits in H coming (but at least the Misfits were an unknown new one). And, like my weekly E picks below, E here was… well… a bit of a mess for me.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I climbed up compared to last season, but with the horrid mess that was B last season, it might've been sort of difficult to not improve. F division was a serious pain for quite some time, but even those guys I started to decipher by about mid-season. In the end, I was able to reach at least 6-8 for every team in every division, and would've been 0.500+ for all teams if I had just managed to get the week 14 Darty Deeds-Five-OH! Whizzle prediction correct.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And as usual, we jump to best-of-three, and my picks look generally pretty strong, despite the fact that I'm picking semifinals & finals that I conceivably could have wrong before the match is even played. Much like last season, I was great in the first two rounds, then missed a whole bunch of finals winners. I was a strong 26-5 in the quarterfinals, then a solid 11-5 in the semifinals, and then I really fell off in the finals, hitting only 2 of 8 Mug champions for the 2nd straight season (but at least still hitting my team's win again :o)! That's a final record of 39-16, which is at least decent. I even had a Dark Horse pick win (in C), and 2 of my 3 Sure Things delivered.

(I introduced this page nineteen seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the six 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the two 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [Very cool that I was able to add another pick in week 14.5!! And I got it right to boot! Nice… I suppose that is one small step toward covering for my relative F division ineptitude for most of the season. At least I got to 6-8 or better for all teams… decent, I guess.]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 8 question: As of week 6, Wil. Take Shots in A division was left as the only undefeated team in any division this season. In my 36 and a half seasons as statistician, what is the earliest week of a season in which the RDL was left without any undefeated teams?

Week 9 question: How many teams have won a match this season despite being losing a set 6-0? (and yes, I mean 6-0, as dropping a 4-0 to a double-shorthanded team is a far lesser issue)

Week 10 question: What is the average number of 24-0 shutouts per season in the RDL? (well, ok… the average number during my tenure as RDL statistician - the previous 36 seasons)

Week 11 question: How long ago was the last week in which zero teams in the RDL played shorthanded for even one set?

Week 12 question(s): How many different establishments have hosted the RDL banquet in the past decade? Can you name each of them?

Week 13 question: What percent of the division races in the past 36 seasons have been decided by points (meaning the top two teams finished with the same match win/loss record)?

Week 14 question: What is the greatest margin of victory for a season division winner in my 36 seasons as the statistician? Who did it?

Week 8 answer: Well, with Wil. Take Shots winning in week 7 (and 8), this season lost its shot at breaking or tying this record. That record for the latest the last undefeated team lost is week 7, and that has happened twice. In Spring 1998, Lunatic Fringe in A division and Top Dead Center in B division both entered week 7 undefeated, and both lost in tiebreakers. Then in the Spring 2009 season, Who's the Daddy? in A, Rif Raf in B, and the Overtime Outlaws in D all entered week 7 undefeated, with all three losing (14-10, 16-8, and 12+-12, respectively) that night.

Week 9 answer: In the first 9 weeks of this season, 12 different teams have dropped a set 6-0 and still won the match. To be fair though, 6 of those weren't very interesting, as they were teams that clinched the match in DCkt and then lost all three 501s. Two more (Inconceivable! in week 8 and Big Bulls just last week) were swept in 501 and then had to win a tiebreaker for the match victory. It's the remaining four that I find most interesting though… Nine Lives in week 5 was swept in DCkt and won in a tiebreaker. Shootin Da Bull in week 8 and Sharky's Machine last week were each swept in DCkt and still won the match 14-10. And then there's The Locals in their rescheduled week 4 match - they were swept in SCkt(!) and still managed to win without even going to 1001 (14-10 final score). It takes some serious resilience to bounce back from a set loss like that to still take the match, and to do it in regulation. Wow. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Four additional teams won a match despite losing a set 6-0 in the last 5 weeks of the season. Two of those were teams that had clinched in DCkt and then dumped the 501s. The third was a team that led 12-6, dropped the 501s, and then won the 1001. But the fourth was another pretty interesting one… Liquor Posse got swept by the Village Idiots in DCkt in week 14, but still won the match by a 13-11 score.]

Week 10 answer: We actually only average 0.44 full 24-0 shutouts per season. We've had 16 total 24-0s in our past 36 seasons. Twenty-four seasons have gone with no forfeits, 9 have had 1, 2 have had 2, and 1 season had 3(!). Possibly as expected, 13 of those 16 have happened in A division (as did the one 24-0 so far this season). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: The one 24-0 noted above was the only one in a match this season, so there have now been 10 seasons out of the past 37 with exactly one 24-0 result. That means our league average has also climbed to 0.46 full 24-0 shutouts per season.]

Week 11 answer: Holy cow, I knew it didn't happen that often, but I was shocked when I finally dug up the answer to this one. The last week we had no shorthanded teams (during the season, that is, as there is no way to know during the tournaments since we don't submit those scoresheets) took place on March 10th, 2010. Over 4 years ago! Over 8 seasons ago! Wow. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: No weeks in the last month of this season with no shorthanded teams…]

Week 12 answer: Ok, so I got pretty interested in this one when I was pulling out the answer, so I actually went back and collected the info from my entire 36-season tenure as statistician/editor. So, I'll give you the answer for just this past decade... and also for the past 18 years! Ok, in the past decade, only 5 locations have hosted the banquet: The Upper Deck, High Park Bar & Grille, and Rally Point Sport Grill have covered the last 18 seasons, and Tir na nOg and the VFW Hall in Cary held the two before that (in 2004). And shockingly, adding in the prior 16 seasons increases our number of banquet hosts by only 1! In the past 36 seasons, here are your banquet hosts: VFW Hall - Cary (10 times, all pre-2005), The Upper Deck (8 times), High Park Bar & Grille (7 times, all in the last 13 seasons), Tir na nOg (5 times, all in a row from 2002-2004), Rally Point Sport Grill (3 times, all in the last 8 seasons), and The Warehouse (3 times, in 2000 and 2001). Given that the VFW and Warehouse don't host dart matches, that means only 4 of the league's weekly host bars have been a banquet host in the past 18 years! [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Obviously, The Upper Deck is adding its 9th time hosting the banquet today.]

Week 13 answer: Of the 262 divisions contested in the past 36 seasons, 57 have had first place decided by points because the top teams had the same match record. That's nearly 22% of the divisions!! A/B/E have each used points 9 times, D/F have each used points 8 times, C has 6 times, G has 5 times, and H has 3 times. Five of the 36 seasons have had no point-decided titles, and the highest number of point races in any one season is 4 (which happened twice, in Spring 2002 and Fall 2010). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: This season brought us two more division titles (E and F divisions) decided by points, bringing our totals to 59 of the 270 divisions in the past 37 seasons. But actually, I guess that isn't really 100% accurate... It turned out that one of those two divisions this season was not decided by points at all, since the top two teams in E ended up tied in both matches and points and had to play an extra match to decide that race! I think that race certainly qualifies to be included in these statistics though, simply because it clearly at least fits the spirit of this trivia question.]

Week 14 answer: Well, since this season is now over, we'll add this one in to make it 37 seasons. And in those 37 seasons, there have been 270 total divisions. Of those 270, 26 of them have been decided by 4 matches, another 8 have been decided by 5 matches, but another 2 were decided by SIX MATCHES!! In the Fall 1999 season, Get the Point won D division by 6 matches & 42 points, and did it in a 12-week season (12-0 first, 6-6 second; 3rd/4th/5th were all also 6-6)!! And in the Fall 2000 season, Madhouse Patients won G division by 6 matches & 40 points (14-0 first, 8-6 second).

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "The scars of your love remind me of us, They keep me thinking that we almost had it all"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "Now and then I think of all the time you screwed me over, But had me believing it was always something that I'd done"

Week 2, song #3 lyric: "She's up all night 'til the sun, I'm up all night to get some, She's up all night for good fun"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "I've seen it before, it happens all the time, You're closing the door, you leave the world behind"

Week 3, song #3 lyric: "She had a lot on her mind and she didn't pay attention, She was going way too fast"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "Please, swallow your pride, If I have things you need to borrow, For no one can fill those of your needs"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "When people can be so cold, They'll hurt you and desert you, And take your soul if you let them"

Week 4, song #3 lyric: "Now if you feel that you can't go on, Because all of your hope is gone, And your life is filled with much confusion"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "After all it was great big world, With lots of places to run to, And if she to die tryin', She had one little promise..."

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "Come back home to the refinery, Hiring man says 'son if it was up to me', Went down to see my VA man"

Week 5, song #3 lyric: "She said the man in the gabardine suit was a spy, I said 'Be careful, his bowtie is really a camera' "

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "There's something inside me that pulls beneath the surface, Consuming, confusing what is real"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "Now security did not see him, They just hovered round his tomb, But there's a pretty little thing, Waiting for the king"

Week 6, song #3 lyric: "Coming down may be the hardest thing, Well the good ol' days may not return, And the rocks might melt and the sea may burn"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "Although I search myself, it's always someone else I see, I'd just allow a fragment of your life to wander free"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "I used to think maybe you loved me, now I know that it's true, And I don't want to spend my whole life just a-waiting for you"

Week 7, song #3 lyric: "When I'm out walkin', I strut my stuff, yeah, I'm so strung out, I'm high as a kite, I just might stop to check you out"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "Paint your smile on your lips, Blood red nails on your fingertips, A school boy's dream, you act so shy"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "I guess I just lost my husband, I don't know where he went, So I'm gonna drink my money, I'm not gonna pay his rent"

Week 8, song #3 lyric: "Tell me now baby is he good to you, Can he do to you the things that I do, I can take you higher"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "All I ask for when I pray, steady rollin' woman gonna come my way, Need a woman gonna hold my hand"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "We want to multiply, are you gonna do it? I know you qualify, are you gonna do it? Don't be so circumscribed"

Week 9, song #3 lyric: "Well I, believe, it all, is coming to an end, Oh well, I guess, we're gonna pretend"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "I want you to know, I said I want you to know right now, You've been good to me baby, Better than I've been to myself"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "Hatty told Matty, Let's don't take no chance, Let's not be L-seven, come and learn to dance"

Week 10, song #3 lyric: "A fine little girl, she waits for me, Catch a ship across the sea, Sail that ship about, all alone, Never know if I make it home"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "He smiled, so I got up and asked for his name, But that don't matter, he said 'cause it's all the same"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "Oh, it doesn't matter what they say in the paper, 'Cause it's always been the same old scene, There's a new band in town"

Week 11, song #3 lyric: "You keep on saying you'll be mine for a while, You're looking fancy and I like your style, You drive us wild"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "Every time you call my name, I heat up like a burnin' flame, Burnin' flame full of desire, Kiss me baby"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "Summer turns me upside down, Summer summer summer, It's like a merry go round, I see you under the midnight"

Week 12, song #3 lyric: "You better stop the things you do, I ain't lyin', no I ain't lyin', You know I can't stand it, your runnin' around"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "Everybody, get on the floor, let's dance, Don't fight your feelings, give yourself a chance"

Week 13, song #2: "When you take me by the hand, Tell me I'm your lovin' man, When you give me all your love, And do it babe the very best you can"

Week 13, song #3 lyric: "Baby, babe, let's get together, Honey, honey, me and you, And do the things, ah, do the things, That we like to do"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "Early to rise, early to bed, In and between I cooked cleaned and went out of my head"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "I never said you had to offer me a second chance, I never said I was a victim of circumstance"

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "New boy in the neighborhood, Lives downstairs and it's understood, He's there just to take good care of me"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "Making your way in the world today takes everything you've got, Taking a break from all your worries"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "I know my parents love me, Stand behind me come what may, I know now that I'm ready"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "Now the world don't move to the beat of just one drum, What might be right for you, may not be right for some"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "There's a time you got to go and show, You're growin' now you know about"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "I bet we've been together for a million years, And I bet we'll be together for a million more"

Week 14, song #9 lyric: "Hello sunshine, goodbye rain, She's wearing my high school ring on her chain, She's my steady, I'm her man"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "On your mark, get set and go now, Got a dream and we just know now"

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "So while you're here enjoy the view, Keep on doing what you do, So hold on tight and we'll muddle through"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "When I wake up in the mornin', And the alarm gives out a warnin', I don't think I'll ever make it on time"

Week 14, song #13 lyric: "You'll see that life is a ball again, and laughter is callin' for you, Down at our rendezvous"

Week 14, song #14 lyric: "There's a time for love and a time for living, You take a chance and face the wind, An open road and a road that's hidden"

Week 14, song #15 lyric: "Got kind of tired packing and unpacking, Town to town up and down the dial, Maybe you and me were never meant to be"

Week 11 answers: Song 1 = "I Love Rock & Roll" by Joan Jett & the Blackhearts === Song 2 = "It's Still Rock & Roll To Me" by Billy Joel === Song 3 = "Rock & Roll All Nite" by Kiss.

Week 12 answers: Song 1 = "Abracadabra" by Steve Miller Band === Song 2 = "Magic" by The Cars === Song 3 = "I Put A Spell On You" by Screamin' Jay Hawkins (and Nina Simone, and Creedence, and others). Week 13 answers: Song 1 = "Shake Your Booty" by K.C. & the Sunshine Band === Song 2 = "That's The Way (I Like It)" by K.C. & the Sunshine Band === Song 3 = "Get Down Tonight" by K.C. again…

Week 14 answers: Song 1 = "Theme to Alice" by Linda Lavin === Song 2 = "Theme to Bosom Buddies 'My Life' " by Billy Joel === Song 3 = "Theme to Charles In Charge" by Shandi Sinnamon === Song 4 = "Theme to Cheers 'Where Everybody Knows Your Name' " by Gary Portnoy === Song 5 = "Theme to A Different World" by Phoebe Snow === Song 6 = "Theme to Diff'rent Strokes" by Alan Thicke === Song 7 = "Theme to The Facts of Life" by Gloria Loring === Song 8 = "Theme to Family Ties 'Without Us' " by Johnny Mathis & Deniece Williams === Song 9 = "Theme to Happy Days" by Truett Pratt & Jerry McClain === Song 10 = "Theme to Laverne & Shirley" by Cyndi Grecco === Song 11 = "Theme to One Day at a Time" by Polly Cutter === Song 12 = "Theme to Saved by the Bell" by Tom Weir === Song 13 = "Theme to Three's Company" by Ray Charles (not the blind pianist) & Julia Rinker === Song 14 = "Theme to Who's the Boss?" by Steve Wariner === Song 15 = "Theme to WKRP in Cincinnati" by Steve Carlisle.

[Like last season, this season we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and proved popular again. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 fifteen-song set that proved to be another of the most popular lyric quiz weeks we've ever had - we certainly have a LOT of old sitcom fanatics in our midst...]*

Week 2 theme: The last three winners of the Best Record award at the Grammys. Week 3 theme: The weather/driving conditions that postponed the league's week 2 matches, of course. Week 4 theme: Having a friend you can really count on… don't underestimate that - if you don't have some, you should make an effort to cultivate some. Week 5 theme: Well, it was Olympics time, and I was up late watching curling and ski jumping and snowboarding… so I was feeling all patriotic and we went with a set that might have been more expected if the RDL had matches in early July.. Week 6 theme: The evolution of getting around… crawling, walking, flying... Week 7 theme: Daylight Savings Time!! Yeah, yeah, the sun was a theme too, but it was really about that Sunday's awesome clock change... Week 8 theme: The three music performers/ groups with the highest-grossing tours in groups with the highest-grossing tours in 2013. No, really. I'm not making that up. Bon Jovi and his 80s hair were #1 and the Boss was #3 last year! Week 9 theme: Bands with lead singers named Robert. Week 10 theme: College frat songs that everyone sings despite almost everyone not knowing the actual lyrics. Week 11 theme: Well, rock and roll, of course! Sort of an obvious one once you had the songs, I would say. But you had to get at least two songs to get there. Week 12 theme: Well, magic, of course. Week 13 theme: Disco bands with singers who now live in Durham! Duh…. Week 14 theme: theme songs for '80s TV shows, with the songs listed alphabetically by show name.

SUSPENSIONS, REMINDERS… SADNESS…

First, a minor one that serves as a reminder to all

This one is included here very much as a general reminder to all of our league members that it's time to grow up and act like an adult when you are out in public. Two members of "A" division received official warnings from the Rules & Grievances Committee for a brief altercation they had near the end of the season. I've sort of gathered that it was a lot of "he said - he said" and that the Committee couldn't fully determine who started what or who was at fault. But either way, both players got all riled up, things got loud, and maybe there was chest-puffing and bumping. I'm honestly not really sure. All I know is that the behavior went beyond the acceptable, and both players have been put on notice by the Committee (and thus, subsequently, the RDL Board). Let this notice be the warning to you from the powers that be, such that I don't have to write something like this about you in the future. [Note: I do not know if either of these two is planning to appeal the Committee's decision at the next Board meeting.]

Second, a more severe one, with greater ramifications

This one is included as a reminder to all like the one above, but actually more as just an official notice to the membership so that they know in seasons going forward. Danny Caputo, formerly of Liquor Posse, has received a permanent ban from RDL activities from the Rules & Grievances Committee, in response to a series of actions following a late-season match. This ban was put in place in response to repeated inexcusable behavior (following a one-year ban a couple years ago for punching an opponent), with the most recent acts being reportedly excessively vulgar, unprovoked, and now being directed toward random patrons of the host establishment. [Note: as of the time I am writing this, it does appear that Caputo will indeed be appealing at least the length of the suspension at the next Board meeting.]

MORE ABOUT TYING ALL-TIME WORLD RECORDS

This season, members of Appetite for Destruction tied all-time world records (and obviously RDL records) with both a 170-In (by Tex Mozzetti) and a 170-Out (by Justin McCurry). Somehow, most of the 170s in recent years have been hit either by or against Appetite, so much so that captain Sid Mitchell was inspired to go back through the banquet Tons compilation and do a little history-compiling for us. Starting from the Spring 1996 season (the first for which I was the statistician), there had been only 8 Ton-70-Ins thrown prior to this season (and only one - of course by a member of Appetite - during the time in which it being the first turn was required). [Interesting side note: Mike Seward of Darts of Anarchy threw 3 of those 8 170-Ins!] In that same timeframe, there had also been 8 170-Outs in the RDL. So Mozzetti's shot had given the "Ins" a 9-8 lead, but then McCurry tied it back up for the "Outs". [Personally, I think it's far cooler to be in the "Outs" club in the 170 room… sure, maybe I'm biased because I have 1 of those 8 myself, but whatever… :o) - JK]

ONE PLAYER CLOSE TO TWO MORE RDL RECORDS…

In weeks 6 and 13, my teammate Robbie Phillips came within a dart each time of the RDL record for fast singles cricket (something my teammate Tom Brown did in week 8 also!), finishing with a strong 12-darter each time. Bummer for Lunatic Fringe, as they were his opponent both times… I guess they inspire him.

But in week 10, Phillips also came within a quarter-inch of the first perfect game in the history of the RDL. 160-In (dbl-20,trip-20,trip-20), then trip-20, trip-19, followed by dart six JUST above the double-12. Sadly, the miss at the 6-darter was followed by a full turn of misses, meaning he didn't even get to tie the league record of 7 darts.

Still, can you imagine throwing all these games? In one season!?

BIGGEST RDL MATCH EVER!!

How unbelievably awesome… this season the RDL had its first-ever "extra" match that decided a division title!! At the end of 14 weeks, I Got Nothing and Liquor Posse ended their E division schedules with the same match win total, the same season point total, and the same number of wins by the same score against each other!! There are no tiebreakers left after that! So, what do the RDL rules say to do? They say to have an "extra" match between week 14 and the tournament quarterfinals!!! The league has seen ties before like this, but they have generally been to decide things like 6th place. Never before has a tie like this occurred at the top of a division. Thus, the two tied teams squared off the Monday night after the regular season to play the biggest match ever in RDL history!

And now a quick sidebar… if anyone reading this is going to try to come argue with me that some tournament final they played was bigger, save your breath. I've been in roughly two dozen A division tournament finals, and NONE of them were as big as this. The regular season is the gold standard of importance, not the tournaments. I do not care that the tournaments are best-of-three… you can win them with a lucky night or two, and some teams carry players solely for tournament time. Yeah, great team commitment there. The season takes consistency and dedication to the league. The tournament does not. And the league itself agrees with me here, very obviously. What is the metric used for determining when teams move up and move down? The season. What is used when numbering teams in each division after next registration? The season. And for what does the league give host establishments team champion plaques? Yep, the season. The only quick nod the tournament gets is that Mugs are the prize there. Heck, we don't even collect scoresheets from the tournament matches, simply trusting that you guys will handle whatever on your own. The tournament pales in comparison to a season-long run of more than 3 months. Period.

Ok, now that we can all recognize that the league's first-ever "extra" match to decide a division was the biggest match ever, we can get on to just what exactly happened…

301: Posse starts off quick, with Nathan Watkins and Drew Duncan ringing up a fast 2-0 lead. Andy Krestalude and Pete Hartmann immediately strike back for I Got Nothing to tie it at 2-2, but then Aaron Mooty and captain Ryan Bathurst push the Posse back ahead at 4-2.

SCkt: Hot run for I Got Nothing! Mike Holly, Krestalude, captain Erin Hartmann, and Vince Martinez rip off the first four to push I Got Nothing back ahead, 6-4! But as would be expected in a battle this even, Bathurst and Gus Martinez immediately ties things back up, 6-6.

DCkt: Posse rides the momentum of the end of SCkt with two wins by Adam Barnes/Mooty and Watkins/Duncan to take a strong 10-6 lead, leaving them within 2 games of the title. But then… the tides in this back-and-forth matchup turned back the other way yet again. Krestalude and Louie Cuevas took the last DCkt for I Got Nothing to start a run that didn't end for the rest of the night… 10-8 Posse, but still a whole set to go. A whole set of… Nothing…

501: Cuevas/Pete Hartmann take out Mooty/Watkins and it's 10-10. Then Krestalude/Martinez slide past Duncan/Martinez, and it's 12-10, I Got Nothing. Now with one game left (in regulation play), it had to almost seem predestined that the Posse would tie it up and sent it to 1001 (a place these two have been often in the past couple seasons). But nope… captain Erin Hartmann punched out a double-10, and I Got Nothing goes down as the Spring 2014 E division champs!!

(Pretty regular sight for these two to come down to one dart. Pretty odd sight for that last throw to not involve the Posse's clutch finisher in so many of these matches, due to a suspension [see previous page]. Bottom line though is that if you can't be there, you can't win.)

REMEMBER A YEAR AGO, WHEN I PRINTED THIS?

What happens when you hit huge turns all the time, win national championships, and nearly win a World Cup? Well, you end up getting sponsored and producing your own signature line of darts! How freakin' bada is this?! When you go to the Puma Darts catalog, you can get yourself a set of the Robbie Phillips signature model darts (available in multiple weights, including light enough for soft-tip conversion). Below is the actual photo from the catalog, complete with an image of his name laser-written right on the dart!

Well, that's still really bada and all…

But what does a company-sponsored national dart champion do when he's not throwing darts?

He goes to weekend-long rock festivals and crowd surfs!! That's him at the Carolina Rebellion a couple weekends ago, during the Staind show. He surfed at other times too, but this was the best photo (thanks to Paul Jacobi, for having a good camera and for being tall enough to make that matter).

But he, of course, wouldn't be alone!

We didn't all go up top surfing, but some others did! Like Angela Jeffcoat of What Did The Cork Say? That's her riding hands within moments of the time that Phillips had gone, during the same song. (Thanks again to Paul Jacobi for sharing his awesome photos… and for being tall…)

THE RDL'S BEST FROM TWO DECADES AGO

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and once again much of it was written when it was already today… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- It's Random Thoughts time, so that means it's Survivor time! Just this past Wednesday, we were talking about reality television and how much some of my teammates hate it. Well, Survivor is barely reality, people. It's sort of a social experiment, edited really well to take out all the boring parts and make the drama even more dramatic than it probably really is. Oh, and the people are barely allowed to eat and they get all paranoid and bit*hy. Awesomeness incarnate. Plus, every week I get to hear my favorite line on any show on television: every time there is a reward challenge where one team will win food or a night away or a shower (yes!!), when the challenge is over, host Jeff Probst says "winning team head off that way toward your prize" and then he turns to the losing team and says "losing team… I got nothin' for ya…" Oooh, burn! Get outta here, losers! You get flippin' nothin'!

-- I write a lot of stuff in the Tons about Robbie Phillips. That's pretty much inevitable since he does some of the best 'stuff' at the dartboard and this is… you know… a dart newsletter. But this Wednesday's match had an excellent display of darts, followed by something much funnier. You see, on my team, when you hit a perfect throw each of your teammates gives you a dollar. Can be a nice tab-coverer if you're rolling for a night. In doubles cricket, Phillips had three full turns in the first leg: a 9m, a 3m, and then an 8m with a double-bull (absolutely considered a perfect throw and good for a dollar). Yep, two perfect throws in three turns. We were still collecting the first round of dollars when he tossed the second. In the next leg, on his second turn, Phillips went up and went triple, triple, 'click' right on top of the triple… which prompted teammate Mark Knight (who was clearly tiring of getting his wallet out) to immediately blurt out "GOOD! Ya little bastard." Yep, that's how my team rolls. Hit a bunch of great stuff and we insult you and yell at you because you're costing us money.

-- A couple summers ago I won some Tim McGraw tickets in the raffle at the Wreck at the Deck. My wife and her friend used them, she became a country music fan that night, and I am now sort of a country music fan (or at least attendee) by default. Oh, and the radios in our cars? Set to 94.7 or 93.9 every time my wife has been in the car. Which means I get to hear a LOT more country songs than I used to hear. Recently, a song called Redneck Crazy came over the airwaves while we were listening. (I will pause here to give the non-country fans time to snort and chuckle at the fact that someone willingly wrote a song called Redneck Crazy… … … … ok, that should be enough time…) Anyway, the singer's woman is now with someone else, and he is going to get drunk and then head over to her place to basically start a fight. Hey, great plan… But that isn't my issue. My issue is that the lyrics of the song include the chorus of "I'm gonna lean my headlights into your bedroom windows, Throw empty beer cans at both of your shadows." Really? You're going to shine lights on the house from the outside and then throw beer cans at the shadows that appear on the windows from the people inside. Well, evidently "redneck crazy" is code for "no understanding of physics". If you don't know what I mean by that, well… try not to break any windows the next time you're the one throwing the cans.

-- Some of you guys definitely make my life as statistician more interesting than others do. Lyman Kiser, captain of the One Armed Bandits? He makes things interesting. After their quarterfinal match, he sent me an email that simply read "Bandits win 14." Attached to that email was a photo of a handmade scoresheet (awesome in its own right!) showing a score of 13-3. Then he called and left me a VoiceMail reporting their score as 15-4. Ummm… Well, regardless of the score, they won. And when we had a funny email exchange the next day, he confessed the following: "Haha, yep. Excited and can't count or read very well. No idea why they have me as captain!"

-- So I go to lunch over at the Tobacco Complex in downtown Durham, and as I'm walking out of the parking deck, I notice the open parking space right next to the walkway leaving the deck. It's a handicapped spot. Logical, right? But it doesn't look right, so I take a closer peek as I'm walking through there. It turns out that it's a "Compact Car - Handicapped" spot! Isn't that sort of counter-intuitive? Aren't handicapped parking spots designed to: a) be closer to the destination, and b) provide extra space for ease of exiting your vehicle if you need assistance (cane, walker, motorized chair, simply help from a loved one)?

-- Here's an interesting little statistical tidbit that was recently pointed out to me… The highest singles win percentage for a woman in our league this season is held by Adrienne deFontes of Sharky's Machine. And the highest singles win percentage for a woman in our league last season was held by… Adrienne deFontes. And two seasons ago? That highest singles win percentage for a woman? That was… Adrienne deFontes.

-- So next week at my work, we're having a ribbon-cutting ceremony at my building at the Durham VA Medical Center. We moved over to the new building in March, but I suppose the plan was to make sure that stuff worked before doing all the official public show stuff. Well, anyway, this is a government building, and it's big, and it's expensive. And that means that any local or state politician who "might" have said something slightly in favor of funding the building, at some point, for some random reason that might or might not have meant they wanted to spend money on the building, now wants to come be part of a media photo opportunity. So on the day that the state senators and the state representatives and all of their support staff all come over to our building for a couple hours to tour, we basically need to: be at work at times when we normally wouldn't be there, wearing clothes far dressier than we normally would wear there, doing things that have nothing to do with what we actually do there (since we can't have anything biological, chemical, radioactive, or hazardous in any way out on the benchtop - you know, like you might find in, oh, say, a lab!). So that photo op with the politicians sure will be an accurate portrayal of the new building.

-- Holy crap, I love my team… I was just sitting here jotting some stuff into this column while sitting down for a few minutes at work, and I hopped into a team email chain. Longtime teammate Wil Tan typed something that I "pretty much" understood, but not longtime teammate Tom Brown. He replied with a message of confusion, asking us to send him a Wil-to-English translation. Ha! When TOM says something is too odd/cryptic… yikes.

That simply isn't enough Random Thoughts… see the next page for more mostly useless ramblings…

MORE(!) RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

No, really… I have more silly pointless stuff to share. Interested? Then read on… and leave yourself wondering why you didn't have something better to do… Sad for you, right?

-- Do you ever feel like a match is just getting out of hand, such that it just about feels "over" before it's actually over? Well, the next time you're about to toss in the hat prematurely, think back to the Spring 2014 Appetite for Destruction team. In the A division semifinals, Appetite was sitting with a grand total of 1 point while their opponents (Wil. Take Shots, a team featuring a few NC State Champions) were sitting with 8 points. Oh, yikes, a 1-to-8 deficit. Things were not looking great. Until… they ran off 13 straight points to win 14-8! Holy crap, that was awesome to watch (they were next to us at Brewster's that night). What a reversal! It was one of those great situations where the spectators (and likely the participants) could just "feel" the momentum turning. Nice.

-- Sometimes you guys do funny stuff as a team… Take Death Throw, for instance. In a 12-week season, Ben Thompson played 8 SCkt games and 8 DCkt games. And exactly zero games of '01 (he was even the only regular on the team to not be part of their lone 1001 game). And then Mike Zimmerman? 11 301s, 11 501s, and exactly 1 of each cricket set. Their win percentages? 0.625 and 0.750, respectively!! Clearly they're good enough to play the other game as well, right? I think Thompson and Zimmerman need to renegotiate their contracts…

-- I've written about this before, but I'm doing it again… because the people to whom I'm talking didn't hear me yet. And here is what I want to tell you: If you are one of those people that always feel the need to back your vehicle into a parking spot, stop it! Probably 90% of you abso-freakin-lutely SUCK at it! You take for-flippin-ever to do it, moving forward and back, realigning over and over, blocking traffic (especially in parking decks!), and making most of us basically hate you. And the punch line? More than half the time you STILL miss the parking space!! You park over the lines, you park on odd angles, and/or you leave your vehicle's front end sticking out too far. And heaven help us if you are driving a vehicle that is just too big for you to handle (this is apparently about half of you, sadly) - that just magnifies the situation in just about every way. And before you bother arguing that I'm just some lone curmudgeon complaining about you, please note that it is becoming more and more common for parking lots and decks to post signs prohibiting backing vehicles into spots, with possible punishments being tickets or towing. So, it's not just me, it's pretty much everyone who is not you. Cut it out, you slow, selfish, sucky parkers. You simply don't gain enough time/comfort/whatever to justify making life so miserable for the rest of us.

-- A quick comment on something that I noted on the front page in the B division write-up. In case you didn't see it there, I want to reiterate it here. The BullsHitters claimed the B division title in both the regular season and the tournament this season. And last season, they did the same thing in C division. And before that, it was D division. And before that, it was E division. And before that, it was F division. Yes, what I am telling you is that they have been the top team in their division in both the regular season and the tournament FIVE seasons in a row. Nobody has finished ahead of them in any standings or bracket in two and a half years! You have to go all the way back to their third place finish (despite a pretty decent 10-4 record) and semifinals loss in F division in the Fall 2011 season. One of the most amazing climbs the RDL has ever (or likely will ever) see. Now… if they can make it six straight next season… THAT would be something. See you soon, Hitters…

-- Just a note to anybody out there who is a male, and who might find himself at a rock concert: If, at any point, you find yourself sitting on your friend's shoulders, get the hell off. Now. That little trick is only acceptable for females. Don't ask me why, don't argue. Just accept it, and put your damn feet back on the ground. Unless, of course, you enjoy having bottles of water thrown at you and having a bunch of mockery loudly hurled in your direction. Which… you would deserve…

-- I heard this ad on the radio that struck me as having one of the dumbest reasons for you to rush right out to shop. The ad was for a local boat seller and their big statement in the ad was "this is the last sale at the fairgrounds before summer!" Oh, really? I will have to either come to your store… or… wait for a couple weeks? It just lacks the push of an end-of-season sale in the fall or something. How gullible do I have to be that I would feel the need to rush right out this weekend?

-- Has anybody else noticed that people on live TV (studio hosts, reality show judges, sports commentators… just about anyone not acting directly from a script) have basically forgotten how to use adverbs? Did they stop teaching those in school? I am so tired of hearing "I want it so bad" and "you did so good" and "wow, you got here so quick." Good lord, those people all talk English so nice they make me want to stab my own ears. I weep a little bit for us…

-- On a related note, what…in…the…hell… is that new number line method of teaching addition/subtraction/multiplication/division? What happened to long addition, etc.? That worked for me and it's actually explainable. This new number line hop thing is ridiculous. I'm soooo glad my kids are just old enough to escape falling under that math teaching system. I'm already amazed at how many news articles I've seen about parents that are PhDs and MDs sending notes back to the school with their kids, saying they can't help them with their homework because the system is silly and nobody can figure it out.

-- Have you seen all the pro athletes suspended for testing positive for banned substances? How about the college guys that went to the NFL scouting combine and failed their drug tests? Are you kidding me? How stupid do you have to be to risk a multi-million dollar career to toke one up? Seriously. I cry for us.

