The "It Has Probably Been A Little While Since I Hit The Last Dart Of The Tournament" Editio

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Eventual Element (14-8)
A truly great Element-Hit That final, chock full of 8 perfect throws (9-marks, 180s, 160-Ins, 8-marks with DBulls) and other big shots, ends up being decided by one of the "lesser" shots in the group.

"B" Division - Methodical Madness (14-2)
After a crazy night of close semifinals, with one of them heavy with drama and disagreement, the Madness nearly coasts through the B final, barely even needing to play any doubles crickets.

"C" Division - Darty Rotten Scoundrels (13-5)
After earning a first-round bye in the 7-team C division, Darty Rotten Scoundrels roll through two wins, making themselves the only Mug winners this season to not see 501 in the tournament.

"D" Division - One Armed Bandits (13-9)
Sometimes their matches were close (6 within a dart of a loss or tie), and sometimes they weren't (6 opponents that didn't score more than 6), but the Bandits are the Fall's only undefeated team.

"E" Division - Them Handsome Devils (14-8)
It seems like a long time since the Handsome Devils have dropped a match (all the way back in week 2 of the regular season), and they took out Pat's Blue in the finals, in a third pretty close battle.

"F" Division - Bye Week (14-6)
Bye Week, the #3 seed, was one of only two Mug winners that hadn't claimed the season title too (the other is still unknown - see below), and they picked off the season champs handily in the final.

"G" Division - All About That Bull! (14-6)
How? That's all I want to know is 'how'? How did a division this incredibly messed up all season play an entire tournament with the only upset being the #3 seed taking out the #2 in the semifinals?

"H" Division - ?? (no result reported)
For the first time in my two decades as statistician, a division final goes by without anyone reporting a win and thus claiming a set of tournament Mugs… #5 Don't Hit the Scorekeeper? #7 Chalk it Up?

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Eventual Element (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Appetite for Destruction

"B" Division - Methodical Madness (12 wins, 2 losses)

"D" Division - One Armed Bandits (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Menace 2 Sobriety

"E" Division - Them Handsome Devils (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Board Room Jimmy

"F" Division - Missing Flights (9 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Misfits

"G" Division - All About That Bull! (10 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - Wizards of the One Mark

"H" Division - Chatham Street Elite (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Ballistic Behavior

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Oh, yeah! This is more like it! We had some teams with some real drama this season! We jumped all the way up to 40 total tiebreakers this season, with 4 of them coming in the tournaments. And on top of that, we had some teams that just couldn't seem to get enough extra games. Nice… F division led the way with a whopping 9 tiebreakers, which is all the more impressive when you note that there were only three F division matches per week! B and E divisions dropped in 8 tiebreakers each (with each having one in the tourneys), C pitched in 5 (including one in the tournament), G had 4 (with one in the tourney), and A and D each had 3. That somehow leaves H division, which was just a crazy-nuts race for much of the season without even one 1001.

A whopping 10(!) teams played at 3 tiebreakers this season, but the Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) goes to High & Tight in B division, who decided 5 of their 15 total matches in the extra leg, including a semifinal win! Their 4-1 1001 record is pretty stout too.

This season's Heartbreak Award (for most 1001 losses) had quite a few competitors (three teams lost three tiebreakers each), but the award clearly goes to Hump Day! in E division. Not only did they go 0-4 in extra legs, but one of those ended their tournament hopes.

TEAMS THAT WON BOTH THEIR DIVISIONAL TOURNAMENT AND REGULAR SEASON TITLE !!!!!!

(note: players in parentheses did not play enough games during the regular season to qualify for tournament play)

SPRING 2016 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, January 6th - Spring season registration, Upper Deck (online registration MIGHT be available in the days immediately prior to the 5th - Membership Director Heather Bohanan is working on a league website and it MIGHT be up in time for early registration)

Wed., Jan. 20th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, January 27th - Start of Spring season match play

Monday, Feb. 29th - Fifth week captains' meeting, Upper Deck

Wednesday, May 4 / 11 / 18 - Spring season divisional tournaments

Saturday, May 21st - Spring season banquet, site TBD

SOME RDL QUOTES I SAVED - HILARIOUSLY ALMOST ALL FROM THE SAME PERSON!

Quote #1 : from Jason Thomas of Board Room Jimmy, who clearly appreciates the humor I find in a good pairing of names, either in a partner pairing or a singles matchup: "Anyway... We had a nice pairing to start the night: "Steve -n- Tyler on board right. Didn't recognize it until I called it out…" [Oh, sweet (emotion)! I love that one. - JK]

Quote #2 : also from Jason Thomas of Board Room Jimmy, in reference to that very same game: "In that game, Steve [Long, of Board Room Jimmy] got a nice 180, that doesn't count... Custom plaque coming his way this season! ;)" [Uhhh… congrats, Steve?]

Quote #3 : from, you guessed it, Jason Thomas of Board Room Jimmy, this time picking on himself: "What's worse? Throwing a 180 and busting, or 180 and losing? I think my "trophy" should have the asterisk on it." [Oh, bud, this question is waaaay easy, and it's not losing. Steve busting the 180 is soooo much worse… Sorry, Steve, but facts are facts. Easy to hit a big turn and lose when the other thrower is playing well. But busting with a 180… that's on you. - JK]

Quote #4 : from Eric Emerton of AC Dart C, recapping oh so wel the one pain (and, conversely, glee) that we've all felt at some point: "AC DartC wins on 1001... with a double bull out (Shervin). It was of course one of those games where we hit like an average of 22.3 in the turns, were down like 400 to 170 at one point as the game went on… and of course the very first chance to win it, was a 72 left.. single 5, single 17.. double bull out." [Nice short, Sherv. And congrats, your opponents despise you now. Mission accomplished! - JK]

Quote #5 : the un-family-friendly one from Jason Thomas… thi one I think we'll just print and let it stand on its own with no added commentary: "And we created a monster... Raymond is practicing daily, on my trainer board... As Steve said (properly "borrowed" from Facebook), 'Raymond's wife asks him for a 69 and his response is trip 11, double 18.' "

TEAMS THAT WON THEIR REGULAR SEASON TITLE (but not divisional tournament) !!!!!!

FALL 2015 PENALTY SUMMARY

Ok, the bottom line here is that the teams this season did a pretty exceptional job in terms of avoiding penalties. Kudos to this season's team captains (and assorted fill-in representatives)! This was definitely one of the best seasons we've had in terms of this.

Overall, there were only 19 total penalties for a total of 150 lost points (and this was a season with an election ballot in it!). Only 14 of the 60 teams were penalized in any way at all, and there were ZERO penalties in C, D and E divisions. H division was absolutely the leading division in terms of penalties, but they are generally the least experienced (and, to be honest, I get the impression that some of them are the least caring in almost any way… sooo…). 5 different H teams were penalized, they got 8 of the 19 penalties of the season, they lost 73 of the 150 points of the season, and they had the only team that took more than two penalties.

All in all, there were 7 ballot penalties (for a total loss of 35 points), 7 phone penalties (35 points), 4 mail penalties (64 points), and 1 missing tiebreaker lineup penalty (16 points).

The biggest losers in terms of penalty outcomes was obviously Ducking Farts in H division. They were the only team with 3 penalties, they lost the most points to penalties (37), and they were the only team in any division to lose a spot in the standings (going from 3rd to 4th) due to the penalty losses they suffered.

HOLIDAY BREAK BLIND DRAWS

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still). If you have more free time, you might want to try one or more of the several other weekly and monthly draws as well. For a full list, see the bottom half of the right column on page 8.

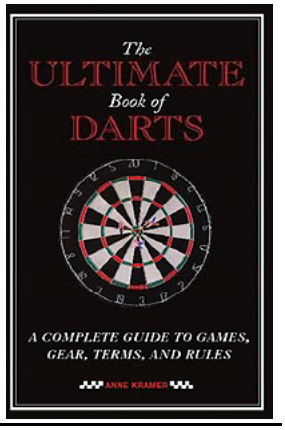
And an important note for December 25th…

Christmas Day is a Friday this year… and yes, the regular Friday Upper Deck blind draw will indeed be held on the 25th! So, if you just need a little holiday darting action, you know now where you can find it…

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

If you're quick (in one case), or even if you need some time to get your act together (in another case), you might be able to pick up a second league this coming season if you are so inclined.

Triangle Dart League (TDL - Chapel Hill & Durham)



The full information as to the timing of their General Interest Meeting for the Spring 2016 is not yet available, but the Triangle Dart League is finishing their current fall tournament on Dec. 17th. If you are interested in picking up a league on this side of the Triangle, visit them at: http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ I guess just keep checking back in the next several days for increased information as their registration nears.

Bull City Dart League (BCDL - Durham)

If you happen to be interested in trying out one of the very few handicapped steel-tip leagues anywhere, maybe the BCDL is in your future. Registration for this league is still quite a few weeks away, but it's never too early to start planning. Registration for the spring season will open on February 16th at the league party, and will continue until 7 p.m. February 23rd. Teams in the BCDL consist of 4-8 players, and the home bars are primarily in RTP and the downtown area. More complete information (and any updates in the coming weeks can be found at: www.thebcdl.org

THE ULTIMATE BOOK OF DARTS

How often do you get to actually meet a published author? And how often does that author's book actually relate to something you love? Well, it turns out that Anne Kramer, author of The Ultimate Book of Darts, is moving to the Triangle (actually, she might be here by the time you've read this) with her husband John. The couple have both had their own signature lines of darts over the years, and John even claimed a singles title at the North American Open (yes, the North American Open). Anyway, if you're interested in getting a copy, just Google the title… the book isn't expensive, and I believe there's even a current RDL member quoted in it…

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.

"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs

Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Divisions "B", "D", "G" (except team G5), & "H" (except teams H1 and H7) (8 teams / division):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for teams G5 & H7 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played for team H1 (due to a 'half-match forfeit' received):

min. of 19 Singles Games Played, 36 Total Games Played for Divisions "A", "C", "E" (except team E2), & "F" (except team F6) (7 teams / division):

min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams E2 and F6 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 30 Total Games Played

THE THIRTY-EIGHTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF: JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Eventual Element	E Division	Stephen Long	Board Room Jimmy
B Division	Trey Rodgers	High & Tight	F Division	Tom Kubel	Bye Week
C Division	Jim Peele	Darty Rotten Scoundrels	G Division	Brent Snyder	All About That Bull!
D Division	Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	H Division	Lincoln Barber	Chatham Street Elite

All of RDL -- Tom Kubel -- Bye Week

"A" Division (I cannot tell you how badly I wanted 9 spots here)

Kyle Gaulthier	I'd Hit That	Teams simply have to list around him.
Chad Massengill	The Eventual Eleme	Gets on hot streaks for weeks at a time.
Sid Mitchell	Appetite for Destruc	He's seemingly never just out of a game.
Tim Mozzetti	Appetite for Destruc	Amazing singles run fell just one short.
Robbie Phillips	The Eventual Eleme	He did just make the America's Cup team.
Mike Seward	I'd Hit That	Not his best ever, but always dangerous.
Wil Tan	The Eventual Eleme	Pulls out more wins than anybody else.
Joe Work	Traveling Brown's B	Played best against the best opposition.

"B" Division

Eugene Foushee	Methodical Madness	Yep, officially the lesser brother this time.
Kevin Foushee	Methodical Madness	See the line above. Sorry, Eugene…
Brad Hamilton	Methodical Madness	Captain led by a winning example.
Steve Holland	High & Tight	Just a solid second fiddle all season.
Jim Kerr	Projectile Dysfuncti	The Projectile recruiting team hits again.
Billy Lloyd	Projectile Dysfuncti	Was one week from a perfect singles run.
Tim McNamara	Cork Tease	Oh, if only he was at more matches.
Trey Rodgers	High & Tight	Was this his best season ever? Maybe.

"C" Division

Ryan Anderson	Darty Rotten Scoun	0-4 in 301? Am I reading that correctly?
Matthew Copple	Nine Lives	Always steady, got better with each set.
Nate Groce	Darty Rotten Scoun	The top winner on the clearly top team.
Ronnie Knott	Shooter McGavin	Played more like Happy than like Shooter.
Mike Kyle	Darty Rotten Scoun	So many players that he mostly sits 501.
Mike McWhorter	Big Bulls	Suddenly became maybe the Biggest Bull.
Jim Peele	Darty Rotten Scoun	This was the acquisition of the season.
Chris Toolan	Big Bulls	Singles record was great, doubles so-so.

"D" Division

Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	Has become a real force to be dealt with.
Anthony Macias	Amed and Hammere	Was cruising before missing last 3 weeks.
Phil Murphy	One Armed Bandits	Really, this is their third best shot? Nice.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Nice, popular, and deadly in every set.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	Wow, this was nearly a record season…
Jeff Watson, Sr.	Hostile Amish	Easily the most hostile to Amish's enemies.
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	He's always on this page, and he earns it.
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Season after season, still owning D div.

"E" Division

Brad Adams	Pat's Blue Ribbon	A minor DCkt hiccup, but overall solid.
Jeff Cashin	Pat's Blue Ribbon	He would make it just for being Beaker.
Ryan Cusman	Them Handsome De	With these three guys on the roster…
Bryan Garland	Them Handsome De	… it's really not a mystery to me…
Dave Krasnow	Them Handsome De	… how the Devils pulled the double.
Stephen Long	Board Room Jimmy	Can hit nearly anything, but 180 from 180.
Patrick Merkle	Village Idiots	Solid season carried team to some wins.
Mike Snyder	6 Pack Attackers	Won a lot of singles, floated in doubles.

"F" Division (there were a LOT of candidates in this division)

Tim Ellis	Grateful Ducks	Singles machine managed a few doubles.
Tom Kubel	Bye Week	Seriously? 9-2 is his worst set. Wow.
Jeremy Limerick	Misfits	Ok, so we just sit him only in 301. Yikes.
Joe Rigert, Jr.	Wayne Gretzky	MVP in any other season. Stupid Kubel…
Carl Riggsbee	Misfits	Winning captain sits himself(?) in SCkt.
John Suan	Missing Flights	Became the top winner for the top team.
David Surber	Missing Flights	Just needs to avoid the 501 nap a bit.
Tom Wiegand	Misfits	Not his best season, but still quite solid.

