

THE GREATEST RUN BY AN RDL MEMBER EVER?

It has been my great honor to document some of the most amazing darting achievements over the years here in the Tons of Newsletter. RDL members have racked up national championships, youth national championships, #1 ADO point finishes, World Cup medals, trips to Europe, trips to glorious Caribbean islands, and trips to icy Canadian locales. They've become sponsored by quite a list of companies, and they've designed their own signature darts that you can readily buy online. It's a verifiable fact that the RDL is an absolute hotbed of darting talent and has been for many years (and it's an even more obvious fact when you include the areas immediately surrounding RDL-land). But in all of the years of me documenting glorious runs far beyond anything I personally could ever hope to achieve, I'm not sure I've ever bore witness to a greater run than is occurring right now... If you haven't taken notice yet, it's time that you did! Partly because you might not be able to see this run up close for yourself for a whole lot longer. For those who don't know this guy... ladies and gentlemen, please allow me to introduce you to Alex Spellman (of The Bullies). If you've read any of the newsletter front pages over the past year, you've already seen stories about Spellman basically hunting every fast game record the RDL has, and about him becoming the first player to complete the undefeated singles season in A division. In short, he has been almost completely dominant for many many months now. I've been sort of waiting for a break in the string to drop a story page like this one... but just no break has been forthcoming!! I could just never figure out when to start trying to list all the stuff he has been winning, so now I'm just going to fire off a whole pile of amazing in no particular order, just to give you an idea of what Spellman has been up to lately. --- Ok, first off, we're going to hit the obvious one (pictured to the right and also below). On August 5th, Spellman was the super rockstar in the ESPN2 broadcast of the Bullshooter Invitational!!! Check that out - he took home the title, winning a couple matches in very quick fashion on national television here in the U.S.!! Yes, to the non-darting public, the face of darts right now plays right here in the RDL!!! How completely badass is this? (Side note: I don't want to hear even one person snootily say "but that's soft tip." Yep, it is. He crushes souls on softtip boards just like he does on steeltip boards. If you think it's that easy, I'm fairly certain Alex would happily play you for a few bucks on either board style. :o) --- But while the ESPN event was easily the most "visible", check out some other recent events... At the Charlotte Open, Spellman snagged a national title in USSDA cricket event (see bottom left photo). He finished 1st and 2nd in the two singles events at the Music City Classic. He finished 2nd in the Premier Division Main Event (and also in the Open Cricket Singles) at the huge DPFL tournament. He was tournament MVP at the Washington Area Open. He won the CDC Congressional in Virginia recently, and that wasn't even his first CDC event title this season. And he is flat-out owning the DPNC Tour so far this season, ringing up three 1sts and a 2nd in the four events so far. Not surprisingly, sites across the internet have recently and repeatedly been calling Spellman the hottest player in the nation.

Want to check out Spellman for yourself? Well, just a bit of Facebook and general internet surfing will bring you quite a few videos of ridiculous matches, as well as just PILES of DartConnect records of matches (many of which include only 501 games of 18 darts or less, and sometimes all 15 darts or less). Or you can read an interview with him in a recent Bullshooter Magazine. Or you can listen in on his recent interview on the It's Your Shot podcast. (Luckily, since he is now becoming so publicly recognized and he draws so much media attention, Spellman is exceptionally intelligent and well-spoken. So that's super cool.) Or maybe you want to watch him play on PDC TV (or even go see him in person)... if so, he will be playing in the CDC Continental Cup Tour Finals in Woodside, NY on Saturday, October 22nd. Or maybe you just want to see if you can throw what he throws - of course he has a signature line of darts you can order online.

But while everything above this line is all cool and exciting, the real reason that you should pay attention to Spellman and his run is the honestly stunning math at its core. Winning is great, but it's his scoring averages that should REALLY be grabbing your attention. In about half of his matches across all these events, he is averaging 95+ per turn. In almost a third of them, he has averaged more than 100 per turn!! For leg after leg after leg. Beyond that, his "first 9 darts" averages (turns for pure score) have been regularly rolling into the 105-115 range. For those that don't watch the best international players, these averages are approaching the scores often posted by players at the high end of the world rankings, and are something few (if any) American players have been able to post for extended periods of competition. Probably why a potential shot at the PDC Qualifying School in January might be in the works. Amazing... just amazing.