-- Hey, do me a favor… If you have taken a "selfie" today for which you held the camera on an odd angle because that makes it artsy and cool, unless you are a teenager, please go outside and run yourself over with your car. If you are a teenager, do the same, but go out and use your parent's car because you probably don't have the responsibility level to maintain enough of a job to pay for your own vehicle if you think angled selfies are cool. Oh, and if you have taken more than four selfies on any one day ever (I am being WAY generous with the four, by the way) or if you have "posted" more than one selfie in a day, just please leave the banquet and go play in traffic. The speed increase in the natural selection process will be appreciated by the rest of us. [Note: getting a "selfie" with a friend so that you have a photo of you with them is NOT what I'm talking about here. I'm taking about YOU taking a picture of YOU. You simply are not important enough to warrant that, trust me.] [Exception to the previous note: if you take a selfie with a friend, but insist on holding it an odd angle, then still run yourself over with a car.]

22-SEASON LISTING OF REGULAR SEASON & TOURNAMENT WINNERS

Lots of us like to think back to "that one great season when it all came together." Others like to brag about how many times in a row their team came out on top. Probably even more of us like to refute the crap story that the bragging butthead is spouting about how many times his/her team won. Well, things like that are the reason that I run pages like this. Hard to make stuff up when the historical record is sitting right in front of you. So, here is a list of the recent season- and tournament-winning teams, listed by division. See your team anywhere? [Note to those who are curious: the regular season winners in these 22 seasons also won the tournament 55% of the time. Not counting I's 1-season history, in no division are the season winners doing better than 64% in the tournaments.]

The "I Admit I'm Surprised How Quickly The White Hat Hero Of The People Can Become The Black Hat" Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - Appetite for Destruction (13-5)
This is not your father's Appetite… Heck, it's not even the same Appetite as back in the quarterfinals two weeks ago. Former ADO #1 Blake and current ADO 501 champ Naylor were on a roll for them.

"B" Division - Nine Lives (13-5)
In a year that had lots of upsets, the tournaments were won mostly by top seeds… but not here in B! The #6 Niners take down the title, sometimes playing shorthanded but still winning by more each week.

"C" Division - Excalibur (14-8)
I guess maybe the most surprising thing here in C is that Excalibur had to play 501 in both of their matches (they had a quarterfinal bye). Their lone loss in week 7 feels like it was a very long time ago.

"D" Division - The Jeffersons (?-?)
I don't really know if The Jeffersons were crushing people or just squeaking out wins (they don't turn in tournament scores), but they were the lone top-4 seed in D to win even one tournament match!

"E" Division - Darty (14-2)
The best part of the E story was the #7 Neighbor Bangers making the finals with two 1001 wins, but Darty was the real deal here, with only one opponent all season even holding a potential match dart.

"F" Division - One Armed Bandits (?-?)
See what happens when the Bandits decide to start getting the whole gang together? How many times have I picked them before? Don't know, but it's a lot… and this season/tourney double is why.

"G" Division - Release the Quacken (13-5)
This was a second consecutive season title for the Ducks, but this time they went ahead and added a tournament title as well, riding a championship path that didn't involve either the #2 or #3 seed.

"H" Division - Whynot! (?-?)
It was quite the slow start to the season for Whynot! (1-3 in the first month), but 13 consecutive victories later they completed the season/tournament double on their way up to G next season.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Dynastic Element (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Who's Sittin'?

"B" Division - Methodical Madness (9 wins, 5 losses)
2nd place - Smell My Cork

"C" Division - Excalibur (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Overtime Outlaws

"D" Division - Death Throw (10 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - The Jeffersons

"E" Division - Darty (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Dynamic Darts

"F" Division - One Armed Bandits (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - The Sofa Kings

"G" Division - Release the Quacken (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Grateful Darts

"H" Division - Whynot! (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Ballistic Behavior

Rosters of all season- and tournament-winning teams are on page 4.)

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Well, geez, after some seasons with an incredible amount of parity and a corresponding increase in tiebreakers, we had a veritable drought this time around. There were only 29 tiebreakers played (with 7 of those occurring during the divisional tournaments). D and G divisions led the way with 7 tiebreakers each (with D having 1 in the tournament), followed by A (4, with 2 of those in the tournament), and then B, C, and E divisions (each with 3, and each with at least one in both the season and the tournament). H came in with only 2 tiebreakers, and the drama-less F division ended up without even a single one!

This season's Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) are absolutely the Misfits in G division, who came within one of tying the all-time tiebreaker record. They pulled in three tiebreaker wins out of an alarming five matches with the extra leg. Good thing they were good at it, because if they had dropped even two more of those, they would have fallen all the way from third place to sixth.

There really isn't much of a recipient of the Heartbreak Award (for most tiebreakers lost), as no team lost more than two.

Probably the team that most appreciated the tiebreaker though was the Neighbor Bangers. They only played in two 1001s, but both of them were tournament wins on their run to the finals as a #7(!) seed.

SPRING 2015 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

MONDAY, January 5th - Spring season registration, Upper Deck (online registration available in days immediately prior to the 5th)
Wed., Jan. 14th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck
Wednesday, January 21st - Start of Spring season match play
Monday, Feb. 23rd - Fifth week captains' meeting, Upper Deck
Wed., Apr. 29, May 6 / 13 - Spring season divisional tournaments
Saturday, May 16th - Spring season banquet, site TBD

OH, SO SO CLOSE…

It just kind of came out of nowhere in a match that wasn't all that close, but during my team's semifinal match, Tom Brown and Mark Knight came within a wire of an all-time RDL record. Brown led off in 501 with a 140, Knight backed him up with a 140, then Brown hit a 171 to leave 50. Knight's dart at the double-bull hit the wire (scoring a single), leaving them just a fraction of an inch from a league-record 10-dart game. (For the record, Knight did hit single-1 / double-12 to still complete the 12-darter.)

A SEASON FOR THE AGES

If you turn to page 24, the first name you'll see there is that of Robbie Phillips. And the reason you see him there is that he had the best overall record in A division this season. But what you might not immediately note is that his season this fall might be the single greatest in league history! His 41-2 record is the best A division win percentage for a season in the past 19 years (which is the entire length of time for which we have full singles+doubles records for the league). Not only that, it's the second-best record ever in the RDL if you include all divisions (which obviously even includes when a 'top' player drops down to a lower division). That is amazing. And wow did it take two great games to beat him. The 301 game ended on a 103-Out from Steve Holland, and Chad Massengill averaged easily 5+ marks/turn in the one singles cricket loss for Phillips. Might have witnessed a little history here…

ONE OF MY FAVORITE QUOTES EVER

This one is from my teammate (and multi-time National Champion) Robbie Phillips when we were discussing how often people ask him for advice, help, whatever. He is so interested and excited to help people that he'll talk with them at length over just about anything. He did describe to me his limitation though: "I'm always willing to help out people that are trying to improve, provided they aren't of the douche variety. I don't want them getting better. :)"

FALL 2014 PENALTY SUMMARY

Just like last fall, this column might as well just be written directly about H division… Holy crikey... Not only did H have 40% of the teams that were penalized, that division was responsible for 63% of the penalties and an astonishing 70% of the total points lost (as well as losing the one match win that was coughed up due to a win with an ineligible player). And one of the teams came within one penalty type of matching the all-time league record for most different kinds of penalties in a season…

Overall, there were 32 total penalties for a total of 275 lost points (and 1 lost match win). That is a kind of a lot, but certainly not a league record or anything like that. In total, there were 6 fifth week captains' meeting penalties (for 30 total points), 4 election ballot penalties (20 points), 11 phone penalties (55 points), 9 mail penalties (144 points), and 2 ineligible player penalties (23 points and the lost match win).

Fifteen of the 61 teams got a penalty, with A, E and F divisions ringing up exactly ZERO penalties. H led the way with 6 penalized teams. H also had 20 of the 32 total penalties, as well as 193 of the 275 lost points.

And now back to this season's biggest penalty gatherer… the Train Station Shooters. They missed the 5th week meeting, didn't turn in an election ballot, got three phone penalties, got two mail penalties (I eventually got those scoresheets from their opponents), and they used an ineligible player twice. They accounted for 28% of the league's total penalties and 30% of the league's lost points (and the lost win). They also were the only team to cost themselves a spot in the standings. Yikes.

HOLIDAY BREAK BLIND DRAWS

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still). If you have more free time, you might want to try one or more of the several other weekly and monthly draws as well. For a full list, see the bottom half of the right column on page 8.

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

If you're quick, you might be able to pick up a second league this coming season if you are so inclined (and have a couple options!).

Triangle Dart League (TDL - Chapel Hill & Durham)

The Triangle Dart League will be holding its General Interest Meeting (followed by a captains' meeting) for their Spring 2015 season on Thursday, December 18th, beginning at 7:00 p.m. The meetings will actually be held at Bull City Tap House (1647 Cole Mill Road, Durham), likely because much of the TDL season is now played in Durham. There will be a blind draw that night also. For more league info, visit: http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/

Bull City Dart League (BCDL - Durham)

If you happen to be interested in trying out one of the very few handicapped steel-tip leagues anywhere, maybe the BCDL is in your future. Registration continues through the final meeting at Bralie's Sports Bar & Grill (1725 Carpenter Fletcher Rd, Durham) that is being held from 6:00 to 7:00 p.m. this coming Tuesday (December 16th). Teams are 4-8 players with dues of $25/player, and more complete information can be found at: www.thebcdl.org

RECENT BCDL LEAGUE CHAMPS

Should you decide to venture over toward Durham for the next BCDL season (see immediately above), maybe you'll get a shot at the recent league champs, the Pastafarians. Because of the handicap system used for all divisions, there is a leaguewide postseason tournament to determine one overall season champ. Congrats to my teammates: Robbie Phillips (of The Dynastic Element), yours truly (also of The Dynastic Element), Paul Jacob (of Lunatic Fringe), Tom Brown (also of Dynastic Element), and Mike Seward (of Who's Sittin'?). "HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Divisions "B", "D", "E" (except team E1), "G", and "H"(except teams H6 & H8) (8 teams / division):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for teams E1, H6 and H8 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played for Divisions "A", "C", and "F" (except teams A6, F2, F6 and F7) (7 teams / division):

min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams A6, F2, F6 and F7 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 29 Total Games Played

THE THIRTY-SIXTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs (I feel a little bad picking Phillips for a third consecutive season… but he had maybe the best season in RDL history...)

A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Dynastic Element	E Division	John Geraghty	Darty
B Division	Joe Work	Traveling Brown's Billiards	F Division	Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits
C Division	J.J. Tant	Overtime Outlaws	G Division	Bryan Ogden	Grateful Darts
D Division	J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	H Division	Jonathan Lawrence	Chalk it Up

All of RDL -- Robbie Phillips -- The Dynastic Element

"A" Division

Tom Brown	The Dynastic Eleme	Hunting early a.m. = too tired for doubles?
Kyle Gaulthier	Who's Sittin'?	If only he hadn't been out of town so much.
Simon Healy	Who's Sittin'?	Only an Irishman gets better as it gets later.
Chad Massengill	BullsHitters	Played all the top guns. And beat them.
Dan Naylor	Appetite for Destruc	ADO 501 champ was the best addition.
Robbie Phillips	The Dynastic Eleme	See page 4, right column, half way down…
Mike Seward	Who's Sittin'?	Plays his best against the best opposition.
Wil Tan	The Dynastic Eleme	Feels no pressure, every dart is the same.

"B" Division (had LOTS of candidates in this division…)

John Dunleavy	Smell My Cork	Was Mr. Consistency for the B runners-up.
Eugene Foushee	Methodical Madness	Just shone forth on a very balanced team.
Ed Grubb	Smell My Cork	Always on the cusp of just owning B div.
David Hoyt	Rif Raf	So dominant outside of… doubles cricket?
Kris Kilsdonk	Fire for Effect	She just kept pounding people all season.
Keith Ohrberg	Rif Raf	Super solid for the first three match sets.
Robert Ray	Traveling Brown's B	Ended up as the clear B division hammer.
Joe Work	Traveling Brown's B	He's a regular on these lists nowadays.

"C" Division

Dave Buckman	Excalibur	Nothing fancy, just strong team support.
Josh Hall	Excalibur	With fewer SCkt losses, might be C MVP.
Mikey Hindle	Excalibur	Rates high on two things: music, winning.
David Huffman	To B or not to B…	Just biding his time on eventual trip to A.
Ronnie Knott	Fortnight Hooligans	Was an '01 machine with ok cricket stats.
Dave Tanner	To B or not to B…	301 starts slowly, but ramps up from there.
J.J. Tant	Overtime Outlaws	What a monster season for the top Outlaw.
Steve Witz	Excalibur	Man, it's good to see Steve back full time.

"D" Division

Randy Baldwin	We Be Tripplin	Had some serious spikes of brilliance.
Tom Flood	What the Fog	His A experience likely wins him games.
Mike Holly	The Jeffersons	Just didn't quite roll doubles like in singles.
Andy Krestalude	The Jeffersons	10+ wins in every set? Yes, please.
Alex Mathews	Death Throw	For a pretty new player, he wins a bunch.
Jim Peele	Shark Shooters	You'll be seeing this guy's name for years.
Brady Price	Menace 2 Sobriety	Could be a team's top gun on another team.
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	Is being the league's most Menacing good?

"E" Division

Jimmy Dzengeles	Dynamic Darts	Another very solid, if uneventful, season.
John Geraghty	Darty	Was the dominator for the dominant team.
Nate Groce	Darty	How awesome that a team's #2 is this good.
Dave Krasnow	Brown Chicken Bro	Really, he has beaten almost all below A.
Tom Kubel	Neighbor Bangers	Q rolled in singles, managed ok in doubles.
Patrick Merkle	Village Idiots	The new guy has to sit out the first set?
Jason Thomas	T.A.P.E.	Ok, time to start listing the Prez in 301…
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Still a part-timer than wins a whole bunch.

"F" Division (this one was a tough set to pick too…)

Brad Adams	Double In Taco Out	So good we might actually make his award.
Tony Alcon	The Sofa Kings	31-2 in the first three sets?! Flippin' wow.
Kevin Casey	Shootin Da Bull	70% or better in every set is pretty hot.
Jim Dunham	Qu-Easy Darts	I guess we forgive rough doubles at times.
Phil Murphy	One Armed Bandits	Such a steady winner for so many years.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Mr. Singles just needs an attendance bump.
Andrew Strickland	Shootin Da Bull	Was a machine… why does he sit in 501?
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	If Phillips hadn't made history...RDL MVP.

"G" Division

Tim Ellis	Release the Quacker	10-0 in 501?! Who doesn't need a closer?
Steve Hall	Measure From The T	Ok, two in one here… how do Hall and
Craig Millikan	Measure From The T	Millikan own singles and nap in doubles?
Bryan Ogden	Grateful Darts	What a machine this Grateful has become…
Joe Rigert, Jr.	Wayne Gretzky	Better overall record than dad? Uh-oh…
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	…if only his DCkt could match his son's.
Dan Therrien	Release the Quacker	Was clearly Mr. Cricket, and just ok in '01.
Tom Wiegand	Misfits	The King of The Island of Misfit(s) Toys.

"H" Division

Andy Bowen	Whynot!	Just took them a few weeks to start rolling.
Frank Fleming	What's the Point?	Kept the team in contention for months.
Jeff Gillespie	Chalk it Up	Just so strong in each of the first 3 sets.
Simon Hayward	Ballistic Behavior	Solid cricket, passable '01 for 2nd-placers.
Evan Howey	Whynot!	Awesome #2 for season/tourney champs.
Jonathan Lawrenc	Chalk it Up	If he makes every match, they win the div.
Mike Prusisz	Tips & Shafts	Starts huge in 301, stays strong in the rest.
Parker Stark	Whynot!	I guess they didn't need him much in 501?

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Oh, man, down to just 1 person in the true Quadruple Double club this season (a season with only 5 divisions with a full 8 teams): Andy Krestalude of The Jeffersons in D division stands alone! We do have three honorable mentions though, for throwers who were only one win in one set away from joining the list: Robbie Phillips of The Dynastic Element in A (in only a 12-week season!), Joe Work of Traveling Brown's Billiards in B, & J.J. White of Menace 2 Sobriety in D.

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: Ok, we had teams play shorthanded a bit, but not at alarming rates. So, it's not the game number that is newsworthy… it's that this season's Iron Woman is claiming a 3rd title in the last 4 seasons! Denise Borgna (formerly Vithorkus) of Tips & Shafts in H rang up 68 games (her lowest of her 3 title seasons by a game) to lead the way for us all. After her, the honorable mentions for the other division leaders: Billy Hamilton (Lunatic Fringe) in A with 50; Eduardo Jimenez (Traveling Brown's Billiards) in B with 59; Josh Hall in C with 50; Gregg McCurry (Leftovers, duh...) in D with 62; Dave Krasnow (Brown Chicken Brown Cows) in E with 58; Julie Scheppele (No Boys Allowed) and Brad Adams (Double In Taco Out) in F with only 48 - that's just showing up for all 48 of the regular sets(!); and John Suan (Missing Flights) in G with 65.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Only five teams were even considered for inclusion in this category, but Missing Flights and Tips & Shafts had patterns of attendance that were just too sporadic to make the list. That leaves us with two honorable mentions: Armed and Hammered in E division, who basically split their 6th between two people, and The Jeffersons in D division, who carried a 7th on the roster to cover absences. But our hands down winner is C division's Fortnight Hooligans, who only played 6 players throughout the entire season, with only 1 of them missing a match and even he only missed that one.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I actually did pretty well in a handful of divisions, nailing A exactly and coming within a couple slots of H and B (other than not knowing that the Freaks were going to have huge attendance issues all seasons). Where did I fail? My top G picks were absolute flops… I didn't see Darty as the powerhouse they were… my top D picks (in a mess of a division) slid down… and Excalibur climbed a couple spots higher than I expected.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I had a pretty respectable record, especially when you consider what horrible back-and-forth messes each of B, D and H divisions became. Shockingly (not!) my worst record came with the Leftovers, who seem to decide how many players to bring to a match by rolling a die. I didn't end up below 50% in any division, but I was certainly dancing close to that line with D division for most of the season. Not so coincidentally, that happens to be the division where the Leftovers play… as well as Tripplin… and Fog… and… ugh.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… But these were not my usual tournament successes! We jumped to best-of-three (well, evidently not for part of the H tournament) and I didn't ramp up the success like in past years. I was a pretty weak 19-10 in the quarterfinals, did a touch better at 10-6 in the semifinals, and then kept the same rate in the finals when I hit 5 Mug winners. That's a final record of 34-19, which is alright I suppose, but really not awesome. Understandable I suppose though, since one wrong pick early can cost multiple picks later, and because some teams changed a bunch come tournament time.

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the three 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the six 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [It was an absolute struggle picking D and H division matches… never knowing which players would attend, in addition to those divisions just being nuts in general. At least only one team (the random-attendance Leftovers) ended up below 6-8 for me...]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 8 question: If you were to throw one dart at the board, and you were to assume that all targets on the board were of equal likelihood to be hit (and assuming that the dart will not miss the board), what is/are the most likely value/s for that dart to score?

Week 9 question: It seems that the math-based questions get the most participation, so let's go with a follow-up to last week's question… If you were to throw a full turn of three darts at the board, and you were to assume that all targets on the board were of equal likelihood to be hit (and assuming that all three darts will not miss the board), what is/are the most likely value/s for that turn of darts to score?

Week 10 question: In honor of the very tight nature of some of our divisions this seasons (such as D and B!)… what is the greatest number of teams in a division that has finished within one match of 0.500 (7-5 to 5-7 in a 7-team division, or 8-6 to 6-8 in an 8-team division? (As with most questions like this, I can really only base the answer on my time as statistician, as the info available from before that isn't all that complete. So, questions like this are generally based on the assumption of "1996-present".)

Week 11 question: Last week there was a great 14-dart doubles cricket thrown in A division, which is the new fast game leaguewide for the season. How many times since the start of 2007 (when we began separating the fast games by division) has the fastest singles cricket or doubles cricket in the league not come from A division?

Week 12 question: The Misfits in G division just played their fourth 1001 tiebreaker of the season (that's more than 36% of their matches!). In the 37 seasons that I've been statistician (since the start of 1996), what is the greatest number of tiebreakers that one team has played in a single season?

Week 13 question: How many people do you think are paid members of the RDL this season? And is that number above or below the seasonal average over the last decade?

Week 14 question: How many times since the start of 2007 (when we began separating games/in/outs by div.) has the "High In" in A division been the lowest in any division?

Week 8 answer: There are actually three equally likely values for a single dart to score, regardless of whether you define the board as 82 individual scoring beds (of six different sizes) or whether you define it as in infinite number of incredibly tiny places the dart can land within the confines of the board. Those three values are 6, 12, and 18, the only three values that can be achieved by hitting a single, a double, or a triple with your one dart. (Please note that this question does not ask for the average value of all points on the board, but rather asks for the most likely scoring value of a single dart.) [The best answer that was offered up came from Erin Hartmann of The Jeffersons, which she named ' the wrong answer to the trivia question': "It has to be 1 or 5 because that is what I always seem to hit, no matter what I'm aiming at. - Unless, of course, I'm playing Shanghai. Then I can't hit the damn 5 to save my life!"]

Week 9 answer: Given what you know from last week's trivia answer (that 6, 12 and 18 are the most common values for a scoring dart when all spots on the board are equally likely to be hit), it is clear that the most common three-dart turns will include three darts of those values. Of the 27 possible turns that include those 3 scoring values on each dart, the most prevalent is a total turn of 36 (with that value being the result on 7 of those 27 turns).

Week 10 answer: Ten times over the years, we've had 5 teams in a division finish within one match of 0.500 - including five times in divisions with only 7 teams(!). But the record stands at a crazy 6 teams (out of an 8-team division), and it has happened twice! In the Spring 2004 B division, Here for the Beer put up a 13-1 record to outrun two 8-6s, a 7-7, and three 6-8s. And then in the now-historic Fall 2013 B division, Despicable Us and their 11-3 record pulled away from the same array of two 8-6s, a 7-7, and three 6-8s. Just crazy how even those divisions were.

Week 11 answer: Ok, we've separated the fast games by division for 13 seasons so far, meaning there have been 26 SCkt & DCkt categories in each division in that time. And in a surprising 12(!) of those 26 cricket season records, the fast game came from a division lower than A - 7 in a lower division alone, and 5 in a tie between A and a lower division. In Sp07, Timmy King of The Replacements in B had a 14-dart SCkt (tied the A number); in Sp09, Eugene Foushee and Keith Shearin of Excalibur in C had a 16-dart DCkt; in Fa09, Steve Holland and Ron Ridenour of Pheasant Pluckers in B had a 15-dart DCkt; in Sp10, Jay Kron and Vicente Martinez of Hammered Heads in D had a 17-dart DCkt; in Fa10, Randy Umstead of The Locals in B had a 13-dart SCkt; in Fa10, Tommy Gelhar and Darren Schmaus of Jack Nine in B had a 15-dart DCkt; in Sp11, Jimmy Kerr of OT Outlaws in B had a 13-dart SCkt; in Sp12, Van Smith and Nate Wade of Coral Reefers in C had a 16-dart DCkt (tied the A number); in Fa12, Keith Gibbs of 1 to Potato in C had a 16-dart SCkt (tied the A number); in Fa12, Joshua Janssen an Tony Thomas of Leftovers in D had a 16-dart DCkt; in Fa13, Jason Thomas of Ted's H&S Emporium in D had a 14-dart SCkt (tied the A number); and in Fa13, John Carroll and Scott Stephenson of Methodical Madness in D had a 16-dart DCkt (tied the A number). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Both Mark Sellers (of Excalibur in C) and Randy Baldwin (of We Be Tripplin in D) tied the three 17-darters tossed in SCkt in A division this season.]

Week 12 answer: I asked this question once before, near the end of the Spring 2010 season, and at the time seven teams during my tenure had managed to work their way into 5 tiebreakers in a single season (including the tournaments). Since that season, four more teams have encountered seasons with 5 legs of 1001. However, that 5 is no longer the answer… In the Spring 2012 season, Constantly Corked of B division played in an astonishing SIX tiebreakers. The Corkers put up a 3-3 record that season, but that last loss was a painful one, coming in the tournament semifinal. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: G division's Misfits ended with the same 5 tiebreakers this season that they had when I asked the question back in week 12.]

Week 13 answer: There were 533 paid members this season (including the one player who was replaced on his team's roster with a new player). That's above the average of 508 members from the last decade, but is below the average from just the last 7 years. And it's actually the lowest number in the last 10 seasons.

Week 14 answer: In the 16 seasons that have been played since we separated games/ins/outs by division, this season is only the 2nd one in which the A division "High In" has been the lowest (well, tied for lowest) in any division. During most seasons, the A division High In is 160, with a couple of 170s along the way. This season, however, nobody in A managed an In of more than 130, which tied A with H for the lowest High In. The previous occurrence of this was during the Spring 2012 season, when the giant-ass logjam of Ton-20-Ins (that infernal plaque-creating page-3-space-eating hurdle that I always hope we cross) spread across several divisions. That season, there were 7 Ton-20-Ins in A divisions (with one player doing it twice), which tied A division with all of B, E, F and G divisions for the lowest High In. I had to morph the trophy darts box a bit by the end of that season…

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "Robert's got a quick hand, He'll look around the room, he won't tell you his plan"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "Follow me into the desert, As thirsty as you are, Crack a smile and cut your mouth, And drown in alcohol"

Week 2, song #3: "So he creeps into this house, yeah, And unlocks the door, And while a man reaching for his trousers, Shoots him full of .38 holes"

[Like the last couple seasons, this time we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 eighteen-song set that brought fewer guesses than I expected… maybe people just misremember those, and these don't match what has been in their heads for years.*

Week 2 theme: Guns, shooting somebody, etc. No real reason I picked that for a theme other than I wanted to put Burden In My Hand in a list. Week 3 theme: Songs with a title that has very little to do with the content of the song. :o) That's right… Clint Eastwood is named that because the bass line is vaguely reminiscent of the theme from The Good, The Bad, and The Ugly… which is about as direct of a link as any of Ironic's verses have with actual irony. Nice one, Alanis… At least you supplied my favorite theme so far… Week 4 theme: Motorways, of course. Week 5 theme: Short skirt, long jacket, hat, and boots? She's goin' out. And she's going to have fun. But she'll leave the hat on… Week 6 theme: Well, if you were at the captains' meeting, I'm pretty much guessing you can figure this one out… Some yelling, some shouting, some rebelling, and in the end… I hope you all decide to listen to what the man said... Week 7 theme: Singers who married supermodels! Week 8 theme: Looking back at your past, reminiscing, etc. Kind of a tribute to me getting old enough to have written six hundred issues of the Tons. Week 9 theme: Songs that say the name of television networks. MTV, Discovery Channel, and ABC. Week 10 theme: Well, it was sort of a salute to the World Beer Fest that I had just attended, but I would take any of the obvious related thoughts. Week 11 theme: Those are the last three bands/singers to win the American Music Awards Best New Artist award. This was right when the AMA nominees were announced, and this year's nominees for Best New Artists (at the "American" Music Awards) include exactly zero Americans. Week 12 theme: Government unrest, street riots, general unhappiness with the leadership… sort of a commentary on the status in several locations globally, and also on how tired everyone here is of the awful election push that crams two bad options down your throats. Week 13 theme: Pretty obviously it's city names in the band names. Week 14 theme: One-hit wonders of the '80s, with the songs listed in order by band/singer name, alphabetically.

SOME '01 OUT ADVICE FROM MULTI-TIME STATE CHAMPION WIL TAN

I've watched people with more dart talent than me throw at pretty stupid (or at least very poorly planned) targets in '01 for years. And throughout much of that, I've stood next to my longtime teammate Wil Tan and lamented it. (Ok, in Wil's case, far fewer of the guys we've watched were more talented than him, but that's beside the point.) Evidently, Wil has tired a bit of seeing it all and he decided one day to send me a strategy advice item for '01. I've included it here for the perusal/use/enlightenment by/of the RDL general membership. Many thanks to Wil for taking the time…

I've often heard in conversations about the strategies involved in '01 games from many people. The current and most prevalent being "hit as much as you can and get more shots at the double than your opponents." That is completely valid and true, but the thing I've noticed is the difference in how it's done. On my team, always named some form of Element, there is an emphasis of giving yourself a possible 3-dart out or leaving yourself a 2-dart out when shooting a three dart string. People have even argued against the merits of giving yourself a possible shot because they are more comfortable shooting the shot that does not leave them an out if they miss. My argument as well as my team's argument is that if you don't have a shot at the out, you will never take the out.

So let's begin with three-dart outs. In a long game of 501 or the shorter game of 301, it is important to leave yourself a number that has a possible, even if extremely hard to hit, chance of a three-dart out. There are charts you can use that will help in this manner so I will not go into an in-depth discussion about this. I've seen many people shoot for the all-star point of getting a ton rather than leave themselves a valid 3-dart out. Leaving a 169, 168, 166, 165, 163, or 162, rather than leaving themselves 170, 167, 164, or 161. The previous numbers leave no possibility of ever taking a 3-dart out while the last four do. Ok, so they are hard to hit, but they are possible and give you the chance to win, however slim it might be. A million throws at the six high numbers with no outs will result in ZERO outs. That's what my team likes to see in our opponents. A million throws of the latter four numbers will eventually lead to one or many outs, depending on how good your mechanics are; but at least there is a chance that it can be done. Look at how many 160+ outs have been hit in the league over the years. They all consist of only those 4 numbers. Ever notice the first 6 have never been hit?

Now, on to the low 100s 3-dart outs. Most of these consist of leaves from 135 down to 120. A lot of people prefer their favorite number rather than the smart shot. What I mean by this is shooting your first dart at a number that subsequently requires a triple to leave a 2-dart out. The philosophy here is the same as the 3-dart out but with only 2 darts left in your hand if the first dart does not hit that triple about which you were so confident. Leaving yourself 110, 107, 104 or 101 after your first dart still allows you to finish the game with your remaining 2 darts. The only number below 100 that does not allow for a 2-dart finish is 99. Once again you can consult out charts to figure out the possible combinations. The point is, without a 2-dart out, you will never be able to finish the game. When I see an opponent shoot for a triple-20 with 129 left I rejoice unless they happen to hit that triple-20 because they have the ability to still beat me. I worry when my opponent shoots a number that leaves one of the four I mentioned above, because they can still win. I have been the victim and the beneficiary of such winning combinations over the years but have been more the overwhelming beneficiary against those who don't leave themselves a proper out.

One last thing: Don't be afraid of a double-bull out. IT IS AN OUT and can be hit with one dart. If you can leave yourself a double-bull with your last dart by only having to hit singles to get there, then do so. An OUT is an OUT. Good luck and happy winning.

IT WAS NEARLY OUR VERY OWN "YEAR WITHOUT A ~~SANTA CLAUS~~ LEAGUE TREASURER/PRESIDENT-TO-BE"!

This past October, RDL Treasurer (and President-to-be for 2015) Tim "Tex" Mozzetti took part in a fund-raising hike to raise funds for Veteran non-profit groups. What follows is Tim's account of Day 1. Keep that in mind as you read on… this is just day 1… holy cow.

Kilts [yes, me, your humble statistician] had joked that I pay bills up front or leave the checkbook with someone when I went on my 120+ mile hike from Death Valley to Mount Whitney in California...in case I die. Well, I'm back! I made it. And death actually was a very real possibility on day 1. I thought of you guys several times as I was climbing that mountain range alone on day 1.

The brief summary: I got separated from the group of eight hikers for about 9 hours, and hiked at least 8 miles, with about 4,300' of elevation gain toward Telescope Peak, CA), and 1,700' of elevation loss (to Mahogany Flat Campground) in that time, alone. The entire day was 18+ miles, and 7,600' of elevation gain from about 2,200' up to 9,800', then down the other side to 4,200' elevation at Wildrose Campground. We started around 7am and I got to safety at the camp by 9:30pm. (I was at MFCG by 9pm.)

And now the more detailed narrative: From Hanapauh Canyon at about 2,200' elevation we started hiking around 7:30am. I had issues with gathering and stowing gear so Jay and I departed about 15 minutes behind the others. It wasn't long before we caught up with Emily and Lee, but the others I briefly saw in the distance and then they were gone. The team split into two groups of four hikers early on since the lead team was all former military and rolling along. Jay, who had a walkie-talkie to communicate with the lead group, stayed back with us slower "climbers". I say climbers because the terrain was more difficult than any imagined. We trained for hiking... not climbing, bouldering, or scaling steep mountain sides with loose rock, sheer drop offs, and no trails.

Anywho, the other group pressed on and we soon lost sight of them. Lee was the next most experienced hiker (having previously summited Mt. Whitney 22 times) so he got about 20-30 minutes ahead of us (the last three). At around 5,000' of elevation, Emily had a bout with dehydration and elevation sickness. Jay and I took breaks with her trying to get her to eat and drink. After radioing to the first group her condition, it was decided to med-evac her out of there via helicopter. Around 12:30pm we got to about 5,600' and Jay started to radio for help. He told me to catch up to Lee while he waited with Emily for the air lift. I said "OK!" and pressed on. My legs were shot from all the climbing already but I pushed through it (thinking I was crazy for doing this). Lee was nowhere in sight. By now he had to be at least 40 minutes ahead of me. I had an idea of where I had to go (up) but without a trail I was forced to become a tracker. I was constantly searching for footprints, broken twigs and limbs, and disturbed ground. I saw big mountain lion tracks several times and knew danger was not far off since I was alone.

About 2 hours after Jay made the call I heard the helicopter coming. I got some photos of the helicopter from a distant ridge (about 6,400') and noticed that both Jay and Emily got picked up. Now I really was the last man, and alone. So I kept pressing on. At one point I came to the base of a tree that had claw marks in it and the ground looked like two big cats had been scuffling. That's when I really started praying. "God, you helped Daniel in the lion's den, please keep me safe and help me." Somehow, I knew He would. Then things got scary. The elevation shot up, the ground turned into loose rock, there were no footprints or tracks from the people ahead, and a wrong move could send me sliding off the mountain thousands of feet.

I kept praying as I thought "I am alone, I have no communication, no one knows where I am, my legs are like lead weights, I am lost." I thought of my family, friends, work, that damn RDL checkbook -hah!, and wished I had left letters of what to do and where everything was in case I died. I started shouting "Can anyone hear me!?" "I'm lost!" "Helloooo!!!" "Help!". …No response. So, up I slowly and cautiously struggled for the next few hours, knowing that the top was the only way out to survival.