"G" Division

Rich Bialaszewski	Is It In?	Slow starter rolled for a team needing it.
David Bradford	Wizards of the One	90% winner in singles? Yes, please.
Craig Millican	Does That Count?	Yeah, he squeezed in here due to his SCkt.
Joe Munroe	Another Sinking Shi	Oh, he bailed serious water for this ship.
Jeromie Raper	Does That Count?	Super solid… right up until that 501 mess.
Julie Scheppele	Out for Fun	She might have just hit another match dart.
Brent Snyder	All About That Bull	Well, you can file this first season…
Tyler Wright	All About That Bull	… under 'success' for the new team.

"H" Division

Lincoln Barber	Chatham Street Elite	Wow. Just wow. Welcome to the RDL.
Keith Feller	Ballistic Behavior	What a resurgence. Awesome season.
Roger Genzlinger	Chalk it Up	Did he maybe fuel their tournament run?
Jenna Ianucci	Don't Hit the Scorek	Just solid across the board for finals team.
Danny Ives	Chatham Street Elite	35-7 in the first 3 sets is just tough to beat.
Britt Phillips	Ballistic Behavior	This Cupcake came with double frosting.
Sean Ryan	Chatham Street Elite	Only SCkt trails his teammates on this list.
Kenny Spencer	Tips & Shafts	Easily the leader for his top-half team.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Hey, hey, we had 2 winners in the true Quadruple Double club this season (this in spite of only 4 divisions having a full 8 teams): Trey Rodgers of High & Tight in B division, and Ken Trefzger of One Armed Bandits in D division are our two guns this season. We have three honorable mentions though, for either four 9-win sets or three 10-win sets, in a division with only 12 matches: Chad Massengill and Robbie Phillips of The Eventual Element in A division, and Tom Kubel of Bye Week in F division (and Kubel even missed a week too!)

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: This season is actually most remarkable for NOT having that one team that is always shorthanded, or that one person that plays all the blocker games. Thus, our Iron Man Award was claimed with the relatively low total of 61 games. Two people did it, but the award definitely goes to the one who did it in a 7-team division: Marc Garzon of Hump Day! in E division. The honorable mentions for the other division leaders were: Scott Butters of Fire "Ballz" and Paul Spaulding of Traveling Brown's Billiards in A with 50; Trey Rodgers of High & Tight in B with 60; Chris Schon of Shooter McGavin in C with 54; Pat Smelik of Flight Club and Tom Flood of Hostile Amish in D with 58; Joe Rigert, Sr. of Wayne Gretzky in F with 53; Cindy Voorhees of All About That Bull! in G with 61; and Ken McNamara of Chalk it Up in H with 58 games.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Six teams all made quite a run at being included in this category, but both The Jeffersons and Flight Club pulled in two players a couple times each to sub, and Hump Day! really went more for a regular shorthanded-ness. That leaves three in the group of "so-close to that perfect weekly 6-player lineup": Shooter McGavin in C (one sub one time, but some nights short), Missing Flights in F (one sub two times, short a couple times), and Is It In? in G (one sub one time, and only short one time).

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I actually did well in several divisions, and did just as horribly in others. I was within one spot of nailing A, I mixed up Projectile and Cheapies in B, and I got a lot of H right (except that I didn't know who the Elite were). However, I completely flopped E division, G division, and some of F division (though my pick there did win the F tournament).

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I had a moderate record this time around, due almost entirely to a failure of epic proportions in G division. A sub-0.500 record in that division? Even despite finishing 7-1 there in the last two weeks? That's terrible. A coin is pointing and laughing at me for my failures there. And you know who is pointing and laughing? Sharky's Machine… the only team outside of G with whom I had a losing record… just couldn't figure those guys out. Anyway, I hit just over 68%, so I still got twice as many right as wrong, even with G in the mix.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And in these, I freakin' rocked it in most divisions! We jumped to best-of-three and I started nailing winners like crazy (even in that infernal G division!). I was a super strong 25-3 in the quarterfinals, a still pretty strong 10-6 in the semifinals, and then kept that same rate going in the finals when I hit 5 Mug winners. That gave me a final record of 40-12, which I think is pretty darn good considering that one wrong pick can sometimes cost me three games if that bad pick came in the first round. And how crazy is that after the rotten regular season I had there, the only one of the eight division tournaments that I got completely correct was G division?

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-two seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the eight 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the five 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [What an absolute struggle G division was for the entire season. I could just never figure them out, regardless of any past results, patterns, anything at all. It's hard to imagine how bad things could have been if Does That Count? hadn't been there for me.

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 7 question(s): (note: as with most historical statistics questions that I can ask here in the Trivia column, the following question includes only the most recent 40 seasons, as that is the amount of time that I have been statistician - records prior to that are largely incomplete and unavailable, and some things like doubles and overall records for individual weren't even tracked in many of the previous seasons) How many times has a thrower played at least 3 singles 301 games and at least 3 singles cricket games, and won all of the games in one set and lost all of the games in the other? What is the greatest number of games played in a single season for a player that has done that?

Week 8 question: What is the longest consecutively-running current team name in the RDL?

Week 9 question: What is the minimum number of darts it would take to complete a game of 1001 if every dart had to score less than the dart thrown before it?

Week 10 question(s): Alright, let's see who is good at estimating distances… What is the diameter of the double-bull? Single-bull? The inside wire on the triple ring? Outside wire on the triple ring? Inside wire on the double ring? Outside wire on the double ring? For a bonus question for all the math nerds out there, what does that leave for total area in the single-bull, double-bull, skinny single, triple, fat single, and double areas? (Assume the wires don't bounce out, meaning we will measure to the 'middle' of each wire... and answer in inches/feet.)

Week 11 question(s): How many different teams have won a regular season division title in just the past 4 seasons? Who are they? And who has the most? (Can you even name the ones in your own division?)

Week 12 question: We've given women's singles and ASL average Mugs for each division separately for 24 seasons. In that time, what is the average number of women per division who played enough games to qualify for each of those Mug awards?

Week 13 question: What is the greatest number of teams in a division that finished tied with the best record in the division (since spring 1996)?

Week 14 question: Since we separated the Ins/Outs/Fast Game by division in the Spring 2007 season, what is the highest number of categories won by one person in a season?

Week 7 answer: In my 39 seasons as statistician (the current one is my 40th season), exactly 5 RDL members have accomplished this statistical anomaly. And the king of this weird category is absolutely Greg Boykin of Travelin' Beer Bellies in D division in the Spring 2006 season - in that season Boykin was an excellent 8-0 in SCkt, but an equally sad 0-7 in 301!! Man, he must flippin' hate the doubles. Others in this small club are: Steve Wilcenski in A div. in Fa04 (0-3 in 301 and 3-0 in SCkt); Rob Rexrode in C in Fa14 (0-3 and 3-0); Jim Blinco in E in Fa99 (3-0 and 0-4); and Mark Sherman in B in Fa08 (3-0 and 0-4).

Week 8 answer: It turns out that I can't fully answer this question… Both Lunatic Fringe and Nine Lives have had their exact team names for every one of the 40 seasons during which I've been statistician, as well as for the 2 seasons before I took over the job. Beyond that, I'm honestly not sure which team has existed for a longer time. (Interestingly, I had a related discussion with Bob McCredie last week at our match. Bob has been in the RDL since the second season of the league's existence, back in… I believe it was 1982. He told me that he thought Nine Lives was the only team remaining with somebody who played all the way back in the first season. Does that mean the team has had the same name for all 68(?) seasons of the league's existence? Nine Lives guys, want to hook us up with the information?)

Additional Week 8 answer clarification: It turned out Nine Lives is absolutely the king of team name longevity. And that's not all… Butch Smith confirmed that he has played since the very first season of the RDL (I think that was in the spring of 1982?). Aaaaaaaand… the team name Nine Lives has been used for their team in every single season in the history of the RDL!!!

Week 9 answer: 32 darts. There are a few ways to break it down in those 32 darts, but here is one possible sequence (just to prove that it can be done): 60/57/54 - 51/50/48 - 45/42/40 - 39/38/36 - 34/33/32 - 30/28/27 - 26/25/24 - 22/21/20 - 19/18/17 - 16/15/14 - 12/8.

Week 10 answers: The diameter of the double bull is 1/2 inch; of the single bull is 1 & 5/16 inches; of the inside wire of the triple ring is 7 & 9/16 inches; of the outside wire of the triple ring is 8 & 3/8 inches; of the inside wire of the double ring is 12 & 5/8 inches; and of the outside wire of the double ring is 13 & 1/2 inches. Thus, the areas covered by each section are: 0.196 sq in (double bull), 1.16 sq in (single bull), 43.57 sq in (skinny singles area), 10.17 sq in (triples ring), 70.10 sq in (fat singles area), and 17.95 sq in (doubles ring). That means that 79.41% of the scoring area (not the full area of the bristles) is non-bull singles, 12.54% is non-bull doubles, 7.11 % is triples, 0.81% is single bull, and 0.14 % is double bull.

Week 11 answers: In the past 4 seasons, the 8 division have obviously produced 32 division titles. And those 32 titles have been divided among 23 teams, with Element (A,A,A) and Methodical Madness (D,C,B) each claiming 3, while BullsHitters (C,B), Darty (E,D), One Armed Bandits (F,E), Ducks (H,G), and Missing Flights (H,G) each won 2. Each of those seven teams won their multiple divisions in consecutive seasons, except Missing Flights. The other 16 teams with a recent division title are: Appetite for Destruction (A), Despicable Us (B), Fire for Effect (B), Excalibur (C), Projectile Dysfunction (C), Sharky's Machine (D), Death Throw (D), Brown's Bombers (E), I Got Nothing (E), Liquor Posse (F), Home Grown Wolves (F), T.E.D.S. (F), Your Mom (G), Shootin Da Bull (G), Whynot! (H), and AC Dart C (H). Answer update for the banquet Tons: Element in A, Methodical Madness in B, Darty in C, One Armed Bandits in D, and Missing Flights in F all added to their recent successes with another division title this Fall season.]

Week 12 answer: In the last 22 seasons, we've had 168 total divisions. And the average number of women that has played the minimum number of games for a singles award is 3.0 per division. For all-star point awards, the average has been 3.3 females per division. But those numbers include all divisions, and some divisions didn't have any women in them. If you exclude those women-less divisions, the average numbers of award-qualified women rises to 3.3 per division for singles and 3.6 per division for all-star point average. (Note: not every one of those divisions ended up having a singles Mug, as there wasn't always a female with the required 0.500+ singles win percentage.) Answer update for the banquet Tons: This season, roughly 3.5 women per division played the minimum number of games required for the individual awards.]

Week 13 answer: In my 39 previous seasons, there have been 10 divisions in which 3 teams tied for the best record, with the records ranging from 8-4 to 11-3. The two best races were H division in Fa07, and F in Fa08. The top 3 teams (at 8-4 in both seasons) were separated by a total of 1 point in Fa07-H, and 3 points in Fa08-F!

Week 14 answer: While quite a few people have taken home awards in 3 of the 6 categories, we've actually now had three different throwers who won awards in FOUR of the 6 categories. In the Fall 2007 season, Tom Wiegand of Dogs of War in B division was the first (148-In, 16-dart SCkt, 17-dart DCkt, 20-dart 501). And then in just the past year or so, we've had two. In the Fall 2014 season, we had Ken Trefzger of the One Armed Bandits in F division (160-In, 9-dart 301, 18-dart SCkt, 20-dart 501). Then this season, Robbie Phillips of The Eventual Element pulled it off in A(!) division, actually doing it by claiming all four of the fast game categories (8-dart 301, 15-dart SCkt, 19-dart DCkt, 15-dart 501).

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 twenty-song set that brought some pretty impressive sets of guesses… a few people knew more of these than I think I expected…*

Week 2 theme: It was a nod to our new All About That Bull(Bass)! team, but clearly the theme was about all about some backside. Week 3 theme: This one was kind of weak, in my opinion, but for some reason I was just thinking about famous front men with a band or group of singers behind them that just gets listed as "and the…" And in the case of the E Street Band, they only even got that generic credit at live shows or on their late albums. Dang, that's kind of cold, Boss… Week 4 theme: Dude, if you can't see this one, you're not my friend… geez… Week 5 theme: The basic necessities of life - shelter, food, water. (No, darts are not a basic necessity of life.) Week 6 theme: It would take a pretty non-heroic effort to fail to see this theme. Week 7 theme: Girl power revenge songs!! Week 8 theme: Well, last week we had some girl power revenge songs… this week it was time to see how guys addressed the same issue. And here we have some cussing, some gun-loaded threats, and some mockery. Not sure I'm in with Sublime's plan (though theirs is the best song), but the other two work for me. Week 9 theme: I think it's pretty clear that the third song in that list sums up the theme. On film, in print, whatever. This one is for all those teenage boys out there who lived back when magazines still actually existed. Week 10 theme: Bush… Clinton… Jackson… this right here was a pretty Presidential set of songs. Week 11 theme: Well, the week before the lyrics were evidently pretty difficult, so this week we decided to go with something a bit "easier". Week 12 theme: The tub/shower, of course. Week 13 theme: Songs that are often mistaken (and in the case of the Aerosmith song very mistaken) to be the start of rap. I especially love that people think the Blondie song is the start, as the first three damn words reference Fab Five Freddie, thus proving that something came before it. Those people probably need to look up Coke La Rock and DJ Kool Herc, at the very least, though the song type was dabbled with long before them even. Week 14 theme: Actors with a hit song, with the songs listed in order by the singer's last name, alphabetically.

PUNCTUATION ROCKS!

Anyone who knows me well knows that I will mock them for really bad grammar, for lack of punctuation, etc. I love the t-shirt that says "Let's eat Grandma. Punctuation saves lives." Well, it turns out that there is a NY Times Bestseller for just us type of people (you know… people that speak actual English). Thanks to Angela Jeffcoat of Cork Tease for cluing me into this one. I think I just might have to get myself a copy. Not that 'zero tolerance' is really the approach I apply to people… but I'll bet it's funny…

HOW YOU KNOW YOUR TEAMMATES LOVE YOU…

Holy cow, sometimes people in our league simply go above and beyond in terms of making our nights out here into something so fun, and so much 'bigger' than this simple night of slinging sticks at a wall really is… Case in point: I present to you the 'North Raleigh News'. The guys on Pat's Blue Ribbon whipped this up in response to the first-ever Ton-80 by their teammate Jeff Cashin. In case the photo hadn't already given you a hint, the guys on Pat's Blue lovingly refer to Cashin as Beaker. I don't know Mr. Cashin, but I admit that I hope to soon… As the article points out "This was Jeff's first T80 and he made sure EVERYONE was aware." Congratulations, Mr. Excitable. Hope it's the first of many…

Cashin Hits T80 in Dart Match

By PATTY MURNANE

In a exciting E League dart semi-finals match last night, Jeff Cashin aka Beaker hit a Ton 80 in one of his matches and left his partner with a Double 1 out. This was Jeff's first T80 and he made sure EVERYONE was aware. His PBR team went on to a 14-10 victory!

International Moose Count Underway

By BOB O'BOBSTON

The UN-sponsored International Moose Census got off to a flying start today with hopes for an increase in the worldwide moose population compared to last year's dispointing figures. Among the traditional early reporters were Egypt, returning figUruguay whose moose population remains stable at eleven.

According to Robbie McRobson, head of the UN Moose Preservation Council, worldwide moose numbers are expected to grow markedly on last year due to the traditional moose strongholds of Canada and the United States, with the larger developing moose ecologies also poised to make gains. The largest percentagege increase in moose will likely come from China", says McRobson, The Chinese government has invested heavily in moose infrastructure over the past decade, and their committment to macrofauna is beginning to pay dividends". Since 2004 China has expanded moose pasture from 1.5% of arable land to nearly 3.648% and moose numbers are expected to rise to 60,000 making China a net moose exporter for the first time. This is good news for neighbouring Mongolia, a barren moose-wasteland whose inhabitants nonetheless have an insatiable desire for the creatures. The increase in Beijing-Ulanbataar trade is anticipated to relieve pressure on the relatively strained Rusdian suppliers, but increase Mongolia's imbalance of trade with its larger neighbour.

Historically the only competitor to China in the far eastern moose markets has been Singapore but the tiny island nation is set to report a net loss, expecting a decrease of more than five percent on last year's 50,000 moose counted. The head of Singapore's Agency for Agriculture, Jing-Feng Lau, explained to an incredulous Singaporean parliament yesterday that bad weather had contributed to this season's poor showing, most notably when a cargo of 150 moose were swept out into the Indian ocean in a monsoon.

Yet again the global demand for moose will be met largely by the US and Canada. The recession-hit States is taking comfort in its moose growth figures with gross production dominance of Canada shows no signs of abating though with this year's moose population expected to match last year's record figure of one hundred million billion.

Europe's rise as an international moose power will slow slightly this year as a response to the European Union's move towards standardising the European moose. Stringent quality controls are holding back the development of the eastern european populations compared to last year when they contributed significantly to europe's strong growth figures. Norway, which is not an EU member but has observer status, strengthed in numbers relative to the Euro area with numbers of Norwegian moose, known locally as elk" expected to rise for the tenth consecutive year, particularly thanks to a strong showing in the last quarter.

As moose season reaches its close, researchers world wide are turning to science in an attempt to boost next year's figures. NASA stunned the scientific community today with the announcement of their discovery that the moon is significantly smaller than previously believed. This conclusion, which is the conclusion of a ten-year collaborative project, will have profound implications for the moose community as the gravitational field is now known to be of the right strength to support moose in orbit.

According to John Johnson, head of the NASA Moon Sizing Experiment the first delivery of moose into low moon orbit could be achieved as early as the third quarter of next year. The technology to nurture moose in space is available now", he said, "all that is needed is political will".

WHAT A WEIRD SEASON OF FIRSTS…

This season (and tournaments), I think we had three things that happened that had not happened in my entire RDL statistician existence (that's 20 years… 40 seasons…). I really expected that at least one of them would happen eventually, but all three of these in the same season?

PLAYERS THAT LEFT… AND NEVER CAME BACK…

Honestly, I have no idea what precipitated it, but back in week 11, at the midway point of a match in H division, two of the top players in the division just decided to leave. The remaining players on their shorthanded team that night also decided to leave, creating the first half-match forfeit during my time here (that is not scored as a plain forfeit, by the way - all remaining points went to the team that was still there). But the weirder part to me is that neither of those top two players returned at any point for the rest of the season! The team played very shorthanded for two of the last three weeks, and the team experienced a bit of a freefall. And the absolute kicker to all of this is that the two players that left had already played enough games in the season to qualify for singles Mugs, and only one of the two was passed in the remaining weeks!

A TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONSHIP UNREPORTED

So, what happens when a tree falls in the forest? Does it still make a sound? Yes. But what happens when a tournament final winner doesn't bother to call/text/email the result? Do they still get Mugs? Well, as it turns out, nope. (Well, at least not at this banquet.) This is the one that I really didn't think would ever happen… most people are so happy they just can't wait to report their success…

TWO WINNERS OF THE SAME MATCH?!

And finally, the one that I honestly thought might come at some point, just… because… I know you guys… We had a tournament semifinal in B division after which BOTH teams reported themselves as the victors. No, they weren't so drunk that the losers thought they won or something like that - rather, they had a situation in the match that they did not handle definitively at the time, then they extended that wishy-washy-ness a second time. And they ended up with double grievances… Let me explain:

The score was 10-8 entering 501, with team A leading. In the first pair of 501, team B wins the first game of 501 and gets to an out in the second game. This is where the whole thing goes sideways. Team B hits the double, but the dart falls out… immediately? after a second? after a couple seconds? After the chalker acknowledged it? There's just no real agreement at the time. And there needed to be, obviously. Team B then makes the awful decision to agree to play on "to see what happens, and if it matters". Well, you can all see what is coming next: Team A hits the out to win game 2, then Team A wins game 3 to take the set and go up 12-8. Team A also wins the other pair being played at the same time to take a match-clinching 14-8 lead. Except… that Team B still has festering that they should have won the first pair (highlighting the fact that they never should have gone onward 'just to see' if it was going to be enough of a problem that they would bring it back up later).

But then… Team A jumps into the 'shouldn't have done that' club, as they agree to play on for the rest of the match as though Team B had indeed won the first 501, 'just to see what would have happened'. Well, you guys can already see what's coming, right? Team B wins the third 501… of course… and then Team B wins the 1001… of course…

Now both teams have a claim to the match win, with both wins being dependent on the outcome ignoring the decision that each made to play on even when they felt they were right. I'm sure that if you ask either team, they will both tell you that the only thing that they absolutely should have done differently is make a decision on the first situation at that time. None of this 'let's play on and let the whole situation fester' crap. And certainly not a second round of that uncertainty! Oh, oy.

In the end, Team A decided to agree that the out dart had been in the board long enough at least for the scorekeeper to note that it was in, and they withdrew their grievance to let the whole thing go away without the R&G Director having to make the decision for them.

Take notes, people… don't let this happen to you…

EMAIL CHATS THAT I GET TO HAVE

Being a little bit of a public persona here in the RDL, and with my email address plastered all over everything we have, I sometimes get the opportunity to have some pretty lengthy email chats with league members. These chats generally concern… well… whatever the hell is on their minds. Many of these chats I enjoy, and others I just survive (some of you are odd). But sometimes I encounter a person who just makes me laugh, or who I just respect, or who impresses me just because of their intelligence or outlook on things. Really is one of the best parts of this job…

And then there's Dave Krasnow of Them Handsome Devils. I have no idea what his division mates think of Dave (which probably means he's a pretty decent guy, as I generally hear more bad than good), but I freaking love emailing with him. His emails are so off the wall sometimes, and he's damn funny. (Well, note here: he's funny if you're intelligent… if you don't find him funny, well… ummm…) Anyway, sometimes we get into the weirdest freaking email chains. As an example, I present the following. I'm not even sure how to preface it… I don't know, it made me laugh…

Dave: "Maybe there is an 'I' in 'team' that I am not aware of."

Jason: "No, no I, but if you're mixed up enough, you can find the letters to spell out ME. And also Meat, and Eat, and Tea... heck, that's kind of a meal word…"

Dave: "As a kid, I was always looking for words that comprised large numbers of other words. I always thought that the word PIRATES supplied an inordinate number of words for a seven letter word. Man, are we weird or what??"

Yes, Dave, we are weird. And I completely admit that I spent the next 30 seconds after that mentally ripping through words I could make from the letters of 'pirates'. Plus… it's pirates… pirates are awesome. Right, matey?

[Note to the readers of the banquet Tons: if you didn't at least quickly glance at the word 'pirates' and pull out a list of words also, don't come stand next to me at the banquet. You're not cool, and I don't want to be seen with you. - JK]

A LEVEL OF PLAY WITH WHICH I AM UNFAMILIAR

I write all kinds of stuff in the newsletter gushing about stuff people did, big shots people hit, tournaments that they've won, etc. But sometimes it's the stuff they do right here at a regular Wednesday match that makes the biggest impression. This past week, my team was in the A division final against I'd Hit That (our longest-standing rivals, and really probably our best friends in the division, so the match was kind of awesome in a lot of ways already). But the point of this story is that Robbie Phillips and Kyle Gaulthier got matched up in singles cricket. I wish we had recorded it… To Phillips and Gaulthier, it likely felt like 'just another set' from the finals of a state championship, or the finals of a singles event at a $20,000 ADO tournament. But the rest of us don't get to experience those like they do, so when you get to watch a real battle like that, up close and personal (I was chalking!), it leaves an impression. Phillips hit two 9-marks, a 5-Bull, and about a dozen 6-marks and 7-marks. And he lost the set. At one point, I think Gaulthier finished a leg with 7m, 6m, 8m(including a DBull), then a one-number close. It's difficult to convey how good it was. My advice? Do NOT play them for money.

NICENESS PAYS…

Remember last season when Shane Richardson of One Armed Bandits said some nice things about his opponent, and then the opponent said that Shane was twice as nice. His opponents from past divisions are still telling me how nice he is, even this season. Beat that…

MORE DARTER WEDDING BLESS! I love these…

This season, I have a very special wedding to share with you. Why is it special you ask? Because the RDL has a new… "first lady??" That's right, ladies and gentlemen, President Tim "Tex" Mozzetti got married on October 10th of this year. Mozzetti (of Appetite for Destruction) somehow conned Petra Bowery (of Out for Fun) into agreeing to marry him I know, right? But seriously, everybody already loved Tex, so he goes and adds Petra (who everybody also loves), and now, well… look at them… They're like a GQ photo shoot gone… well, gone right.

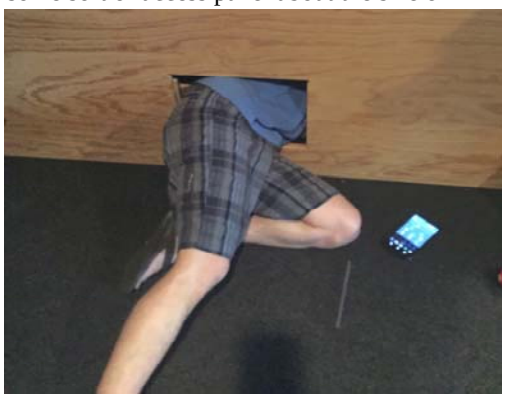
I wish them all the happiness in the world, of course. Because I too am part of everyone, and that means I love both of them too. (And how cool is it that a sitting President got married while in office? Can you imagine that happening in the U.S. government? And yes, I've seen the movie The American President - that's actually quite an excellent movie, and I love that too…)

[And to think, just one year ago, I devoted an entire page here in the banquet edition of the Tons to a story about Tex nearly died on a crazy-ass fund-raising hike from Death Valley to Mount Whitney in California… Things move pretty fast around here.]

AND HERE'S ONE THAT HASN'T EVEN HAPPENED YET!

This one is a notice for all of you guys that like to joke about saving their male friends from 'making that mistake'. Tom Kubel and Nicole Hatch (both of Bye Week) have gotten engaged! They haven't set the exact date yet, but you still have quite a few months to 'save Tom' (as if that's the direction of that equation in this particular case…). His teammates actually sent me a note regarding this one: "We would like to wish the very best to two of our players and friends. Tom and Nicole are officially engaged to be married! If their doubles record together is any indication of their chemistry, they are in for a great ride! Congrats!"

[And yeah, what's up with that? Look at Kubel's and Mozzetti's dart W/L records? Is that how we get the ladies nowadays?! - JK]



THIS CAN'T BE A GOOD PLAN FOR MAINTAINING THE CONDITION OF YOUR DARTS…

A few months ago at one of our Tuesday night Bull City Dart League matches, my teammate Joe Gaglione (of Fire "Ballz" here in RDL A division) was warming up on a board way to the left of the room. It was decided that the board he was using was one of the better boards in the room, and that we should move it over to the center of the room. When somebody took the board, Gaglione just kept on warming up, throwing another dart as if there was still a board there. And, of course, bam! Right where the double-bull "would have" been. You had better be pretty accurate when throwing that dart at that type of target… hitting the bracket just could not be good for your dart's point, right? [And while I don't have any proof of it, I think it's pretty much even money that Joe was actually warming up on the triple-20s or the triple-19s… But if he wants to go with the whole 'practicing bulls' story, who am I to get in the way?]

UMMM…. WHY? AND… HOW?

That wood board? That's the exterior of the underside of a pool table. That hole? It's some sort of access panel about the size of a small notebook. That body sticking out of the access panel hole? That's Rob Yang (of Cork Tease). His BCDL Tuesday night team, including several other RDL members, plays at The House on Miami Boulevard. And somehow Rob ended up mostly inside the pool table. And somehow the picture ended up in my hands. Why do I have this? Why was Rob in the pool table? What the hell kind of weird punishments do they have for missing the out? And how the hell did Rob even fit inside that hole (use the size of the phone next to him for perspective on this question)? Sometimes being the Tons editor is pretty interesting…

AND THEN THIS IS JUST DAMN COOL…

I love when RDL members go do amazingly cool stuff, and then share it with me (again, being the Tons editor can be interesting). How often does one of your friends/golfing buddies get to do something like go to Scotland to play St. Andrew's? That's Kenny Persson of I'd Hit That. If you don't know why this is so damn cool, find the nearest golfer, and ask him/her. Sweet…

MY OWN PERSONAL THANKSGIVING - a rambling thought page from me… because Random Thoughts isn't enough sometimes

Maybe it's because this season completes my second full decade as the RDL statistician (yep, 40 seasons)… maybe it's because my kids are growing up to the point that I see the empty nest coming… maybe it's because I'm just at a really happy place in my life. I don't really know why… but this past Thanksgiving, I started making a list in my head of things for which I was thankful. And it's pretty amazing how many of those things could be traced back to… darts. Seriously.