Eventually, with rock sliding beneath my feet, while digging my hiking poles in to pull me forward, the sun started sinking behind the ridge. In the cold dark of a steep mountain side, with mountain lions, is not where I wanted to be. I started shouting again hoping for a response. Finally! I heard a whistle from far up the mountain. Fortunately it was in the direction I was headed. I shouted again and Lee shouted back. We couldn't make out what each other was saying, but just knowing where he was and having him know where I was, helped immensely! I regained hope and some strength to push through. Up the steep mountain toward the ridge I pressed on.

I finally came to the trail crest at about 9,800' as night was falling. Seeing that trail I became fully re-energized knowing it was all a downhill path from here. Lee was nowhere in sight, so I assumed he pressed on due to night falling. Following the trail wasn't the original plan. It was a longer but much easier emergency route that I had marked on the google map while helping to plan the trip. This was an emergency to me. It was getting dark and heck if I'm getting on another uncharted mountain side today! So I picked up the pace and was hiking as fast as I could down the trail. About 30 minutes later it was dark and as I rounded a mountain side the cold wind picked up. It felt like 20-30 degrees compared to the 95+ degrees at midday. I ducked back behind cover and layered on every piece of clothing I had in my pack. Now I had to worry about hypothermia!? This day was crazy! I ate a power bar to keep my energy up, drank some water, and kept on trucking. The path wound down the mountains and became narrow with a steep cliff up on my left and a steep drop off to my right. My head lamp only lit so far, but I could hear the rocks dislodged by my feet tumbling down the mountain side. After almost slipping off the trail once, I slowed my pace to a more cautious walk, pause, hold wall, step, walk, repeat.

I got to the Mahogany flat campground trail head at 9pm. I signed the trail book, took a photo of it and walked toward the campground hoping to find someone. My team was staying at Wildrose campground about 9 miles further away, but I needed a break. As I approached MFCG, I heard voices and saw a fire. Two awesome guys welcomed me to sit down, warm up, gave me water and a Gatorade as I told them the day's events. After about 15-20 minutes they offered to drive me down to the other campground and I happily accepted. About 3 miles down the 9-mile dirt road we saw a hiker waving his arms. Pulling over and opening my window I said "Lee!?" He had a puzzled expression followed by pure joy and he said "Tim!?" Jumping out of the truck we hugged it out, happy to see each other alive. He got in the truck and we gave him water as he was dehydrated. Then we drove 6 more miles to our camp.

When we got there, no one was at the camp! We drove around for a bit looking at other campsites but couldn't find anyone. Not knowing what to do, we decided to stick to the plan and hunker down at the campground hoping the rest of the team would eventually show up. We were in the process of setting up a two-man tent that our new friends were going to let us borrow when about ten minutes later a truck came driving down the mountain. As it passed, I yelled "hey guys!", the truck quickly stopped and I heard team leader David's voice "Tim!?" I said "Yeah, we are here!" Our support truck sped into the campground, they jumped out, and then hugged me and Lee with excitement and relief.

It turns out the rest of the team had their troubles too. Trying to stick to the original route, they got lost coming over Bennett Peak and were dehydrated due to being out of water for at least 6 hours. Fortunately, the support truck (with Jay and Emily fully recovered) found them and they immediately called in a 911 search & rescue for Lee and myself, not knowing where or how we were. Needless to say, they were exuberant to see us alive and well, though worn out. The search and rescue was canceled and we started setting up camp. After eating and rehydrating, I thanked God for getting us all through it alive. I slept well that night knowing we were all safe. ... End of day 1…

After that, David changed the daily routes to be less dangerous and more geared toward us reaching our goal, Mount Whitney.

MORE STATEWIDE SUCCESS BY RDL MEMBERS!

Ok, sure… the RDL is the biggest league in the state and thus is likely to have the most success on a statewide level. But the fact is that the RDL gets way more than its share on a per-player comparison to just about any other league (except maybe the small Wilmington league that wins a lot of stuff too). Anyway, this past weekend, RDL darters added a whole bunch more glory and success to the pile!

North Carolina City Dart League

For the 9th time in the past 15 years, the Durham City League team took down the state title this past weekend! (Full results are on pages 19 and 20.) And due to the fact that the Triangle area leagues and teams are so heavily cross-populated, the Durham team is made up almost entirely of guys that play in the RDL! After finishing the regular season undefeated, Durham rolled through three tournament matches by scores of 21-1 over Jacksonville, 20-8 over Lake Norman, and 20-12 over Wilmington. Congratulations to (pictured from left to right): Kenny Persson (of Who's Sittin'?), Todd Lemons, Paul Jacobi (of Lunatic Fringe), Jason Kilts (of The Dynastic Element), Chad Massengill (of BullsHitters), Robbie Phillips (of The Dynastic Element), Keith Wall (of The Dynastic Element), Wil Tan (of The Dynastic Element), Tom Brown (of The Dynastic Element), Mike Seward (of Who's Sittin'?), Stevie Phillips, Alberto Sandoval (of The Dynastic Element), and Allen Smith (of The Dynastic Element). Not playing this past weekend (and thus not pictured) were: Mark Knight (of The Dynastic Element), Kyle Gaulthier (of Who's Sittin'?), Robb Beeson (of The Dynastic Element), and Jeremy Dziczkowski.

North Carolina Ladies' Cup

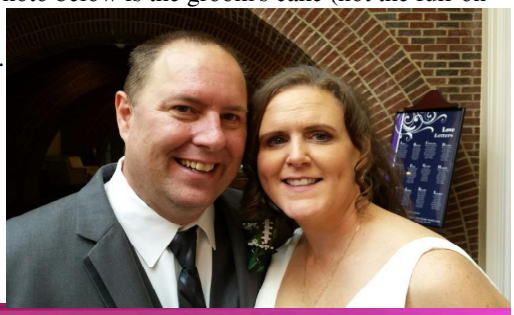
But it wasn't just in the City League that the RDL had members bring home the state title! The Hickory ladies' team, featuring three RDL ladies, rolled through defending champion Fuquay-Varina (13-7) and Pineville (14-6) before needing a doubles cricket sweep (the last set in their format) to dig out of a huge whole against Asheville in their 13-11 finals win! Congratulations to: (back row, left to right) Nicolle Deyton (of No Boys Allowed), Brenda Whitley (of BullsHitters - yep, their team won BOTH Cups this weekend!), Lora Josey, Nora Amorello, Jenn Bowser, Tiffany Stone, and (front row, left to right) Donna Ferber, Julie Scheppele (of No Boys Allowed), and Sherry Gronek.

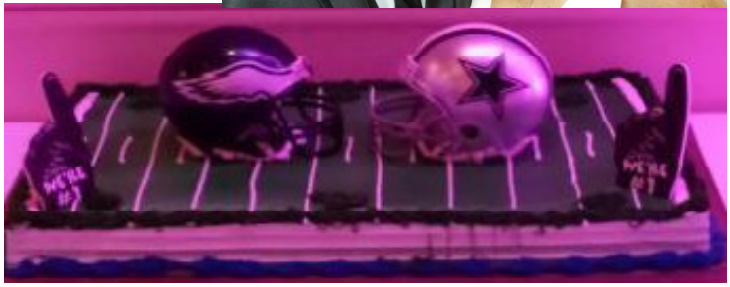
MORE DARTER WEDDING BLESS! I love these…

Oh yay, oh yay! We recently had even MORE darter weddings! Maybe it's just because I'm so happily married, but I just flippin' love weddings. And we have two more made up entirely of darter couples to share with you.

First up, we have David and Kristen (Immen) Bradford, both of Qu-Easy Darts in F division. They met playing pool at Snookers just over 4 years ago, and when Kristen returned from her 3-year darting hiatus this season, she talked David into playing also… and now he's hooked too! Most excellent. They wed on October 26th, and no word on who is the better darter (or pool player!) yet, though I have my guesses. [And a quick thanks to Brian and Kessie Photography of Chareston, SC, for letting us grab a couple photos here before the full package was ready for the happy couple.]

Next up, are Billy and Dawn (Bocchinfuso) Hamilton! Billy is a weekly warrior for Lunatic Fringe (and a past A singles champ!), while Dawn (while not currently an RDL member) is the Director of the North Carolina Ladies' Cup statewide league and a longtime hammer for the Jacksonville ladies' team (oh, and, by the way… she also won an NC state women's singles 501 title in 2005! Bam!). Anyway, my favorite part of their November 8th ceremony? The fact that I was there for this one! It was awesome. So much fun. Did I mention that I love weddings? Although I have to say… I'm thinking they sure must love each other a lot to put up with each other… the bottom photo below is the groom's cake (not the full-on wedding cake, but the other extra cake). You see that, right? Yep, a Cowboys fan and an Eagles fan. Diehards. Their household could be a little bit tense tomorrow night…





RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and once again much of it was written when it was already today… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- You know what's first... it's Survivor time! This season is a second awesome season that brings in pairs of loved ones, but that isn't what hit me. What hit me is that dumba John Rocker, the pitcher for the Atlanta Braves (and Indians and Rangers and Rays) from the 1980s, who is most famous for making a bunch of horribly racist comments in his interviews, was surprised when the others recognized him and reacted to his ignorance accordingly. I was thinking maybe he would show us a sensitive and understanding side that he gained as he aged, but his responses to the others made it clear that nothing has changed. He's still a ridiculous tool. I shouldn't be surprised. Actually… I wasn't surprised. And then I wasn't surprised again when one of my co-workers shared a funny story with me. His brother had somehow ended up with tickets to one of the dinners in Cooperstown during Hall of Fame induction week, and Rocker was at one of the dinners. And at that dinner, Rocker's "people" were selling raffle tickets for something like twenty bucks, with the prize being that you get to go out to the bar after the dinner with Rocker. No, seriously, that's the prize. And my-coworker's brother's boss bought them each a ticket to be funny… and his brother won! My co-worker and I have no real facts on the specifics, but we're both guessing that you also had to buy Rocker's drinks… it just fits. Oh, and while they were out, they called my co-worker from his brother's phone, and it was Rocker on the other end of the call… All he said was "Larry, this is John Rocker, and the Yankees and Mets still suck!" Wonderful.

-- Do you watch much NFL football? If so, do you ever listen to the on-field microphones that pick up the quarterbacks' play calls? I'm sure it's probably some sort of indication of flipping the play to the opposite side (simply from the number in use and a basic knowledge of geometry), but it sure sounds like about half the quarterbacks in the league are big darters. A decent percentage of the time they turn each way and yell "One-eighty!! One-eighty!! Hut, hut! One-eighty!!" before they have the ball snapped.

-- Not that long ago, Robbie Phillips (of The Dynastic Element) and Kyle Gaulthier (of Who's Sittin'?), who are arguably two of the very best throwers in the state on pretty much any day, drew each other as partners at the Upper Deck blind draw. Which, as you can likely imagine, inspired a number of groans and comments like "oh, of course." Which is a really really really accurate comment if you think about it… well, as long as by "of course" you mean something like "well, they've both been in the blind a few dozen times together and so, of course, they should draw each other as partners every so often." Because, sure, that's what everybody meant… Somehow I'm guessing those same complainers don't have quite the same tone when they themselves draw Phillips or Gaulthier as a partner.

-- Ok, please tell me you're not one of the people that sits around and watches Lizard Lick Towing. Yes, I know Ron Shirley was an RDL member for a little while, but that just isn't reason enough. But if you really must watch, at least confirm for me that you aren't gullible enough to think that the "action" sequences are actually being shot live when they're out on calls. Do you really think that when they're driving next to somebody who is angry and shooting at them that the show characters duck and dive but the camera man just remains sitting up or standing up filming? Seriously?

-- Did you ever see the movie Winter's Tale? It came out in the last year or so, and it has some stars in it, and they make it look pretty decent in the trailer. Well… it's not. It's really quite awful. But it did contain one line that made me chuckle, uttered by Colin Farrell's character when describing his weird amnesiac condition: "I've had no memory for as long as I can remember." Just think about that one for a minute. Can that even be true?

-- I've decided that I know what it is that makes somebody a true star in a competitive setting like darts. It's how well you handle the outcome. That seems simple and obvious, but it's really not. There are people who are good winners and there are people who are bad winners (and I think those that gloat and mock without even realizing they're doing it are slightly better than those that are just dicks on purpose, but not by a whole lot). And there are people who are good losers and there are people who are bad losers. I would say that most of us fall somewhere off-center on maybe one of those scales (seems like it's more common to be a bad loser), but there are a select few that are both really really bad winners AND really really bad losers. And that group, regardless of talent level, is pretty much reviled by most others (and, I think, mostly rightfully so :o). And there is a group on the opposite end that are both good winners and good losers. And it's when you add a really high talent level to someone in that group that you find the true star. Rare indeed, but when you encounter him or her, you are so ok with them beating the living snot out of you that you almost find yourself rooting for them just to see how well they can play against you. You want to hate them just a little bit because they are so much better than you, but you just can't. Pretty awesome to be in that group… or at least it appears to be to those of us like me on the outside looking in at that one.

-- Ok, I'm about to lose a little bit here in the eyes of some of our league members, but I'm just going to say it: a restaurant is no place for your dog, even if you are sitting at the tables under the outside awning. If your dog is a little tiny piece of what other dog owners might consider a real dog, and you can hold it in your lap or in its little doggy purse or whatever, then I suppose you might be able to pull it off (at the outside tables only). But if your dog is walking around, extending its leash into the walkways, pushing its head up on to the tables (or the crotches of your tablemates), or splashing water all over out of a bowl because the restaurant provides one to appear pet-friendly (and to keep receiving your dollars), then it's simply inappropriate. If people let their kids run around and make messes and push up on others at your table, people complain that it's the wrong setting for that too… and those offenders of your comfort are humans! No, your dog is not going to contribute to me getting cancer (like the secondary smoke that thrust all those changes on our establishments), but it can certainly make others' nights out just as uncomfortable.

-- Here's how you know your team loves you: earlier this season the Neighbor Bangers turned in a scoresheet with this comment in the box on the back: 'Mike Cruze - "1" in 501.' Yep, felt the need to share with the rest of us Cruze's awesome 0.33 points per dart turn. And what do we say to them for that? Awesome, thanks!

That simply isn't enough Random Thoughts… see the next page for more mostly useless ramblings…

MORE(!) RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

No, really… I have more silly pointless stuff to share. Interested? Then read on… and leave yourself wondering why you didn't have something better to do… Sad for you, right?

-- I just realized that I never passed on a game that Kyle Gaulthier (of Who's Sittin'?) threw over in the Bull City Dart League a few months ago. That league is a handicapped league, so in cricket games, the lesser player starts with some number of points that the better player must make up in addition to the regular seven numbers and points that are part of a standard game. And Gaulthier is most decidedly one of the 'better' players. He was playing a singles cricket game in which he had to spot his opponent 220 points… and he completed the game in 18 darts! Yes, he closed all seven numbers and scored 220+ points in just SIX turns. Even if he was able to score the entire point requirement on just the 20s (I'm not sure if he was or not) that means he would have to score 32 marks at the bare minimum (21 marks plus the 11 20s to score)… on just 18 darts. That is sick. That is at least 5.33 marks per turn, including the turn to close the bulls.

-- Did you hear that last week you could get tickets to the St. Louis Rams @ Washington Redskins game this past Sunday for $3 on the secondary market (StubHub, etc.)?!?! Yes, THREE dollars. Now, granted, that only got you a standing-room-only ticket, but you're in the stadium. If you wanted a seat in the upper level, that would actually cost another WHOLE DOLLAR. Yep, four bucks for upper level. Oh, wait, you wanted to sit in the lower level like all the cool people? Well, then you would've needed to look under another couple couch cushions, because those seats were going for the lofty price of eight bucks. Highway robbery, I'm tellin' ya. But what if you really wanted to get close and sit in the front row behind the Redskins' bench? Well, those went for the atronomical (not!) price of eighty dollars. Holy cow, when I was reading about this, I was admittedly quite surprised. Lots of people in lots of cold places with lots of years of bad teams still go to the games like it's a true religion (says a lifelong Detroit Lions fan). But not over in D.C. evidently… That's pretty sad.

-- Yep, I've included this picture before (back in week 6)… but I just flippin' love it. It's Keith Feller of Travelin' Brown's Billiards with his new celebration buddy during a trip to Ecuador, during which he actually hung a dartboard in an outdoor bar just yards from the beach… This photo just looks deadly… You go, Keith.

-- I've complained about the way people drive in the newsletter on several occasions. And I've been particularly colorful about the way people park in my parking deck at the Durham VA Medical Center. It seems like I've painted about as many pictures for you as is possible. But about three weeks ago when I came in to work, somebody had backed in his/her car along the endcap of one of the aisles (our decks is WAY over-sold so they let us park in places like that), and that car had ridden up on to the curb in such a way that the opposite side back wheel was OFF THE GROUND. The weight of the car was keeping it from rocking on the angle, and the back passenger side was just sitting there about 5 or 6 inches off the pavement. Now tell me, if you parked like that, wouldn't you notice? And wouldn't you, ya know, move it?

-- And on a related note, how is it ok that they over-sell our deck to such an extent? We're not talking 510 permits for 490 spots so that the deck is still full when people are on different shifts. We're talking dozens and dozens of employees driving around for what can be long periods of time (especially Tuesday through Thursday mornings) looking for some sidewalk they can use for parking, despite the fact that they pay hundreds of dollars each year to park there. Isn't that a breach of contract of some type? We've had people in our lab just give up and go work at home on a few occasions. That's just not ok.

-- Hey, do me a favor… go to your computer, open your email, and search something like "disable reply all button", and then do whatever it says there. If you don't know why I'm telling you to do that, then it's you to whom I am most certainly talking. Don't ask somebody else what I mean or why… you won't understand, and you'll just be angry and confused. Just disable it. Thanks.

-- Earlier this fall, my wife and I went to Cleveland for a Browns game (she is a lifelong Browns fan), and the entire weekend was just excellent. And the stadium there was just electric, and it had a bunch of jaw-dropping big features as well as a whole slew of smile-provoking small extra touches too. Two of my favorites were the simple-but-very-Browns-oriented seat backs (complete with football-shaped seat number) and the giant banners that entire sections of the crowd choreographed at various times. But my absolute favorite part has to be that each time the other team starts a possession (or comes out of a time-out or commercial break), the sound system plays the creepy theme soundtrack from the Halloween horror movie series with Michael Myers. That is some nerve-tingling stuff when it's seemingly both loud and subtle at the same time. Not sure how they achieve that.

-- And while we're mixing football in with our darts… did you happen to see the Maryland football team get penalized for not shaking hands with the Penn State captains a few weeks ago? They were given an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty (they were trying some silly crap to try to start a rivalry because they just joined the Big Ten). Can you imagine if we gave penalties here in the RDL for not shaking hands? Geez… I have one opponent who simply never stays for even 20 seconds after his team loses and doesn't shake anybody's hands, and who also sometimes doesn't even come to shake hands when his team wins (preferring for you to come over to him where he's sitting to… pay your respects, I guess? Oh, sure that's going to happen…). I'm not sure I could sleep with myself at night if that was my reality.

-- For the first time in a long time, I'm very glad this Tons/season is over… I've had to answer so many more texts/emails/personal conversations in the past 10 days (and even stretching back 2 months) over the same rule issue that I'm just exhausted with it. Haven't felt that way in a long time. I guess I'll just be glad that neither I nor my team are in any way at the heart of the reason that so many people are complaining. At first it was just one division, but I guess word travels quickly and others feel the same way. If you don't know what I'm talking about it, consider yourself lucky.

2014 SINGLES WIN/LOSS AWARD WINNERS

(Eligibility for these awards in the NCCDL requires playing in 60% of your team's singles sets, while also playing in at least two "away" matches.)

(Eligibility for these awards in the NCLC merely requires playing in 50% of your team's singles sets.)

NCCDL "West" Division -- Robbie Phillips - Durham - 14-0 (sets), 28-3 (games)

NCCDL "East" Division -- Steve Chorba - Wilmington - 10-0 (sets), 20-1 (games)

NCLC "West" Division -- Sabrina Merrill - Asheville - 12-1 (sets), 24-6 (games)

NCLC "East" Division -- Kris Kilsdonk - Fuquay-Varina - 10-0 (sets), 20-3 (games)

(this is the second consecutive divisional singles title for Kilsdonk, giving her a 24-1 record over the last 2 years)

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE OCTOBER MEETING

NCCDL and NCLC: The NCCDL will operate with either a 13-team league , using the Central vs. Peripheral style of divisions that we have employed in odd-numbered years for a while now. The 13 teams are the same as this year (as the outside-chance possibility of Fuquay-Varina returning to make 14 did not come to fruition). The Central division will include Piedmont, Chapel Hill, Durham, Raleigh, Cary, and Capital Area. The Mountain/Beach division will include Asheville, Pineville, Charlotte, Lake Norman, Jacksonville, Wilmington, and Port City. Unlike in past years with this alignment, the NCCDL captains (like the NCLC captains) voted to not include any intra-divisional matches. Thus, Central teams will play 7 matches and the Mountain/Beach teams will play 6 matches, with all matches during the regular season being inter-divisional.

== The NCLC will operate with 12 teams (as Cary has added an NCLC team for this coming year) in a similar division format, with the following team groupings (since some leagues have only an NCCDL team OR an NCLC team): Piedmont/Chapel Hill/Apex/Cary/Capital Area/Fuquay-Varina, and Asheville/Hickory/Pineville/ Charlotte/Jacksonville/Wilmington. The NCLC will play only the inter-divisional opponents as well, meaning each team will have 6 matches.

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Cary NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 19 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte
1997: Piedmont over Durham
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
2000: Durham over Charlotte
2001: Durham over Wilmington
2002: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham
2004: Wilmington over Durham
2005: Durham over Wilmington
2006: Durham over Charlotte
2007: Durham over Charlotte
2008: Durham over Charlotte
2009: Wilmington over Charlotte
2010: Wilmington over Durham

The "Only Bad Thing About Finding Great Friends Is The Chance That They Will Someday Have To Move Away" Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Alpaca Element (13-5)

In a match that was very much closer than the score, the Element and Appetite for Destruction swap spots from last season in terms of season and tournament wins, with each taking one of each title.

"B" Division - Traveling Brown's Billiards (?-?)

After a pretty crushing final two weeks of the regular season brought two match losses and the loss of both first and second place, TBB bounces back to win round 3 against Fire in the final.

"C" Division - Death Throw (12+-12)

After many seasons of success and near-success, Death Throw finally hauls in its first set of team Mugs, winning both the semis (over the #1 seed) and the finals (over the #6 seed!) in tiebreakers.

"D" Division - Talk Darty To Me (13-5)

In one of the tournament's most dominant performances, Talk Darty only reaches 501 once (in the semis), and becomes one of only two teams this season that completed a season/tournament double.

"E" Division - Them Handsome Devils (13-11)

The Devils race to a quick 9-3 lead in singles, then pull in one DCkt before waiting until the final 501 to close out the Bandits, becoming the first team to beat the Bandits since the first half of the season.

"F" Division - Pat's Blue Ribbon (14-4)

Pat's completes one of the most up-and-down Jekyll & Hyde seasons in recent memory, starting the season with 5 wins, then losing 4 of 5, then finishing with another 5-win run and the Mugs.

"G" Division - Missing Flights (13-5)

In only two matches all season did a team have a shot at even pushing Missing Flights to 1001, and it was just more of the same as Missing raced its way through the tournament on the way to F.

"H" Division - Train Station Shooters (14-10)

The wild H division season continued in the tournament with more 'decided-by-one-dart' matches than any other division, with the Shooters winning the H tournament's fourth of those in the final.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - Appetite for Destruction (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - The Alpaca Element

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

For the second season in a row in which there was some amazing parity in many of the divisions, we didn't really have an astonishing number of tiebreakers. There were only 33 this season (with 4 of those coming during the divisional tournaments). C division easily led the way with 9 tiebreakers played (7 in the season, 2 in the tournament). A and H each had 6 tiebreakers (each with one in the tournaments), B and E each had 4 tiebreakers, G had 3, D had 1, and F didn't have even a single game of 1001.

Six teams played 3 or more tiebreaker games, while twenty-one teams never went into extra time.

This season's Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) is shared by two teams, 4 each: Sharky's Machine went 3-1, with all four of those coming in the first five weeks(!); and while Death Throw only went 2-2 in their four 1001s, they saved their two wins for the tournament semifinals and finals!!

The Heartbreak Award doesn't really have a clear winner, as no team lost more than two 1001s. Three teams (Methodical Madness, Girls Night Out, and Ducking Farts) went 0-2, so that's bad. But Projectile Dysfunction's 1-2 (with a tournament loss) likely hurt more.

FALL 2015 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

Wednesday, August 12th - Start of Fall season match play
Monday, Sep. 14th - Fifth week captains' meeting, High Park
Wed., Nov. 18, Dec. 2 / 9 - Fall season divisional tournaments
Saturday, December 12th - Fall season banquet, site TBD

WHEN EVERYONE DOES THINGS THE RIGHT WAY

We all know that there are sometimes tense situations and bad blood in competitive settings (such as a dart match). And then there are intense matches in which everybody is just an awesome person and it ends up as a great night for everyone on both sides. Those nights are freakin' priceless. In light of that, imagine if you were such a good person/team that your opponent felt compelled to share a message such as this one from Shane Richardson of One Armed Bandits in E: "I wanted to shoot you a message about the match last night. As you know, after a hotly contested well-played match between two great teams, the Bandits fell to the Devils in the last match of the night. I have never left a match from a loss grinning from ear to ear after having had that good of a time. I have to say I wish the RDL had more teams like these guys! They are a highly talented group, but more importantly they are classy guys and good sportsmen. Something you see too little of these days. If I can't take home the hardware, it's nice to see it go to a deserving group of guys like these. Hats off to Them Handsome Devils!" [And a quick addition from JK: I think it's something about the people in E right now… I received several similar messages this season in E, with a couple a bit like this about Shane's own Bandits squad. Kudos to E.]

SPRING 2015 PENALTY SUMMARY

Alright, another really good season in terms of a low penalty number! Yes, we generally have fewer in the spring (no election ballots in those seasons), but it's still impressive when you guys do as well as you did this season.

Overall, there were only 13 total penalties for a total of 120 lost points!! That is 155 fewer lost points (& 1 fewer lost match win) than last season! That's really a great job by most of you. Congrats. We had four different types of penalties assessed: 7 phone penalties (35 points), 1 captains' meeting penalty (5 points), 1 tiebreaker listing penalty (16 points), and 4 mail penalties (64 points).

Only 7(!) of the 59 teams got any penalty at all, and only 2 divisions (G and H) received more than one total penalty. Heck, A, C and E divisions didn't get any penalties at all. And while the Ducking Farts lost 4th in H due to a penalty, the real pain was felt by Traveling Brown's Billiards in B div., who lost 2nd place (along with a set of team plaques & a spot in A!).

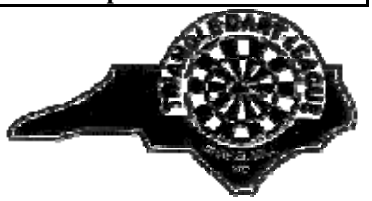
SUMMER DARTS

It's that time again when our standard Wednesday league takes a break for a couple months. That's ok for some of us, but not so much for others… Looking for a replacement? Try these options.

Tuesdays - BCDL - Durham Handicapped Steel-Tip League

The Bull City Dart League continues its year-round play with a summer season that fits the RDL summer break pretty well. Registration likely ends on Tuesday, June 9th at 6:59 p.m. The final location of that registration hasn't been set yet, but you can get updates at the league website (www.thebcdl.org). The league plays Tuesday nights throughout Durham and RTP, and uses a rolling handicap system to level the playing field quite a bit. Teams consist of 4-8 players (about 6 is the norm), and dues are $25/player per season.

Thursday league - TDL - in Chapel Hill/Durham



The registration information for the TDL isn't out yet, but the spring finals were this past Thursday. So I would expect the registration meeting to occur sometime soon. Check www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ for information updates soon. The teams in TDL consist of 6-10 players per team, and dues are $20/ player per season. I believe this past season the league used 3 bars in Chapel Hill and 2 in Durham, although I'm not certain that list is necessarily static, and is likely more determined by the number of teams that are registered (and bar availability).

Or maybe a blind draw…

Page 8 lists the regular weekly blind draws offered by RDL host establishments, and there are a bunch. But I have also confirmed both The Upper Deck AND Sharky's Place will be adding weekly Wednesday draws for every week this summer. They will have basically the same features as their regular draws listed on page 8, except that there is no Wednesday "triple shot" at the Deck.

And for those lookin' for a bigger tournament…

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Divisions "A", "D", "H" (except team H2) (8 teams / div.):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for team H2 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played for Divisions "B", "C", "E", "F", & "G" (7 teams / division):

min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played

THE THIRTY-SEVENTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF: JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Alpaca Element (his fourth in a row…)	E Division	Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits
B Division	Steve Wilcenski	Traveling Brown's Billiards	F Division	Andrew Palmisano	Pat's Blue Ribbon
C Division	Billy Lloyd	Projectile Dysfunction	G Division	Chris Robertson	Missing Flights
D Division	Jim Peele	Shark Shooters	H Division	Nate Burner	Ducking Farts

All of RDL -- Shane Richardson -- One Armed Bandits

"A" Division

Tom Brown	The Alpaca Element	The endless winning machine rolls on.
Kyle Gaulthier	Listing 9 Sux	Roll in, 5 min warm-up, crush everything.
Chad Massengill	The Alpaca Element	Looks like clearly the RDL's next monster.
Sid Mitchell	Appetite for Destruc	Led A's top team for much of the season.
Dan Naylor	Appetite for Destruc	The National Champ is still just on fire.
Robbie Phillips	The Alpaca Element	Really, what more can I type here?
Mike Seward	Listing 9 Sux	When was the last time he wasn't here?
Wil Tan	The Alpaca Element	RDL's highest success/practice ratio ever.

"B" Division

Will Bennett	Overtime Outlaws	SCkt record carried the day for his stats.
Dan Clark	Overtime Outlaws	Got better from set-to-set all night.
John Murdaugh	Fire for Effect	Very unassuming and humble. And good.
Jerry Oakley	Fire for Effect	Was just a huge addition for B winners.
David Romanchek	Nine Lives	Almost able to carry usually-5-man team.
Mark Sellers	Cheap Shots	Just the best shot on a balanced squad.
J.J. Tant	Overtime Outlaws	Biggest hammer for team on late rush to A.
Steve Wilcenski	Traveling Brown's B	Came within a dart of carrying team to A.

"C" Division

Rick Dysard	Death Throw	Top gun for DT's first-ever Mug run.
Ernie Gilyardi	Down the Road	If he was there more, the Road wins more.
Andy Krestalude	The Jeffersons	Decent, decent, decent, then 501 machine.
Billy Lloyd	Projectile Dysfuncti	Seriously, best C recruiting job in years?
Vince Martinez	The Jeffersons	The Jeffersons top shot is back to form.
Chris Montesi	Dublin Doublout	Ok, so maybe we just sit him in the last set.
Jeff Reynolds	Down the Road	He's a true Roadie… good until the 501.
Dave Tanner	Projectile Dysfuncti	Starts off moderate, but climbs every set.

"D" Division (there were a LOT of candidates here)

Jim Gallagher	Coral Reefers	Another guy whose attendance is so key.
John Geraghty	Talk Darty To Me	Super for three sets, with a slight late drop.
Nate Groce	Talk Darty To Me	Took over as the top shot for top D team.
Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	The lead Menace is leading by example.
Charles Parker	Shark Shooters	Hard to believe he's only team's 2nd best.
Jim Peele	Shark Shooters	Mr. Quadruple Double had a huge season.
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	Awesome in singles, acceptable in doubles.
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Now that's he back to full time, he's rolling.

"E" Division

Randy Deemer	Kwitchabitchn	Bright spot for slight underachievers.
Dave Krasnow	Them Handsome De	Still throws his best in the biggest spots.
Anthony Macias	Armed and Hammer	How does this team have a DCkt issue?
Joe McCartney	Dartaholics Anonym	Some 0.500 sets, but carried the team well.
Phil Murphy	One Armed Bandits	Won 71% of singles, and then got better.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Was just a rock star for the entire season.
Tyler Simpson	Armed and Hammer	Two big sets, two ok ones, pretty good.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	Wow, this makes 3 serious Bandit guns.

"F" Division

Brad Adams	Pat's Blue Ribbon	Just simply solid for the Mug winners.
Stephen Long	T.E.D.S.	After a moderate 301 set, he caught fire.
Tony Millage	T.E.D.S.	27-6 in the first three sets is domination.
Bryan Ogden	Grateful Darts	Still a shining star in rough team season.
Andrew Palmisan	Pat's Blue Ribbon	Wins nearly 90% of his games. Just wow.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	The dominant force for the Great One.
Dan Therrien	Djucks Unchained	He won a bunch, and didn't miss matches.
Jason Thomas	T.E.D.S.	If he would list himself, he could own this.

"G" Division (wow, there were 13 throwers I considered here)

David Bradford	Wizards of One Mar	Best player on a team coming together.
Joe Brennan	Full of Bull	New addition nearly put them over the top.
Luke Davis	Missing Flights	== Really, what can I say about any one
Evan Howey	Full of Bull	Has taken over as top gun for runners-up.
Doug Nettesheim	Missing Flights	== of these four guys alone? This team
Chris Robertson	Missing Flights	== was so dominant that I honestly
Julie Scheppele	Girls Night Out	Carried team in doubles, with good singles.
David Sorber	Missing Flights	== could've picked nearly any of them.

"H" Division

Rich Bialaszewski	Northern Flights	Sits out more and more late in matches??
Nate Burner	Ducking Farts	Holy crap! What a jump in his 2nd season!
Neal Crawford	Chalk it Up	6-0 in 501. List him in more 501s. Duh.
Eric Emerton	AC Dart C	Captain and top shot for top finishers.
Roger Genzlinger	Chalk it Up	Singles hammer was just so-so in doubles.
Richard Oakley	Train Station Shoote	Really flourished without captain duties.
Kenny Spencer	Tips & Shafts	One of the more under-the-radar winners.
Dave Woodard	AC Dart C	Solid #2 able to push ACDC up all season.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): With 5 divisions having a bye this season, this is one lonely club, with only 1 person in the true Quadruple Double club this season: Jim Peele of the Shark Shooters in D division. While there were 3 people in A and D divisions that came within one win of a quadruple double (Chad Massengill and Robbie Phillips of The Alpaca Element, & Dave Johnson of Menace 2 Sobriety), the top honorable mentions go to Billy Lloyd of Projectile Dysfunction in C (for four 9-win sets in a 12-match season) and Chris Robertson of Missing Flights in G division (for three 11-win sets in a 12-match season… the Missing Flights won a lot…).