My wife, who I can not wait to see every single day when I get home from work? I met her at a dart match. My friends with whom I will go golfing this year? Met them through darts. My friends with whom I will play fantasy football for half the year? Met most of them through darts. My friends with whom I will play poker, go out to eat, hang out with on weekends? Mostly met through darts. My friends with whom I will travel across the country to attend rock festivals, with whom I will go to comedy shows, with whom I will go the beach/mountains/etc.? Darts, darts, and darts. People with whom I go to football and hockey games? Mostly through darts. People to fix my car? Met through darts. People to fix my plumbing? Met through darts. People who send me funny emails, who chat via email, and who go to movies with me? Often met through darts for all of them. It is crazy to sit and try to list all of the ways that joining a dart league here in the Triangle has affected me (and mostly for the better! :o).

But it's not just all the 'things I can list outside of the dart bar' that are things for which I'm thankful. I'm also thankful for the pure experience that IS a dart match here in the Triangle. And I certainly don't just mean the adrenaline of a good competitive setting (though that certainly is great too). What I mean is this… It's a Wednesday in some regular week of some regular month, just during the regular season, and I go to work for a full day just like any other Wednesday. And it's work, so I have to… ya know, work. And it's not all that fun sometimes, and some days it actually kind of sucks, because some people are too stupid to be employed… yet here they are, making your day longer for you. Thanks, stupid people. And you really just want to beat them down and end their stupid existence, but you know, laws and public safety. So all you can do is make it through your day and hope it gets better. And then the evening finally comes and you roll to your local host establishment. For me, that's the Deck. Because I like big crowds, I like having people telling stories, and I like that there's always someone there even when you stay late. But I'm getting ahead of myself… What follows, this is the best part…

I walk in to the Deck, and Sarah greets me with a "Hi, Darlin'." And Mark is sitting at the table waiting to share a funny photo with me. And Chad is already warming up and telling a funny hunting story (well, the hunters tell me it's funny). And Devin says "hey, JK!" with that giant infectious smile she always has. And Paulie is already at the jukebox playing the best music anyone will choose all night. And Dylan is standing behind Paulie deciding which songs he'll choose that will make everybody groan and yell at him. And Ellie comes by and says something adorable… because it was Ellie saying it. And then Robbie takes my darts out of my hand and hits a 180 and walks away without looking me while leaving my darts there in a score to which they are generally unaccustomed. And Wil calls me to ask why nobody is there with him at the bar in Garner, despite the fact that I just saw Wil outside. And Sid walks in, awesomely wearing an Appetite for Destruction t-shirt from a concert on some other continent. And Simon walks over and says something that might or might not be a joke, which makes him laugh more when he sees that you aren't sure which it is. And Julie is there, chastising me for not hugging her first. And Mike Y. is there ready to talk up my beloved Red Wings. And Allen is doing his lift-the-skirt-smack-the-ass victory story. And Angela is politely waiting to the side, quietly waiting for a giant hug. And Jerry walks in… holy crap, that must mean I have about 3 minutes left to list. And Grubber is there with an "alright, man, how you doin'?" And then Lis spots me with a "whatUP!?" And then a solid fist bump from Stepp that comes with an awesomely funny sarcastic comment. And then I spot Kyle, who is staring at his phone… at least until he sees me and wants to show me the 27th car he has fixed up this year. And Billy comes in without a baseball hat on… wait, could that really be Billy? And Doug is in the corner beating himself up because he picked the wrong running back in our fantasy football game (so he only won by 15 and not by 20). And maybe Joey G is there, and he has been since 6:30, because his boss let him leave work early. And Lee is there, lying to her husband that she will be rooting for his team and not her son's (which is my team). And finally Tom rolls over to the boards, but I knew he was here because I rode over here with him and we spent the entire way talking hunting (I know nothing) and football (I know a lot) and chicken wings (I know a LOT, about eating them…). And then Tex walks up… holy crap, that means that it has gotta be 8 o'clock and I'm not listed yet. And then a handshake from Dean.. I respect a guy that says hello with a handshake. And of course Scott will be yelling at Dean shortly about calling him Gramps. And it has been a while since Zak's hair was a color I can't identify in bar lighting. And dammit, is Yang drinking my Newcastle? And then I stop and talk with somebody that I don't even know, because he has a dart story, and he recognize me as the 'Tons guy', and his story might be hilarious, or it might be stupid… but it's 'his' story, so I'm down with listening. And I think I hear Mike already laughing about whatever prank he pulled at work today that is in the story he's telling. And Kenny is giving Mike a look of 'I can't believe I hang out with you' despite the fact that he has hung out with him for a decade. And Bob Terry walks up with a "helloooo, Jason Kilts", because he always includes my last name (so I included his here). And now Joel walks in… aw, crap, now I really know that I'm late to getting to my list.
--- --- And you know what? It's only 8:10, I've only been at the Deck for half an hour or so, and I already feel better about… everything. --- ---

Maybe this is why my favorite television show has been, and maybe always will be, Cheers. It's where everybody knows your name. I guess the Deck is sort of like that for me. And I'm not even a nightly regular. And I really don't drink all that much (well, at least in comparison to some darters, I suppose). But it's a home away from home, and there are always people home. Heck, everybody there even knows my son when he comes there, and he's only there a few times a year because of school. So, it's even a bit of a home that recognizes family.

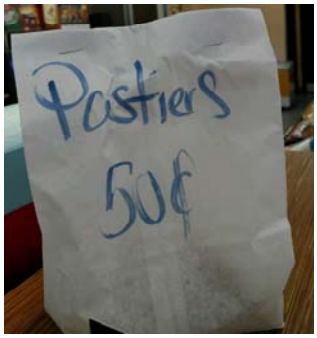
But make no mistake… while the Deck is my current dart home, and the 'place' is the home by definition, it's the people that make it that way. That's the part for which I am thankful. I am thankful for all those listed above, and all those that I will see in the coming weeks that I just didn't have space to include here. And I'm also thankful for the memories from there, and the laughs that have accompanied them.

And I miss some of the elements (see what I did there?) that have added to my whole dart experience over the years too. The number of times that Jon Kenney gave me the most heartfelt hand-clasp (not a handshake) and hug. The resounding yells of 'Cado!' every time Alberto entered the room. [Seriously, has anybody ever worn a nickname better than Alberto? Have you seen his frickin' shirt?! Amazing.] And I wonder if Jeremy owns an Ohio State t-shirt for every day of the month… oh, and Drink-a-kowski is maybe the best nickname ever. Geez, I wish Riner was still here - that guy could make me laugh with the shortest sentence. And Jeremiah, he made me love the competition of the game even when I sucked (which was often, by my team's standards). And Wade, one of the founding members of Element and one of the purely nicest people I've ever met (and Wade is a really good writer - I respect that a bunch). And I would say that I would look forward to seeing Lisa when I walked in, but if you think she wasn't already in my carpool on the way over here, you are foolishly mistaken. And what I would give to be picked up by Dale, another founding member of Element, at a dart match just one more time.

Yeah, I owe a lot to darts. When I moved to North Carolina for grad school back in 1991, I had no idea what was ahead of me. Thank you Chris Joneckis, wherever you are, for asking me to play on that first lab dart team (boy oh boy, we were bad) back in my first year of grad school. I didn't know it then, but that one little thing shaped my life for the better for decades to come. Cheers to all of you…

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and once again much of it was written when it was already today… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…



-- You know what's first... it's Survivor time! But this time it's a very short note: never play your hidden Immunity Idol on another person, especially when nobody even knows you have it. Save it for yourself. Duh. You're killin' me here…

-- Does anybody else have the Gmail app on their phone? Is it just me, or is there no way to turn off the damn conversation mode? And why the heck is that the default system in the first place?! It makes my mail just about unreadable on that device. Un-read-a-ble. That isn't a great term to have describing your app that is supposed to be providing people things to, ya know, read.

-- Have any of you (probably ALL of you) seen or heard the Blue Cross Blue Shield ads where they constantly blurt out their hot new phrase "Live Fearless"? That ad is on all the dang time. And they ask you to 'pledge to live fearless'. Well, I have something to pledge for them… I would like to pledge them some flippin' adverbs… That dumbass ad drives me nuts. How does stuff like that hit the mainstream?

-- And while we're on the 'main stream', I'm going to take this opportunity to revisit an old favorite of mine (that got quite a lot of agreement feedback). So, last week my wife cut her thumb pretty badly, and so for a day or two we were limiting stress on it, including me driving anywhere if we were going out. She had an appointment at her doctor's office, just for an annual physical and checkup, so I went with her and drove. Now, mind you, this is an ob/gyn, and at a private office, not in the emergency room where you might expect to encounter a bunch of males. I am, of course, the only male there. And for some reason, when I see the unisex bathroom right there in the waiting room, I think to myself "oh, dangit, I have to pee, but all of these women are going to think that I'm probably some nasty guy going in there to mess up their pristine little ladies' room". Well, I decide that it's silly to just sit there and think about it, so I get up my nerve and go in. Little did I know that I wasn't getting up my nerve to be an unwanted visitor in their sanctuary… I was getting up my nerve to walk into the disgusting warzone that they call a public ladies' room. HOLY. CRAP. Ladies… I'm a fairly educated man. And I have a pretty strong working knowledge of both the female anatomy AND the likelihood of passing diseases via contact with a toilet seat. And I have just one comment for you: "Sit your stupid hovering asses on the damn seat!" Your aim is not that good, and your body shape does not always lend itself for accurate direction prediction. That's just a fact, and nothing of which you should be ashamed. What you should be ashamed of (if you are indeed a hoverer) is peeing all over the seat, all over the floor next to the seat, all over the wall next to the floor next to the seat, etc. Because you see, once one hoverer fails to convert, every contestant after that hoverer now sort of has to become a hoverer by default. And the ironic conclusion is that the nastiness the original hoverer was trying to avoid is actually caused by that hoverer herself. You have to stop. You really just HAVE to stop. Seriously.

-- I am, as always, writing this column last. And this night had the serious potential to be a super late-nighter (as in barely any sleep, even for me). And last night I had to take off from about 6 to 9 p.m. to go see my son's "dance concert" (they really need a better name) at the Durham School of the Arts. They have new teachers/directors this year, and we weren't sure how everything would turn out, but let me tell you… THEY. FLIPPING. NAILED. IT. The show was amazing. The production, the movements, the lighting, the choreography. Holy crap, these are 7th-12th grade kids! The show was good last year, but it was exceptional this year. I left in such an amazing mood that I fairly tore through the last few pages here. If you like people, or kids, or dance, or just smiling… I actually recommend you hit one of their shows next year. And no, I can't believe I actually just recommended to people that I like that they go see a school show in which they have no children. That's crazy talk. Except that this time it isn't.

-- So I'm with my son at a local convenience store last week, and I came upon this display. I must have stood there for maybe 15-20 seconds staring at it trying to figure out what the heck I was looking at, until my son noticed, walked by, and quickly said "pastries, dad". Did you see it right away? I sure didn't. I was so trying to turn it into some French word… Stupid bad spellers, messing with me. There should be some sort of interview process to get a job… Oh… right.

-- Hey, do me a favor, ok? If you have ever uttered "hashtag" as part of your sentence in a conversation, punch yourself in the face. No, not like that, ya wuss… I mean really punch yourself, enough to make an impression such that you won't want to do it again. And if you do happen to do it again, punch yourself in the face then too. … … … And on two related notes: #1 - that symbol is either the pound sign or the number sign, and is not a hashtag. A hashtag is the entire phrase that includes a starting number sign, and is not just the number sign itself. #2 - get the hell off Twitter, or at least stop typing there, as you are nowhere near being important enough that anyone else should care. Ugh. (And do you want proof that I was right about this one? When you read my two related notes in the half dozen lines before this, did you mentally say "number 1" and "number 2", or "hashtag 1" and "hashtag 2"? Of course you said number, because it's the number sign. And if you actually did read it as hashtag instead of number, please come find me, because now I need to punch you in the face.)

-- I know that I'm going to get a lot of pushback on this one, but I think the North Carolina Ladies' Cup (and possibly the North Carolina City Dart League) needs a rule change. They need to cut down the number of teams that qualify for their tournament. When the tournament is just sort of a silly extra-season item (like I picture the RDL tournaments :o), it's fine to just have all teams participate. But when the tournament is an extension of the season, for which you need to qualify, and after which state champions are crowned from it, there needs to be a point at which only teams that have "earned" a shot get in the tournament. The new ladies' champions had a great weekend, and I'm sure they're very nice women… but they lost two-thirds (yes, 67%) of their matches during the course of the year. How can the 'champion' lose twice as often as they win all year long?

NCLC "Mountain/Beach" Division (tie) -- Lisa Shpritz - Charlotte - 6-0 (sets), 12-0 (games)
NCLC "Central" Division -- Angela Joines - Chapel Hill - 8-1 (sets), 17-5 (games)

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE OCTOBER MEETING

== The NCCDL will operate with the same 13 teams as we had this season, and divisional play will return to the East/West format that we have employed in even-numbered years for a while now. Unlike in many past years, the exact division lineup was finalized at the state meeting in October. The West division will include 6 teams: Asheville, Pineville, Charlotte, Lake Norman, Piedmont, and Chapel Hill. The East division will include 7 teams: Port City, Wilmington, Jacksonville, Capital Area, Raleigh, Cary, and Durham. (This alignment is the same as two years ago, except that Durham has been switched back from the West division to the East division this time around.) All teams will play each other team within their divisions, and will also have 2 interdivisional matches on their schedules (except for 2 teams in the larger East division, who will have one extra intradivisional match in place of a second interdivisional match, due to the difference in number of teams in the divisions). This means that West division teams will play 7 matches, and that East division teams will play 8 matches.

== The NCLC will operate with the same 11 teams as it had this season, also with an East/West format. The West division will include Asheville, Hickory, Pineville, Charlotte, Piedmont, and Chapel Hill. The East division will include Wilmington, Jacksonville, Fuquay-Varina, Capital Area, and Apex. The West division will play 7 matches, and the East division will play 6 matches, and all teams will have 2 interdivisional matches on their schedules (except for 2 teams in the larger West division, who will have one extra intradivisional match).

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Cary NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 20 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte
1997: Piedmont over Durham
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
2000: Durham over Charlotte
2001: Durham over Wilmington
2002: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham
2004: Wilmington over Durham
2005: Durham over Wilmington
2006: Durham over Charlotte
2007: Durham over Charlotte
2008: Durham over Charlotte
2009: Wilmington over Charlotte
2010: Wilmington over Durham
2011: Durham over Lake Norman
2012: Durham over Wilmington
2013: Wilmington over Lake Norman
2014: Durham over Wilmington
2015: Wilmington over Piedmont

Request to the NCLC Ladies: if any of you have a history of the results like the one above for the NCCDL, I would love to have a copy of those so I can periodically run an NCLC history as well. Drop me a line please if you're willing to share.