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: Given the number of times the Liquor Posse in D division played with only 5 players, it was pretty obvious they would have the winner of this one on the roster (and they actually ended up with the two highest games played totals in the league). The Iron Woman of the season was Alyssa Leggett (whose 66 games barely edged out the 64 by teammate Adam Barnes). And the honorable mentions for division leaders: Joey Gaglione (Pick Your Poison) and Randy Massengill (Anything Goes) with 57 games in A; Hugh Vance (Traveling Brown's Billiards) and Stephen Flanagan (Big Bulls) with 51 in B; Jimmy Bateman (Sharky's Machine) with 52 in C; Patrick Todd (Kwitcha-bitchn) with a huge 61 in a 12-match E season(!); Stan Converse (Djucks Unchained) with 57 in F; Harry Annon (Another Sinking Ship) with 59 in G; and Denise Borgna (Tips & Shafts) with 63 in H (the highest non-Posse total)

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Six teams this season made a run at this category this season, but three of them really stood out ahead of the rest. All three of these teams carried 7 players on the roster, with one player on each team throwing in only two matches, leaving the other six to hit all the rest of the sets. The teams: Fortnight Hooligans & The Jeffersons in C, and Missing Flights in G.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I will again give real results… bummer.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I actually did really well again. My season pick won either the season or the tournament (or both!) in every division but E. That's pretty stout, eh? On top of that, I was within a spot or two of nailing the entire order in A, D, F, G and H. Wow, nice! I really gave Rif Raf too much credit in B, just as I did with the Hooligans in C and the Leftovers in D. The one winner I just didn't see coming was the Bandits (which is odd, because I often pick them).

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. What an absolute catastrophe my picks in C division were… and those in D weren't much better. Those divisions made me have one of my lower pick percentages in recent years, at below 68% correct. It's still hard to believe that I got 2/3 or more wrong with not one… not two… not three… but FOUR different teams (with three of those in C division). Really, it seems hard to believe I could've done that poorly with them if I had actually tried to do badly.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… Usually when we jump to best-of-three, my picks get stronger, despite the fact that I'm picking semifinals and finals that I conceivably could have wrong before the match is even played. This season, however, my pick rate wasn't even as good as my weekly season rate, mostly because I got every tournament match in C division wrong! 0-7! I had a decent 20-7 start in the quarterfinals (with five divisions not having the #1 seed playing due to a bye), then a very strong 12-4 semifinals record, but then flopped out by hitting only 2 Mug champs (leaving me at 34-17 total). I did hit a Dark Horse champ in E though, and my Sure Things indeed were.

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-one seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the seven 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the ten 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not[What an absolute catastrophe C and D divisions became for me... and B and E weren't a whole lot better. This was an extremely tough season for match predictions (despite the fact that I just about owned both A & G divisions). I was sub-0.500 for more than half the teams in C, and had teams (Sharky's Machine in C and Leftovers in D) with whom I was 3-9 and 4-10, respectively. Just awful.]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 5 question: The February 7th start of the NCCDL (NC City Dart League) and the NCLC (NC Ladies' Cup) 2015 seasons got me wondering… How many of this season's RDL members played for an NCCDL or NCLC team in 2014?

Week 6 question: How many times in the past decade (20 seasons) has the Board cancelled the week 5 captains' meeting?

Week 7 question(s): How many teams have had 7-match win streaks since the start of 2014? Who are they?

Week 10 question(s): How many RDL members have have continuously remained teammates in all 39 seasons of my tenure as RDL statistician? Who are they?

Week 11 question: With Missing Flights taking a loss in G division last week, there are no undefeated teams left in the entire RDL. In my 39 seasons as RDL statistician, how many of them ended without a team undefeated through the regular season plus tournaments?

Week 12 question: (the obvious corollary question to week 11) In my 39 seasons as RDL statistician, how many of them ended without a team winless through the regular season plus tournaments?

Week 13 question: Last week's question about the number of winless teams is interesting, but I think there's something much more interesting… In the last 39 seasons, how many teams have finished winless in the regular season but then won at least one tournament match (which are best-of-three for the points, and with a match guaranteed against a top-two finisher)?

Week 14 question: In my 38 seasons as statistician before this season, what is the lowest number of regular season champions that also won a tournament title that same season? (note: we've had four seasons with 6 divisions, nineteen seasons with 7, fourteen seasons with 8, and one with 9)

Week 5 answer: Of the 509 people presently on RDL rosters, 81 were on an NCCDL or NCLC team (64 on an NCCDL team, 16 on an NCLC team, 1 on both) last year. And those 81 people were on 7 of the 13 NCCDL teams and 6 of the 11 NCLC teams. That means that the RDL includes 28.3% of the NCCDL darters in the state, on 53.8% of the NCCDL teams; and also includes 15.6% of the NCLC darters in the state, on 54.5% of the NCLC teams. No wonder it's so hard to win here in the RDL… it turns out that, as a whole, we're evidently pretty good at this stuff. Yay us!

Week 6 answer: The fifth week captains' meeting has been cancelled in 12 of the last 20 seasons (and that's actually 12 of the last 16 seasons, since we mostly started cancelling the fifth week meeting from the Fall 2007 onward). In those past 8 years, we've had two spring season meetings and two fall season meetings, without ever having meetings in consecutive seasons. Mostly, it seems that we have the meetings now when captains/ teams just get lazy and start creating issues…

Week 7 answer (as of the time the question was asked): In just the past 14 months of RDL darts, there have been a surprising 21 win streaks of 7 matches or more! And of those 21, exactly ZERO of them are current streaks. [note: see end of answer for an update to that fact] The longest recent streak was by Bona Fide Element/ The Dynastic Element with a 21-match run, all in A division. Next longest was 17 by the BullsHitters (14 in C plus 3 in B), followed by Full of Bull (13 in H plus 2 in G), Darty/Talk Darty To Me (10 in E plus 4 in D), the BullsHitters again (13 in B), Shootin Da Bull (13 in G), and then Element again (with another 12 in A as Element Twenty Won and Bona Fide Element), One Armed Bandits (11 in F), and Excalibur/Cheap Shots (9 in C plus 1 in B). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Projectile Dysfunction in C and the One Armed Bandits in E each added a 7-match string, Missing Flights in G added an 8-match string, The Alpaca Element in A is presently on an 8-match-and-counting run, Talk Darty To Me in D is presently on a 9-match-and-counting run, and Appetite for Destruction in A just had their win streak stopped at a very impressive 14 matches.]

Week 10 answer: It turns out that only one team in the RDL has has team members that have been on a roster together for each of the last 39 seasons. From their days on S.S.H. back in the Spring 1996 season right up through their current time together on Bullish, the trio of Joe Kunesh, Charlie Wilkinson and Chuck Rouse have been teammates each and every season. They aren't the only people to have been in the league every season (heck, that list obviously includes yours truly), but they are the only ones to be continuous teammates. [It's actually possible that they could all have been teammates for even longer, but team-by-team statistics records are a little dicey prior to my time as statistician. I'm sure somebody somewhere must have something that shows that information, but none of the people who have shared earlier records with me so far have had anything with information that complete in it.]

Week 11 answer: In my 39 seasons as statistician, we have had 18 without even one undefeated team in any division (including 4 in a row now). In the 21 seasons that have had an undefeated team, there have been a total of 28 undefeated teams (8 in A, 6 in B, 4 in C, 2 in D, 2 in E, 1 in F, 3 in G, and 2 in H). That is a LOT of parity in the lower divisions… only one undefeated F team in two decades? Only two in D, E and H? I'm honestly surprised it was that few. And obviously we won't be adding to any of those numbers this season…

Week 12 answer: In 15 of the last 39 seasons [this answer has been updated to include this season], the RDL has gone without a winless team. In the 25 seasons with at least one winless team, there have actually been 39 winless teams. As might be expected, 12 of those 39 have been in A division (and maybe surprisingly, only 2 of them have been in H div. - although it should be noted that H division has only existed for 16 seasons now.) The number of winless seasons by division over the last 39 seasons are: A-12, B-3, C-7, D-3, E-2, F-4, G-6, H-2. And obviously, you can't have more than one winless team per division in any one season..

Week 13 answer: As we noted the previous week, there have been 39 winless teams in the last 39 seasons. And there is only ONE other team that went through the season winless, but then won a tournament match. In the Fall of 2003, Dogs of War III stumbled to an 0-12 season in C div. before taking down the 2nd place AND 3rd place teams by 14-10 and 13-3(!) scores. Then they took the regular season champs all the way to the last 501 in a 14-10 loss in the finals. What a crazy and amazing postseason bounceback, eh?

Week 14 answer: 1! And that has happened three times in the last 38 seasons! In the Fall 1998 season, B division was the only one of the seven divisions in which a team pulled the season/tournament double. In the Fall 2000 season, G division was the only one of seven. And in the Spring 2011 season, E division was the only one of the EIGHT divisions that season with a team taking a season/tournament double. (On average, about 3-4 division winners fail to win their tournaments.) [Answer update for the banquet Tons: this season nearly tied the record, as only 2 of the 8 regular season-winning teams pulled in tournament titles too.]

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "I lost my fake ID, But you lost the motel key, Spare me your freaking dirty looks, Now don't blame me"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "A lady doesn't leave her escort, It isn't fair, and it isn't nice, A lady doesn't wander all over the room"

Week 2, song #3: "Bright light city gonna set my soul, Gonna set my soul on fire, Got a whole lot of money that's ready to burn"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "And I watched as you turned away, You don't remember, but I do, You never even tried"

Week 3, song #2 lyric: "Yeah here we go for the hundredth time, Hand grenade pins in every line, Throw 'em up and let something shine"

Week 3, song #3 lyric: "The roses in the window box, Have tilted to one side, Everything about this house, Was born to grow and die"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "Me and some guys from school, Had a band and we tried real hard, Jimmy quit, Jody got married"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "That we don't even care, as restless as we are, We feel the pull in the land of a thousand guilts"

Week 4, song #3 lyric: "The sky was all purple, there were people runnin' everywhere, Tryin' to run from the destruction, you know I don't even care"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "You see dimensions in two, State your case with black or white, But when one little cross leads to shots, grit your teeth"

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "Marry him or marry me, I'm the one that loves you baby can't you see? I ain't got no future or a family tree"

Week 5, song #3 lyric: "Thanks for the times that you've given me, The memories are all in my mind, And now that we've come to the end of our rainbow"

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "Strange voices are saying, What did they say, Things I can't understand, It's too close for comfort"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "If you want to find all the cops, They're hanging out in the donut shops, They sing and dance, oh whey oh"

Week 6, song #3 lyric: "Can you hear them, They talk about us, Telling lies, Well that's no surprise, Can you see them, See right through them"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "I think I'll go for a walk outside now, The summer sun's callin' my name, I just can't stay inside all day"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "When the moon is in the seventh house, And Jupiter aligns with Mars, And peace will guide the planets"

Week 7, song #3 lyric: "That's why I'll always be around, You are the apple of my eye, Forever you'll stay in my heart"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "Can't you hear them sayin'? I'm goin' home one of these days, I'm goin' home see my woman, whom I love so dear"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "And I've seen a lot of good folks die, That had a lot of bills to pay, I'd give the shirt right offa' my back, If I had the guts to say"

Week 8, song #3 lyric: "At least until I die, damned if you do, damned if you don't, I'm supposed to get a raise next week, you know damn well I won't"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "Must be your skin that I'm sinking in, Must be for real 'cause now I can feel, And I didn't mind, It's not my kind"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "I know you like me, I know you do, That's why whenever I come around, She's all over you, I know you want it, It's easy to see"

Week 9, song #3 lyric: "From out of the shadows, She walks like a dream, Makes me feel crazy, Makes me feel so mean"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "Fee, fee, fi, fi, fo-fo, fum, Look at Molly now, here she comes, Wearin' her wig hat and shades to match"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "Can't you see the sunshine, Can't you just feel the moonshine, Maybe just like a friend of mine, It hit me from behind"

Week 10, song #3 lyric: "In touch with the ground, I'm on the hunt I'm after you, Smell like I sound, I'm lost in a crowd"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "Got a beat-up glove, a homemade bat, and brand-new pair of shoes, You know I think it's time to give this game a ride"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "I never will forget those nights, I wonder if it was a dream, Remember how you made me crazy?"

Week 11, song #3 lyric: "Josie's on a vacation far away, Come around and talk it over, So many things that I want to say"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "My shadow's the only one that walks beside me, My shallow heart's the only thing that's beating"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "Hey Jack it's fact they're talking in town, I turn my back and you're messin' around"

Week 12, song #3 lyric: "Can't you see the tears roll down the street? I've been looking for my baby, And I wonder where she can be"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "I've been to Hollywood, I've been to Redwood, I crossed the ocean"

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "City sidewalks, busy sidewalks, Dressed in holiday style, In the air there's a feeling of Christmas"

Week 13, song #3 lyric: "I like it, I'm not gonna crack, I miss you, I'm not gonna crack, I love you, I'm not gonna crack"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "And I'm gonna sing a song for you, And Bill's gonna show you a thing or two, You'll have some fun now"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "Let's ride with the family down the street, Through the courtesy of Fred's two feet"

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "Strong as he can be, Aaaaah, Watch out for that tree… Lives a life that's free, Aaaaah, Watch out for that tree"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "Number one super guy… Quicker than the human eye, He's got style, a groovy style, and a car that just won't stop"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "His boy, Elroy. Daughter Judy. Jane, his wife."

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "Don't you want a little gorilla you can call your own, A gorilla who'll be with ya when you're all alone?"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "One is a genius, the other's insane, They're laboratory mice, their genes have been spliced"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "I'm one tough Gazookus, Which hates all Palookas, Wot ain't on the up and square"

Week 14, song #9 lyric: "Even the coyote can't make him change his ways… The coyote's after you… If he catches you, you're through"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "I see you, pretending you got a sliver, But you're not fooling me, 'Cause I can see, the way you shake and shiver"

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "Next time you're feeling blue just let a smile begin, Happy things will come to you"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "Wrench (wrench), Socket (socket), Gloves, motor, tires, chassis… That's me! Big race today! Pfft, Pfft…"

Week 14, song #13 lyric: "He's gainin' on you so you better look alive, He's busy revvin' up a powerful Mach 5"

Week 14, song #14 lyric: "They're the world's most fearsome fighting team, They're heroes in a half-shell and they're green"

Week 14, song #15 lyric: "Speed of lightning, roar of thunder, Fighting all who rob and plunder"

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED (the answers to the lyrics at the top of the page) (these are continued on page 14...)

Week 2 answers: Song 1 = "Waking Up in Vegas" by Katy Perry === Song 2 = "Luck Be A Lady" by Frank Sinatra === Song 3 = "Viva Las Vegas" by Elvis Presley. Week 3 answers: Song 1 = "Hemorrhage" by Fuel === Song 2 = "Bleed It Out" by Linkin Park === Song 3 = "Love Lies Bleeding" by Elton John.

Week 8 answers: Song 1 = "Chain Gang" by Sam Cooke === Song 2 = "Take This Job and Shove It" by Johnny Paycheck === Song 3 = "Workin' for a Livin'" by Huey Lewis and the News. Week 9 answers: Song 1 = "Glycerine" by Bush === Song 2 = "Don't Cha" by Pussycat Dolls === Song 3 = "On the Dark Side" by John Cafferty & The Beaver Brown Band.

Week 10 answers: Song 1 = "Devil with a Blue Dress" by Mitch Ryder & The Detroit Wheels === Song 2 = "Carolina In My Mind" by James Taylor === Song 3 = "Hungry Like the Wolf" by Duran Duran. Week 11 answers: Song 1 = "Centerfield" by John Fogerty === Song 2 = "The Boys of Summer" by Don Henley === Song 3 = "Your Love" by The Outfield.

Week 12 answers: Song 1 = "Boulevard of Broken Dreams" by Green Day === Song 2 = "I Hate Myself for Loving You" by Joan Jett & the Blackhearts === Song 3 = "The Sky Is Crying" by Stevie Ray Vaughan & Double Trouble. Week 13 answers: Song 1 = "Heart of Gold" by Neil Young === Song 2 = "Silver Bells" by Bing Crosby === Song 3 = "Lithium" by Nirvana.

Week 14 answers: Song 1 = "Theme to Fat Albert" (Note: determining who sang some of these week 14 themes was next to impossible, so we're just ignoring the singers for this one week…) === Song 2 = "Theme to The Flintstones" === Song 3 = "Theme to George of the Jungle" === Song 4 = "Theme to Hong Kong Phooey" === Song 5 = "Theme to The Jetsons" === Song 6 = "Theme to Magilla Gorilla" === Song 7 = "Theme to Pinky and the Brain" === Song 8 = "Theme to Popeye the Sailor Man" === Song 9 = "Theme to Road Runner" === Song 10 = "Theme to Scooby-Doo" === Song 11 = "Theme to The Smurfs" === Song 12 = "Theme to Speed Buggy" === Song 13 = "Theme to Speed Racer" === Song 14 = "Theme to Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles" === Song 15 = "Theme to Underdog"

[Like last season, this season we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. It adds a layer to the game for everybody and proved popular again. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 fifteen-song set that once again was one of our most popular lyric quiz weeks - probably because most of us were morning cartoon addicts in a previous life...]*

Week 2 theme: Vegas, baby! A couple of our fellow RDL-ers were taking part in the ADO Nationals in Vegas that week. Week 3 theme: Well, once you see the three song titles, I would think this one becomes pretty bloody obvious. Week 4 theme: Pretty obviously, it was songs with years ending in 9 in the title. Couldn't really think of one for 1989, so we went from 1969 to 1979, and then hopped forward to 1999. Week 5 theme: Well, the obvious theme is that the song titles increase from one to two to three… but the reality is that I just wanted to the song by The Fixx in a theme somewhere because I just love that song. Week 6 theme: All-female groups of the 1980s, of course! Week 7 theme: Daylight Savings Time! Sunshine later in the day! The best day of the year! (the same week 7 theme as we had last spring :o) Week 8 theme: Hard work! In honor of the weekend at work that I had during grant writing time two weekends ago. Worked Friday night until 12:30 a.m., worked Saturday from 5 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., then set the clocks ahead an hour to lose an hour of sleep, then worked from 11:15 a.m Sunday straight through to 10:20 a.m. Monday. That was a long flippin' weekend. Week 9 theme: All bands that have had a song on a movie soundtrack. Of course, right? Duh…that's easily the most obvious theme. Why…what did YOU think the theme of those three bands was?! Week 10 theme: The NCAA basketball 'Sweet Sixteen' runs by the Duke Blue Devils, Carolina Tarheels, and North Carolina State Wolfpack, of course. Week 11 theme: This coming week's opening day of the baseball season! To keep the songs from being too obvious, I had to mix in a bad name with the song titles, but it's still a good trio. Week 12 theme: Each of these three were inducted into the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame that week (Saturday, April 18th). Week 13 theme: Gotta have a little science knowledge for this one… all three song titles contain metals. (Yes, lithium is a metal.) Week 14 theme: theme songs of cartoons from the 80s (with a little bit of the 70s and 90s), with the songs listed in order by name of the cartoon, alphabetically.

RDL'S TELEVISION STAR IS BACK

Ron Smith of Ducking Farts (another team that received a handful of compliments like the one I noted in the right column of page 4 this season) dropped me a line to let everybody know that the 3rd season of their reality show "Garage Gold" began in the last week of April, on the DIY network. It airs primarily on Sunday nights, I believe. Ron says they have already filmed a 4th season, bringing their total so far to 47 episodes, and he says there is already talk about possibly adding a 5th season. So, if you're interested in seeing what another RDL-er does with his time, tune in and check them out. And if you have a garage that needs to be cleaned out, I'm thinking that Ron can probably help you out with that too. :o)

REMEMBER MY FA14 WEEK 10 COLUMN?

If so, then you know that I'm one of those new age liberals that has the audacity to think that people should have the right to do what they want (as long as it doesn't harm others), and I shouldn't legislate their lives for them. Well, whether you agree with me or not, I defy you to watch the video at this link (https://www.yahoo.com/health/the-skeleton-video-everyones-getting-emotional-112702802882.html), and not feel some serious human compassion. If you don't, seek help.

HOCKEY FAN? THIS LINK IS FOR YOU

My buddy Paul Jacobi shares some really funny stuff when he comes across it, and just two days ago he came through in a big way. This link: http://bleacherreport.com/articles/2464678-the-discovery-channel-just-killed-the-poor-pittsburgh-penguins (you have to copy all the text on both lines for the full address) is an awesome nerd hit against the Pittsburgh Penguins. Hockey fans, take a quick peek.

I'M ABUSING MY POWER AS EDITOR HERE…

…to say a personal goodbye. It's pretty rare that you just randomly meet somebody who immediately and effortlessly fits into your core group of friends such that he or she is almost instantly a core friend themselves. Well, I had the benefit of finding a guy just like that two years ago. My team, The Element, is very much a family as much as it is a dart team, and Alberto Sandoval (shown here with his wife, Estrella) became family very quickly. Sadly, Alberto is moving to Charlotte (it turns out he is really good at his job, dangit), and the Element is surely worse off in many ways because of it. Good luck, my friend. You'll be missed dearly. [Although I can take a little solace in the fact that he says he will still be staying with us in the NC City League on the Durham team, a promise that I will steadfastly attempt to hold him to… those Charlotte bitches better just back the hell off my boy… just sayin'.]

THE RDL IS FULL OF AWESOME PEOPLE WITH AMAZING TALENTS
Awesome People #4, #5 and #6 in this series (it's a 3-for-the-price-of-1 special!!)

Over the past couple seasons, I started a new periodic column in which I share with you guys stories and tidbits about the things that RDL members do for fun when they're not out throwing darts. Predictably, some of our RDL brothers and sisters have stories that are quite remarkable and interesting. With their permission, I will continue including some highlights from their stories right here in the pages of the Tons. For this week's fourth entry, you guys are getting an awesome deal! It's not 1… it's not 2… it's 3 awesome RDL-ers with a great talent all at once! I present to you the RDL's very own competitive barbecue champion trio, otherwise known as Fat Heads BBQ!!

The Fat Heads consist of (left to right in the photo to the left) Mike Venable of Methodical Madness, Mike Horrall of Wayne Gretzky, and Brad Hamilton of Methodical Madness (along with Brad's daughter Natalee), and they're mostly a competitive BBQ team, but also do a bit of catering if you're interested (I've included their card here in case anyone wants to get in touch with them). They're based out of Clayton, and they started in just 2012 (a fact that is going to hit home a bit more as you read on and consider the astounding level of success they've already reached). They primarily compete in four categories - chicken, pork ribs, pork butt/shoulder, and brisket; they do, however, also do whole hog, and have also even dabbled in wing sauce and desserts (and actually grabbed 1st place with their sauce!). So far they've only been tearing things up in NC and SC, but they're up to about 8-10 competitions each year, and it's hard to imagine that bigger things aren't ahead…

Now when you're talking about a BBQ team, it's hard not to talk about their grill equipment, right? Well, some of the "pros" that show up at the same competitions as our local heroes have setups that cost $30,000 to $40,000! Ladies and gentlemen… here is what Brad uses to go out and BEAT them: (Note the dartboard in the background!)

Mike V. and Mike H. are a little more modern with $300 and $400 Webers (oooo, fancy!), and they have both a pig cooker and the 'pull-behind' in the picture below. All in all, their total equipment cost comes in more than 3/4 below some others' single items. The final math of that calculation is this: Talent > equipment dollars, people…

Alright, so there you have it… RDL's very own champion BBQ team. Sounds good, doesn't it? Makes you want to go out and try a bit of the goods, right? Well, lucky you! You can see the Fat Heads at the Peak City Pig Fest in Apex (June 19-20, peakcitypigfest.com), and then at the Beer, Bourbon & BBQ Festival in Cary (July 31 - August 1, http://www.beerandbourbon.com/cary/show-info). There will be a few more, but those two are so close to home that it's hard to get a better opportunity.

The Fat Heads' slogan sums it up nicely:
"Life is good but BBQ is better"

And while it's easy for me to just sit here and say 'hey, they're successful', nothing speaks louder than a little bit of proof. Sooo…

Yeah, that's right… they win awards in just about every category, and at just about every competition they attend! And they've been awarded a Reserve Grand Champion title a couple times (including the Kannapolis Jiggy with the Piggy event last year that had SEVENTY teams in it)! One of the best accomplishments though was when Brad took 1st place in pork in Rocky Mount when they were filming a BBQ PitMaster show and all-time winningest BBQ champion Myron Mixon (and a few others BBQ stars) were all part of his list of victims!! Holy crap! Take that, suckahs! RDL-ers rule!

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. For the first time though, I'm actually writing this a little more than a day early due to some family commitments… still tired and busy, so still not sure what's about to hit the page, but anyway… whatever…

-- I always start the Random Thoughts with a Survivor item, and this season is no exception. But this time I'm making this item just a short and sweet one-word reference: "Bro." Or rather… "BRO!" Or "Bro, bro, bro, bro, bro, bro, bro." If you don't get that, you don't watch Survivor. Luckily, in this one case… What a tool.

-- I completely understand that many words in the English language can be pronounced in different ways depending on the context or definition of choice. However, I have news for furniture store salespeople: the word 'suite' is not pronounced (sūt). Not even after the word 'bedroom'. A "bedroom suit" is more a set of pajamas than a bed/nightstand/dresser combo. From where in the hell did that pronunciation come? I hate those ads.

-- Inappropriate humor is great. And holidays that include a lot of partying and laughter are great. And cake is absolutely amazing. But this past St. Patrick's Day, this cake at a local unnamed grocery store (whose name rhymes with Ferris Peeter) had me scratching my head. A drunk leprechaun cake? Really?! Was this a good idea at some point? There's just something about it that seems a bit more wrong than it should. (And no, I didn't buy it… although a big cake is a good idea in pretty much any setting…)

-- Quick note to the people who feel the need to drive with their hazard lights on when it starts to rain: cut it the hell out! Yes, it is technically legal in North Carolina (unless otherwise posted), but it is illegal in many states and the use of hazard lights generally indicates a stationary or very slow-moving hazard. Driving 60 miles per hour in the rain does not qualify you as either of those, and you are just unnecessarily making the drivers around you very nervous. Ok, well… I guess it might be that if you are a driver that feels the need to drive with hazard lights on, maybe the drivers around you really should be wary of being near you… just not because you are a vehicle in the rain.

-- One of my favorite things an RDL member told me this season is that he loves to read the team names together in the match pairings each (and especially the short nickname versions I use in the page 2 boxscores). I do that too. :o) Sometimes the name pairings make some really funny stuff… Although I still can NOT figure out how Something Inappropriate and Talk Darty To Me didn't produce some better awesome pairings… seemed perfect.

-- This season The Amazing Race had consecutive legs that sent contestants from Phuket to Bangkok. Does anyone besides me think that wasn't a coincidence?

-- How's this for a really underwhelming bonus item? On Super Bowl Sunday, Carmike Cinemas across the nation offered this amazing deal: one free small popcorn when you purchase a ticket for a movie that starts after 4:00 p.m. A small popcorn. Granted, that much popcorn likely costs about 73 bucks, but still, it will almost certainly be gone before the previews finish. Oh, yay. And no, it didn't come with a drink or free refills. Sigh.

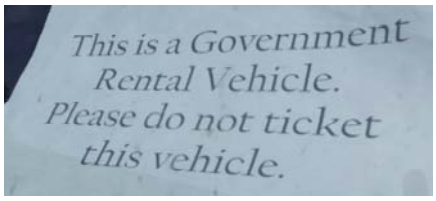
-- You know all those family member sticker sets that you see on car windows nowadays? Well, every now and then you see one where the car owner has added the family's name, right? This photo is one I just saw a few days ago, and apparently was on the car of a family with a stack of extraneous apostrophes lying around the place. My wife very generously tried to cover for them quickly by saying that maybe it referred to the car belonging to them. And I, of course, pointed out that the apostrophe would still have to be moved. The only way this awesome display could be accurate is if someone owning the car somehow went by the title "The Pollay". You know, like "The Napster" in The Italian Job…

-- Not sure why I just thought of this now, but how about this for an example of your team loving you? Doug Jeffcoat of Listing 9 Sux has been known as Dougie Fresh and other Fresh-type nicknames for years. In about week 6, he rang up a very strong "7-In" in his 301 game, and his team went ahead and reported it on the scoresheet as a '7-In for Freshticles'. Ummm… yikes.

-- Quick note to those of you who insist on pushing into the elevator before the people that are already inside the elevator can exit: stop it, you self-important butts. The door will not be magically closing immediately after the last person exits. Relax a little bit and get out of the damn way.

-- Did you guys know that Kyle Gaulthier of Listing 9 Sux (and repeated A division all-star teams) has started working at UL (Underwriters Laboratories)? Why is that of interest here, you ask? Because Robbie Phillips (of The Alpaca Element) and Mike Seward (of Listing 9 Sux), who both also are absolute regulars on the A division all-star team, also both work there. That's three of the best players in the history of the RDL (and the state of North Carolina) all working at the same place. The odds of that coming together are pretty slim. I'm not a betting man, but if there was a nationwide workplace three-man dart tournament, I would have a hard time not putting a bit of a wager on those guys. Yikes.

-- So I'm walking past a car in a restricted parking spot at the Durham VA Medical Center (where I work), and I look in the front window and see this sign on the dashboard. Is that how this works? You just type up a sign that completely ignores any of the reason why you aren't allowed to park in a reserved/restricted space, and just beg for no ticket? If this works, can you imagine the shortage of printer paper that would immediately happen in New York City? (and for those who are curious: no, this car did not have official license plates, just regular ones… and I have no idea what the heck a Government Rental Vehicle, but each of the words is capitalized, so it must be really important, right?)



-- One of my favorite parts of a dart match is the post-match handshake (sort of like the post-series hockey handshake line). It brings the match back to a very friendly respect level, and it's just very classy. Well… it is if you stay to take part in it, I guess.

THE BEST SEASON SINGLES WIN %-AGES -- Spring 1996 through Spring 2015

This list of the best seasons contains results from the last 39 seasons, as that is the time during which I have been statistican. The statistical records prior to that (pre-1996) are not quite as complete, at least in the newsletter issues that have been made available to me thus far

THE BEST SEASON SINGLES+DOUBLES WIN %-AGES -- Spring 1996 through Spring 2015

This list of the best seasons contains results from the last 39 seasons, as that is the time during which I have been statistican. The statistical records prior to that (pre-1996) are not quite as complete, at least in the newsletter issues that have been made available to me thus far

TONS OF NEWSLETTER

Home to the Fall Session of the Raleigh Dart League for the Banquet, Saturday, December 12, 2015 Issue #JK64
The "It Has Probably Been A Little While Since I Hit The Last Dart Of The Tournament" Editio

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Eventual Element (14-8)
A truly great Element-Hit That final, chock full of 8 perfect throws (9-marks, 180s, 160-Ins, 8-marks with DBulls) and other big shots, ends up being decided by one of the "lesser" shots in the group.

"B" Division - Methodical Madness (14-2)
After a crazy night of close semifinals, with one of them heavy with drama and disagreement, the Madness nearly coasts through the B final, barely even needing to play any doubles crickets.

"C" Division - Darty Rotten Scoundrels (13-5)
After earning a first-round bye in the 7-team C division, Darty Rotten Scoundrels roll through two wins, making themselves the only Mug winners this season to not see 501 in the tournament.

"D" Division - One Armed Bandits (13-9)
Sometimes their matches were close (6 within a dart of a loss or tie), and sometimes they weren't (6 opponents that didn't score more than 6), but the Bandits are the Fall's only undefeated team.

"E" Division - Them Handsome Devils (14-8)
It seems like a long time since the Handsome Devils have dropped a match (all the way back in week 2 of the regular season), and they took out Pat's Blue in the finals, in a third pretty close battle.

"F" Division - Bye Week (14-6)
Bye Week, the #3 seed, was one of only two Mug winners that hadn't claimed the season title too (the other is still unknown - see below), and they picked off the season champs handily in the final.

"G" Division - All About That Bull! (14-6)
How? That's all I want to know is 'how'? How did a division this incredibly messed up all season play an entire tournament with the only upset being the #3 seed taking out the #2 in the semifinals?

"H" Division - ?? (no result reported)
For the first time in my two decades as statistician, a division final goes by without anyone reporting a win and thus claiming a set of tournament Mugs… #5 Don't Hit the Scorekeeper? #7 Chalk it Up?

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Eventual Element (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Appetite for Destruction

"B" Division - Methodical Madness (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Projectile Dysfunction

"C" Division - Darty Rotten Scoundrels (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Nine Lives

"D" Division - One Armed Bandits (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Menace 2 Sobriety

"E" Division - Them Handsome Devils (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Board Room Jimmy

"F" Division - Missing Flights (9 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Misfits

"G" Division - All About That Bull! (10 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - Wizards of the One Mark

"H" Division - Chatham Street Elite (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Ballistic Behavior

Rosters of all season- and tournament-winning teams are on page 4.)

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Oh, yeah! This is more like it! We had some teams with some real drama this season! We jumped all the way up to 40 total tiebreakers this season, with 4 of them coming in the tournaments. And on top of that, we had some teams that just couldn't seem to get enough extra games. Nice… F division led the way with a whopping 9 tiebreakers, which is all the more impressive when you note that there were only three F division matches per week! B and E divisions dropped in 8 tiebreakers each (with each having one in the tourneys), C pitched in 5 (including one in the tournament), G had 4 (with one in the tourney), and A and D each had 3. That somehow leaves H division, which was just a crazy-nuts race for much of the season without even one 1001.

A whopping 10(!) teams played at 3 tiebreakers this season, but the Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) goes to High & Tight in B division, who decided 5 of their 15 total matches in the extra leg, including a semifinal win! Their 4-1 1001 record is pretty stout too.

This season's Heartbreak Award (for most 1001 losses) had quite a few competitors (three teams lost three tiebreakers each), but the award clearly goes to Hump Day! in E division. Not only did they go 0-4 in extra legs, but one of those ended their tournament hopes.

TEAMS THAT WON BOTH THEIR DIVISIONAL TOURNAMENT AND REGULAR SEASON TITLE !!!!!!

SPRING 2016 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, January 6th - Spring season registration, Upper Deck (online registration MIGHT be available in the days immediately prior to the 5th - Membership Director Heather Bohanan is working on a league website and it MIGHT be up in time for early registration)

Wed., Jan. 20th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, January 27th - Start of Spring season match play

Monday, Feb. 29th - Fifth week captains' meeting, Upper Deck

Wednesday, May 4 / 11 / 18 - Spring season divisional tournaments

Saturday, May 21st - Spring season banquet, site TBD

SOME RDL QUOTES I SAVED - HILARIOUSLY ALMOST ALL FROM THE SAME PERSON!

Quote #1 : from Jason Thomas of Board Room Jimmy, who clearly appreciates the humor I find in a good pairing of names, either in a partner pairing or a singles matchup: "Anyway... We had a nice pairing to start the night: "Steve -n- Tyler on board right. Didn't recognize it until I called it out…" [Oh, sweet (emotion)! I love that one. - JK]

Quote #2 : also from Jason Thomas of Board Room Jimmy, in reference to that very same game: "In that game, Steve [Long, of Board Room Jimmy] got a nice 180, that doesn't count... Custom plaque coming his way this season! ;)" [Uhhh… congrats, Steve?]

Quote #3 : from, you guessed it, Jason Thomas of Board Room Jimmy, this time picking on himself: "What's worse? Throwing a 180 and busting, or 180 and losing? I think my "trophy" should have the asterisk on it." [Oh, bud, this question is waaaay easy, and it's not losing. Steve busting the 180 is soooo much worse… Sorry, Steve, but facts are facts. Easy to hit a big turn and lose when the other thrower is playing well. But busting with a 180… that's on you. - JK]

Quote #4 : from Eric Emerton of AC Dart C, recapping oh so wel the one pain (and, conversely, glee) that we've all felt at some point: "AC DartC wins on 1001... with a double bull out (Shervin). It was of course one of those games where we hit like an average of 22.3 in the turns, were down like 400 to 170 at one point as the game went on… and of course the very first chance to win it, was a 72 left.. single 5, single 17.. double bull out." [Nice short, Sherv. And congrats, your opponents despise you now. Mission accomplished! - JK]

Quote #5 : the un-family-friendly one from Jason Thomas… thi one I think we'll just print and let it stand on its own with no added commentary: "And we created a monster... Raymond is practicing daily, on my trainer board... As Steve said (properly "borrowed" from Facebook), 'Raymond's wife asks him for a 69 and his response is trip 11, double 18.' "

TEAMS THAT WON THEIR REGULAR SEASON TITLE (but not divisional tournament) !!!!!!

"F" Division - Missing Flights

Doug Nettesheim (c)	John Suan	Luke Davis
David Surber	Phil Robertson	Chris Robertson
	John Vanore

"H" Division - Chatham Street Elite

FALL 2015 PENALTY SUMMARY

Ok, the bottom line here is that the teams this season did a pretty exceptional job in terms of avoiding penalties. Kudos to this season's team captains (and assorted fill-in representatives)! This was definitely one of the best seasons we've had in terms of this.

Overall, there were only 19 total penalties for a total of 150 lost points (and this was a season with an election ballot in it!). Only 14 of the 60 teams were penalized in any way at all, and there were ZERO penalties in C, D and E divisions. H division was absolutely the leading division in terms of penalties, but they are generally the least experienced (and, to be honest, I get the impression that some of them are the least caring in almost any way… sooo…). 5 different H teams were penalized, they got 8 of the 19 penalties of the season, they lost 73 of the 150 points of the season, and they had the only team that took more than two penalties.

All in all, there were 7 ballot penalties (for a total loss of 35 points), 7 phone penalties (35 points), 4 mail penalties (64 points), and 1 missing tiebreaker lineup penalty (16 points).

The biggest losers in terms of penalty outcomes was obviously Ducking Farts in H division. They were the only team with 3 penalties, they lost the most points to penalties (37), and they were the only team in any division to lose a spot in the standings (going from 3rd to 4th) due to the penalty losses they suffered.

HOLIDAY BREAK BLIND DRAWS

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still). If you have more free time, you might want to try one or more of the several other weekly and monthly draws as well. For a full list, see the bottom half of the right column on page 8.

And an important note for December 25th…

Christmas Day is a Friday this year… and yes, the regular Friday Upper Deck blind draw will indeed be held on the 25th! So, if you just need a little holiday darting action, you know now where you can find it…

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

If you're quick (in one case), or even if you need some time to get your act together (in another case), you might be able to pick up a second league this coming season if you are so inclined.

Triangle Dart League (TDL - Chapel Hill & Durham)

The full information as to the timing of their General Interest Meeting for the Spring 2016 is not yet available, but the Triangle Dart League is finishing their current fall tournament on Dec. 17th. If you are interested in picking up a league on this side of the Triangle, visit them at: http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ I guess just keep checking back in the next several days for increased information as their registration nears.

Bull City Dart League (BCDL - Durham)

If you happen to be interested in trying out one of the very few handicapped steel-tip leagues anywhere, maybe the BCDL is in your future. Registration for this league is still quite a few weeks away, but it's never too early to start planning. Registration for the spring season will open on February 16th at the league party, and will continue until 7 p.m. February 23rd. Teams in the BCDL consist of 4-8 players, and the home bars are primarily in RTP and the downtown area. More complete information (and any updates in the coming weeks can be found at: www.thebcdl.org

THE ULTIMATE BOOK OF DARTS

How often do you get to actually meet a published author? And how often does that author's book actually relate to something you love? Well, it turns out that Anne Kramer, author of The Ultimate Book of Darts, is moving to the Triangle (actually, she might be here by the time you've read this) with her husband John. The couple have both had their own signature lines of darts over the years, and John even claimed a singles title at the North American Open (yes, the North American Open). Anyway, if you're interested in getting a copy, just Google the title… the book isn't expensive, and I believe there's even a current RDL member quoted in it…

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.

"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs

Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Divisions "B", "D", "G" (except team G5), & "H" (except teams H1 and H7) (8 teams / division):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for teams G5 & H7 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played for team H1 (due to a 'half-match forfeit' received):

min. of 19 Singles Games Played, 36 Total Games Played for Divisions "A", "C", "E" (except team E2), & "F" (except team F6) (7 teams / division):

min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams E2 and F6 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 30 Total Games Played

THE THIRTY-EIGHTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF: JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Eventual Element	E Division	Stephen Long	Board Room Jimmy
B Division	Trey Rodgers	High & Tight	F Division	Tom Kubel	Bye Week
C Division	Jim Peele	Darty Rotten Scoundrels	G Division	Brent Snyder	All About That Bull!
D Division	Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	H Division	Lincoln Barber	Chatham Street Elite

All of RDL -- Tom Kubel -- Bye Week

"A" Division (I cannot tell you how badly I wanted 9 spots here)

Kyle Gaulthier	I'd Hit That	Teams simply have to list around him.
Chad Massengill	The Eventual Eleme	Gets on hot streaks for weeks at a time.
Sid Mitchell	Appetite for Destruc	He's seemingly never just out of a game.
Tim Mozzetti	Appetite for Destruc	Amazing singles run fell just one short.
Robbie Phillips	The Eventual Eleme	He did just make the America's Cup team.
Mike Seward	I'd Hit That	Not his best ever, but always dangerous.
Wil Tan	The Eventual Eleme	Pulls out more wins than anybody else.
Joe Work	Traveling Brown's B	Played best against the best opposition.

"B" Division

Eugene Foushee	Methodical Madness	Yep, officially the lesser brother this time.
Kevin Foushee	Methodical Madness	See the line above. Sorry, Eugene…
Brad Hamilton	Methodical Madness	Captain led by a winning example.
Steve Holland	High & Tight	Just a solid second fiddle all season.
Jim Kerr	Projectile Dysfuncti	The Projectile recruiting team hits again.
Billy Lloyd	Projectile Dysfuncti	Was one week from a perfect singles run.
Tim McNamara	Cork Tease	Oh, if only he was at more matches.
Trey Rodgers	High & Tight	Was this his best season ever? Maybe.

"C" Division

Ryan Anderson	Darty Rotten Scoun	0-4 in 301? Am I reading that correctly?
Matthew Copple	Nine Lives	Always steady, got better with each set.
Nate Groce	Darty Rotten Scoun	The top winner on the clearly top team.
Ronnie Knott	Shooter McGavin	Played more like Happy than like Shooter.
Mike Kyle	Darty Rotten Scoun	So many players that he mostly sits 501.
Mike McWhorter	Big Bulls	Suddenly became maybe the Biggest Bull.
Jim Peele	Darty Rotten Scoun	This was the acquisition of the season.
Chris Toolan	Big Bulls	Singles record was great, doubles so-so.

"D" Division

Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	Has become a real force to be dealt with.
Anthony Macias	Amed and Hammere	Was cruising before missing last 3 weeks.
Phil Murphy	One Armed Bandits	Really, this is their third best shot? Nice.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Nice, popular, and deadly in every set.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	Wow, this was nearly a record season…
Jeff Watson, Sr.	Hostile Amish	Easily the most hostile to Amish's enemies.
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	He's always on this page, and he earns it.
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Season after season, still owning D div.

"E" Division

Brad Adams	Pat's Blue Ribbon	A minor DCkt hiccup, but overall solid.
Jeff Cashin	Pat's Blue Ribbon	He would make it just for being Beaker.
Ryan Cusman	Them Handsome De	With these three guys on the roster…
Bryan Garland	Them Handsome De	… it's really not a mystery to me…
Dave Krasnow	Them Handsome De	… how the Devils pulled the double.
Stephen Long	Board Room Jimmy	Can hit nearly anything, but 180 from 180.
Patrick Merkle	Village Idiots	Solid season carried team to some wins.
Mike Snyder	6 Pack Attackers	Won a lot of singles, floated in doubles.

"F" Division (there were a LOT of candidates in this division)

Tim Ellis	Grateful Ducks	Singles machine managed a few doubles.
Tom Kubel	Bye Week	Seriously? 9-2 is his worst set. Wow.
Jeremy Limerick	Misfits	Ok, so we just sit him only in 301. Yikes.
Joe Rigert, Jr.	Wayne Gretzky	MVP in any other season. Stupid Kubel…
Carl Riggsbee	Misfits	Winning captain sits himself(?) in SCkt.
John Suan	Missing Flights	Became the top winner for the top team.
David Surber	Missing Flights	Just needs to avoid the 501 nap a bit.
Tom Wiegand	Misfits	Not his best season, but still quite solid.

"G" Division

Rich Bialaszewski	Is It In?	Slow starter rolled for a team needing it.
David Bradford	Wizards of the One	90% winner in singles? Yes, please.
Craig Millican	Does That Count?	Yeah, he squeezed in here due to his SCkt.
Joe Munroe	Another Sinking Shi	Oh, he bailed serious water for this ship.
Jeromie Raper	Does That Count?	Super solid… right up until that 501 mess.
Julie Scheppele	Out for Fun	She might have just hit another match dart.
Brent Snyder	All About That Bull	Well, you can file this first season…
Tyler Wright	All About That Bull	… under 'success' for the new team.

"H" Division

Lincoln Barber	Chatham Street Elite	Wow. Just wow. Welcome to the RDL.
Keith Feller	Ballistic Behavior	What a resurgence. Awesome season.
Roger Genzlinger	Chalk it Up	Did he maybe fuel their tournament run?
Jenna Ianucci	Don't Hit the Scorek	Just solid across the board for finals team.
Danny Ives	Chatham Street Elite	35-7 in the first 3 sets is just tough to beat.
Britt Phillips	Ballistic Behavior	This Cupcake came with double frosting.
Sean Ryan	Chatham Street Elite	Only SCkt trails his teammates on this list.
Kenny Spencer	Tips & Shafts	Easily the leader for his top-half team.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Hey, hey, we had 2 winners in the true Quadruple Double club this season (this in spite of only 4 divisions having a full 8 teams): Trey Rodgers of High & Tight in B division, and Ken Trefzger of One Armed Bandits in D division are our two guns this season. We have three honorable mentions though, for either four 9-win sets or three 10-win sets, in a division with only 12 matches: Chad Massengill and Robbie Phillips of The Eventual Element in A division, and Tom Kubel of Bye Week in F division (and Kubel even missed a week too!)

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: This season is actually most remarkable for NOT having that one team that is always shorthanded, or that one person that plays all the blocker games. Thus, our Iron Man Award was claimed with the relatively low total of 61 games. Two people did it, but the award definitely goes to the one who did it in a 7-team division: Marc Garzon of Hump Day! in E division. The honorable mentions for the other division leaders were: Scott Butters of Fire "Ballz" and Paul Spaulding of Traveling Brown's Billiards in A with 50; Trey Rodgers of High & Tight in B with 60; Chris Schon of Shooter McGavin in C with 54; Pat Smelik of Flight Club and Tom Flood of Hostile Amish in D with 58; Joe Rigert, Sr. of Wayne Gretzky in F with 53; Cindy Voorhees of All About That Bull! in G with 61; and Ken McNamara of Chalk it Up in H with 58 games.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Six teams all made quite a run at being included in this category, but both The Jeffersons and Flight Club pulled in two players a couple times each to sub, and Hump Day! really went more for a regular shorthanded-ness. That leaves three in the group of "so-close to that perfect weekly 6-player lineup": Shooter McGavin in C (one sub one time, but some nights short), Missing Flights in F (one sub two times, short a couple times), and Is It In? in G (one sub one time, and only short one time).

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I actually did well in several divisions, and did just as horribly in others. I was within one spot of nailing A, I mixed up Projectile and Cheapies in B, and I got a lot of H right (except that I didn't know who the Elite were). However, I completely flopped E division, G division, and some of F division (though my pick there did win the F tournament).

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I had a moderate record this time around, due almost entirely to a failure of epic proportions in G division. A sub-0.500 record in that division? Even despite finishing 7-1 there in the last two weeks? That's terrible. A coin is pointing and laughing at me for my failures there. And you know who is pointing and laughing? Sharky's Machine… the only team outside of G with whom I had a losing record… just couldn't figure those guys out. Anyway, I hit just over 68%, so I still got twice as many right as wrong, even with G in the mix.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And in these, I freakin' rocked it in most divisions! We jumped to best-of-three and I started nailing winners like crazy (even in that infernal G division!). I was a super strong 25-3 in the quarterfinals, a still pretty strong 10-6 in the semifinals, and then kept that same rate going in the finals when I hit 5 Mug winners. That gave me a final record of 40-12, which I think is pretty darn good considering that one wrong pick can sometimes cost me three games if that bad pick came in the first round. And how crazy is that after the rotten regular season I had there, the only one of the eight division tournaments that I got completely correct was G division?

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-two seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the eight 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the five 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [What an absolute struggle G division was for the entire season. I could just never figure them out, regardless of any past results, patterns, anything at all. It's hard to imagine how bad things could have been if Does That Count? hadn't been there for me.

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 7 question(s): (note: as with most historical statistics questions that I can ask here in the Trivia column, the following question includes only the most recent 40 seasons, as that is the amount of time that I have been statistician - records prior to that are largely incomplete and unavailable, and some things like doubles and overall records for individual weren't even tracked in many of the previous seasons) How many times has a thrower played at least 3 singles 301 games and at least 3 singles cricket games, and won all of the games in one set and lost all of the games in the other? What is the greatest number of games played in a single season for a player that has done that?

Week 8 question: What is the longest consecutively-running current team name in the RDL?

Week 9 question: What is the minimum number of darts it would take to complete a game of 1001 if every dart had to score less than the dart thrown before it?

Week 10 question(s): Alright, let's see who is good at estimating distances… What is the diameter of the double-bull? Single-bull? The inside wire on the triple ring? Outside wire on the triple ring? Inside wire on the double ring? Outside wire on the double ring? For a bonus question for all the math nerds out there, what does that leave for total area in the single-bull, double-bull, skinny single, triple, fat single, and double areas? (Assume the wires don't bounce out, meaning we will measure to the 'middle' of each wire... and answer in inches/feet.)

Week 11 question(s): How many different teams have won a regular season division title in just the past 4 seasons? Who are they? And who has the most? (Can you even name the ones in your own division?)

Week 12 question: We've given women's singles and ASL average Mugs for each division separately for 24 seasons. In that time, what is the average number of women per division who played enough games to qualify for each of those Mug awards?

Week 13 question: What is the greatest number of teams in a division that finished tied with the best record in the division (since spring 1996)?

Week 14 question: Since we separated the Ins/Outs/Fast Game by division in the Spring 2007 season, what is the highest number of categories won by one person in a season?

Week 7 answer: In my 39 seasons as statistician (the current one is my 40th season), exactly 5 RDL members have accomplished this statistical anomaly. And the king of this weird category is absolutely Greg Boykin of Travelin' Beer Bellies in D division in the Spring 2006 season - in that season Boykin was an excellent 8-0 in SCkt, but an equally sad 0-7 in 301!! Man, he must flippin' hate the doubles. Others in this small club are: Steve Wilcenski in A div. in Fa04 (0-3 in 301 and 3-0 in SCkt); Rob Rexrode in C in Fa14 (0-3 and 3-0); Jim Blinco in E in Fa99 (3-0 and 0-4); and Mark Sherman in B in Fa08 (3-0 and 0-4).

Week 8 answer: It turns out that I can't fully answer this question… Both Lunatic Fringe and Nine Lives have had their exact team names for every one of the 40 seasons during which I've been statistician, as well as for the 2 seasons before I took over the job. Beyond that, I'm honestly not sure which team has existed for a longer time. (Interestingly, I had a related discussion with Bob McCredie last week at our match. Bob has been in the RDL since the second season of the league's existence, back in… I believe it was 1982. He told me that he thought Nine Lives was the only team remaining with somebody who played all the way back in the first season. Does that mean the team has had the same name for all 68(?) seasons of the league's existence? Nine Lives guys, want to hook us up with the information?)

Additional Week 8 answer clarification: It turned out Nine Lives is absolutely the king of team name longevity. And that's not all… Butch Smith confirmed that he has played since the very first season of the RDL (I think that was in the spring of 1982?). Aaaaaaaand… the team name Nine Lives has been used for their team in every single season in the history of the RDL!!!

Week 9 answer: 32 darts. There are a few ways to break it down in those 32 darts, but here is one possible sequence (just to prove that it can be done): 60/57/54 - 51/50/48 - 45/42/40 - 39/38/36 - 34/33/32 - 30/28/27 - 26/25/24 - 22/21/20 - 19/18/17 - 16/15/14 - 12/8.

Week 10 answers: The diameter of the double bull is 1/2 inch; of the single bull is 1 & 5/16 inches; of the inside wire of the triple ring is 7 & 9/16 inches; of the outside wire of the triple ring is 8 & 3/8 inches; of the inside wire of the double ring is 12 & 5/8 inches; and of the outside wire of the double ring is 13 & 1/2 inches. Thus, the areas covered by each section are: 0.196 sq in (double bull), 1.16 sq in (single bull), 43.57 sq in (skinny singles area), 10.17 sq in (triples ring), 70.10 sq in (fat singles area), and 17.95 sq in (doubles ring). That means that 79.41% of the scoring area (not the full area of the bristles) is non-bull singles, 12.54% is non-bull doubles, 7.11 % is triples, 0.81% is single bull, and 0.14 % is double bull.

Week 11 answers: In the past 4 seasons, the 8 division have obviously produced 32 division titles. And those 32 titles have been divided among 23 teams, with Element (A,A,A) and Methodical Madness (D,C,B) each claiming 3, while BullsHitters (C,B), Darty (E,D), One Armed Bandits (F,E), Ducks (H,G), and Missing Flights (H,G) each won 2. Each of those seven teams won their multiple divisions in consecutive seasons, except Missing Flights. The other 16 teams with a recent division title are: Appetite for Destruction (A), Despicable Us (B), Fire for Effect (B), Excalibur (C), Projectile Dysfunction (C), Sharky's Machine (D), Death Throw (D), Brown's Bombers (E), I Got Nothing (E), Liquor Posse (F), Home Grown Wolves (F), T.E.D.S. (F), Your Mom (G), Shootin Da Bull (G), Whynot! (H), and AC Dart C (H). Answer update for the banquet Tons: Element in A, Methodical Madness in B, Darty in C, One Armed Bandits in D, and Missing Flights in F all added to their recent successes with another division title this Fall season.]

Week 12 answer: In the last 22 seasons, we've had 168 total divisions. And the average number of women that has played the minimum number of games for a singles award is 3.0 per division. For all-star point awards, the average has been 3.3 females per division. But those numbers include all divisions, and some divisions didn't have any women in them. If you exclude those women-less divisions, the average numbers of award-qualified women rises to 3.3 per division for singles and 3.6 per division for all-star point average. (Note: not every one of those divisions ended up having a singles Mug, as there wasn't always a female with the required 0.500+ singles win percentage.) Answer update for the banquet Tons: This season, roughly 3.5 women per division played the minimum number of games required for the individual awards.]

Week 13 answer: In my 39 previous seasons, there have been 10 divisions in which 3 teams tied for the best record, with the records ranging from 8-4 to 11-3. The two best races were H division in Fa07, and F in Fa08. The top 3 teams (at 8-4 in both seasons) were separated by a total of 1 point in Fa07-H, and 3 points in Fa08-F!

Week 14 answer: While quite a few people have taken home awards in 3 of the 6 categories, we've actually now had three different throwers who won awards in FOUR of the 6 categories. In the Fall 2007 season, Tom Wiegand of Dogs of War in B division was the first (148-In, 16-dart SCkt, 17-dart DCkt, 20-dart 501). And then in just the past year or so, we've had two. In the Fall 2014 season, we had Ken Trefzger of the One Armed Bandits in F division (160-In, 9-dart 301, 18-dart SCkt, 20-dart 501). Then this season, Robbie Phillips of The Eventual Element pulled it off in A(!) division, actually doing it by claiming all four of the fast game categories (8-dart 301, 15-dart SCkt, 19-dart DCkt, 15-dart 501).

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. [Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 twenty-song set that brought some pretty impressive sets of guesses… a few people knew more of these than I think I expected…*

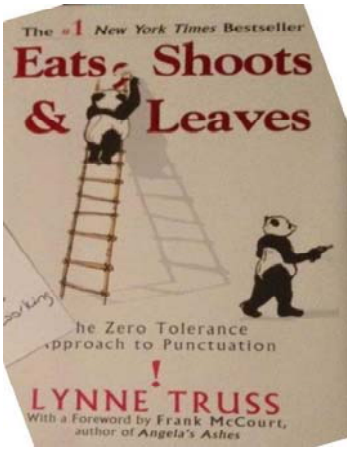
Week 2 theme: It was a nod to our new All About That Bull(Bass)! team, but clearly the theme was about all about some backside. Week 3 theme: This one was kind of weak, in my opinion, but for some reason I was just thinking about famous front men with a band or group of singers behind them that just gets listed as "and the…" And in the case of the E Street Band, they only even got that generic credit at live shows or on their late albums. Dang, that's kind of cold, Boss… Week 4 theme: Dude, if you can't see this one, you're not my friend… geez… Week 5 theme: The basic necessities of life - shelter, food, water. (No, darts are not a basic necessity of life.) Week 6 theme: It would take a pretty non-heroic effort to fail to see this theme. Week 7 theme: Girl power revenge songs!! Week 8 theme: Well, last week we had some girl power revenge songs… this week it was time to see how guys addressed the same issue. And here we have some cussing, some gun-loaded threats, and some mockery. Not sure I'm in with Sublime's plan (though theirs is the best song), but the other two work for me. Week 9 theme: I think it's pretty clear that the third song in that list sums up the theme. On film, in print, whatever. This one is for all those teenage boys out there who lived back when magazines still actually existed. Week 10 theme: Bush… Clinton… Jackson… this right here was a pretty Presidential set of songs. Week 11 theme: Well, the week before the lyrics were evidently pretty difficult, so this week we decided to go with something a bit "easier". Week 12 theme: The tub/shower, of course. Week 13 theme: Songs that are often mistaken (and in the case of the Aerosmith song very mistaken) to be the start of rap. I especially love that people think the Blondie song is the start, as the first three damn words reference Fab Five Freddie, thus proving that something came before it. Those people probably need to look up Coke La Rock and DJ Kool Herc, at the very least, though the song type was dabbled with long before them even. Week 14 theme: Actors with a hit song, with the songs listed in order by the singer's last name, alphabetically.

PUNCTUATION ROCKS!

Anyone who knows me well knows that I will mock them for really bad grammar, for lack of punctuation, etc. I love the t-shirt that says "Let's eat Grandma. Punctuation saves lives." Well, it turns out that there is a NY Times Bestseller for just us type of people (you know… people that speak actual English). Thanks to Angela Jeffcoat of Cork Tease for cluing me into this one. I think I just might have to get myself a copy. Not that 'zero tolerance' is really the approach I apply to people… but I'll bet it's funny…



HOW YOU KNOW YOUR TEAMMATES LOVE YOU…

Holy cow, sometimes people in our league simply go above and beyond in terms of making our nights out here into something so fun, and so much 'bigger' than this simple night of slinging sticks at a wall really is… Case in point: I present to you the 'North Raleigh News'. The guys on Pat's Blue Ribbon whipped this up in response to the first-ever Ton-80 by their teammate Jeff Cashin. In case the photo hadn't already given you a hint, the guys on Pat's Blue lovingly refer to Cashin as Beaker. I don't know Mr. Cashin, but I admit that I hope to soon… As the article points out "This was Jeff's first T80 and he made sure EVERYONE was aware." Congratulations, Mr. Excitable. Hope it's the first of many…

Cashin Hits T80 in Dart Match

By PATTY MURNANE

In a exciting E League dart semi-finals match last night, Jeff Cashin aka Beaker hit a Ton 80 in one of his matches and left his partner with a Double 1 out. This was Jeff's first T80 and he made sure EVERYONE was aware. His PBR team went on to a 14-10 victory!

International Moose Count Underway

By BOB O'BOBSTON

The UN-sponsored International Moose Census got off to a flying start today with hopes for an increase in the worldwide moose population compared to last year's dispointing figures. Among the traditional early reporters were Egypt, returning figUruguay whose moose population remains stable at eleven.

According to Robbie McRobson, head of the UN Moose Preservation Council, worldwide moose numbers are expected to grow markedly on last year due to the traditional moose strongholds of Canada and the United States, with the larger developing moose ecologies also poised to make gains. The largest percentagege increase in moose will likely come from China", says McRobson, The Chinese government has invested heavily in moose infrastructure over the past decade, and their committment to macrofauna is beginning to pay dividends". Since 2004 China has expanded moose pasture from 1.5% of arable land to nearly 3.648% and moose numbers are expected to rise to 60,000 making China a net moose exporter for the first time. This is good news for neighbouring Mongolia, a barren moose-wasteland whose inhabitants nonetheless have an insatiable desire for the creatures. The increase in Beijing-Ulanbataar trade is anticipated to relieve pressure on the relatively strained Rusdian suppliers, but increase Mongolia's imbalance of trade with its larger neighbour.

Historically the only competitor to China in the far eastern moose markets has been Singapore but the tiny island nation is set to report a net loss, expecting a decrease of more than five percent on last year's 50,000 moose counted. The head of Singapore's Agency for Agriculture, Jing-Feng Lau, explained to an incredulous Singaporean parliament yesterday that bad weather had contributed to this season's poor showing, most notably when a cargo of 150 moose were swept out into the Indian ocean in a monsoon.

Yet again the global demand for moose will be met largely by the US and Canada. The recession-hit States is taking comfort in its moose growth figures with gross production dominance of Canada shows no signs of abating though with this year's moose population expected to match last year's record figure of one hundred million billion.

Europe's rise as an international moose power will slow slightly this year as a response to the European Union's move towards standardising the European moose. Stringent quality controls are holding back the development of the eastern european populations compared to last year when they contributed significantly to europe's strong growth figures. Norway, which is not an EU member but has observer status, strengthed in numbers relative to the Euro area with numbers of Norwegian moose, known locally as elk" expected to rise for the tenth consecutive year, particularly thanks to a strong showing in the last quarter.

As moose season reaches its close, researchers world wide are turning to science in an attempt to boost next year's figures. NASA stunned the scientific community today with the announcement of their discovery that the moon is significantly smaller than previously believed. This conclusion, which is the conclusion of a ten-year collaborative project, will have profound implications for the moose community as the gravitational field is now known to be of the right strength to support moose in orbit.

According to John Johnson, head of the NASA Moon Sizing Experiment the first delivery of moose into low moon orbit could be achieved as early as the third quarter of next year. The technology to nurture moose in space is available now", he said, "all that is needed is political will".

WHAT A WEIRD SEASON OF FIRSTS…

This season (and tournaments), I think we had three things that happened that had not happened in my entire RDL statistician existence (that's 20 years… 40 seasons…). I really expected that at least one of them would happen eventually, but all three of these in the same season?

PLAYERS THAT LEFT… AND NEVER CAME BACK…

Honestly, I have no idea what precipitated it, but back in week 11, at the midway point of a match in H division, two of the top players in the division just decided to leave. The remaining players on their shorthanded team that night also decided to leave, creating the first half-match forfeit during my time here (that is not scored as a plain forfeit, by the way - all remaining points went to the team that was still there). But the weirder part to me is that neither of those top two players returned at any point for the rest of the season! The team played very shorthanded for two of the last three weeks, and the team experienced a bit of a freefall. And the absolute kicker to all of this is that the two players that left had already played enough games in the season to qualify for singles Mugs, and only one of the two was passed in the remaining weeks!

A TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONSHIP UNREPORTED

So, what happens when a tree falls in the forest? Does it still make a sound? Yes. But what happens when a tournament final winner doesn't bother to call/text/email the result? Do they still get Mugs? Well, as it turns out, nope. (Well, at least not at this banquet.) This is the one that I really didn't think would ever happen… most people are so happy they just can't wait to report their success…

TWO WINNERS OF THE SAME MATCH?!

And finally, the one that I honestly thought might come at some point, just… because… I know you guys… We had a tournament semifinal in B division after which BOTH teams reported themselves as the victors. No, they weren't so drunk that the losers thought they won or something like that - rather, they had a situation in the match that they did not handle definitively at the time, then they extended that wishy-washy-ness a second time. And they ended up with double grievances… Let me explain:

The score was 10-8 entering 501, with team A leading. In the first pair of 501, team B wins the first game of 501 and gets to an out in the second game. This is where the whole thing goes sideways. Team B hits the double, but the dart falls out… immediately? after a second? after a couple seconds? After the chalker acknowledged it? There's just no real agreement at the time. And there needed to be, obviously. Team B then makes the awful decision to agree to play on "to see what happens, and if it matters". Well, you can all see what is coming next: Team A hits the out to win game 2, then Team A wins game 3 to take the set and go up 12-8. Team A also wins the other pair being played at the same time to take a match-clinching 14-8 lead. Except… that Team B still has festering that they should have won the first pair (highlighting the fact that they never should have gone onward 'just to see' if it was going to be enough of a problem that they would bring it back up later).

But then… Team A jumps into the 'shouldn't have done that' club, as they agree to play on for the rest of the match as though Team B had indeed won the first 501, 'just to see what would have happened'. Well, you guys can already see what's coming, right? Team B wins the third 501… of course… and then Team B wins the 1001… of course…

Now both teams have a claim to the match win, with both wins being dependent on the outcome ignoring the decision that each made to play on even when they felt they were right. I'm sure that if you ask either team, they will both tell you that the only thing that they absolutely should have done differently is make a decision on the first situation at that time. None of this 'let's play on and let the whole situation fester' crap. And certainly not a second round of that uncertainty! Oh, oy.

In the end, Team A decided to agree that the out dart had been in the board long enough at least for the scorekeeper to note that it was in, and they withdrew their grievance to let the whole thing go away without the R&G Director having to make the decision for them.

Take notes, people… don't let this happen to you…

EMAIL CHATS THAT I GET TO HAVE

Being a little bit of a public persona here in the RDL, and with my email address plastered all over everything we have, I sometimes get the opportunity to have some pretty lengthy email chats with league members. These chats generally concern… well… whatever the hell is on their minds. Many of these chats I enjoy, and others I just survive (some of you are odd). But sometimes I encounter a person who just makes me laugh, or who I just respect, or who impresses me just because of their intelligence or outlook on things. Really is one of the best parts of this job…

And then there's Dave Krasnow of Them Handsome Devils. I have no idea what his division mates think of Dave (which probably means he's a pretty decent guy, as I generally hear more bad than good), but I freaking love emailing with him. His emails are so off the wall sometimes, and he's damn funny. (Well, note here: he's funny if you're intelligent… if you don't find him funny, well… ummm…) Anyway, sometimes we get into the weirdest freaking email chains. As an example, I present the following. I'm not even sure how to preface it… I don't know, it made me laugh…

Dave: "Maybe there is an 'I' in 'team' that I am not aware of."

Jason: "No, no I, but if you're mixed up enough, you can find the letters to spell out ME. And also Meat, and Eat, and Tea... heck, that's kind of a meal word…"

Dave: "As a kid, I was always looking for words that comprised large numbers of other words. I always thought that the word PIRATES supplied an inordinate number of words for a seven letter word. Man, are we weird or what??"

Yes, Dave, we are weird. And I completely admit that I spent the next 30 seconds after that mentally ripping through words I could make from the letters of 'pirates'. Plus… it's pirates… pirates are awesome. Right, matey?