TONS OF NEWSLETTER

Home to the Spring Session of the Raleigh Dart League for the Banquet, Saturday, May 21, 2016 Issue #JK656
The "No, Really, I Do Mean Directly Across From The Flag… As In Directly Across..." Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Element Way (14-2)

The Element completes the most dominant run in RDL history by tying the A division record of 3 total points allowed in 3 tournament matches, after breaking the league point record in an undefeated regular season. At the same time, the RDL ties its own record as Element was the only team completing a season/tournament double.

"B" Division - Darty Sanchez (13-7)

It has now been a couple years since Darty has lost a tournament match, as they claim their fourth consecutive tournament title (E / D / C / B, in order) on their way to taking a shot at A Mugs.

"C" Division - One Armed Bandits (13-7)

The Bandits take down the C season winners in the finals, and have very nearly duplicated the tournament run that Darty has had (see B result above) - in the last four tournaments (F / E / D / C, in order), the Bandits have two sets of Mugs and two narrow 13-11 losses.

"D" Division - Pat's Blue Ribbon (14-10)

Pat's Blue sweeps 501 to come from behind and end the Handsome Devils' win streak at thirteen matches, meaning that Pat's Blue also holds two of the Devils' three total losses this season/tournament.

"E" Division - The Drinkers Awaken (13-5)

It was a tale of two seasons for the Drinkers, as they finish their season/tournament with nine wins in the last ten weeks, capped by a dominant win over… wait for it... the last place team from the regular season (yes, Public School made it to the Mug finals)!

"F" Division - Coach's Crew (14-10)

It wasn't easy for the Crew in any of their three tournament matches, with their Mug run finally completed with a come-from-behind 501 sweep over Wayne Gretzky, who also played only close matches.

"G" Division - Ballistic Behavior (12+-12)

After losing all three 501s and then trailing by 400(!) points when their opponents reached the out in 1001, Josh Phillips and his 64-out save the day for #6 seed Ballistic, making them the only team seeded lower than #3 to claim a set of Mugs this season.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Element Way (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - I'd Hit That

"B" Division - Rif Raf (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Darty Sanchez

"C" Division - Shooter McGavin (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Menace 2 Sobriety

"D" Division - Them Handsome Devils (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Just Like That

"E" Division - Mike's Garage (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - The Drinkers Awaken

"F" Division - The Sofa Kings (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Coach's Crew

"G" Division - Another Sinking Ship (12 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Chatham Street Elite

(Rosters of all tournament-winning and regular season first place teams can be found on page 4.)

SPRING 2016 RDL DIVISIONAL TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

This is becoming kind of a trend… a LOT of parity in several of our divisions, but somehow we really don't end up with many tiebreakers. There were only 32 this season (with 3 of those coming during the divisional tournaments). E division led the way with 7 tiebreakers played (6 in the season, 1 in the tournament). F had 6 tiebreakers, C and G each had 5 tiebreakers (with 2 of those in G coming during the tournament), and A, B and D each had 3 tiebreakers.

Five teams played 3 or more tiebreaker games, while sixteen teams never went into extra time.

This season's Cardiac Kids award (for most tiebreakers played) goes to Don't Hit the Scorekeeper in G division, our only team to step into 1001 four times this season. And they enjoyed the extra leg so much that they snagged two of those in the tournament semifinals and finals. Yes, an extra game after a 12-12 match of best-of-three sets, in G division. I'm just guessing they got more darts per dollar than the standard RDL team this season.

The Heartbreak Award could be shared by as many as five teams, as that's exactly how many tied for the most tiebreaker losses this time around. But that number of losses for the leaders? Two. Yep, two. No team in any division lost more than two. Yay, for… everybody… but boo for this part of this column. I guess that means that in the end I will have to give this award to Mike's Garage in E division, and the aforementioned Don't Hit the Scorekeeper in G division. Both the Garage and Scorekeeper not only lost two tiebreakers, but the second loss for each of them spelled out their tournament demise. Pretty sudden ending for a Mug run in that one-game-of-1001-all-play format.

FALL 2016 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wed., Aug. 3rd - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, August 10th - Start of Fall season match play

Monday, Sep. 12th - Fifth week captains' meeting, The Upper Deck

Wed., Nov. 16 / 30, Dec. 7 - Fall season divisional tournaments

Saturday, December 10th - Fall season banquet, site TBD

THIS RIGHT HERE? I CAN RESPECT THIS

Them Handsome Devils in D division pulled away from the pack to take the regular season title, after the first half of the season seemed to portend a wild and even race. Then they trucked on through their tournament quarterfinal and semifinal matches. Then… they got dumped on their derrieres by a strong night (including a hot string of 501s) by Pat's Blue Ribbon in the finals. A lot of people would whine and complain about '01 being more random, about the season being the bigger achievement, etc. But what did Dave Krasnow of the Devils say in an email to me after their loss? (for clarification, the main impetus of the email was to make sure that he had called in his teammate's 9m the week prior) Well, he said this:

"Pat's Blue Ribbon were very deserving champions that threw well from start to finish down the entire lineup… A tremendous clutch effort by Pat's beginning with Jeff over Ryan in 301, with Ryan reaching an out in both games, but Jeff throwing an 11 dart game followed by a 12 dart game to nip Ryan both times. In a way, that win kind of set the tone for what was to come. And late in the match, when the Devils were leading 10-8 going into 501, Pat's bore down and swept 501 like they needed to, to avoid a 12-12 tiebreaker. In the 3 of the 4 doubles matches that Pat's won, the Devils won the first game, and then lost their focus, losing two straight to lose the point. More of a great win by Pat's than an embarrassing collapse by the Devils. Pat's was clearly the better team last night.'

SPRING 2016 PENALTY SUMMARY

Oh, holy crap!! You guys almost certainly had to have set some sort of league record this season. I would have to go back and dig through all of my past files to really be certain (and I really just don't have that much free time this week), but once you read these statistics, you'll see why I'm so relatively certain…

This season there were only EIGHT total penalties. EIGHT! That is so flippin' great. I realize this was not an election season, so there aren't ballot penalties this season. And there wasn't a captains' meeting, but that was an "earned" absence because everyone was handling business so well. So this season's captains really excelled like maybe never before.

There were 3 phone penalties (totaling 15 points) and 5 mail penalties (80 points). And… that's it.

A, C, D and E divisions had ZERO penalties. And only 6 teams in the entire league drew a penalty. 3 teams in B each got one penalty (for a total of 37 points), 2 teams in G each got one penalty (for a total of 32 points), and 1 team in F got three penalties (for a total of 26 point).

This season's clear loser in the penalty situation was the only team to garner more than one penalty. Dodging Darts in F division not only got the most penalties (3) for the most points (26), but they were also the only team to drop in the standings due to penalty (from 5th down to 7th!).

NEED SOME SUMMER DART OPTIONS?

Leagues? Blind draws? Tournaments? We have 'em all!

Wednesdays - Brown's Billiards In-House Summer League

Brown's is hosting its 2nd annual In-House League, with a player draft for teams on May 29th (you do not have to be present). $20 per player, season is 10 weeks, and league plays starts June 1st at 8 p.m. The league has 100% payout, and Brown's adds $20 per team. For more info: David Huffman, (919)369-7656; or Rom Knight, (919)985-0378; or Brown's Billiards (919)878-9092.

Tuesdays - BCDL - Durham Handicapped Steel-Tip League

The Bull City Dart League continues its year-round play, but the season that starts in the summer doesn't match the RDL break quite as well as in some years. The final location of registration hasn't been set yet, but that registration closes at 7 p.m. on July 19th, and you can get updates at the league website (www.thebcdl.org). The league plays Tuesday nights throughout Durham and RTP, and uses a rolling handicap system to level the playing field quite a bit. Teams consist of 4-8 players (about 6 is the norm), and dues are $25/player per season.

Thursday league - TDL - in Chapel Hill/Durham

The registration information for the TDL isn't out yet, but the spring finals were this past Thursday. So I would expect the registration meeting to occur sometime soon. Check www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ for information updates soon. The teams in TDL consist of 6-10 players per team, and dues are $20/ player per season. I believe this past season the league used 2 bars in Chapel Hill and 2 in Durham, although I'm not certain that list is necessarily static, and is likely more determined by the number of teams that are registered (and bar availability).

Or maybe a blind draw…

Page 8 lists the regular weekly blind draws offered by RDL host establishments, and there are a bunch. But I have also confirmed both The Upper Deck AND Sharky's Place will be adding weekly Wednesday draws for every week this summer. They will have basically the same features as their regular draws listed on page 8, except that there is no Wednesday "triple shot" at the Deck.

And for those lookin' for a bigger tournament…

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "G" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for all Divs. (except teams D6, E5, F1 & F7) (8 teams / div.):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for teams D6, E5, F1 & F7 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played

PENALTY LOG

Here are all the penalties assessed this season.
Phone (5 pts.): OT Outlaws (B,wk.13), Dodging Darts (F,wk.4,wk.10).
Mail (16 pts.): Rif Raf (B,wk.5), Nine Lives (B,wk.9), Dodging Darts (F,wk.4), Is It In? (G,wk.1), Chalk it Up (G,wk.1).

THE THIRTY-NINTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

All of RDL	Robbie Phillips	The Element Way
A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Element Way
B Division	David Martin	Rif Raf
C Division	J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety
D Division	Austin Mitchell	Just Like That
E Division	Angelo Azevedo	Bye Week
F Division	Randy Wilcox	Coach's Crew
G Division	Josh Phillips	Ballistic Behavior

"A" Division

Tom Brown	The Element Way	Bigg Dogg's brief slump is looong gone.
Kyle Gaulthier	I'd Hit That	Can simply hit any big shot at any point.
John Kramer	The Element Way	He wanted "rookie of the season". Ha!
Chad Massengill	The Element Way	Completed his set of singles title Mugs.
Tim Mozzetti	Appetite for Destruc	Clearly an RDL top ten stalwart now.
Robbie Phillips	The Element Way	Every game could be a shot at a record.
Mike Seward	I'd Hit That	Mr. Consistency still is exactly that.
Wil Tan	The Element Way	Started slow, but finished like a monster.

"B" Division

Will Bennett	OT Outlaws	Huge season for the ever-shorthanded.
Jimmy Davis	High & Tight	Nice addition of a longtime RDL winner.
Jack Gibson	Nine Lives	Nice balanced season for balanced team.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	If he ever gets back to full time, look out.
David Martin	Rif Raf	14 straight 301 wins? Seriously? Wow.
Chris Moody	Darty Sanchez	So strong for first 3 sets. Then… 501…
Darin Osenberg	Rif Raf	Another part-time crusher for B winners.
Jim Peele	Darty Sanchez	Team isn't the same when he's absent.

"C" Division

Brian Howard	Shooter McGavin	Led team to season title & almost Mugs.
John Jenkins	Armed and Hammer	Most excellent to see him back in form.
Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	There are officially 2 big Menaces now.
Kris Kilsdonk	One Dart One Kill	Cricket monster often carried her team.
Ronnie Knott	Shooter McGavin	Great in cricket, decent in the '01 sets.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Uber-consistent again for Mug winners.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	One 301 from a perfect singles season…
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	So good... he's an automatic inclusion.

"D" Division (I could've easily picked TWELVE here…)

Brad Adams	Pat's Blue Ribbon	Got nearly half of his team's DCkt wins.
Jeff Cashin	Pat's Blue Ribbon	Came up biggest at the biggest times.
Ryan Cusman	Them Handsome De	10+-wins in all four sets? Yes, please.
Bryan Garland	Them Handsome De	Biggest winner for runaway title team.
Dave Krasnow	Them Handsome De	Is he really just third best on his team?
Austin Mitchell	Just Like That	Another 10+ win in all sets guy? Sweet.
Jason Thomas	Ted's 180 Emporiun	Should really just leave himself 6 in 501.
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Starts out hot, slowly tails off each set.

"E" Division

Angelo Azevedo	Bye Week	Only 1 loss in each of 3 sets. Crazy.
Randy Deemer	2 Hump Day!	Superb cricket carries moderate '01 stats.
Mike Gardner	Mike's Garage	His team, his name, his division title.
Ernie Gilyardi	Mike's Garage	Would own E if work schedule allowed.
Robert Massengill	Mike's Garage	Well, that's 2 Massengills on this page…
Jeff Rudy	Flight Club	I'm (barely) ignoring the doubles record.
Lou Tufillaro	Bye Week	Sometimes consistent/steady is enough.
Matt Veith	The Drinkers Awak	Tough pick here… team is so balanced.

"F" Division (lots of really worthy candidates here…)

Doug Bozza	The Sofa Kings	Really solid in first 3 sets for top team.
Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers	Holy cow, his talent climb continues!
Dave Maley	The Sofa Kings	Captain led by example, to the F crown.
Joe Rigert, Jr.	Wayne Gretzky	So good, but not even the best Rigert.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	Probably best player not on the Crew.
Kevin Scott	Coach's Crew	If only Wilcox didn't hog the spotlight.
Brent Snyder	All About That Bull!	So strong, led his team in… everything.
Randy Wilcox	Coach's Crew	Best ever player addition in F division?