[Note to the readers of the banquet Tons: if you didn't at least quickly glance at the word 'pirates' and pull out a list of words also, don't come stand next to me at the banquet. You're not cool, and I don't want to be seen with you. - JK]

A LEVEL OF PLAY WITH WHICH I AM UNFAMILIAR

I write all kinds of stuff in the newsletter gushing about stuff people did, big shots people hit, tournaments that they've won, etc. But sometimes it's the stuff they do right here at a regular Wednesday match that makes the biggest impression. This past week, my team was in the A division final against I'd Hit That (our longest-standing rivals, and really probably our best friends in the division, so the match was kind of awesome in a lot of ways already). But the point of this story is that Robbie Phillips and Kyle Gaulthier got matched up in singles cricket. I wish we had recorded it… To Phillips and Gaulthier, it likely felt like 'just another set' from the finals of a state championship, or the finals of a singles event at a $20,000 ADO tournament. But the rest of us don't get to experience those like they do, so when you get to watch a real battle like that, up close and personal (I was chalking!), it leaves an impression. Phillips hit two 9-marks, a 5-Bull, and about a dozen 6-marks and 7-marks. And he lost the set. At one point, I think Gaulthier finished a leg with 7m, 6m, 8m(including a DBull), then a one-number close. It's difficult to convey how good it was. My advice? Do NOT play them for money.

NICENESS PAYS…

Remember last season when Shane Richardson of One Armed Bandits said some nice things about his opponent, and then the opponent said that Shane was twice as nice. His opponents from past divisions are still telling me how nice he is, even this season. Beat that…

MORE DARTER WEDDING BLESS! I love these…

This season, I have a very special wedding to share with you. Why is it special you ask? Because the RDL has a new… "first lady??" That's right, ladies and gentlemen, President Tim "Tex" Mozzetti got married on October 10th of this year. Mozzetti (of Appetite for Destruction) somehow conned Petra Bowery (of Out for Fun) into agreeing to marry him I know, right? But seriously, everybody already loved Tex, so he goes and adds Petra (who everybody also loves), and now, well… look at them… They're like a GQ photo shoot gone… well, gone right.

I wish them all the happiness in the world, of course. Because I too am part of everyone, and that means I love both of them too. (And how cool is it that a sitting President got married while in office? Can you imagine that happening in the U.S. government? And yes, I've seen the movie The American President - that's actually quite an excellent movie, and I love that too…)

[And to think, just one year ago, I devoted an entire page here in the banquet edition of the Tons to a story about Tex nearly died on a crazy-ass fund-raising hike from Death Valley to Mount Whitney in California… Things move pretty fast around here.]

AND HERE'S ONE THAT HASN'T EVEN HAPPENED YET!

This one is a notice for all of you guys that like to joke about saving their male friends from 'making that mistake'. Tom Kubel and Nicole Hatch (both of Bye Week) have gotten engaged! They haven't set the exact date yet, but you still have quite a few months to 'save Tom' (as if that's the direction of that equation in this particular case…). His teammates actually sent me a note regarding this one: "We would like to wish the very best to two of our players and friends. Tom and Nicole are officially engaged to be married! If their doubles record together is any indication of their chemistry, they are in for a great ride! Congrats!"

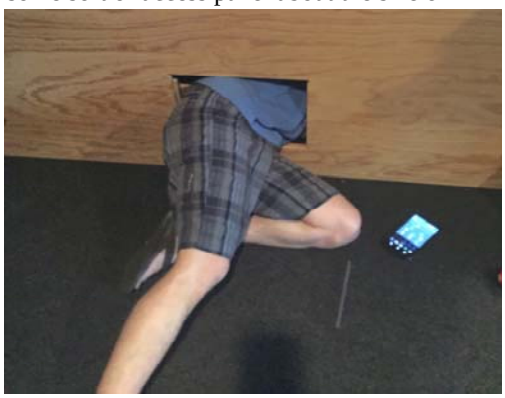
[And yeah, what's up with that? Look at Kubel's and Mozzetti's dart W/L records? Is that how we get the ladies nowadays?! - JK]

THIS CAN'T BE A GOOD PLAN FOR MAINTAINING THE CONDITION OF YOUR DARTS…

A few months ago at one of our Tuesday night Bull City Dart League matches, my teammate Joe Gaglione (of Fire "Ballz" here in RDL A division) was warming up on a board way to the left of the room. It was decided that the board he was using was one of the better boards in the room, and that we should move it over to the center of the room. When somebody took the board, Gaglione just kept on warming up, throwing another dart as if there was still a board there. And, of course, bam! Right where the double-bull "would have" been. You had better be pretty accurate when throwing that dart at that type of target… hitting the bracket just could not be good for your dart's point, right? [And while I don't have any proof of it, I think it's pretty much even money that Joe was actually warming up on the triple-20s or the triple-19s… But if he wants to go with the whole 'practicing bulls' story, who am I to get in the way?]

UMMM…. WHY? AND… HOW?

That wood board? That's the exterior of the underside of a pool table. That hole? It's some sort of access panel about the size of a small notebook. That body sticking out of the access panel hole? That's Rob Yang (of Cork Tease). His BCDL Tuesday night team, including several other RDL members, plays at The House on Miami Boulevard. And somehow Rob ended up mostly inside the pool table. And somehow the picture ended up in my hands. Why do I have this? Why was Rob in the pool table? What the hell kind of weird punishments do they have for missing the out? And how the hell did Rob even fit inside that hole (use the size of the phone next to him for perspective on this question)? Sometimes being the Tons editor is pretty interesting…



AND THEN THIS IS JUST DAMN COOL…

I love when RDL members go do amazingly cool stuff, and then share it with me (again, being the Tons editor can be interesting). How often does one of your friends/golfing buddies get to do something like go to Scotland to play St. Andrew's? That's Kenny Persson of I'd Hit That. If you don't know why this is so damn cool, find the nearest golfer, and ask him/her. Sweet…

MY OWN PERSONAL THANKSGIVING - a rambling thought page from me… because Random Thoughts isn't enough sometimes

Maybe it's because this season completes my second full decade as the RDL statistician (yep, 40 seasons)… maybe it's because my kids are growing up to the point that I see the empty nest coming… maybe it's because I'm just at a really happy place in my life. I don't really know why… but this past Thanksgiving, I started making a list in my head of things for which I was thankful. And it's pretty amazing how many of those things could be traced back to… darts. Seriously.

My wife, who I can not wait to see every single day when I get home from work? I met her at a dart match. My friends with whom I will go golfing this year? Met them through darts. My friends with whom I will play fantasy football for half the year? Met most of them through darts. My friends with whom I will play poker, go out to eat, hang out with on weekends? Mostly met through darts. My friends with whom I will travel across the country to attend rock festivals, with whom I will go to comedy shows, with whom I will go the beach/mountains/etc.? Darts, darts, and darts. People with whom I go to football and hockey games? Mostly through darts. People to fix my car? Met through darts. People to fix my plumbing? Met through darts. People who send me funny emails, who chat via email, and who go to movies with me? Often met through darts for all of them. It is crazy to sit and try to list all of the ways that joining a dart league here in the Triangle has affected me (and mostly for the better! :o).

But it's not just all the 'things I can list outside of the dart bar' that are things for which I'm thankful. I'm also thankful for the pure experience that IS a dart match here in the Triangle. And I certainly don't just mean the adrenaline of a good competitive setting (though that certainly is great too). What I mean is this… It's a Wednesday in some regular week of some regular month, just during the regular season, and I go to work for a full day just like any other Wednesday. And it's work, so I have to… ya know, work. And it's not all that fun sometimes, and some days it actually kind of sucks, because some people are too stupid to be employed… yet here they are, making your day longer for you. Thanks, stupid people. And you really just want to beat them down and end their stupid existence, but you know, laws and public safety. So all you can do is make it through your day and hope it gets better. And then the evening finally comes and you roll to your local host establishment. For me, that's the Deck. Because I like big crowds, I like having people telling stories, and I like that there's always someone there even when you stay late. But I'm getting ahead of myself… What follows, this is the best part…

I walk in to the Deck, and Sarah greets me with a "Hi, Darlin'." And Mark is sitting at the table waiting to share a funny photo with me. And Chad is already warming up and telling a funny hunting story (well, the hunters tell me it's funny). And Devin says "hey, JK!" with that giant infectious smile she always has. And Paulie is already at the jukebox playing the best music anyone will choose all night. And Dylan is standing behind Paulie deciding which songs he'll choose that will make everybody groan and yell at him. And Ellie comes by and says something adorable… because it was Ellie saying it. And then Robbie takes my darts out of my hand and hits a 180 and walks away without looking me while leaving my darts there in a score to which they are generally unaccustomed. And Wil calls me to ask why nobody is there with him at the bar in Garner, despite the fact that I just saw Wil outside. And Sid walks in, awesomely wearing an Appetite for Destruction t-shirt from a concert on some other continent. And Simon walks over and says something that might or might not be a joke, which makes him laugh more when he sees that you aren't sure which it is. And Julie is there, chastising me for not hugging her first. And Mike Y. is there ready to talk up my beloved Red Wings. And Allen is doing his lift-the-skirt-smack-the-ass victory story. And Angela is politely waiting to the side, quietly waiting for a giant hug. And Jerry walks in… holy crap, that must mean I have about 3 minutes left to list. And Grubber is there with an "alright, man, how you doin'?" And then Lis spots me with a "whatUP!?" And then a solid fist bump from Stepp that comes with an awesomely funny sarcastic comment. And then I spot Kyle, who is staring at his phone… at least until he sees me and wants to show me the 27th car he has fixed up this year. And Billy comes in without a baseball hat on… wait, could that really be Billy? And Doug is in the corner beating himself up because he picked the wrong running back in our fantasy football game (so he only won by 15 and not by 20). And maybe Joey G is there, and he has been since 6:30, because his boss let him leave work early. And Lee is there, lying to her husband that she will be rooting for his team and not her son's (which is my team). And finally Tom rolls over to the boards, but I knew he was here because I rode over here with him and we spent the entire way talking hunting (I know nothing) and football (I know a lot) and chicken wings (I know a LOT, about eating them…). And then Tex walks up… holy crap, that means that it has gotta be 8 o'clock and I'm not listed yet. And then a handshake from Dean.. I respect a guy that says hello with a handshake. And of course Scott will be yelling at Dean shortly about calling him Gramps. And it has been a while since Zak's hair was a color I can't identify in bar lighting. And dammit, is Yang drinking my Newcastle? And then I stop and talk with somebody that I don't even know, because he has a dart story, and he recognize me as the 'Tons guy', and his story might be hilarious, or it might be stupid… but it's 'his' story, so I'm down with listening. And I think I hear Mike already laughing about whatever prank he pulled at work today that is in the story he's telling. And Kenny is giving Mike a look of 'I can't believe I hang out with you' despite the fact that he has hung out with him for a decade. And Bob Terry walks up with a "helloooo, Jason Kilts", because he always includes my last name (so I included his here). And now Joel walks in… aw, crap, now I really know that I'm late to getting to my list.
--- --- And you know what? It's only 8:10, I've only been at the Deck for half an hour or so, and I already feel better about… everything. --- ---

Maybe this is why my favorite television show has been, and maybe always will be, Cheers. It's where everybody knows your name. I guess the Deck is sort of like that for me. And I'm not even a nightly regular. And I really don't drink all that much (well, at least in comparison to some darters, I suppose). But it's a home away from home, and there are always people home. Heck, everybody there even knows my son when he comes there, and he's only there a few times a year because of school. So, it's even a bit of a home that recognizes family.

But make no mistake… while the Deck is my current dart home, and the 'place' is the home by definition, it's the people that make it that way. That's the part for which I am thankful. I am thankful for all those listed above, and all those that I will see in the coming weeks that I just didn't have space to include here. And I'm also thankful for the memories from there, and the laughs that have accompanied them.

And I miss some of the elements (see what I did there?) that have added to my whole dart experience over the years too. The number of times that Jon Kenney gave me the most heartfelt hand-clasp (not a handshake) and hug. The resounding yells of 'Cado!' every time Alberto entered the room. [Seriously, has anybody ever worn a nickname better than Alberto? Have you seen his frickin' shirt?! Amazing.] And I wonder if Jeremy owns an Ohio State t-shirt for every day of the month… oh, and Drink-a-kowski is maybe the best nickname ever. Geez, I wish Riner was still here - that guy could make me laugh with the shortest sentence. And Jeremiah, he made me love the competition of the game even when I sucked (which was often, by my team's standards). And Wade, one of the founding members of Element and one of the purely nicest people I've ever met (and Wade is a really good writer - I respect that a bunch). And I would say that I would look forward to seeing Lisa when I walked in, but if you think she wasn't already in my carpool on the way over here, you are foolishly mistaken. And what I would give to be picked up by Dale, another founding member of Element, at a dart match just one more time.

Yeah, I owe a lot to darts. When I moved to North Carolina for grad school back in 1991, I had no idea what was ahead of me. Thank you Chris Joneckis, wherever you are, for asking me to play on that first lab dart team (boy oh boy, we were bad) back in my first year of grad school. I didn't know it then, but that one little thing shaped my life for the better for decades to come. Cheers to all of you…

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and once again much of it was written when it was already today… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

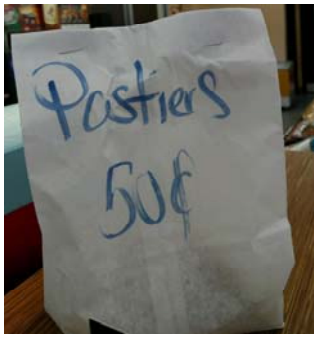
-- You know what's first... it's Survivor time! But this time it's a very short note: never play your hidden Immunity Idol on another person, especially when nobody even knows you have it. Save it for yourself. Duh. You're killin' me here…

-- Does anybody else have the Gmail app on their phone? Is it just me, or is there no way to turn off the damn conversation mode? And why the heck is that the default system in the first place?! It makes my mail just about unreadable on that device. Un-read-a-ble. That isn't a great term to have describing your app that is supposed to be providing people things to, ya know, read.

-- Have any of you (probably ALL of you) seen or heard the Blue Cross Blue Shield ads where they constantly blurt out their hot new phrase "Live Fearless"? That ad is on all the dang time. And they ask you to 'pledge to live fearless'. Well, I have something to pledge for them… I would like to pledge them some flippin' adverbs… That dumbass ad drives me nuts. How does stuff like that hit the mainstream?

-- And while we're on the 'main stream', I'm going to take this opportunity to revisit an old favorite of mine (that got quite a lot of agreement feedback). So, last week my wife cut her thumb pretty badly, and so for a day or two we were limiting stress on it, including me driving anywhere if we were going out. She had an appointment at her doctor's office, just for an annual physical and checkup, so I went with her and drove. Now, mind you, this is an ob/gyn, and at a private office, not in the emergency room where you might expect to encounter a bunch of males. I am, of course, the only male there. And for some reason, when I see the unisex bathroom right there in the waiting room, I think to myself "oh, dangit, I have to pee, but all of these women are going to think that I'm probably some nasty guy going in there to mess up their pristine little ladies' room". Well, I decide that it's silly to just sit there and think about it, so I get up my nerve and go in. Little did I know that I wasn't getting up my nerve to be an unwanted visitor in their sanctuary… I was getting up my nerve to walk into the disgusting warzone that they call a public ladies' room. HOLY. CRAP. Ladies… I'm a fairly educated man. And I have a pretty strong working knowledge of both the female anatomy AND the likelihood of passing diseases via contact with a toilet seat. And I have just one comment for you: "Sit your stupid hovering asses on the damn seat!" Your aim is not that good, and your body shape does not always lend itself for accurate direction prediction. That's just a fact, and nothing of which you should be ashamed. What you should be ashamed of (if you are indeed a hoverer) is peeing all over the seat, all over the floor next to the seat, all over the wall next to the floor next to the seat, etc. Because you see, once one hoverer fails to convert, every contestant after that hoverer now sort of has to become a hoverer by default. And the ironic conclusion is that the nastiness the original hoverer was trying to avoid is actually caused by that hoverer herself. You have to stop. You really just HAVE to stop. Seriously.

-- I am, as always, writing this column last. And this night had the serious potential to be a super late-nighter (as in barely any sleep, even for me). And last night I had to take off from about 6 to 9 p.m. to go see my son's "dance concert" (they really need a better name) at the Durham School of the Arts. They have new teachers/directors this year, and we weren't sure how everything would turn out, but let me tell you… THEY. FLIPPING. NAILED. IT. The show was amazing. The production, the movements, the lighting, the choreography. Holy crap, these are 7th-12th grade kids! The show was good last year, but it was exceptional this year. I left in such an amazing mood that I fairly tore through the last few pages here. If you like people, or kids, or dance, or just smiling… I actually recommend you hit one of their shows next year. And no, I can't believe I actually just recommended to people that I like that they go see a school show in which they have no children. That's crazy talk. Except that this time it isn't.



-- So I'm with my son at a local convenience store last week, and I came upon this display. I must have stood there for maybe 15-20 seconds staring at it trying to figure out what the heck I was looking at, until my son noticed, walked by, and quickly said "pastries, dad". Did you see it right away? I sure didn't. I was so trying to turn it into some French word… Stupid bad spellers, messing with me. There should be some sort of interview process to get a job… Oh… right.

-- Hey, do me a favor, ok? If you have ever uttered "hashtag" as part of your sentence in a conversation, punch yourself in the face. No, not like that, ya wuss… I mean really punch yourself, enough to make an impression such that you won't want to do it again. And if you do happen to do it again, punch yourself in the face then too. … … … And on two related notes: #1 - that symbol is either the pound sign or the number sign, and is not a hashtag. A hashtag is the entire phrase that includes a starting number sign, and is not just the number sign itself. #2 - get the hell off Twitter, or at least stop typing there, as you are nowhere near being important enough that anyone else should care. Ugh. (And do you want proof that I was right about this one? When you read my two related notes in the half dozen lines before this, did you mentally say "number 1" and "number 2", or "hashtag 1" and "hashtag 2"? Of course you said number, because it's the number sign. And if you actually did read it as hashtag instead of number, please come find me, because now I need to punch you in the face.)

-- I know that I'm going to get a lot of pushback on this one, but I think the North Carolina Ladies' Cup (and possibly the North Carolina City Dart League) needs a rule change. They need to cut down the number of teams that qualify for their tournament. When the tournament is just sort of a silly extra-season item (like I picture the RDL tournaments :o), it's fine to just have all teams participate. But when the tournament is an extension of the season, for which you need to qualify, and after which state champions are crowned from it, there needs to be a point at which only teams that have "earned" a shot get in the tournament. The new ladies' champions had a great weekend, and I'm sure they're very nice women… but they lost two-thirds (yes, 67%) of their matches during the course of the year. How can the 'champion' lose twice as often as they win all year long?

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE OCTOBER MEETING

== The NCCDL will operate with the same 13 teams as we had this season, and divisional play will return to the East/West format that we have employed in even-numbered years for a while now. Unlike in many past years, the exact division lineup was finalized at the state meeting in October. The West division will include 6 teams: Asheville, Pineville, Charlotte, Lake Norman, Piedmont, and Chapel Hill. The East division will include 7 teams: Port City, Wilmington, Jacksonville, Capital Area, Raleigh, Cary, and Durham. (This alignment is the same as two years ago, except that Durham has been switched back from the West division to the East division this time around.) All teams will play each other team within their divisions, and will also have 2 interdivisional matches on their schedules (except for 2 teams in the larger East division, who will have one extra intradivisional match in place of a second interdivisional match, due to the difference in number of teams in the divisions). This means that West division teams will play 7 matches, and that East division teams will play 8 matches.

== The NCLC will operate with the same 11 teams as it had this season, also with an East/West format. The West division will include Asheville, Hickory, Pineville, Charlotte, Piedmont, and Chapel Hill. The East division will include Wilmington, Jacksonville, Fuquay-Varina, Capital Area, and Apex. The West division will play 7 matches, and the East division will play 6 matches, and all teams will have 2 interdivisional matches on their schedules (except for 2 teams in the larger West division, who will have one extra intradivisional match).

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Cary NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 20 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte
1997: Piedmont over Durham
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
2000: Durham over Charlotte
2001: Durham over Wilmington
2002: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham
2004: Wilmington over Durham
2005: Durham over Wilmington
2006: Durham over Charlotte
2007: Durham over Charlotte
2008: Durham over Charlotte
2009: Wilmington over Charlotte
2010: Wilmington over Durham
2011: Durham over Lake Norman
2012: Durham over Wilmington
2013: Wilmington over Lake Norman
2014: Durham over Wilmington
2015: Wilmington over Piedmont

Request to the NCLC Ladies: if any of you have a history of the results like the one above for the NCCDL, I would love to have a copy of those so I can periodically run an NCLC history as well. Drop me a line please if you're willing to share.

TONS OF NEWSLETTER

Home to the Spring Session of the Raleigh Dart League for the Banquet, Saturday, May 21, 2016 Issue #JK656
The "No, Really, I Do Mean Directly Across From The Flag… As In Directly Across..." Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Element Way (14-2)

The Element completes the most dominant run in RDL history by tying the A division record of 3 total points allowed in 3 tournament matches, after breaking the league point record in an undefeated regular season. At the same time, the RDL ties its own record as Element was the only team completing a season/tournament double.

"B" Division - Darty Sanchez (13-7)

It has now been a couple years since Darty has lost a tournament match, as they claim their fourth consecutive tournament title (E / D / C / B, in order) on their way to taking a shot at A Mugs.

"C" Division - One Armed Bandits (13-7)

The Bandits take down the C season winners in the finals, and have very nearly duplicated the tournament run that Darty has had (see B result above) - in the last four tournaments (F / E / D / C, in order), the Bandits have two sets of Mugs and two narrow 13-11 losses.

"D" Division - Pat's Blue Ribbon (14-10)

Pat's Blue sweeps 501 to come from behind and end the Handsome Devils' win streak at thirteen matches, meaning that Pat's Blue also holds two of the Devils' three total losses this season/tournament.

"E" Division - The Drinkers Awaken (13-5)

It was a tale of two seasons for the Drinkers, as they finish their season/tournament with nine wins in the last ten weeks, capped by a dominant win over… wait for it... the last place team from the regular season (yes, Public School made it to the Mug finals)!

"F" Division - Coach's Crew (14-10)

It wasn't easy for the Crew in any of their three tournament matches, with their Mug run finally completed with a come-from-behind 501 sweep over Wayne Gretzky, who also played only close matches.

"G" Division - Ballistic Behavior (12+-12)

After losing all three 501s and then trailing by 400(!) points when their opponents reached the out in 1001, Josh Phillips and his 64-out save the day for #6 seed Ballistic, making them the only team seeded lower than #3 to claim a set of Mugs this season.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Element Way (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - I'd Hit That

"B" Division - Rif Raf (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Darty Sanchez

"C" Division - Shooter McGavin (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Menace 2 Sobriety

"D" Division - Them Handsome Devils (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Just Like That

"E" Division - Mike's Garage (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - The Drinkers Awaken

"F" Division - The Sofa Kings (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Coach's Crew

"G" Division - Another Sinking Ship (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Chatham Street Elite

(Rosters of all tournament-winning and regular season first place teams can be found on page 4.)

SPRING 2016 RDL DIVISIONAL TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

This is becoming kind of a trend… a LOT of parity in several of our divisions, but somehow we really don't end up with many tiebreakers. There were only 32 this season (with 3 of those coming during the divisional tournaments). E division led the way with 7 tiebreakers played (6 in the season, 1 in the tournament). F had 6 tiebreakers, C and G each had 5 tiebreakers (with 2 of those in G coming during the tournament), and A, B and D each had 3 tiebreakers.

Five teams played 3 or more tiebreaker games, while sixteen teams never went into extra time.

This season's Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) goes to Don't Hit the Scorekeeper in G division, our only team to step into 1001 four times this season. And they enjoyed the extra leg so much that they snagged two of those in the tournament semifinals and finals. Yes, an extra game after a 12-12 match of best-of-three sets, in G division. I'm just guessing they got more darts per dollar than the standard RDL team this season.

The Heartbreak Award could be shared by as many as five teams, as that's exactly how many tied for the most tiebreaker losses this time around. But that number of losses for the leaders? Two. Yep, two. No team in any division lost more than two. Yay, for… everybody… but boo for this part of this column. I guess that means that in the end I will have to give this award to Mike's Garage in E division, and the aforementioned Don't Hit the Scorekeeper in G division. Both the Garage and Scorekeeper not only lost two tiebreakers, but the second loss for each of them spelled out their tournament demise. Pretty sudden ending for a Mug run in that one-game-of-1001-all-play format.

FALL 2016 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wed., Aug. 3rd - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, August 10th - Start of Fall season match play

Monday, Sep. 12th - Fifth week captains' meeting, The Upper Deck

Wed., Nov. 16 / 30, Dec. 7 - Fall season divisional tournaments

Saturday, December 10th - Fall season banquet, site TBD

THIS RIGHT HERE? I CAN RESPECT THIS

Them Handsome Devils in D division pulled away from the pack to take the regular season title, after the first half of the season seemed to portend a wild and even race. Then they trucked on through their tournament quarterfinal and semifinal matches. Then… they got dumped on their derrieres by a strong night (including a hot string of 501s) by Pat's Blue Ribbon in the finals. A lot of people would whine and complain about '01 being more random, about the season being the bigger achievement, etc. But what did Dave Krasnow of the Devils say in an email to me after their loss? (for clarification, the main impetus of the email was to make sure that he had called in his teammate's 9m the week prior) Well, he said this:

"Pat's Blue Ribbon were very deserving champions that threw well from start to finish down the entire lineup… A tremendous clutch effort by Pat's beginning with Jeff over Ryan in 301, with Ryan reaching an out in both games, but Jeff throwing an 11 dart game followed by a 12 dart game to nip Ryan both times. In a way, that win kind of set the tone for what was to come. And late in the match, when the Devils were leading 10-8 going into 501, Pat's bore down and swept 501 like they needed to, to avoid a 12-12 tiebreaker. In the 3 of the 4 doubles matches that Pat's won, the Devils won the first game, and then lost their focus, losing two straight to lose the point. More of a great win by Pat's than an embarrassing collapse by the Devils. Pat's was clearly the better team last night.'

SPRING 2016 PENALTY SUMMARY

Oh, holy crap!! You guys almost certainly had to have set some sort of league record this season. I would have to go back and dig through all of my past files to really be certain (and I really just don't have that much free time this week), but once you read these statistics, you'll see why I'm so relatively certain…

This season there were only EIGHT total penalties. EIGHT! That is so flippin' great. I realize this was not an election season, so there aren't ballot penalties this season. And there wasn't a captains' meeting, but that was an "earned" absence because everyone was handling business so well. So this season's captains really excelled like maybe never before.

There were 3 phone penalties (totaling 15 points) and 5 mail penalties (80 points). And… that's it.

A, C, D and E divisions had ZERO penalties. And only 6 teams in the entire league drew a penalty. 3 teams in B each got one penalty (for a total of 37 points), 2 teams in G each got one penalty (for a total of 32 points), and 1 team in F got three penalties (for a total of 26 point).

This season's clear loser in the penalty situation was the only team to garner more than one penalty. Dodging Darts in F division not only got the most penalties (3) for the most points (26), but they were also the only team to drop in the standings due to penalty (from 5th down to 7th!).

NEED SOME SUMMER DART OPTIONS?

Leagues? Blind draws? Tournaments? We have 'em all!

Wednesdays - Brown's Billiards In-House Summer League

Brown's is hosting its 2nd annual In-House League, with a player draft for teams on May 29th (you do not have to be present). $20 per player, season is 10 weeks, and league plays starts June 1st at 8 p.m. The league has 100% payout, and Brown's adds $20 per team. For more info: David Huffman, (919)369-7656; or Rom Knight, (919)985-0378; or Brown's Billiards (919)878-9092.

Tuesdays - BCDL - Durham Handicapped Steel-Tip League

The Bull City Dart League continues its year-round play, but the season that starts in the summer doesn't match the RDL break quite as well as in some years. The final location of registration hasn't been set yet, but that registration closes at 7 p.m. on July 19th, and you can get updates at the league website (www.thebcdl.org). The league plays Tuesday nights throughout Durham and RTP, and uses a rolling handicap system to level the playing field quite a bit. Teams consist of 4-8 players (about 6 is the norm), and dues are $25/player per season.

Thursday league - TDL - in Chapel Hill/Durham

The registration information for the TDL isn't out yet, but the spring finals were this past Thursday. So I would expect the registration meeting to occur sometime soon. Check www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ for information updates soon. The teams in TDL consist of 6-10 players per team, and dues are $20/ player per season. I believe this past season the league used 2 bars in Chapel Hill and 2 in Durham, although I'm not certain that list is necessarily static, and is likely more determined by the number of teams that are registered (and bar availability).

Or maybe a blind draw…

Page 8 lists the regular weekly blind draws offered by RDL host establishments, and there are a bunch. But I have also confirmed both The Upper Deck AND Sharky's Place will be adding weekly Wednesday draws for every week this summer. They will have basically the same features as their regular draws listed on page 8, except that there is no Wednesday "triple shot" at the Deck.

And for those lookin' for a bigger tournament…

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "G" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for all Divs. (except teams D6, E5, F1 & F7) (8 teams / div.):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for teams D6, E5, F1 & F7 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played

PENALTY LOG

Here are all the penalties assessed this season.
Phone (5 pts.): OT Outlaws (B,wk.13), Dodging Darts (F,wk.4,wk.10).
Mail (16 pts.): Rif Raf (B,wk.5), Nine Lives (B,wk.9), Dodging Darts (F,wk.4), Is It In? (G,wk.1), Chalk it Up (G,wk.1).

THE THIRTY-NINTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

All of RDL	Robbie Phillips	The Element Way
A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Element Way
B Division	David Martin	Rif Raf
C Division	J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety
D Division	Austin Mitchell	Just Like That
E Division	Angelo Azevedo	Bye Week
F Division	Randy Wilcox	Coach's Crew
G Division	Josh Phillips	Ballistic Behavior

"A" Division

Tom Brown	The Element Way	Bigg Dogg's brief slump is looong gone.
Kyle Gaulthier	I'd Hit That	Can simply hit any big shot at any point.
John Kramer	The Element Way	He wanted "rookie of the season". Ha!
Chad Massengill	The Element Way	Completed his set of singles title Mugs.
Tim Mozzetti	Appetite for Destruc	Clearly an RDL top ten stalwart now.
Robbie Phillips	The Element Way	Every game could be a shot at a record.
Mike Seward	I'd Hit That	Mr. Consistency still is exactly that.
Wil Tan	The Element Way	Started slow, but finished like a monster.

"B" Division

Will Bennett	OT Outlaws	Huge season for the ever-shorthanded.
Jimmy Davis	High & Tight	Nice addition of a longtime RDL winner.
Jack Gibson	Nine Lives	Nice balanced season for balanced team.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	If he ever gets back to full time, look out.
David Martin	Rif Raf	14 straight 301 wins? Seriously? Wow.
Chris Moody	Darty Sanchez	So strong for first 3 sets. Then… 501…
Darin Osenberg	Rif Raf	Another part-time crusher for B winners.
Jim Peele	Darty Sanchez	Team isn't the same when he's absent.

"C" Division

Brian Howard	Shooter McGavin	Led team to season title & almost Mugs.
John Jenkins	Armed and Hammer	Most excellent to see him back in form.
Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	There are officially 2 big Menaces now.
Kris Kilsdonk	One Dart One Kill	Cricket monster often carried her team.
Ronnie Knott	Shooter McGavin	Great in cricket, decent in the '01 sets.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Uber-consistent again for Mug winners.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	One 301 from a perfect singles season…
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	So good... he's an automatic inclusion.

"D" Division (I could've easily picked TWELVE here…)

Brad Adams	Pat's Blue Ribbon	Got nearly half of his team's DCkt wins.
Jeff Cashin	Pat's Blue Ribbon	Came up biggest at the biggest times.
Ryan Cusman	Them Handsome De	10+-wins in all four sets? Yes, please.
Bryan Garland	Them Handsome De	Biggest winner for runaway title team.
Dave Krasnow	Them Handsome De	Is he really just third best on his team?
Austin Mitchell	Just Like That	Another 10+ win in all sets guy? Sweet.
Jason Thomas	Ted's 180 Emporiun	Should really just leave himself 6 in 501.
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Starts out hot, slowly tails off each set.

"E" Division

Angelo Azevedo	Bye Week	Only 1 loss in each of 3 sets. Crazy.
Randy Deemer	2 Hump Day!	Superb cricket carries moderate '01 stats.
Mike Gardner	Mike's Garage	His team, his name, his division title.
Ernie Gilyardi	Mike's Garage	Would own E if work schedule allowed.
Robert Massengill	Mike's Garage	Well, that's 2 Massengills on this page…
Jeff Rudy	Flight Club	I'm (barely) ignoring the doubles record.
Lou Tufillaro	Bye Week	Sometimes consistent/steady is enough.
Matt Veith	The Drinkers Awak	Tough pick here… team is so balanced.

"F" Division (lots of really worthy candidates here…)

Doug Bozza	The Sofa Kings	Really solid in first 3 sets for top team.
Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers	Holy cow, his talent climb continues!
Dave Maley	The Sofa Kings	Captain led by example, to the F crown.
Joe Rigert, Jr.	Wayne Gretzky	So good, but not even the best Rigert.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	Probably best player not on the Crew.
Kevin Scott	Coach's Crew	If only Wilcox didn't hog the spotlight.
Brent Snyder	All About That Bull!	So strong, led his team in… everything.
Randy Wilcox	Coach's Crew	Best ever player addition in F division?