"G" Division

Daniel Cantwell	Is It In?	Doubles king for team living in doubles.
Keith Feller	Ballistic Behavior	Welcome back, Feller. Time to move up.
Danny Ives	Chatham Street Elite	Bit of a slow 301 start, but then strong.
William McEwen	Another Sinking Shi	Pretty great season to be third on team.
Joe Munroe	Another Sinking Shi	Biggest winner for the runaway titlists.
Charles Parker	Another Sinking Shi	Did just about everything on the Ship.
Josh Phillips	Ballistic Behavior	Led team for 3 sets, and saved the Mugs.
Jeff Russell	Chatham Street Elite	Is Chatham's 2nd straight singles winner.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections With every division playing without byes this season, we put together a decent group of members here this season. Five league members joined (or re-joined) the club this season. Both Chad Massengill and Robbie Phillips of The Element Way achieved this toughest of feats in the league's top division; Ryan Cusman of Them Handsome Devils and Austin Mitchell of Just Like That both managed it in D division; and Joe Munroe of Another Sinking Ship was ruling the roost in G division. There were some other close efforts as well, so let's recognize some honorable mentions (for three ten-win sets and/or four nine-win sets): Dave Johnson and J.J. White of Menace 2 Sobriety in C, Brian Howard of Shooter McGavin in C, Jimmy Dzengeleski of Dynamic Darts in D, Dave Krasnow and Bryan Garland of Them Handsome Devils in D, and Josh Phillips of Ballistic Behavior in G

-IronMan/Woman Award: Since every division had a full slate of matche this season, every team had an equal (or nearly equal, due to a few forfeits around) this season. In the end, our Iron Man Award goes t Chris Peterson of OT Outlaws in B with 71 games. The honorable mentions for other division leaders go to: Tyler Wright of Ridin' Dirty in A with 62; Mike Holly of The Bunkers and Jimmy Bateman of Sharky's Machine in C with 58; Rick Dysard of Death Throw in D with 58; Larry Warshawsky of 2 Hump Day! in E with 67 Aaron Saunders of A.K.A. Redacted? in F with 63; and both Josh Phillips of Ballistic Behavior and Brian Berman of Pints of Authority in G with 59

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Oh, yes!! The days of a team havin six players play every set all season have finally returned! The OT Outlaws tried to do it this season, but they ran into a lot of shorthanded nights. The Bunkers in C made a pretty decent run at it, but carried a seventh thrower, as did Missing Flights in E. But… after years without a real member in this club, Shooter McGavin in C listed the same six players in EVERY set of the season Yes! And it was a clearly a recipe for success as they ruled their division!

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I will again give real results… bummer. Sometimes these results can border on embarrassing…

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I actually did alright. Nothing amazing, but still decently. I overestimated Fringe a little in A; I gave too much credit to the Outlaws and High & Tight in B, while not giving Rif Raf enough; then C was kind of a mess for me and I really missed on McGavin; I didn't give the Devils or Pat's enough credit in D (way not enough in the case of Pat's); I hit mostly all of E except for the Garage, who won the whole thing; I was pretty close on nailing F; and the only part I didn't hit almost exactly in G was that I was (rightfully) afraid that the Ship would be shorthanded too often.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. As noted on that page, I had at least an even 0.500 record for every last team in the league, and my picks were only as low as that for two teams. I did really well in A (since I know those players the best, and there is less team movement there than in other divisions), but also did pretty decent to pretty well in every other division as well. An overall final correct pick rate of 72.16% isn't my best ever, but I can easily accept that.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… Often when we jump to best-of-3, my picks get stronger, despite the fact that I'm picking semifinals and finals that I conceivably could have wrong before the matches are even played. This season, however, was one of my biggest tournament collapses ever! The tournaments were wild rides consisting of upset after upset in most divisions, and in the end I finished with a pretty weak 27-22 overall record. I hit 17 of 28 quarterfinals (setting me up for a bunch of failed later picks before the matches even started), added on a 7-7 semifinals record, and then I hit 3 of the 7 Mug winners (which really isn't bad, since only one #1 seed won Mugs).

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-three seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the two 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and this season there are ZERO 'x' symbols that would have indicated the teams that fooled me more often than not. [After what felt like a really rough start with a handful of teams this season, I was able to fight all the way back to even or better with every team in the league!! Only the Cheap Shots and Don't Hit the Scorekeeper were able to hold me down to 0.500. B, C and D were my toughest divisions, but I still managed greater than 64% correct even in my worst division.]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 8 question: (note: as with most historical statistics questions that I can ask here in the Trivia column, the following question includes only the most recent 40 seasons (this season makes 41), as that is the amount of time that I have been statistician - records prior to that are largely incomplete and/or unavailable, and some things like doubles and overall records for individuals weren't even tracked in many of the previous seasons) How many individual player seasons are included in the sum of my 41 seasons here in the RDL? (Interesting note here for the curious: Yes, I have a master datasheet of the season summary statistics for each player in each and every season. And yes, I can pretty quickly and easily pull any individual's season-by-season totals in a single spreadsheet if you are ever interested in your own. Or in others' I suppose, if you're trying to settle a bet or some similar debate/discussion.)

Week 9 question(s): As noted above, we have 475 league members this season. The recent many seasons have been the biggest membership seasons in league history, so it has been a little while since we had as few as 475 registered. When was the last season we had this few? And when was the league high in membership, and how many members do think it was?

Week 10 question(s): What is the league record (at least in the last 40 seasons) for total team points in a 14-match season? And what's the record for total team points in a 12-match season? (And anyone who wants to guess can also just answer in a points-per-week fashion as well, as that's sometimes easier to grasp.)

Week 11 question(s): What is the highest total of perfect throws by one person in one season in the RDL (as always, in the last 40 seasons - which is likely the all-time record anyway)? Who did it, and in what season?

Week 12 question(s): How many bars/restaurants have hosted RDL matches in this and the past 40 seasons? Which of them have been in the RDL the greatest number of seasons in that time span? Can you name any/all of them?

Week 13 question(s): How many establishments have hosted an RDL final in the past 10 years (20 seasons)? Which have hosted the most finals? Which has hosted the same division the greatest number of times?

Week 14 question: Exactly how many seasons now has the RDL given white mugs for the best doubles win percentage in each division?

Week 8 answer: Counting this season, there have been 19,691 player seasons since I took over as statistician in the spring 1996 season. In those 41 seasons, we've had 2,299 teams sign up, with an average of 8.57 players per team. That equates to a seasonal average of 56.1 teams and 480.3 players per season. Given that we have 56 teams and 475 league members this season, this is a pretty average season when considering just the last 41 seasons.

Week 9 answer: The last time we had a number of members this low was the Spring 2007 season, when we had 474 members. On the plus side, at the time, that 474 was a league record, so the league is still bigger right now than it was at any point ever before 2007. The all-time league high in membership came in the Spring 2010 season when we had a whopping 586(!) members in the only season we've had that necessitated the inclusion on an I division.

Week 10 answer: The total point record is 265 points in a 14-match season (for an average score of 18.93 points per week for the season). That total was rung up by Element Horizon in A division in the Fall 2010 season, in a 14-0 season that was followed by a tournament title as well. The total point record for a 12-match season is 216 points (18.00 points per week), posted by No Element of Doubt in A division in the Fall 2008 season, in a 12-0 season that was followed by a tournament finals loss in 1001 to Buddy Holly & the Shafters. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: The Element Way in A division raced past the previous record with a total of 272 points in their 14-0 season - that's an average weekly match score of 19.4 - 4.6! That's losing barely more than 1 point per set, for an entire season, in the top division of the top league in the state. They did indeed follow that up with a successful tournament run, giving up a league-record 3 total points in their three wins.]

Week 11 answer: Considering only the regular season, Robbie Phillips (of Elements of Mass Destruction) popped an astonishing 8 in the Fall 2009 season - 5 nine-marks and 3 Ton-80s. Two other times, a thrower hit 6 in the same season… Phillips (of Not Non-Element in the Fall 2011 season), and… Phillips (of The Decennary Element in the Spring 2013 season). Sooo… Phillips is the top three spots all by himself. After that, there have been 9 times that a thrower has popped 5 perfect throws: Allen Smith (Sp96 Dart Shadows), Wil Tan (Sp04 The Elusive Element), Jeremiah Miller (Fa07 The Rogue Element), Tom Brown (Fa07 The Rogue Element), Brian Blake (Sp11 Just A Little High), Tom Brown again (Fa11 Not Non-Element), Tom Brown for a third time (Sp13 Bona Fide Element), Robbie Phillips yet again (Sp13 Bona Fide Element), and finally… Kyle Gaulthier of I'd Hit That (from this season!). Answer update for the banquet Tons: John Kramer of The Element Way also joined the 5-perfect-throw group this season.]

Week 12 answer: Holy cow, this answer surprised even me, and I'm the one who asked it! Even with the combining of multiple bar identities into single locations in this list (such as when a bar is sold and doesn't really change or move, or when a bar stays itself but moves a short distance), the number is bigger than I expected. In this and the past 40 seasons, there have been 118 (yes, that's one hundred eighteen!) establishments that have hosted RDL teams for a season or more. And within that list of establishments, 4 have been in the RDL every single season (and those four, not coincidentally, are the only four that have hosted more than a hundred total RDL teams): The Upper Deck (225 teams!), High Park / Upper Deck Profile (176 teams), Sharky's Place (142 teams), and Snooker's-Ridgewood (131 teams). [And if you would like a more comprehensive listing of all bars, for all seasons, with all numbers of teams season-by-season included (at least since Spring 1996), please flip back to pages 18 and 19. There is a full listing of all of that information for your perusal.]

Week 13 answer: The 158 finals in the 20 seasons prior to this one were held in 27 different bars. The Upper Deck has hosted easily the most with 38, followed by High Park with 25, Mac's Tavern with 19, and Rally Point with 16 (all others hosted 7 or fewer in that span). The most common finals location is H div. at The Upper Deck, of which there were 9 in that span. Interestingly, there have been exactly 0 A finals at Upper Deck, as the RDL attempts to host all tournament matches at neutral locations (and there are generally one or more A teams playing out of the Deck).

Week 14 answer: Ha! This one was a trick question. The RDL has NEVER given a white mug (or any other type of award) for the best doubles win percentage in any division, or leaguewide, or for any group at all. This question was inspired though, by the awesome decade-long trend of people emailing me along about weeks 13 or 14 asking about the game requirements for winning the doubles award. And those people? Invariably they are people who are all of a sudden leading their division in doubles for the first time. Nothing makes people care about an award like the possibility of them personally getting it, right?

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "How many special people change, How many lives are living strange, Where were you while we getting high?"

[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. That added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week , including the week 14 fourteen-song set that traditionally caps the season, but also the special week 8 fifteen-song set that was the first-ever set to be prompted by something that happened at a dart match (and was also the first-ever time that a lyric used in a past season was included again).

Week 2 theme: Super Bowl 50! 'Super'nova… 'Bowl'ing for Soup… '50' Ways... Week 3 theme: Bands that are made up of only three people. Yep, that's right, all those huge hits (and an entire music genre-starting sound in Nirvana's case), and each of those bands has only three members. Week 4 theme: Valentine's Day, of course. Hearts, romantics, roses… Week 5 theme: The Presidential campaign, of course! Week 6 theme: Shades… duh. Which you will likely need in the evening much more once daylight savings time hits in two weekends. (Clearly, that was a time-sensitive theme…) Week 7 theme: Legs. Duh. If you didn't get that one, you need to turn the page now. Week 8 theme: (this was a league first in three ways: first quiz first to ever be drawn directly from an RDL experience, first to ever re-use a song from any point ever before, and first to ever have the theme given before the lyrics themselves they were even included) and trust us, this was funny if you know Mark Knight and Dylan Anderson and if you realize that Knight waited just enough time to make sure all was well, or at least well enough with Anderson... and these are the 15 songs Mark Knight played on The Upper Deck jukebox right after Dylan Anderson caught on fire (from his exploding electronic cigarette in his pocket). Week 9 theme: A beach vacation in Mexico, of course! Week 10 theme: Obviously, the high-flying theme here was aircraft band names. Week 11 theme: Orlando… Mouse… Club… It's Disney World, of course! And yes, I just took my four young teenagers there, so yes I am glutton for punishment, and therefore I get to pick any damn song/band theme I want. Deal with it. Week 12 theme: The final American Idol! (At least until they decide in about 10 or 15 years that they should revive the series because there's a bunch of money to be made.) Week 13 theme: The band mashups/progression of the members of Guns n' Roses. Not really news that Slash, Duff McKagan, and Matt Sorum all went from GnR to Velvet Revolver, but now we add in last week's announcement that Axl Rose will be the new front man for AC/DC. Wow. Week 14 theme: Pianists/keyboardists who sing (with the songs listed in order by the singer's last name, alphabetically, as is usual for our week 14 set).

SCOREKEEPER FUN

Ok, I'm soooo selling out my buddy and teammate Paul Jacobi here… Jacobi is honestly one of the best chalker I've ever encountered in darts. But during our semifinals match (of Element against Traveling Brown's Bombers), his writing created a situation I hadn't ever seen. Look at the picture to the right - keeping in mind that this was during a tournament match (meaning all points are decided in a best-of-three format), what do you think the situation is in this set? … Go ahead, take a look… we'll wait here… … … Ok, got it? Looks like the Element thrower won game 1, the Traveling Brown's guy won game 2, and the Element thrower has a slight lead in game 3. Right? Uh, nope. The Element thrower had indeed won game 1, but the 2 on the other side of the scoreboard was Paul's math-nerd "shorthand" of TBB as TBsquared. Now I, of all people, appreciate a good amount of math nerdiness, but dude… that doesn't even save any writing! Dave Huffman (the Traveling Brown's thrower in this set) was awesome - when we asked him about it, he said he noticed the same thing. When Dave came back and won game 2, he thanked Paul for chalking like they were done. When Paul looked confused, Dave pointed and said "I already won game 2, right?" The few seconds he paused before letting on that he knew the real situation was pretty priceless.

RDL'S BEST TEAM EVER?

It's tough to write about your own team and/or yourself in something you send out to a large group. But if the facts are the facts, then I think I'm doing a disservice to my teammates if I don't play it up to the same degree that I would for someone else. Sooo… while I can't really intelligently argue that this season's The Element Way is necessarily the "best" team the RDL has ever had (too subjective, no way to compare opposition levels well, etc.), it is absolutely the winningest team the league has ever had in its top division.

The Element Way (which I will refer to simply as Element, because that's how everybody knows us, and we change the name just a bit every season) had a run this season like no other. A 14-0 regular season; a smashing of the all-time all-division point total record for a season (both in terms of total points and points per week, so that you can compare to seven-team divisions with byes in past years); and then a tournament run that matched Element's own record for fewest points allowed in a tournament. That's a pretty good run by any measure, right?

Regular season: 14 wins, 0 losses, 272 points. That's 19.43 points per week. That means the opponents only averaged 4.57 points per week. And don't forget that several of those opponents are stocked with tournament winners, state champions, and even a couple of national champions.

Tournament: 3 wins, 0 losses, 3 total points allowed. Wins of 14-0, 13-1, and 14-2 exactly match the RDL record set by The Rogue Element in the Fall 2007 season. The next lowest total points allowed in an A division tournament? 8. And that includes all the seasons in which a bye or a forfeit meant that a winning team had to play only two matches. Let that one sink in for a minute…

Congratulations to my teammates and friends, most of whom have been together for many years now. Been quite a ride (and a heck of a successful tenure too, but that is a statistic for another day).

PLUS, THE RDL TIED ITS OWN RECORD

The Element team above was the only team in the RDL to win both the regular season and the tournament, in any division. That '1' ties the lowest number of teams to do that in any RDL season ever. Parity is king in much of the RDL, and this season was a wild mess. Pretty excellent, don't ya think?

AND ONE MORE RECORD WHILE WE'RE AT IT…

In the tournament finals, Robbie Phillips went ahead and tied an individual record too. He came within one dart of perfection in a 7-dart 301 game, becoming the 5th member of the club, along with Don (Butman) Bingham, Tom Brown (twice!), Tony Keller, and Dave Krasnow. Pretty clutch to do that in the finals… (or ever, really)

MORE LOCAL DART EVENT NEWS

I received a couple of schedule changes/additions for local stuff at the last minute, and those things unfortunately arrived after the calendar page and the "summer darts" page were already printed and copied. Thus, I'm adding these here, and hopefully some of you see these and can make mental note to add include these on your personal darting calendars.

No more Monday blind draw at Sharky's Place

It's in the list on page 8. Turns out it shouldn't be there any more. If you are looking for a local blind draw to hit, scratch this one of your list of possibilities. (The other Sharky's draws are unaffected by this - don't scratch those off the list.)

ADO - 501 Local Qualifiers

The Carolina Dart Association will be holding four local qualifiers to kick of the ADO 501 national championship run. These are to help local darters reach the National Qualifier (formerly Regional) being held in Charlotte on July 16th. Entry fee will be $10 to $15, depending on the number of players. CDA annual dues are $10. For questions email Maridy Knight (maridy16@gmail.com). All four qualifiers will be held at the Upper Deck, on these dates:

Sunday, June 12th, 1:00 PM == Saturday, June 18th, 1:00 PM
Monday, June 27th, 7:00 PM == Saturday, July 9th, 1:00 PM

JOE NAMATH-SIZED QUOTE OF THE SEASON

Chris Toolan, captain of the last place B division team (Big Bulls), prior to his team's quarterfinal match against division champion Rif Raf, had this to say: "I'm gonna do a Joe Willie and guarantee an upset over Rif Raf!!!!" Last place over first place in a best-of-three format? Crazy, right? Wrong. Final score: Big Bulls 12, Rif Raf 11. And despite their perpetual shorthandedness, Toolan called it…

AN RDL HALL OF FAME?

Twice in the past few months, RDL league members have asked me if I've ever considered starting an RDL Hall of Fame. Honestly, I hadn't, maybe partly because I see how the people in the national dart hall of fame (name not capitalized intentionally) seem to kind of flow in there in groups, clearly driven partly by who knows who and who is willing to nominate multiple people. But to be fair, much of that weirdness comes from the number of "behind the scenes" and "sponsor" inductees the national hall has. Players on that list are, for the most part, pretty deserving. But it's obviously very political, and there's also clearly a bit of a push to induct at least a certain number each year. I would want… none of that…

And while the only reason that I would be the one to start/run/elect/whatever people is my role as statistician, I guess I've come to the realization that that's a pretty dang good reason. I see more and I hear more about pretty much the entire RDL, and I have for literally decades now. (And yes, that's a proper time to use the word 'literally' - a talent more of you should try to gain.)

Anyway, I've actually thought about it quite a bit on and off, as I think if I did that, I would take that st VERY seriously. It would be a very exclusive Hall (List) of Fame, and it would be very hard to get your name in/on it. The crowd would be very small, players might not be added for years at a time, and the criteria used would be a bit subjective but also very extensive. Inductees would need to play at the highest level, and they would need to do it for years. And they would need to do it "in the RDL" for years.

I don't know if I'll ever do it. And if I do, I'm sure people will disagree with my choices (likely more of exclusion than inclusion). I think I know my initial four(?) if I do it - the problem for me would be how much lower than those four could I set the bar and still be happy with the list in later years. Hmmm…this would not be easy.

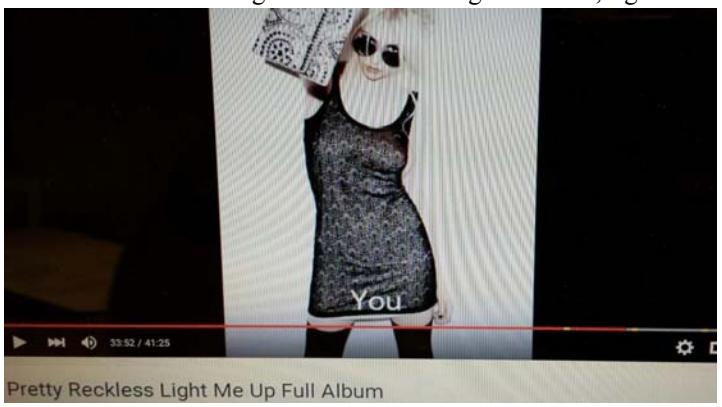
RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. I'm never sure what's about to hit the page, but anyway… whatever…

-- We always start the Random Thoughts with a Survivor item, so that's what I'm doing again. I've been really busy lately, so I haven't seen the last couple episodes yet. Don't need to see them, though, to know that if they don't tone back a little bit and make sure that they don't actually kill one or more of the competitors, this one of my list of favorite might not be around for long. Good heavens, this has been one dangerous friggin' season. Not a game for the frail.

-- Every season when you guys turn in your rosters, Membership Director Heather Bohanan puts a little note in the corner if your team is still roughly the same roster, but with a new team name. The note generally just says "was X", where X is some short version of your old team name. I have no idea why I just thought of this, but last season when ex-RDL President Jason Thomas's team took a brief break from their "Ted's" team names to be Board Room Jimmy, Bohanan's note was one of my favorite ever. She wrote it too close together so it just looked like she noted that team as "WASTEDS". I thought 'damn, that's kind of a harsh assessment…'

-- I think I might need to pound my 15-year-old son a little bit. Just days after he made me feel super old by asking me "what's the X Files?" when the show's mini-series return came up in one of our conversations, he flippin' RickRolled me. Dammit. And if you don't know what a RickRoll is, then it turns out that you're the super old one here. And I have a cool email link to send you… (Oh, and a side note on this one: he RickRolled me while he was in class! At his school, he checks out his own personal laptop each day for all of his classes, and that was how he chose to spend a free minute between assignments. I'm almost a little proud…)



-- I saw this at the grocery store. Isn't it sort of cheating to put the word 'delicious' in the actual name of the product? How is anyone supposed to ever tell somebody else that the product isn't all that good? "Hey, whatcha eatin'? Is it good?" "It's Delicious Brunswick Stew, and it's kind of bland and not my favorite." "Didn't you just say it was delicious? Are you drunk, or are you just messing with me?"

-- Hey, you know what I learned at work recently? That using a glob of Super Glue to reattach a broken keyboard key to the mechanical post that holds it and transmits its signal, is… not a good idea. Ok, yes, I already assumed that item to be true, but someone at work (who makes a lot more money than I do) just did that, and I really just had to tell somebody. Hello, somebody.

-- Have you ever seen the movie The Poseidon Adventure? Not the 2006 remake simply named Poseidon, but the original 1972 film with Gene Hackman and Ernest Borgnine… Well, I was watching it on HBO or Showtime or something late one night recently, and I have to admit that the one thing that struck me most about the film was the lack of logic when they made it/edited it. The movie is about a ship that gets turned upside-down by a huge rogue wave. Well, everything of course falls to the ceiling because… gravity. Except that in the original movie, all of the tables and chairs in the ballroom magically stick to the floor-turned-ceiling. The tables I get… maybe they are attached to the floor to prevent sliding in rough seas. But the chairs? I'm supposed to believe that every one of the chairs in a black-tie dinner ballroom is completely locked into one specific place on the floor?

-- Do you ever listen to full albums (yeah, yeah, CDs…) on YouTube? Sometimes the people that post them add the name of the song on the screen as each song plays. And sometimes they add photos from the band just to give it something other than a blank screen. Well, I love The Pretty Reckless, and I had their Light Me Up album on my computer recently at work when I noticed the pairing of the photo of Taylor Momsen (lead singer) and the title of their song 'You'. That message is for me, right?

-- Ok, it's time once again for me to go through and clean up the conversation among the American public by banning the most annoying, overused, and/or stupid phrases that people use far too often. Listen to me here, or else you'll remain the annoying tool that everyone mocks once you leave the conversation… #1 - the first thing we need to banish is the term 'game-changer'. This is a weak, stupid term that is almost universally uttered by morons attributing far more importance to something than is actually deserved. Whatever it is never changes the game at all (whether the game is actually a game, or a business, or what the hell ever), it's generally just the next step/advance. Ugh. #2 - Please never again say "mind blown", as if that is a sentence, or even a complete thought… or even true. This dumbass phrase is almost always said in response to something only barely worthy of attention at all. If your mind is truly blown by the simple thing to which you refer, then congratulations, you're officially an idiot. And if you make those little 'blow up' motions by your head with your fingers when you say it, then ignore any of what I say here - you're already beyond help, you waste of a good batch of oxygen. #3 - For the love of all that is right in the world, don't EVER say "broke the internet" again. It is painful how flippin' stupid this one is. There is so much I could say here, but if you're a person saying this one, you wouldn't understand any of it anyway. And if you know any copy editors for sensationalist news outlets who push their stories on to larger mainstream news feeds by using this phrase, I will give you ten bucks to kick them in the crotch. #4 - Finally, and absolutely most importantly, if you are someone who has adopted "the struggle is real", you need to stop. Now. You sound like a fool. Whatever stupid first-world problem you have is not subject to the term 'struggle' at all. You're demeaning anyone who has ever had to actually struggle to overcome. You sound ignorant and spoiled. The real struggle here is us having to hear you say this.

THE BEST SEASON SINGLES+DOUBLES WIN %-AGES -- Spring 1996 through Spring 2016

This list of the best seasons contains results from the last 41 seasons, as that is the time during which I have been statistican. The statistical records prior to that (pre-1996) are not quite as complete, at least in the newsletter issues that have been made available to me thus far

Best Seasons (by SINGLES+DOUBLES Win Percentage) in only "A" Division in the Most Recent 41 Seasons

(Given the fact that the level of play in "A" division is obviously generally higher than in the rest of the divisions, I have pulled out the best season in just "A" division in this section for a quicker perusal of what would most fairly be considered the best seasons at the highest level in the RDL.

The "Decisions… Decisions… Decisions..." Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Irreverent Element (14-6)

The Element completes an undefeated 2016 with a second straight 17-0 campaign, with a finals win that felt a bit odd due to an absent big gun and the mid-match loss of another top shooter to illness.

"B" Division - The Liquor Posse (14-2)

The Posse, who held the second-largest margin of victory in their regular season title run, were the most dominant team in the Fall tournaments, winning each match by more than the previous one.

"C" Division - Dartistic Differences (13-9)

Of course the division that was the craziest, messiest one all season produced one of the two finals matches without either a #1 or a #2 seed in it, with Dartistic claiming all 3 of their wins in the 2nd 501 set.

"D" Division - Never Trust A Dart (14-10)

Two of the seven D tournament matches ended up being forfeits, but if you only count the matches that were actually played, D was the only division in which every tournament match went into 501.

"E" Division - D-Lux Drinkers (13-7)

After a season division race that seemed pretty touch-and-go among three of four E teams, the Drinkers appear to have sort of laid down the law in the tournament, never reaching the last 501.

"F" Division - Hump Day! (13-11)

Oh, the story that almost was… the Humpers had to go to the last set of 501 in the finals to barely squeeze past Wayne Gretzky, who eked out a pair of tournament nailbiters despite being the #7 seed.

"G" Division - ?? (no result reported)

For the second time in my 42 seasons as statistician (with both in just the last 3 seasons!), a division final goes by without anyone reporting a win and thus claiming a set of tournament Mugs…

"H" Division - Bull Hunters (13-7)

The Hunters get a touch of revenge in the finals on Show Me Your Tips for the week 14 loss that was the Hunters' only blemish on their record in their first (very successful) season here in the RDL.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Oh, baby! 46 tiebreakers in one season?! Wow. That is up there in comparison to recent season. And a stout 5 of those came in the post-season tournaments. That's really quite a few if you think about it.

C division posted the top number with a huge 11 tiebreakers (with 1 of those in the tournament). F was close behind with 10 (with 1 in the tournament), followed by B and E (each with 7, with 1 of each in the tournaments), then D and H (each with 4), then G (with 2). Coming in last was A division, which saved its one and only tiebreaker for a thrilling tournament semifinal that was played next to my match.

Stunningly, there were 15 teams that each played 3 or more 1001 games, and SIX of those played 4 or more each! But in the end, rising above huge competition to claim the title of Cardiac Kids (for most tiebreakers played), was The Bunkers in C div/, who settled 5 of their 17 matches in 1001 (winning 4, including a tournament quarterfinal!).

Somehow, I guess playing all those 1001s gave teams experience with it, as no team lost more than 2. Thus, the Heartbreak Award goes to Fire For Effect in C, one of the many two-1001-loss teams, but the only one to have one of the losses come in the tournament.

TEAMS THAT WON BOTH THEIR DIVISIONAL TOURNAMENT AND REGULAR SEASON TITLE !!!!!!

Wednesday, January 25th - Start of Spring season match play

Monday, February 27th - Fifth week captains' meeting, site TBA

Wed., May 3 / 10 / 17 - Spring season divisional tournaments

Saturday, May 20th - Spring season banquet, site TBD

RDL QUOTES

Quote #1 : this is actually a quote within a quote, as I think the really funny part here is the quoted quote. From Meghan Howard of Darty McFly, referencing Tony Keller (who was clearly making fun of Meghan herself). This quote goes with the group photo taken at their quarterfinal match, which can be found in the bottom left corner of page 14: "Great time playing in A this season and a perfect team to end it with! Best quote of the night would be Tony Keller (when I pulled out my selfie stick to take this photo): 'F-in millennials.' "

Quote #2 : from Jeremy Limerick of Public School: "Has the RDL ever had a Politician Member?? Tomorrow at this time we(RDL) may have our first Wake County Commissioner on the roster…" [Sadly, Jeremy's teammate Kenn Gardner did not win the commissioner's election last month, but that doesn't mean he won't win next time around. Personally, I think it would be very cool to have an elected official here among us. Oh… and… no word yet on whether Kenn's family presented him with a 'Participant' trophy for the election. That seems too cold, I would think. Not too cold for me to bring up here, of course… but family is still family…"

Quote #3 : and speaking of Kenn and his trophy, I still have his reply to the Tons when we first ran the photo and story about his most awesome trophy: "It is great to have a supporting family..... So I am told! I am glad you got as big a laugh as I did. Sincerely, Kenn Gardner. Participant." [Holy cow, what a great sport. You see this, people? This right here… we need more of this. We need more o this, and a lot less of what some of you schmozers bring to the table for us. If everybody was this… (what's the word/phrase that is the opposite of uptight? laid back? that seems too surfer-lifestyle-ish for this… whatever…) Anyway, try to be more like Kenn please Think how great all of our dart nights out would be if we were. - JK]

Oh, man… the captains have been on fire for a few seasons now. This was another pretty great season in terms of there being few penalties.