"G" Division

Daniel Cantwell	Is It In?	Doubles king for team living in doubles.
Keith Feller	Ballistic Behavior	Welcome back, Feller. Time to move up.
Danny Ives	Chatham Street Elite	Bit of a slow 301 start, but then strong.
William McEwen	Another Sinking Shi	Pretty great season to be third on team.
Joe Munroe	Another Sinking Shi	Biggest winner for the runaway titlists.
Charles Parker	Another Sinking Shi	Did just about everything on the Ship.
Josh Phillips	Ballistic Behavior	Led team for 3 sets, and saved the Mugs.
Jeff Russell	Chatham Street Elite	Is Chatham's 2nd straight singles winner.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections With every division playing without byes this season, we put together a decent group of members here this season. Five league members joined (or re-joined) the club this season. Both Chad Massengill and Robbie Phillips of The Element Way achieved this toughest of feats in the league's top division; Ryan Cusman of Them Handsome Devils and Austin Mitchell of Just Like That both managed it in D division; and Joe Munroe of Another Sinking Ship was ruling the roost in G division. There were some other close efforts as well, so let's recognize some honorable mentions (for three ten-win sets and/or four nine-win sets): Dave Johnson and J.J. White of Menace 2 Sobriety in C, Brian Howard of Shooter McGavin in C, Jimmy Dzengeleski of Dynamic Darts in D, Dave Krasnow and Bryan Garland of Them Handsome Devils in D, and Josh Phillips of Ballistic Behavior in G

-IronMan/Woman Award: Since every division had a full slate of matche this season, every team had an equal (or nearly equal, due to a few forfeits around) this season. In the end, our Iron Man Award goes t Chris Peterson of OT Outlaws in B with 71 games. The honorable mentions for other division leaders go to: Tyler Wright of Ridin' Dirty in A with 62; Mike Holly of The Bunkers and Jimmy Bateman of Sharky's Machine in C with 58; Rick Dysard of Death Throw in D with 58; Larry Warshawsky of 2 Hump Day! in E with 67 Aaron Saunders of A.K.A. Redacted? in F with 63; and both Josh Phillips of Ballistic Behavior and Brian Berman of Pints of Authority in G with 59

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Oh, yes!! The days of a team havin six players play every set all season have finally returned! The OT Outlaws tried to do it this season, but they ran into a lot of shorthanded nights. The Bunkers in C made a pretty decent run at it, but carried a seventh thrower, as did Missing Flights in E. But… after years without a real member in this club, Shooter McGavin in C listed the same six players in EVERY set of the season Yes! And it was a clearly a recipe for success as they ruled their division!

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I will again give real results… bummer. Sometimes these results can border on embarrassing…

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I actually did alright. Nothing amazing, but still decently. I overestimated Fringe a little in A; I gave too much credit to the Outlaws and High & Tight in B, while not giving Rif Raf enough; then C was kind of a mess for me and I really missed on McGavin; I didn't give the Devils or Pat's enough credit in D (way not enough in the case of Pat's); I hit mostly all of E except for the Garage, who won the whole thing; I was pretty close on nailing F; and the only part I didn't hit almost exactly in G was that I was (rightfully) afraid that the Ship would be shorthanded too often.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. As noted on that page, I had at least an even 0.500 record for every last team in the league, and my picks were only as low as that for two teams. I did really well in A (since I know those players the best, and there is less team movement there than in other divisions), but also did pretty decent to pretty well in every other division as well. An overall final correct pick rate of 72.16% isn't my best ever, but I can easily accept that.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… Often when we jump to best-of-3, my picks get stronger, despite the fact that I'm picking semifinals and finals that I conceivably could have wrong before the matches are even played. This season, however, was one of my biggest tournament collapses ever! The tournaments were wild rides consisting of upset after upset in most divisions, and in the end I finished with a pretty weak 27-22 overall record. I hit 17 of 28 quarterfinals (setting me up for a bunch of failed later picks before the matches even started), added on a 7-7 semifinals record, and then I hit 3 of the 7 Mug winners (which really isn't bad, since only one #1 seed won Mugs).

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-three seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the two 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and this season there are ZERO 'x' symbols that would have indicated the teams that fooled me more often than not. [After what felt like a really rough start with a handful of teams this season, I was able to fight all the way back to even or better with every team in the league!! Only the Cheap Shots and Don't Hit the Scorekeeper were able to hold me down to 0.500. B, C and D were my toughest divisions, but I still managed greater than 64% correct even in my worst division.]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 8 question: (note: as with most historical statistics questions that I can ask here in the Trivia column, the following question includes only the most recent 40 seasons (this season makes 41), as that is the amount of time that I have been statistician - records prior to that are largely incomplete and/or unavailable, and some things like doubles and overall records for individuals weren't even tracked in many of the previous seasons) How many individual player seasons are included in the sum of my 41 seasons here in the RDL? (Interesting note here for the curious: Yes, I have a master datasheet of the season summary statistics for each player in each and every season. And yes, I can pretty quickly and easily pull any individual's season-by-season totals in a single spreadsheet if you are ever interested in your own. Or in others' I suppose, if you're trying to settle a bet or some similar debate/discussion.)

Week 9 question(s): As noted above, we have 475 league members this season. The recent many seasons have been the biggest membership seasons in league history, so it has been a little while since we had as few as 475 registered. When was the last season we had this few? And when was the league high in membership, and how many members do think it was?

Week 10 question(s): What is the league record (at least in the last 40 seasons) for total team points in a 14-match season? And what's the record for total team points in a 12-match season? (And anyone who wants to guess can also just answer in a points-per-week fashion as well, as that's sometimes easier to grasp.)

Week 11 question(s): What is the highest total of perfect throws by one person in one season in the RDL (as always, in the last 40 seasons - which is likely the all-time record anyway)? Who did it, and in what season?

Week 12 question(s): How many bars/restaurants have hosted RDL matches in this and the past 40 seasons? Which of them have been in the RDL the greatest number of seasons in that time span? Can you name any/all of them?

Week 13 question(s): How many establishments have hosted an RDL final in the past 10 years (20 seasons)? Which have hosted the most finals? Which has hosted the same division the greatest number of times?

Week 14 question: Exactly how many seasons now has the RDL given white mugs for the best doubles win percentage in each division?

Week 8 answer: Counting this season, there have been 19,691 player seasons since I took over as statistician in the spring 1996 season. In those 41 seasons, we've had 2,299 teams sign up, with an average of 8.57 players per team. That equates to a seasonal average of 56.1 teams and 480.3 players per season. Given that we have 56 teams and 475 league members this season, this is a pretty average season when considering just the last 41 seasons.

Week 9 answer: The last time we had a number of members this low was the Spring 2007 season, when we had 474 members. On the plus side, at the time, that 474 was a league record, so the league is still bigger right now than it was at any point ever before 2007. The all-time league high in membership came in the Spring 2010 season when we had a whopping 586(!) members in the only season we've had that necessitated the inclusion on an I division.

Week 10 answer: The total point record is 265 points in a 14-match season (for an average score of 18.93 points per week for the season). That total was rung up by Element Horizon in A division in the Fall 2010 season, in a 14-0 season that was followed by a tournament title as well. The total point record for a 12-match season is 216 points (18.00 points per week), posted by No Element of Doubt in A division in the Fall 2008 season, in a 12-0 season that was followed by a tournament finals loss in 1001 to Buddy Holly & the Shafters. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: The Element Way in A division raced past the previous record with a total of 272 points in their 14-0 season - that's an average weekly match score of 19.4 - 4.6! That's losing barely more than 1 point per set, for an entire season, in the top division of the top league in the state. They did indeed follow that up with a successful tournament run, giving up a league-record 3 total points in their three wins.]

Week 11 answer: Considering only the regular season, Robbie Phillips (of Elements of Mass Destruction) popped an astonishing 8 in the Fall 2009 season - 5 nine-marks and 3 Ton-80s. Two other times, a thrower hit 6 in the same season… Phillips (of Not Non-Element in the Fall 2011 season), and… Phillips (of The Decennary Element in the Spring 2013 season). Sooo… Phillips is the top three spots all by himself. After that, there have been 9 times that a thrower has popped 5 perfect throws: Allen Smith (Sp96 Dart Shadows), Wil Tan (Sp04 The Elusive Element), Jeremiah Miller (Fa07 The Rogue Element), Tom Brown (Fa07 The Rogue Element), Brian Blake (Sp11 Just A Little High), Tom Brown again (Fa11 Not Non-Element), Tom Brown for a third time (Sp13 Bona Fide Element), Robbie Phillips yet again (Sp13 Bona Fide Element), and finally… Kyle Gaulthier of I'd Hit That (from this season!). Answer update for the banquet Tons: John Kramer of The Element Way also joined the 5-perfect-throw group this season.]

Week 12 answer: Holy cow, this answer surprised even me, and I'm the one who asked it! Even with the combining of multiple bar identities into single locations in this list (such as when a bar is sold and doesn't really change or move, or when a bar stays itself but moves a short distance), the number is bigger than I expected. In this and the past 40 seasons, there have been 118 (yes, that's one hundred eighteen!) establishments that have hosted RDL teams for a season or more. And within that list of establishments, 4 have been in the RDL every single season (and those four, not coincidentally, are the only four that have hosted more than a hundred total RDL teams): The Upper Deck (225 teams!), High Park / Upper Deck Profile (176 teams), Sharky's Place (142 teams), and Snooker's-Ridgewood (131 teams). [And if you would like a more comprehensive listing of all bars, for all seasons, with all numbers of teams season-by-season included (at least since Spring 1996), please flip back to pages 18 and 19. There is a full listing of all of that information for your perusal.]

Week 13 answer: The 158 finals in the 20 seasons prior to this one were held in 27 different bars. The Upper Deck has hosted easily the most with 38, followed by High Park with 25, Mac's Tavern with 19, and Rally Point with 16 (all others hosted 7 or fewer in that span). The most common finals location is H div. at The Upper Deck, of which there were 9 in that span. Interestingly, there have been exactly 0 A finals at Upper Deck, as the RDL attempts to host all tournament matches at neutral locations (and there are generally one or more A teams playing out of the Deck).

Week 14 answer: Ha! This one was a trick question. The RDL has NEVER given a white mug (or any other type of award) for the best doubles win percentage in any division, or leaguewide, or for any group at all. This question was inspired though, by the awesome decade-long trend of people emailing me along about weeks 13 or 14 asking about the game requirements for winning the doubles award. And those people? Invariably they are people who are all of a sudden leading their division in doubles for the first time. Nothing makes people care about an award like the possibility of them personally getting it, right?

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "How many special people change, How many lives are living strange, Where were you while we getting high?"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "Bruce Springsteen, Madonna, Way before Nirvana, There was U2 and Blondie, And music still on MTV"

Week 2, song #3: "Hop on the bus, Gus, You don't need to discuss much, Just drop off the key, Lee, And get yourself free"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "What you say about his company, Is what you say about society, Catch the mist, catch the myth, Catch the mystery"

Week 3, song #2 lyric: "Take your time, hurry up, Choice is yours, don't be late, Take a rest as a friend, As an old memoria"

Week 3, song #3 lyric: "Her friends are so jealous, You know how bad girls get, Sometimes it's not easy, To be the teacher's pet"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "It seemed like he knew me, He looked right through me, 'Come on home, girl' he said with a smile"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "Keep on whispering in my ear, Tell me all the things that I want to hear, 'Cause it's true"

Week 4, song #3 lyric: "Now and then when I see her face, She takes me away to that special place, And if I stared too long"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "Tell me do you think I'm dumb?, I might be young, but I ain't stupid, Talking round in circles with your tongue"

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "If I could turn the page, In time then I'd rearrange, Just a day or two, Close my, close my, close my eyes"

Week 5, song #3 lyric: "The politics of ooo feeling good, The politics of moving, Is this message understood?"

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "Well, I'm heavenly blessed and worldly wise, I'm a peeping-Tom techie with X-ray eyes, Things are going great"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "Spied a little thing and I followed her all night, In a funky fine Levis and her sweater's kind of tight"

Week 8, song #14 lyric: "Hot thing, barely 21, Hot thing, looking 4 big fun, Hot thing, what's your fantasy? Do U wanna play with me?"

Week 8, song #15 lyric: "You're out on the town, safe in the crowd, Ready to go for the ride, Searching the eyes, looking for clues"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "Ass in the sand, Not a worry in the world, cold beer in my hand, Life is good today, Life is good today"

Week 9, song #2: "Too old to be wild and free still, Too young to be over the hill, Should I try to grow up, But who knows where to start, So I just…"

Week 9, song #3: "Don't bite off more than you can chew, There's things down here the devil himself wouldn't do, Just remember when you let it all go"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "Well there's a light in your eye that keeps shining, Like a star that can't wait for night, I hate to think I been blinded"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "When the truth is found, To be lies, And all the joy, Within you dies, Don't you want"

Week 10, song #3 lyric: "Gotta leave town, Got another appointment, Spent all my rent, Girl you know I enjoyed it"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "Oh my sweetness, means you'll meet me in the hallway, oh twice on the pipe means you ain't gonna show"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "I backed my car into a cop car the other day, Well, he just drove off, sometimes life's okay, I ran my mouth off a bit too much"

Week 11, song #3 lyric: "Do you really want to make me cry?, Precious kisses words that burn me, Lovers never ask you why"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "We're leaving together, But still it's farewell, And maybe we'll come back, To earth, who can tell?"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "But February made me shiver, With every paper I'd deliver, Bad news on the doorstep, I couldn't take one more step"

Week 12, song #3 lyric: "Hey little sister, what have you done? Hey little sister, who's the only one? Hey little sister, who's your Superman?"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "We are the people that can find whatever you may need, f you got the money honey we got your disease"

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "Yeah, here comes the water, It comes to wash away the sins of you and I, This time you see, Hey, Hey, Hey"

Week 13, song #3 lyric: "Working double time, on the seduction line, She was one of a kind, she's just mine all mine, Wanted no applause"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "Other arms reach out to me, Other eyes smile tenderly, Still in the peaceful dreams I see, The road leads back to you"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "Like a song of love that clings to me, How the thought of you does things to me, Never before, Has someone been more"

Week 14, song #3: "6 a.m., day after Christmas, I throw some clothes on in the dark, The smell of cold, Car seat is freezing, The world is sleeping"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "Standing in line, marking time, Waiting for the welfare dime, 'Cause they can't buy a job"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "I've been stranded in the combat zone, I walked through Bedford Stuy alone, Even rode my motorcycle in the rain"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "He was born a pauper to a pawn on a Christmas day, When the New York Times said God is dead, And the war's begun"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "You can look at the menu but you just can't eat, You can feel the cushions but you can't have a seat"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "She got both feet on the ground, And she's burning it down, Ohhhh oh oh oh oh, She got her head in the clouds"

Week 14, song #9: "You're gonna want me for your girl, The arms I long for, will open wide, And you'll be proud to have me, Walkin' right by your side"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "My head's under water, But I'm breathing fine, You're crazy and I'm out of my mind"

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "You kissed me baby, woo, it feels good, Hold me baby, I wanna love you like a lover should"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "Her name was Lola, she was a showgirl, With yellow feathers in her hair and a dress cut down to there"

Week 14, song #13 lyric: "Century Boulevard (We love it), Victory Boulevard (We love it), Santa Monica Boulevard (We love it)"

Week 14, song #14: "Music is a world within itself, With a language we all understand, With an equal opportunity, For all to sing, dance and clap..."

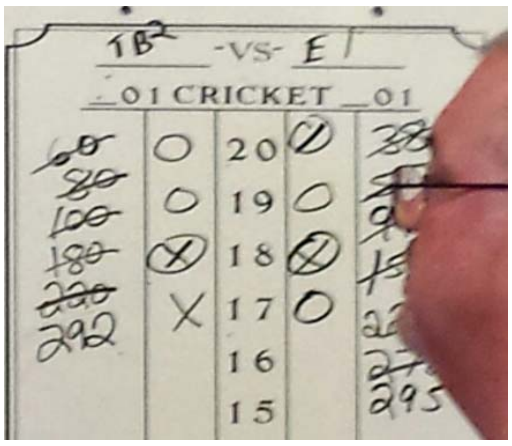
[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. That added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week , including the week 14 fourteen-song set that traditionally caps the season, but also the special week 8 fifteen-song set that was the first-ever set to be prompted by something that happened at a dart match (and was also the first-ever time that a lyric used in a past season was included again).

Week 2 theme: Super Bowl 50! 'Super'nova… 'Bowl'ing for Soup… '50' Ways... Week 3 theme: Bands that are made up of only three people. Yep, that's right, all those huge hits (and an entire music genre-starting sound in Nirvana's case), and each of those bands has only three members. Week 4 theme: Valentine's Day, of course. Hearts, romantics, roses… Week 5 theme: The Presidential campaign, of course! Week 6 theme: Shades… duh. Which you will likely need in the evening much more once daylight savings time hits in two weekends. (Clearly, that was a time-sensitive theme…) Week 7 theme: Legs. Duh. If you didn't get that one, you need to turn the page now. Week 8 theme: (this was a league first in three ways: first quiz first to ever be drawn directly from an RDL experience, first to ever re-use a song from any point ever before, and first to ever have the theme given before the lyrics themselves they were even included) and trust us, this was funny if you know Mark Knight and Dylan Anderson and if you realize that Knight waited just enough time to make sure all was well, or at least well enough with Anderson... and these are the 15 songs Mark Knight played on The Upper Deck jukebox right after Dylan Anderson caught on fire (from his exploding electronic cigarette in his pocket). Week 9 theme: A beach vacation in Mexico, of course! Week 10 theme: Obviously, the high-flying theme here was aircraft band names. Week 11 theme: Orlando… Mouse… Club… It's Disney World, of course! And yes, I just took my four young teenagers there, so yes I am glutton for punishment, and therefore I get to pick any damn song/band theme I want. Deal with it. Week 12 theme: The final American Idol! (At least until they decide in about 10 or 15 years that they should revive the series because there's a bunch of money to be made.) Week 13 theme: The band mashups/progression of the members of Guns n' Roses. Not really news that Slash, Duff McKagan, and Matt Sorum all went from GnR to Velvet Revolver, but now we add in last week's announcement that Axl Rose will be the new front man for AC/DC. Wow. Week 14 theme: Pianists/keyboardists who sing (with the songs listed in order by the singer's last name, alphabetically, as is usual for our week 14 set).

SCOREKEEPER FUN



Ok, I'm soooo selling out my buddy and teammate Paul Jacobi here… Jacobi is honestly one of the best chalker I've ever encountered in darts. But during our semifinals match (of Element against Traveling Brown's Bombers), his writing created a situation I hadn't ever seen. Look at the picture to the right - keeping in mind that this was during a tournament match (meaning all points are decided in a best-of-three format), what do you think the situation is in this set? … Go ahead, take a look… we'll wait here… … … Ok, got it? Looks like the Element thrower won game 1, the Traveling Brown's guy won game 2, and the Element thrower has a slight lead in game 3. Right? Uh, nope. The Element thrower had indeed won game 1, but the 2 on the other side of the scoreboard was Paul's math-nerd "shorthand" of TBB as TBsquared. Now I, of all people, appreciate a good amount of math nerdiness, but dude… that doesn't even save any writing! Dave Huffman (the Traveling Brown's thrower in this set) was awesome - when we asked him about it, he said he noticed the same thing. When Dave came back and won game 2, he thanked Paul for chalking like they were done. When Paul looked confused, Dave pointed and said "I already won game 2, right?" The few seconds he paused before letting on that he knew the real situation was pretty priceless.

RDL'S BEST TEAM EVER?

It's tough to write about your own team and/or yourself in something you send out to a large group. But if the facts are the facts, then I think I'm doing a disservice to my teammates if I don't play it up to the same degree that I would for someone else. Sooo… while I can't really intelligently argue that this season's The Element Way is necessarily the "best" team the RDL has ever had (too subjective, no way to compare opposition levels well, etc.), it is absolutely the winningest team the league has ever had in its top division.

The Element Way (which I will refer to simply as Element, because that's how everybody knows us, and we change the name just a bit every season) had a run this season like no other. A 14-0 regular season; a smashing of the all-time all-division point total record for a season (both in terms of total points and points per week, so that you can compare to seven-team divisions with byes in past years); and then a tournament run that matched Element's own record for fewest points allowed in a tournament. That's a pretty good run by any measure, right?

Regular season: 14 wins, 0 losses, 272 points. That's 19.43 points per week. That means the opponents only averaged 4.57 points per week. And don't forget that several of those opponents are stocked with tournament winners, state champions, and even a couple of national champions.

Tournament: 3 wins, 0 losses, 3 total points allowed. Wins of 14-0, 13-1, and 14-2 exactly match the RDL record set by The Rogue Element in the Fall 2007 season. The next lowest total points allowed in an A division tournament? 8. And that includes all the seasons in which a bye or a forfeit meant that a winning team had to play only two matches. Let that one sink in for a minute…

Congratulations to my teammates and friends, most of whom have been together for many years now. Been quite a ride (and a heck of a successful tenure too, but that is a statistic for another day).

PLUS, THE RDL TIED ITS OWN RECORD

The Element team above was the only team in the RDL to win both the regular season and the tournament, in any division. That '1' ties the lowest number of teams to do that in any RDL season ever. Parity is king in much of the RDL, and this season was a wild mess. Pretty excellent, don't ya think?

AND ONE MORE RECORD WHILE WE'RE AT IT…

In the tournament finals, Robbie Phillips went ahead and tied an individual record too. He came within one dart of perfection in a 7-dart 301 game, becoming the 5th member of the club, along with Don (Butman) Bingham, Tom Brown (twice!), Tony Keller, and Dave Krasnow. Pretty clutch to do that in the finals… (or ever, really)

MORE LOCAL DART EVENT NEWS

I received a couple of schedule changes/additions for local stuff at the last minute, and those things unfortunately arrived after the calendar page and the "summer darts" page were already printed and copied. Thus, I'm adding these here, and hopefully some of you see these and can make mental note to add include these on your personal darting calendars.

No more Monday blind draw at Sharky's Place

It's in the list on page 8. Turns out it shouldn't be there any more. If you are looking for a local blind draw to hit, scratch this one of your list of possibilities. (The other Sharky's draws are unaffected by this - don't scratch those off the list.)

ADO - 501 Local Qualifiers

The Carolina Dart Association will be holding four local qualifiers to kick of the ADO 501 national championship run. These are to help local darters reach the National Qualifier (formerly Regional) being held in Charlotte on July 16th. Entry fee will be $10 to $15, depending on the number of players. CDA annual dues are $10. For questions email Maridy Knight (maridy16@gmail.com). All four qualifiers will be held at the Upper Deck, on these dates:

Sunday, June 12th, 1:00 PM == Saturday, June 18th, 1:00 PM
Monday, June 27th, 7:00 PM == Saturday, July 9th, 1:00 PM

JOE NAMATH-SIZED QUOTE OF THE SEASON

Chris Toolan, captain of the last place B division team (Big Bulls), prior to his team's quarterfinal match against division champion Rif Raf, had this to say: "I'm gonna do a Joe Willie and guarantee an upset over Rif Raf!!!!" Last place over first place in a best-of-three format? Crazy, right? Wrong. Final score: Big Bulls 12, Rif Raf 11. And despite their perpetual shorthandedness, Toolan called it…

AN RDL HALL OF FAME?

Twice in the past few months, RDL league members have asked me if I've ever considered starting an RDL Hall of Fame. Honestly, I hadn't, maybe partly because I see how the people in the national dart hall of fame (name not capitalized intentionally) seem to kind of flow in there in groups, clearly driven partly by who knows who and who is willing to nominate multiple people. But to be fair, much of that weirdness comes from the number of "behind the scenes" and "sponsor" inductees the national hall has. Players on that list are, for the most part, pretty deserving. But it's obviously very political, and there's also clearly a bit of a push to induct at least a certain number each year. I would want… none of that…

And while the only reason that I would be the one to start/run/elect/whatever people is my role as statistician, I guess I've come to the realization that that's a pretty dang good reason. I see more and I hear more about pretty much the entire RDL, and I have for literally decades now. (And yes, that's a proper time to use the word 'literally' - a talent more of you should try to gain.)

Anyway, I've actually thought about it quite a bit on and off, as I think if I did that, I would take that st VERY seriously. It would be a very exclusive Hall (List) of Fame, and it would be very hard to get your name in/on it. The crowd would be very small, players might not be added for years at a time, and the criteria used would be a bit subjective but also very extensive. Inductees would need to play at the highest level, and they would need to do it for years. And they would need to do it "in the RDL" for years.

I don't know if I'll ever do it. And if I do, I'm sure people will disagree with my choices (likely more of exclusion than inclusion). I think I know my initial four(?) if I do it - the problem for me would be how much lower than those four could I set the bar and still be happy with the list in later years. Hmmm…this would not be easy.

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. I'm never sure what's about to hit the page, but anyway… whatever…

-- We always start the Random Thoughts with a Survivor item, so that's what I'm doing again. I've been really busy lately, so I haven't seen the last couple episodes yet. Don't need to see them, though, to know that if they don't tone back a little bit and make sure that they don't actually kill one or more of the competitors, this one of my list of favorite might not be around for long. Good heavens, this has been one dangerous friggin' season. Not a game for the frail.

-- Every season when you guys turn in your rosters, Membership Director Heather Bohanan puts a little note in the corner if your team is still roughly the same roster, but with a new team name. The note generally just says "was X", where X is some short version of your old team name. I have no idea why I just thought of this, but last season when ex-RDL President Jason Thomas's team took a brief break from their "Ted's" team names to be Board Room Jimmy, Bohanan's note was one of my favorite ever. She wrote it too close together so it just looked like she noted that team as "WASTEDS". I thought 'damn, that's kind of a harsh assessment…'

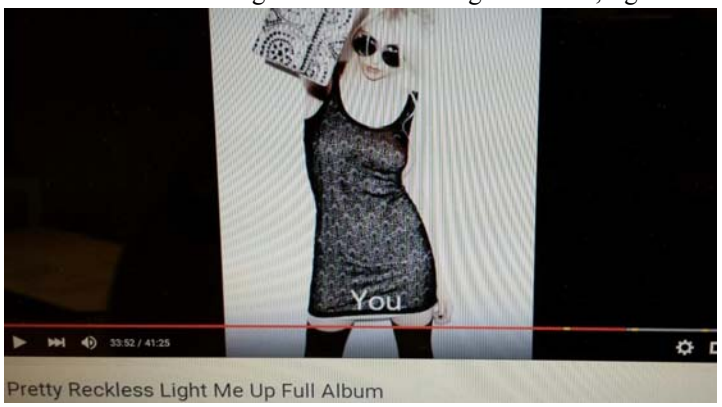
-- I think I might need to pound my 15-year-old son a little bit. Just days after he made me feel super old by asking me "what's the X Files?" when the show's mini-series return came up in one of our conversations, he flippin' RickRolled me. Dammit. And if you don't know what a RickRoll is, then it turns out that you're the super old one here. And I have a cool email link to send you… (Oh, and a side note on this one: he RickRolled me while he was in class! At his school, he checks out his own personal laptop each day for all of his classes, and that was how he chose to spend a free minute between assignments. I'm almost a little proud…)

-- I saw this at the grocery store. Isn't it sort of cheating to put the word 'delicious' in the actual name of the product? How is anyone supposed to ever tell somebody else that the product isn't all that good? "Hey, whatcha eatin'? Is it good?" "It's Delicious Brunswick Stew, and it's kind of bland and not my favorite." "Didn't you just say it was delicious? Are you drunk, or are you just messing with me?"

-- Hey, you know what I learned at work recently? That using a glob of Super Glue to reattach a broken keyboard key to the mechanical post that holds it and transmits its signal, is… not a good idea. Ok, yes, I already assumed that item to be true, but someone at work (who makes a lot more money than I do) just did that, and I really just had to tell somebody. Hello, somebody.

-- Have you ever seen the movie The Poseidon Adventure? Not the 2006 remake simply named Poseidon, but the original 1972 film with Gene Hackman and Ernest Borgnine… Well, I was watching it on HBO or Showtime or something late one night recently, and I have to admit that the one thing that struck me most about the film was the lack of logic when they made it/edited it. The movie is about a ship that gets turned upside-down by a huge rogue wave. Well, everything of course falls to the ceiling because… gravity. Except that in the original movie, all of the tables and chairs in the ballroom magically stick to the floor-turned-ceiling. The tables I get… maybe they are attached to the floor to prevent sliding in rough seas. But the chairs? I'm supposed to believe that every one of the chairs in a black-tie dinner ballroom is completely locked into one specific place on the floor?

-- Do you ever listen to full albums (yeah, yeah, CDs…) on YouTube? Sometimes the people that post them add the name of the song on the screen as each song plays. And sometimes they add photos from the band just to give it something other than a blank screen. Well, I love The Pretty Reckless, and I had their Light Me Up album on my computer recently at work when I noticed the pairing of the photo of Taylor Momsen (lead singer) and the title of their song 'You'. That message is for me, right?



-- Ok, it's time once again for me to go through and clean up the conversation among the American public by banning the most annoying, overused, and/or stupid phrases that people use far too often. Listen to me here, or else you'll remain the annoying tool that everyone mocks once you leave the conversation… #1 - the first thing we need to banish is the term 'game-changer'. This is a weak, stupid term that is almost universally uttered by morons attributing far more importance to something than is actually deserved. Whatever it is never changes the game at all (whether the game is actually a game, or a business, or what the hell ever), it's generally just the next step/advance. Ugh. #2 - Please never again say "mind blown", as if that is a sentence, or even a complete thought… or even true. This dumbass phrase is almost always said in response to something only barely worthy of attention at all. If your mind is truly blown by the simple thing to which you refer, then congratulations, you're officially an idiot. And if you make those little 'blow up' motions by your head with your fingers when you say it, then ignore any of what I say here - you're already beyond help, you waste of a good batch of oxygen. #3 - For the love of all that is right in the world, don't EVER say "broke the internet" again. It is painful how flippin' stupid this one is. There is so much I could say here, but if you're a person saying this one, you wouldn't understand any of it anyway. And if you know any copy editors for sensationalist news outlets who push their stories on to larger mainstream news feeds by using this phrase, I will give you ten bucks to kick them in the crotch. #4 - Finally, and absolutely most importantly, if you are someone who has adopted "the struggle is real", you need to stop. Now. You sound like a fool. Whatever stupid first-world problem you have is not subject to the term 'struggle' at all. You're demeaning anyone who has ever had to actually struggle to overcome. You sound ignorant and spoiled. The real struggle here is us having to hear you say this.

THE BEST SEASON SINGLES+DOUBLES WIN %-AGES -- Spring 1996 through Spring 2016

This list of the best seasons contains results from the last 41 seasons, as that is the time during which I have been statistican. The statistical records prior to that (pre-1996) are not quite as complete, at least in the newsletter issues that have been made available to me thus far

Best Seasons (by SINGLES+DOUBLES Win Percentage) in only "A" Division in the Most Recent 41 Seasons

(Given the fact that the level of play in "A" division is obviously generally higher than in the rest of the divisions, I have pulled out the best season in just "A" division in this section for a quicker perusal of what would most fairly be considered the best seasons at the highest level in the RDL.

The "Decisions… Decisions… Decisions..." Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Irreverent Element (14-6)

The Element completes an undefeated 2016 with a second straight 17-0 campaign, with a finals win that felt a bit odd due to an absent big gun and the mid-match loss of another top shooter to illness.

"B" Division - The Liquor Posse (14-2)

The Posse, who held the second-largest margin of victory in their regular season title run, were the most dominant team in the Fall tournaments, winning each match by more than the previous one.

"C" Division - Dartistic Differences (13-9)

Of course the division that was the craziest, messiest one all season produced one of the two finals matches without either a #1 or a #2 seed in it, with Dartistic claiming all 3 of their wins in the 2nd 501 set.

"D" Division - Never Trust A Dart (14-10)

Two of the seven D tournament matches ended up being forfeits, but if you only count the matches that were actually played, D was the only division in which every tournament match went into 501.

"E" Division - D-Lux Drinkers (13-7)

After a season division race that seemed pretty touch-and-go among three of four E teams, the Drinkers appear to have sort of laid down the law in the tournament, never reaching the last 501.

"F" Division - Hump Day! (13-11)

Oh, the story that almost was… the Humpers had to go to the last set of 501 in the finals to barely squeeze past Wayne Gretzky, who eked out a pair of tournament nailbiters despite being the #7 seed.

"G" Division - ?? (no result reported)

For the second time in my 42 seasons as statistician (with both in just the last 3 seasons!), a division final goes by without anyone reporting a win and thus claiming a set of tournament Mugs…

"H" Division - Bull Hunters (13-7)

The Hunters get a touch of revenge in the finals on Show Me Your Tips for the week 14 loss that was the Hunters' only blemish on their record in their first (very successful) season here in the RDL.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Irreverent Element (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - 1 in the Bunn

"B" Division - The Liquor Posse (13 wins, 1 loss)

"C" Division - Unnecessary Triples (9 wins, 5 losses)
2nd place - Them Handsome Devils

"D" Division - Mike's Garage (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Never Trust A Dart

"E" Division - D-Lux Drinkers (10 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - Lucky's Seven

"F" Division - Hump Day! (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Red-eye Rangers

"G" Division - Quackalacky Ducks (9 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Don't Hit the Scorekeeper

"H" Division - Bull Hunters (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Show Me Your Tips

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Oh, baby! 46 tiebreakers in one season?! Wow. That is up there in comparison to recent season. And a stout 5 of those came in the post-season tournaments. That's really quite a few if you think about it.

C division posted the top number with a huge 11 tiebreakers (with 1 of those in the tournament). F was close behind with 10 (with 1 in the tournament), followed by B and E (each with 7, with 1 of each in the tournaments), then D and H (each with 4), then G (with 2). Coming in last was A division, which saved its one and only tiebreaker for a thrilling tournament semifinal that was played next to my match.

Stunningly, there were 15 teams that each played 3 or more 1001 games, and SIX of those played 4 or more each! But in the end, rising above huge competition to claim the title of Cardiac Kids (for most tiebreakers played), was The Bunkers in C div/, who settled 5 of their 17 matches in 1001 (winning 4, including a tournament quarterfinal!).

Somehow, I guess playing all those 1001s gave teams experience with it, as no team lost more than 2. Thus, the Heartbreak Award goes to Fire For Effect in C, one of the many two-1001-loss teams, but the only one to have one of the losses come in the tournament.

SPRING 2017 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, Jan. 4th - Spring season registration, Upper Deck (online registration should be available in the days immediately prior to the 4th - Membership Director Heather Bohanan will likely be in charge of early registration, and she will likely hook it up through the website and accept payments through PayPal)

Wed., Jan. 18th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, January 25th - Start of Spring season match play

Monday, February 27th - Fifth week captains' meeting, site TBA

Wed., May 3 / 10 / 17 - Spring season divisional tournaments

Saturday, May 20th - Spring season banquet, site TBD

RDL QUOTES

Quote #1 : this is actually a quote within a quote, as I think the really funny part here is the quoted quote. From Meghan Howard of Darty McFly, referencing Tony Keller (who was clearly making fun of Meghan herself). This quote goes with the group photo taken at their quarterfinal match, which can be found in the bottom left corner of page 14: "Great time playing in A this season and a perfect team to end it with! Best quote of the night would be Tony Keller (when I pulled out my selfie stick to take this photo): 'F-in millennials.' "

Quote #2 : from Jeremy Limerick of Public School: "Has the RDL ever had a Politician Member?? Tomorrow at this time we(RDL) may have our first Wake County Commissioner on the roster…" [Sadly, Jeremy's teammate Kenn Gardner did not win the commissioner's election last month, but that doesn't mean he won't win next time around. Personally, I think it would be very cool to have an elected official here among us. Oh… and… no word yet on whether Kenn's family presented him with a 'Participant' trophy for the election. That seems too cold, I would think. Not too cold for me to bring up here, of course… but family is still family…"

Quote #3 : and speaking of Kenn and his trophy, I still have his reply to the Tons when we first ran the photo and story about his most awesome trophy: "It is great to have a supporting family..... So I am told! I am glad you got as big a laugh as I did. Sincerely, Kenn Gardner. Participant." [Holy cow, what a great sport. You see this, people? This right here… we need more of this. We need more o this, and a lot less of what some of you schmozers bring to the table for us. If everybody was this… (what's the word/phrase that is the opposite of uptight? laid back? that seems too surfer-lifestyle-ish for this… whatever…) Anyway, try to be more like Kenn please Think how great all of our dart nights out would be if we were. - JK]

FALL 2016 PENALTY SUMMARY

Oh, man… the captains have been on fire for a few seasons now. This was another pretty great season in terms of there being few penalties.

Overall, there were only 15 total penalties for a total of 157 lost points (this would have been a season with an election ballot in it, but that was dumped by almost nobody running for office!). Only 11 of the 62 teams were penalized in any way at all, and there were ZERO penalties in B division. G was the leading division in terms of penalties pretty much regardless of how you measure the loss - they had more teams penalized, more total penalties, and more points lost than any other division, and theirs was the only division that had a finishing position changed due to penalties. 3 different G teams were penalized, they got 6 of the 15 penalties of the season, they lost 63 of the 157 points of the season, and they had the only team that took more than two penalties.

All in all, there was 1 captain's meeting penalty (for a total loss of 5 points), 6 phone penalties (30 points), 6 mail penalties (96 points), 1 missing tiebreaker lineup penalty (16 points), and an ineligible player penalty (10 points).

The biggest losers in terms of penalty outcomes was clearly Walking the Wire in G division. They were the only team that lost a spot in the standings (from 3rd to 4th) due to the penalty losses they suffered.

HOLIDAY BREAK BLIND DRAWS

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still). If you have more free time, you might want to try one or more of the several other weekly and monthly draws as well. For a full list, see the bottom half of the right column on page 8.

And an important note for December 25th…

Christmas Day is a Sunday this year… and yes, the regular Sunday Upper Deck blind draw will indeed be held on the 25th! So, if you just need a little holiday darting action, you know now where you can find it…

And an important note for January 1st…

And New Year's Day is a Sunday this year as well… and if you're going to play a blind draw on Christmas Day, you're sure as heck going to play a draw on New Year's. So, if you want to kick off 2017 with a little darting action, you again know where you can find it. Those Upper Deck darters are hardcore, brother…

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

Looking to add a second league this coming season? One of the other local leagues is already under way, but the other is pretty well lined up with matching the RDL's schedule it seems.

Triangle Dart League (TDL - Chapel Hill & Durham)

The full information as to the timing of their General Interest Meeting for the Spring 2016 is not yet available, but the Triangle Dart League is finishing their current fall tournament on January 19th. If you are interested in picking up a league on the Chapel Hill side of the Triangle, visit them on the web at: http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ I would recommend simply checking back on the website every few days until the spring registration information is added to their stuff.

Bull City Dart League (BCDL - Durham)

If you happen to be interested in trying out one of the very few handicapped steel-tip leagues anywhere, maybe the BCDL is in your future. The BCDL winter season started a few weeks ago, but you could still join an existing team if any are looking to add a player or two. Registration for the spring (next) season won't close until March 21st, so if the league interests you and you need some time to get your team together… well… you have it. Teams in the BCDL consist of 4-8 players, and the home bars are primarily in RTP and the downtown Durham area. More complete information (and any updates in the coming weeks) can be found at: www.thebcdl.org That website actually also includes a wealth of information about the league and its rules, so if you're just interested in seeing how the league applies a handicap system to a steel-tip league, you can find all of that there, including rules, statistics, and scoresheet examples.

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok (and actually "preferred", not just ok) to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

for team D3 (due to a whopping 3 forfeits received!):
min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 30 Total Games Played for team D1, which has actually forfeited out anyway...:

min. of 19 Singles Games Played, 37 Total Games Played

THE FORTIETH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF: JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Irreverent Element	E Division	Jim Gallagher	Coach'N Ya
B Division	J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	F Division	Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky
C Division	Will Bennett	Dartistic Differences	G Division	Brent Snyder	All About That Bull!
D Division	Cale Strickland	Mike's Garage	H Division	Brad Bushman	Show Me Your Tips

All of RDL -- Brent Snyder -- All About That Bull!

"A" Division (again I wish I had 9 spots here)

Tom Brown	The Irreverent Elem	Playing almost as well as he ever has.
Kyle Gaulthier	1 in the Bunn	Not his best season, but still so dangerous.
Michael Johnson	Appetite for Destruc	Mr. 7-dart has joined the elite.
John Kramer	The Irreverent Elem	So consistently dominant week after week.
Chad Massengill	The Irreverent Elem	Has a higher top end than almost anyone.
Sid Mitchell	Appetite for Destruc	Mr. Steady has returned to top form.
Robbie Phillips	The Irreverent Elem	Still the best the RDL has. Maybe ever.
Joe Work	North Raleigh Allia	Beat all the other top guns this season.

"B" Division

Steve Holland	The Liquor Posse	Cricket beast gets by in 301 and 501.
Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	And another cricket machine with ok '01.
John Kuhns	Methodical Madness	Super singles, and enough in doubles.
Zak Mayhew	Show Me Your Cork	The Zak-Man absolutely ruled singles.
Trey Rodgers	The Liquor Posse	Like Holland, dominates SCkt and DCkt.
David Romanchek	Nine Lives	So unassuming, and so tough to beat.
Mike Venable	Methodical Madness	Do we ever have '01 specialists?
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	His climb to the league's top is nearly over.

"C" Division

Will Bennett	Dartistic Differences	Purely dominant, from start to finish.
Ryan Cusman	Them Handsome De	Not crushing, just all around solid.
George Guenther	Fire For Effect	Ok, so he doesn't play well with others…
Mike Holly	The Bunkers	So maybe DCkt just isn't his game.
Jim Hunsberger	Fire For Effect	So flippin' great to see him back here.
Dave Krasnow	Them Handsome De	The best in C at any given moment.
Dan Naylor	Unnecessary Triples	Duh.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	Great singles, carries enough in doubles.

"D" Division

Jeff Cashin	Never Trust A Dart	Becoming a seasonal staple on this list.
Ernie Gilyardi	Mike's Garage	Oh, if only he wasn't a part-timer…
Gary Long	Mike's Garage	Was a steadily great season this was.
Andrew Palmisano	Never Trust A Dart	Another season, another step up.
Dan Schaefer	Sharky's Machine	Just a beast… right up until 501, that is.
Cale Strickland	Mike's Garage	Maybe the best pickup for any team.
Jason Thomas	Ted's Dart Control E	Should list himself every set every week.
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Seems like he is always right here.

"E" Division

Jim Gallagher	Coach'N Ya	Great addition, carried them near the top.
John Iager	D-Lux Drinkers	Singles monster floated in doubles.
Roger Keim	Sofa Kings	Certainly the king among Kings.
Tom Kubel	Bye Week	11-0 in 301? Crazy. And the rest is great.
Chris Montesi	Game of Throws	Got better as the night progressed.
Chris Robertson	Lucky's Seven	Put together a strong record all season.
Mike Snyder	D-Lux Drinkers	Was the cricket king for E champions.
Lou Tufillaro	Bye Week	Super solid across all four sets.

"F" Division (there were a LOT of candidates in this div. again)

Randy Baldwin	Hump Day!	Just a monster for the first three sets.
Randy Deemer	Hump Day!	Once again, so solid for the F winners.
Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers	Wow, what a charge to the top of the div.
Jeremy Limerick	Public School	One of his best seasons to date.
Charles Parker	Another Sinking Shi	Still hanging out down here rolling in F.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	What an absolute pillar for near champs.
Jeff Russell	Chatham Street Elite	Easily the top gun for a pretty good team.
Felipe Wilkie	Public School	Back to his old form, and winning a bunch.

"G" Division

Andy Bowen	Walking the Wire	If he played more, they'd win even more.
Anthony Brownd	Points for Pints	The biggest Pint just needs a few doubles.
Stan Converse	Quackalacky Ducks	Just a great record across all four sets.
Tim Ellis	Quackalacky Ducks	Not often that SCkt is the one slip spot.
Romuald Knight	Don't Hit the Scorek	Singles machine tails off a bit in doubles.
Brent Snyder	All About That Bull	Nobody was more important to any team.
Justin Vick	Don't Hit the Scorek	So very steady all season in all sets.
John White	Walking the Wire	A great singles season carries his record.

"H" Division

Mark Beaver	Lucky B's	70+% is awesome in any division.
Rich Bialaszewski	Show Me Your Tips	11-0 in SCkt is just about enough alone.
Mike Bumpass	Bull Hunters	Holy crap, new team, new H div. hammer.
Brad Bushman	Show Me Your Tips	Amazing first 3 sets carried team near top.
Anthony Cannizar	Bull Hunters	Geez, the Hunters are so friggin' deep…
Kody Goodwin	Bull Hunters	where the heck were all of these guys
Lee Jeffreys	Bull Hunters	hiding before this season?
Rocky Messineo	Lucky B's	Quietly put together a strong season.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Oh, my goodness, no "honorable mentions" to be listed here this season. Why, you ask? Because the Quadruple Double Club has FIVE full-on winners this season: Robbie Phillips of The Irreverent Element in A division, Dan Naylor of Unnecessary Triples in C, Grey Jones of Red-eye Rangers and Joe Rigert, Sr. of Wayne Gretzky in F, and Brent Snyder of All About That Bull! in G. And to top it off, Snyder did it in a division with a bye and thus only 12 weeks of matches!

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: After a couple low leader numbers in the past few seasons, we had a bit of a spike this season. The Iron Man Award for the Fall season goes to Brian Smith of Projectile Dysfunction in Division, with a stout 66 games (56 sets, plus 8 blocks, plus 2 tiebreakers). And he had a winning record! Who picks a winning record guy as the blocker… repeatedly? Anyway, the honorable mentions for the other division leaders were: Robbie Phillips of The Irreverent Element and Sid Mitchell of Appetite for Destruction in A with 56 games played; Erin Hartmann and Pete Hartmann of the Bunkers, and Mike Raquet of Them Handsome Devils in C with 62 each; Tim Welborn of Dynamic Darts in D with 56; Pat Smelik of Game of Throws and Phil Robertson of Lucky's Seven in E with 61 each; Joe Munroe of Another Sinking Ship in F with 61 Brian Berman and Pat Ball of Points for Pints in G with 52 each; and Josh Phillips of Ballistic Behavior and Kenny Spencer of Tips & Shafts in H with 52.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Four teams made a nice run at joining this club (Shooter McGavin, The Bunkers, Them Handsome Devils, and Just Like That), but in the end, all but one of those were pretenders. This season's true 6-man band of warriors was Shooter McGavin and Shooter McGavin only! 14 weeks, 4 sets per night, 6 players per set, and McGavin used their only 6 players in every last damn set! Every one of them. No absentees, no subs. Suh-weet.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), it was bit of a mixed bag. I nailed some divisions (or at least many teams within each division) such as A, B, E and G. But wow, did I miss a few others… C was, as you might have guessed, a mess. I didn't see the Garage coming in E. And the new H teams really made things tough to call until I had seen who they were.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I had a pretty good record this season, in spite of the debacle that was C division. I did manage to climb above 0.500 by the end of the season, but that's about the best thing I can say for that pile of confusion. The Bunkers were my problem children for the season, fooling me pretty much no matter which way I leaned with them. B division was a little bit of a challenge too, mostly because I could never figure out what to make of Methodical Madness… every time I changed my mind with them, they changed too.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And in these, I slammed it once again! We jumped to best-of-three and I started looking like I knew what the heck I was doing. I was a really strong 25-5 in the quarterfinals, a pretty great 12-4 in the semifinals, and then I kept on rolling by hitting 5 (and maybe 6!) Mug winners (we'll have to wait and see who won G before finalizing the count, as my #4 seed pick was playing in that final. That brings my final tournament record to 42-11 with one game pending. When you consider that I got a pair of those semifinals wrong because I got a quarterfinal wrong, that makes my total even better... at least in my opinion… and I'm the one typing here, so…

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-six seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the eight 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the five 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not.[C division was an absolute mess for me for most of the season. I barely climbed over 0.500 there by the end, and half the teams there fooled me at least half the time. The Bunkers led the way in the confusion parade, which likely pleases them to no end. - JK]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 7 question: In two weekends, the NC State Championships will be held right here in Cary at the Upper Deck. There have been 26 years of state titles before this one, and while it is certainly possible to win a few events in one year, it takes longevity to amass a large number of state titles. Sooo… How many people have won as many state title events as there have been years of state events? Meaning, how many people (and who) have won 26 or more titles?

Week 8 question(s): Robbie Phillips in A division (who had a make-up match before tonight's play) and Dan Naylor in C division each have a 23-1 overall record at the time I'm writing this. A LOT of season to go, but… what is the best overall win- loss record in the history of the RDL, and who has it? How about in A division only? (And by "history", as usual, I mean since 1995, as only partial records were kept or are available before then.)

Week 9 question(s): What is the greatest number of teams in a division that have finished with more game points than the division winner, when the division winner hadn't lost any points to penalties? When was it, and in what division?

Week 10 question: The path of Hurricane Matthew certainly affected many of us in the past week, but it didn't actually drop an interruption of league play on us. How many times in the past decade has weather postponed an entire night of RDL play?

Week 11 question: (this one was created completely in response to an interesting question posed by Pete Rutten of Hump Day!) What is the RDL record for most consecutive matches with a 1001 tiebreaker for any one team?

Week 12 question: This season, D division's OT Outlaws were removed from the remainder of the schedule for having forfeited three times. During my 42 seasons as RDL statistician, how many teams have met this particular fate?

Week 13 question: (another one by request, this time one we had a while back that maybe we're updating) What is the greatest number of 1001s a team has played in a season (plus tournament)?

Week 14 question: What are the two dates/events in the calendar that determine exactly when the RDL seasons start in the spring and fall every year?

Week 7 answer: Two people have 26+ state titles - Brian Blake (of 1 in the Bunn) with 32, and Bob Gargan with 26. They've won singles, doubles, and four-man events… men's events, mixed events… whatever. 32 and 26? That's a lot of damn state titles. For the record, the next few on the list are: Robbie Phillips (20), Ryan Barnette (17), Tom Brown and Charlie Daniel (16 each). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: At this year's state championships, Blake rang up his 33rd title, Phillips added his 21st and 22nd, and Brown chalked up shirt number 17.]

Week 8 answer: The highest win percentage was achieved by Jim Davis in B division in Spring 2007, with a record of 50-2 (0.962). The best record ever in A division is also the second best win percentage in any division, and was achieved by Robbie Phillips in the Fall 2014 season with a record of 41-2 (0.953). Overall, there have been 50 players since 1995 who have had an overall win percentage of 0.875+, with 19 of those coming in A division. And those 19 seasons in A (which pretty much have to be considered to be the best in RDL history, since they came against the best competition) have been achieved by only 9 throwers, with Phillips easily leading the way with 7 of those 19 seasons. The other 7 throwers are: Tom Brown (with 3), Mike Seward and Jim Budelman (with 2 each), and Marshall Chavis, Chad Massengill, Brian Blake, Don Butman, and Jason Kilts (with 1 each). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: there were three more seasons of 0.875+ this fall, with Dan Naylor in C posting the second best win percentage in league history, and Robbie Phillips posting the 20th A division 0.875+ season (his astonishing 8th time in that 20).]

Week 9 answer: 3 teams, by Liquor Posse (which was an entirely different team from the current team playing under the same name) in F division in the Fall 2013 season. That Liquor Posse won with 193 points, and all three teams immediately behind them had a higher total. One other team sort of joined them in the club though, as To The Point from Fall 1999's F division had fewer points than three teams chasing them, and that division only had 7 teams in it. To The Point DID take a 5-point penalty that season, but even without that penalty, all three of the other teams would still have outscored them.

Week 10 answer: We've had 6 weather postponements of league play during my 22 years here with the Tons of Newsletter. During most (all?) of those six, at least a couple matches were still played on the regular match date by a handful of hearty souls, but the larger portion of the matches had one or both exercise their 'postponed- if-either-of-us-wants-it-postponed' rights. Interestingly, 4 of those 6 delays have been in the past two years (Sp14 wk02, Sp14 wk04, Sp15 wk05, Sp15 wk06 - all four due to ice/snow road conditions).

Week 11 answer: Over the years, there have been many teams that have endured 1001 tiebreakers 3 weeks in a row. But only twice ever have RDL teams played an extra leg FOUR weeks in a row. The first was in the Spring 2012 season when the Grateful Darts in H division not only played 4 in a row, but also played 5 in a 6-week span. That record was tied this season by Hump Day! in F division in weeks 7-10. (A tiebreaker tonight would add a matching of that previous 5-of-6 run, so… we'll see.) A couple honorable mentions in this category also: first, the Fall 2005 Dead Stroke team in D, who played 4 in 5 weeks and lost all 4 of them… ouch; and also, the Fall 2009 Dive Bombers in E division, who played 5 tiebreakers in a 6-match span that covered 7 weeks (they had a bye in there). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Hump Day! not only didn't post a 5th consecutive tiebreaker, they didn't actually ever play a 5th tiebreaker this season.]

Week 12 answer: Holy cow, the Outlaws are the TWELFTH team to forfeit of out of a season. They are also the new league record holder for most forfeits ever in a season, having only played 2 of their 14 matches scheduled for this season. Most of the teams that dropped did so a little after the midway point of the season, with only 3 of the 12 forfeiting more than seven matches each. And of those 12 teams, none of them have come from either B or E division.

Week 13 answer: Thirteen times over the years, a team has taken matches into 1001 five times during a single season+tournament span. And those 13 tie for second place, as Constantly Corked from Spring 2012's B division threw it down in the extra leg an alarming SIX times (they went 3-3, including a 1001 loss in the B tournament semifinal). Just to prove they weren't a tiebreaker flash in the pan, the Corkers put up one of the 13 runner-up seasons in the Spring 2014 B division as well. (This season's tiebreaker leaders, Dartistic Differences in C and Hump Day! in F better get a move on if they on plan on joining this record…) [Answer update for the banquet Tons: not only did the previous leaders for the season not play any additional tiebreakers, they were actually passed by The Bunkers in C division, this season's Cardiac Kids.]

Week 14 answer: The Fall season is set such that the quarter-finals are eight days before Thanksgiving (leaving two tournament rounds after the holiday week), and the Spring season is set such that the banquet is held the weekend before Memorial Day weekend (as in 8-9 days before Memorial Day itself).

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "Old woman old woman, oh you treat me so mean, You're the meanest old woman that I've ever seen"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "Thirteen month old baby, broke the lookin' glass, Seven years of bad luck, the good things in your past"

[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week , including the week 14 twenty-song set that brought some pretty impressive sets of guesses… a few people knew more of these than I think I expected…

Week 2 theme: Musicians-singers who are blind. Yep, that's right, Jeff Healey lays a guitar across his lap and plays it a bit like a keyboard… very cool stuff. Week 3 theme: Bands with married couples as key members. No John and Yoko drama in these parts… Week 4 theme: Songs written by Prince that became big hits for other singers/bands. Week 5 theme: Cocaine, my friends… cocaine. I guess I'm glad this one wasn't a theme that was immediately obvious to everybody! Week 6 theme: I'm sorry, but that one's really too obvious to have to explain here. (Yes, it was apologizing.) Week 7 theme: Changes… progress… moving on… etc. Week 8 theme: Loss of a friend, not letting life pass you by, etc. Pretty obvious theme given the very surprising loss of one of our league members. Week 9 theme: Keeping up the fight, standing up for yourself, persevering, etc. Week 10 theme: A devilish nod to my 666th issue of the Tons of Newsletter last week. Week 11 theme: Our own Robbie Phillips getting a ticket for an airplane to fly over to Japan and start wrecking st! Yep, that set was a story. Airplanes, fast trains, Japan touring, and imminent destruction. Coolest thing to happen to an RDL-er in several years. (We will ignore the fact that Turning Japanese is actually sort of an homage to masturbation. :o) Week 12 theme: Gambling, of course. Not a lot of gambling in darts around here, but I sure have met a lot of people here that love to play poker. Week 13 theme: The Cleveland Indians in the World Series. (At the time I typed those in, they were up three games to one. Guess I should have gone with Chicago and Cubs songs, eh?) Week 14 theme: Song titles that are all in the form of a question, with the songs listed in order by the band/singer's last name, alphabetically.

MAYBE STARTING A NEW TREND HERE IN THE RDL?

Ya know, I'm not sure why this wasn't a "thing" before now. Just about every last one of us carries a pretty high-definition camera in our pockets every day. But do teams take team photos very often? It's entirely possible that you guys take them, but don't really feel the need to share them (or make the likely pretty common assumption that others might not care to see them). The reality though, is that team photos make pretty great memories, and popping a few into the Tons every now and then sort of 'puts a face' on some of your hobby-mates. And this tournament, a few teams shared theirs with us. I'm not going to go through the individual names (though I happen to know all the people here) this time, but am rather just sharing the joy. To the right is my own team, The Irreverent Element, from A division; bottom right is The Liquor Posse, this season's B division champs; and directly below is a combo photo of Darty McFly & Appetite from Destruction, at their A division quarterfinal (and the first RDL selfie-stick usage?).

IT'S TIME TO IDENTIFY SOME MORE OF RDL'S FINEST

Over the past many years, I've occasionally popped in a human interest story here and there in the Tons about one of our own. Sometimes those are just random inclusions, but there were a couple of series that I started that I want to go back and re-start. To get them jump-started, I'm including snippets and photos from the columns that have been included up until now. If you know of anyone on your team who would be a good candidate for one of these stories (even if it's YOU - please feel free to nominate yourself! - we really do want to hear about you), please let me know. I think stories like these give each of us a whole new appreciation for those we meet during our Wednesday nights out.

Category 1 - REAL RDL HEROES

Ever hear somebody say that they admired another RDL member's ability? Or that they were going to practice so that they could be like that thrower? They might have even jokingly said that some thrower was their hero. Hell, I've said "holy crap, you're my hero" on more than one occasion when my partner has ripped out some- thing like a Ton-12 with our opponents on 32. But none of the darting stuff is really all that admirable or heroic if you look at it objectively. That's just goofy stuff we say… There are, however, true heroes walking among us on most dart nights though. People that have risked far more than most of us ever had the guts or ability to risk ourselves. I, of course, am talking about our RDL-mates that have served on behalf of all of us in the armed forces. Now, no political debate of the merits of any specific military action or war - for the purposes of this newsletter item, I just don't care why Americans were where they were. All I care about is the fact that somebody that I didn't know was willing to put himself or herself through hellish grueling training, leave family and friends behind, pick up a weapon, and risk life and limb to protect the homeland and lifestyle that I as an American enjoy (and sometimes greedily so).

From Fall 2011, week 7 - Mark Knight

Many of you know Mark as the local dart supplier, but the "previous" Mark served in the Army for 2.5 year (before being discharged due to injury) in the 3/325 ABCT, an element of the 82nd Airborne Div. stationed in Italy. His unit's specialty was jumping into hostile airports/airstrips and taking them over while reinforcements were en route via aircraft.

From Spring 2012, week 7 - Tom Brown

Tom served in the Army Reserves and then the Army, from 1985 through 1992, being stationed with the 365th Medivac Unit, the 101st Cavalry, and the 89th Chemical Company recon platoon. He had specialty training as a Field Medic, an Operating Room Technician, an Indirect Fire Infantryman (mortars), and a Nuclear, Biological, & Chemical Warfare Specialist (his primary job during his active duty). He was deployed to Korea, Germany, multiple southeast Asian countries, and several stateside locations.

Category 2 - AWESOME RDL PEOPLE WITH AMAZING TALENTS

For this item, I was collecting stories and tidbits about the things that RDL members do for fun when they aren't out throwing darts. Predictably, some of the things are quite remarkable and interesting. With their permission, I'll be including some highlights here in the Tons. stories right here in the pages of the Tons.

From Spring 2014, week 3 - Mark Sellers

Remember the 40-foot commercial airplane/ clubhouse he built for his son's 12th birthday? It seated 28, and came complete with tray tables, galley, food cart, and TV!

From Spring 2014, week 3 - Ron Smith

The RDL's very own TV star is one of the four main characters on the reality show Garage Gold on the DIY Network. The show has been the network's top-rated series, and they've already aired six seasons!

From Fall 2014, week 12 - Meghan Howard

The RDL also boasts a state championships level USTA tennis player!! After a high school career that ended with playing in the Division 3A state finals (sadly, a finals loss), Howard left the game for a bit to tend to the rest of real life, but 2013 brought her right back, and she plays on teams in Raleigh, Cary and Durham, piling up state finals showings.

From Spring 2015, banquet issue - a 3-for-the-price-of-1 special - Mike Venable, Mike Horrall, and Brad Hamilton - otherwise known as Fat Heads BBQ

The Fat Heads (left to right, Venable, Horrall, and Hamilton) are mostly a competitive BBQ team, but also offer catering if you're interested. They're based out of Clayton, and they mostly compete in 4 categories - chicken, pork ribs, pork butt/ shoulder, and brisket (though they've actually taken top prize in a sauce contest as well). So far, they mostly compete in NC and SC, but already have a massive pile of victories, including the day Hamilton took down all-time winningest BBQ champion Myron Mixon and a few others stars while they were filming a BBQ PitMaster show episode! Holy crap!

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and this season is certainly no exception… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- As always... we lead off with Survivor time! And this season has made my head swim. Season after season, people scrounge around looking for hidden immunity idols that can save them when they think are staring down the possibility of being eliminated. And when they find them, they are elated like nobody's business, evoking phrases of winning the lottery, changing the game, of having just found the key to the most powerful position on the island. And then… most of them turn friggin' stupid… They start telling people they have the idol, because they can trust them (they can't). They make claims in alliances that it gives them all the advantage they need (it doesn't). And then they end up playing the damn thing for somebody else instead of themselves, because the others would do it for them and it's the best idea for their overall game status (they wouldn't, and it isn't). Being isolated on those islands must be far more toll than you could ever pick up on at home, because it actually seems to sap any intelligence or sound logic from most of those that play the game. Flippin' kills me to watch the stupid crap they do…

-- Just yesterday I was texting with a friend of mine and he dropped in a perfectly timed quote from Stripes. Made me laugh. Then I sat there for a minute and realized that Stripes references are often the funniest and most appropriate that I or others make as I go about my day. Can a movie that goofy and pointless be categorized as a 'classic' or a 'must see'? I'm thinking the evidence pretty clearly points to yes… (Quite a few great ones around me from History of the World, Part I also, but that was already pretty obviously a classic.)

-- Related side note: No, no line from Dumb and Dumber will ever make that movie into a classic of any kind. Aside from "so you're saying there's a chance", I can't find a redeeming quality in the entire film. And I likely just made half my friends look in my general direction with disbelief and disdain. Those are my friends that maybe grew up a little less than the others.

-- Time to start a new reader-interactive item… over the past few years, there have been some REALLY great television ads. Ones that I don't mind seeing during the break time and time again. And since I generally DVR shows and skip as many of the commercials as possible, it's really saying something if I've found an ad I love. My three favorites from the past several years, in no particular order: the Orbit gum ad where all the Springer-like insults have been changed ("who you callin' a cootie queen, you lint licker?!); the NFL Play 60 ad where the kid is asking Cam Newton if when he grows up if he'll take Cam's job and be Cam's mom's favorite player; and the Peyton Manning MasterCard ad in which he is worshipping the grocery store employees and treating them like football fans treat him. So… that's my three. Got a favorite ad of your own? By all means, please share. Send me a YouTube link, or even just a good description that I can use to find it. If I get any number of really good ones, maybe I'll start popping in something about them in the Tons every now and then. Always awesome to share a laugh, right?

-- I received one of my favorite dart emails in a long time just a couple weeks ago. A member of a losing team sent a post-loss congratulatory note about the team that had just knocked them out, but then added a straight-up awesome description of the result of the match next to theirs: "And a congrats to Team A (everyone's favorite) on punking Team B (nobody's favorite)." Everyone's favorite against nobody's favorite… maybe I just appreciated it so much because it simply matched perfectly with every last comment I've heard from every last team all season. How great to be 'everyone's favorite'… those people are doing things right. And how awful to be 'nobody's favorite'… ugh… maybe a little reassessment of things/people is in order there.

-- And while we're on the topic of things like the nice vs. the wicked… sometimes a situation presents an opportunity to see just who exactly will react in what way after whatever occurs. Some people immediately step in to do what needs to be done, while others prove themselves to be acquaintances more than friends. Confirmed a whole family of people who make the true friends list. And by this, I don't mean that they have to be MY true friends (though they are, in this case)… I mean that some people are just inherently good and nice, and they have the ability to be true friends. I'm not sure everyone does (or at least not for those outside their inner most circle of a couple friends). I count myself blessed to have had them come into my life.

-- Anybody out there notice that my Detroit Lions are 8-4? Oh, I hope they don't "go all Lions" and blow it all by one point…

-- Oh, holy crap… file this under "sometimes this thing writes itself"… Patrick Merkle of Dart Buddies let it slip some time ago that his fantasy football league has a cruel and unusual punishment for the owner who finishes last in a season. Care to guess who finished at the bottom last year? Yep. Thus, I've been all over Patrick for many weeks to share the photos of the ~~horror~~ awesomeness. And, quite literally, as I was sitting here typing this page while eating my lunch yesterday (no, yesterday as you read this, not as I type it), these gems hit my Inbox. I quickly confirmed with Patrick that it was indeed ok to share, and he proved (again, obviously) that he is a great sport. Ladies and gentlemen… Patrick Merkle doing his best Britney Spears impersonation at his draft this year. [Please note: "his best" is a comparative term that does not necessarily imply that someone actually is the best. Just that this is their best effort. :o)]

And here is the text from Patrick's email, which preps you for the coming season's loser's day…:

"Please see the attached photo evidence of why you shouldn't lose at fantasy football. You'll be happy to know that this year I made our playoffs, and have avoided the Christina Aguilera "Dirty" chaps that will be worn by this year's loser."

ALL-TIME TOP TEAM SECTIONAL AND OVERALL RECORDS, FOR SINGLE SEASONS FROM SPRING 1996 TO PRESENT (current season teams in bold)

Over the past 42 seasons (the amount of time for which full RDL records are available), there have bee2361 teams in the RDL. Below are the "Top 35" team records from any single season for each of the fou match sections, as well as overall records and all-star point averages. Just for a little fun, I've also included the "Bottom 3" (for this, teams that quickly forfeited out of the league are not included in the listing).

2016 SINGLES WIN/LOSS AWARD WINNERS

(Eligibility for these awards in the NCCDL requires playing in 60% of your team's singles sets, while also playing at least 2 "away" matches.)
(Eligibility for these awards in the NCLC merely requires playing in 50% of your team's singles sets.)

NCCDL "West" Division -- Michael Smith - Charlotte - 11-1 (sets), 23-4 (games)
NCCDL "East" Division (tie) -- Brian Blake - Wilmington - 12-0 (sets), 24-0 (games)
NCCDL "East" Division (tie) -- Dan Naylor - Wilmington - 12-0 (sets), 24-0 (games)
(this is the 2nd consecutive singles title for Naylor, with a combined two-year record of 20-0 in sets, 40-2 in games)

NCLC "West" Division -- Donna Ferber - Lake Norman - 12-2 (sets), 25-5 (games)
NCLC "East" Division -- Candi Ellis - Wilmington - 6-0 (sets), 12-2 (games)

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE OCTOBER MEETING

#1 - High County Dart Association (Boone) returned to the NCDO, and the 1 year waiting period was waived for play in the NCCDL (no team will be added to the NCLC at this time).

#2 - the penalty for use of an ineligible player was expanded and clarified. Offending teams will lose all of the ineligible games played to the opponent, and there will be an additional penalty equal to the number of points in which the ineligible player participated (and evidently, this additional penalty is directly applied to the match score and may affect the match win/loss).

#3 - a rule was added for instances in which a match is forced to be played on less than regulation number of boards - if captains can't come to an agreement on what to do, the host team would forfeit any games that would have been played on the missing boards (I "think" this is what that rule change intended - I will double-check on this one).

#4 - the division style for 2017 will again switch back to the Mountain/Beach and Central divisions. The BADA men (commonly referred to as Charlotte) offered to play in the Central division, while the QCDA women (also commonly referred to as Charlotte) will be playing in the Beach/Mountain division. This means that the NCCDL will be separated into divisions of: NCCDL Mountain/Beach (7 teams) = Ashville, Boone, Pineville, Lake Norman, Jacksonville, Wilmington, Port City; NCCDL Central (6) = Charlotte, Piedmont, Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh, Capital Area; NCLC Mountain/Beach (6) = Asheville, Charlotte, Pineville, Lake Norman, Jacksonville, Wilmington; NCLC Central (5) = Piedmont, Chapel Hill, Apex, Capital Area, Fuquay-Varina.

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Cary NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 21 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte
1997: Piedmont over Durham
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
2000: Durham over Charlotte
2001: Durham over Wilmington
2002: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham
2004: Wilmington over Durham
2005: Durham over Wilmington
2006: Durham over Charlotte
2007: Durham over Charlotte
2008: Durham over Charlotte
2009: Wilmington over Charlotte
2010: Wilmington over Durham
2011: Durham over Lake Norman
2012: Durham over Wilmington
2013: Wilmington over Lake Norman
2014: Durham over Wilmington
2015: Wilmington over Piedmont
2016: Wilmington over Durham

My annual request to the NCLC Ladies: if any of you have a history of the results like the one above for the NCCDL, I would love to have a copy of those so I can periodically run an NCLC history as well. Drop me a line please if you're willing to share.