Overall, there were only 15 total penalties for a total of 157 lost points (this would have been a season with an election ballot in it, but that was dumped by almost nobody running for office!). Only 11 of the 62 teams were penalized in any way at all, and there were ZERO penalties in B division. G was the leading division in terms of penalties pretty much regardless of how you measure the loss - they had more teams penalized, more total penalties, and more points lost than any other division, and theirs was the only division that had a finishing position changed due to penalties. 3 different G teams were penalized, they got 6 of the 15 penalties of the season, they lost 63 of the 157 points of the season, and they had the only team that took more than two penalties.

All in all, there was 1 captain's meeting penalty (for a total loss of 5 points), 6 phone penalties (30 points), 6 mail penalties (96 points), 1 missing tiebreaker lineup penalty (16 points), and an ineligible player penalty (10 points).

The biggest losers in terms of penalty outcomes was clearly Walking the Wire in G division. They were the only team that lost a spot in the standings (from 3rd to 4th) due to the penalty losses they suffered.

HOLIDAY BREAK BLIND DRAWS

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still). If you have more free time, you might want to try one or more of the several other weekly and monthly draws as well. For a full list, see the bottom half of the right column on page 8.

And an important note for December 25th…

Christmas Day is a Sunday this year… and yes, the regular Sunday Upper Deck blind draw will indeed be held on the 25th! So, if you just need a little holiday darting action, you know now where you can find it…

And an important note for January 1st…

And New Year's Day is a Sunday this year as well… and if you're going to play a blind draw on Christmas Day, you're sure as heck going to play a draw on New Year's. So, if you want to kick off 2017 with a little darting action, you again know where you can find it. Those Upper Deck darters are hardcore, brother…

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

Looking to add a second league this coming season? One of the other local leagues is already under way, but the other is pretty well lined up with matching the RDL's schedule it seems.

Triangle Dart League (TDL - Chapel Hill & Durham)

The full information as to the timing of their General Interest Meeting for the Spring 2016 is not yet available, but the Triangle Dart League is finishing their current fall tournament on January 19th. If you are interested in picking up a league on the Chapel Hill side of the Triangle, visit them on the web at: http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ I would recommend simply checking back on the website every few days until the spring registration information is added to their stuff.

Bull City Dart League (BCDL - Durham)

If you happen to be interested in trying out one of the very few handicapped steel-tip leagues anywhere, maybe the BCDL is in your future. The BCDL winter season started a few weeks ago, but you could still join an existing team if any are looking to add a player or two. Registration for the spring (next) season won't close until March 21st, so if the league interests you and you need some time to get your team together… well… you have it. Teams in the BCDL consist of 4-8 players, and the home bars are primarily in RTP and the downtown Durham area. More complete information (and any updates in the coming weeks) can be found at: www.thebcdl.org That website actually also includes a wealth of information about the league and its rules, so if you're just interested in seeing how the league applies a handicap system to a steel-tip league, you can find all of that there, including rules, statistics, and scoresheet examples.

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok (and actually "preferred", not just ok) to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

for team D3 (due to a whopping 3 forfeits received!):
min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 30 Total Games Played for team D1, which has actually forfeited out anyway...:

min. of 19 Singles Games Played, 37 Total Games Played

THE FORTIETH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF: JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Irreverent Element	E Division	Jim Gallagher	Coach'N Ya
B Division	J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	F Division	Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky
C Division	Will Bennett	Dartistic Differences	G Division	Brent Snyder	All About That Bull!
D Division	Cale Strickland	Mike's Garage	H Division	Brad Bushman	Show Me Your Tips

All of RDL -- Brent Snyder -- All About That Bull!

"A" Division (again I wish I had 9 spots here)

Tom Brown	The Irreverent Elem	Playing almost as well as he ever has.
Kyle Gaulthier	1 in the Bunn	Not his best season, but still so dangerous.
Michael Johnson	Appetite for Destruc	Mr. 7-dart has joined the elite.
John Kramer	The Irreverent Elem	So consistently dominant week after week.
Chad Massengill	The Irreverent Elem	Has a higher top end than almost anyone.
Sid Mitchell	Appetite for Destruc	Mr. Steady has returned to top form.
Robbie Phillips	The Irreverent Elem	Still the best the RDL has. Maybe ever.
Joe Work	North Raleigh Allia	Beat all the other top guns this season.

"B" Division

Steve Holland	The Liquor Posse	Cricket beast gets by in 301 and 501.
Dave Johnson	Menace 2 Sobriety	And another cricket machine with ok '01.
John Kuhns	Methodical Madness	Super singles, and enough in doubles.
Zak Mayhew	Show Me Your Cork	The Zak-Man absolutely ruled singles.
Trey Rodgers	The Liquor Posse	Like Holland, dominates SCkt and DCkt.
David Romanchek	Nine Lives	So unassuming, and so tough to beat.
Mike Venable	Methodical Madness	Do we ever have '01 specialists?
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	His climb to the league's top is nearly over.

"C" Division

Will Bennett	Dartistic Differences	Purely dominant, from start to finish.
Ryan Cusman	Them Handsome De	Not crushing, just all around solid.
George Guenther	Fire For Effect	Ok, so he doesn't play well with others…
Mike Holly	The Bunkers	So maybe DCkt just isn't his game.
Jim Hunsberger	Fire For Effect	So flippin' great to see him back here.
Dave Krasnow	Them Handsome De	The best in C at any given moment.
Dan Naylor	Unnecessary Triples	Duh.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	Great singles, carries enough in doubles.

"D" Division

Jeff Cashin	Never Trust A Dart	Becoming a seasonal staple on this list.
Ernie Gilyardi	Mike's Garage	Oh, if only he wasn't a part-timer…
Gary Long	Mike's Garage	Was a steadily great season this was.
Andrew Palmisano	Never Trust A Dart	Another season, another step up.
Dan Schaefer	Sharky's Machine	Just a beast… right up until 501, that is.
Cale Strickland	Mike's Garage	Maybe the best pickup for any team.
Jason Thomas	Ted's Dart Control E	Should list himself every set every week.
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Seems like he is always right here.

"E" Division

Jim Gallagher	Coach'N Ya	Great addition, carried them near the top.
John Iager	D-Lux Drinkers	Singles monster floated in doubles.
Roger Keim	Sofa Kings	Certainly the king among Kings.
Tom Kubel	Bye Week	11-0 in 301? Crazy. And the rest is great.
Chris Montesi	Game of Throws	Got better as the night progressed.
Chris Robertson	Lucky's Seven	Put together a strong record all season.
Mike Snyder	D-Lux Drinkers	Was the cricket king for E champions.
Lou Tufillaro	Bye Week	Super solid across all four sets.

"F" Division (there were a LOT of candidates in this div. again)

Randy Baldwin	Hump Day!	Just a monster for the first three sets.
Randy Deemer	Hump Day!	Once again, so solid for the F winners.
Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers	Wow, what a charge to the top of the div.
Jeremy Limerick	Public School	One of his best seasons to date.
Charles Parker	Another Sinking Shi	Still hanging out down here rolling in F.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	What an absolute pillar for near champs.
Jeff Russell	Chatham Street Elite	Easily the top gun for a pretty good team.
Felipe Wilkie	Public School	Back to his old form, and winning a bunch.

"G" Division

Andy Bowen	Walking the Wire	If he played more, they'd win even more.
Anthony Brownd	Points for Pints	The biggest Pint just needs a few doubles.
Stan Converse	Quackalacky Ducks	Just a great record across all four sets.
Tim Ellis	Quackalacky Ducks	Not often that SCkt is the one slip spot.
Romuald Knight	Don't Hit the Scorek	Singles machine tails off a bit in doubles.
Brent Snyder	All About That Bull	Nobody was more important to any team.
Justin Vick	Don't Hit the Scorek	So very steady all season in all sets.
John White	Walking the Wire	A great singles season carries his record.

"H" Division

Mark Beaver	Lucky B's	70+% is awesome in any division.
Rich Bialaszewski	Show Me Your Tips	11-0 in SCkt is just about enough alone.
Mike Bumpass	Bull Hunters	Holy crap, new team, new H div. hammer.
Brad Bushman	Show Me Your Tips	Amazing first 3 sets carried team near top.
Anthony Cannizar	Bull Hunters	Geez, the Hunters are so friggin' deep…
Kody Goodwin	Bull Hunters	where the heck were all of these guys
Lee Jeffreys	Bull Hunters	hiding before this season?
Rocky Messineo	Lucky B's	Quietly put together a strong season.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Oh, my goodness, no "honorable mentions" to be listed here this season. Why, you ask? Because the Quadruple Double Club has FIVE full-on winners this season: Robbie Phillips of The Irreverent Element in A division, Dan Naylor of Unnecessary Triples in C, Grey Jones of Red-eye Rangers and Joe Rigert, Sr. of Wayne Gretzky in F, and Brent Snyder of All About That Bull! in G. And to top it off, Snyder did it in a division with a bye and thus only 12 weeks of matches!

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: After a couple low leader numbers in the past few seasons, we had a bit of a spike this season. The Iron Man Award for the Fall season goes to Brian Smith of Projectile Dysfunction in Division, with a stout 66 games (56 sets, plus 8 blocks, plus 2 tiebreakers). And he had a winning record! Who picks a winning record guy as the blocker… repeatedly? Anyway, the honorable mentions for the other division leaders were: Robbie Phillips of The Irreverent Element and Sid Mitchell of Appetite for Destruction in A with 56 games played; Erin Hartmann and Pete Hartmann of the Bunkers, and Mike Raquet of Them Handsome Devils in C with 62 each; Tim Welborn of Dynamic Darts in D with 56; Pat Smelik of Game of Throws and Phil Robertson of Lucky's Seven in E with 61 each; Joe Munroe of Another Sinking Ship in F with 61 Brian Berman and Pat Ball of Points for Pints in G with 52 each; and Josh Phillips of Ballistic Behavior and Kenny Spencer of Tips & Shafts in H with 52.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Four teams made a nice run at joining this club (Shooter McGavin, The Bunkers, Them Handsome Devils, and Just Like That), but in the end, all but one of those were pretenders. This season's true 6-man band of warriors was Shooter McGavin and Shooter McGavin only! 14 weeks, 4 sets per night, 6 players per set, and McGavin used their only 6 players in every last damn set! Every one of them. No absentees, no subs. Suh-weet.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), it was bit of a mixed bag. I nailed some divisions (or at least many teams within each division) such as A, B, E and G. But wow, did I miss a few others… C was, as you might have guessed, a mess. I didn't see the Garage coming in E. And the new H teams really made things tough to call until I had seen who they were.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I had a pretty good record this season, in spite of the debacle that was C division. I did manage to climb above 0.500 by the end of the season, but that's about the best thing I can say for that pile of confusion. The Bunkers were my problem children for the season, fooling me pretty much no matter which way I leaned with them. B division was a little bit of a challenge too, mostly because I could never figure out what to make of Methodical Madness… every time I changed my mind with them, they changed too.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And in these, I slammed it once again! We jumped to best-of-three and I started looking like I knew what the heck I was doing. I was a really strong 25-5 in the quarterfinals, a pretty great 12-4 in the semifinals, and then I kept on rolling by hitting 5 (and maybe 6!) Mug winners (we'll have to wait and see who won G before finalizing the count, as my #4 seed pick was playing in that final. That brings my final tournament record to 42-11 with one game pending. When you consider that I got a pair of those semifinals wrong because I got a quarterfinal wrong, that makes my total even better... at least in my opinion… and I'm the one typing here, so…

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-six seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the eight 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the five 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not.[C division was an absolute mess for me for most of the season. I barely climbed over 0.500 there by the end, and half the teams there fooled me at least half the time. The Bunkers led the way in the confusion parade, which likely pleases them to no end. - JK]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 7 question: In two weekends, the NC State Championships will be held right here in Cary at the Upper Deck. There have been 26 years of state titles before this one, and while it is certainly possible to win a few events in one year, it takes longevity to amass a large number of state titles. Sooo… How many people have won as many state title events as there have been years of state events? Meaning, how many people (and who) have won 26 or more titles?

Week 8 question(s): Robbie Phillips in A division (who had a make-up match before tonight's play) and Dan Naylor in C division each have a 23-1 overall record at the time I'm writing this. A LOT of season to go, but… what is the best overall win- loss record in the history of the RDL, and who has it? How about in A division only? (And by "history", as usual, I mean since 1995, as only partial records were kept or are available before then.)

Week 9 question(s): What is the greatest number of teams in a division that have finished with more game points than the division winner, when the division winner hadn't lost any points to penalties? When was it, and in what division?

Week 10 question: The path of Hurricane Matthew certainly affected many of us in the past week, but it didn't actually drop an interruption of league play on us. How many times in the past decade has weather postponed an entire night of RDL play?

Week 11 question: (this one was created completely in response to an interesting question posed by Pete Rutten of Hump Day!) What is the RDL record for most consecutive matches with a 1001 tiebreaker for any one team?

Week 12 question: This season, D division's OT Outlaws were removed from the remainder of the schedule for having forfeited three times. During my 42 seasons as RDL statistician, how many teams have met this particular fate?

Week 13 question: (another one by request, this time one we had a while back that maybe we're updating) What is the greatest number of 1001s a team has played in a season (plus tournament)?

Week 14 question: What are the two dates/events in the calendar that determine exactly when the RDL seasons start in the spring and fall every year?

Week 7 answer: Two people have 26+ state titles - Brian Blake (of 1 in the Bunn) with 32, and Bob Gargan with 26. They've won singles, doubles, and four-man events… men's events, mixed events… whatever. 32 and 26? That's a lot of damn state titles. For the record, the next few on the list are: Robbie Phillips (20), Ryan Barnette (17), Tom Brown and Charlie Daniel (16 each). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: At this year's state championships, Blake rang up his 33rd title, Phillips added his 21st and 22nd, and Brown chalked up shirt number 17.]

Week 8 answer: The highest win percentage was achieved by Jim Davis in B division in Spring 2007, with a record of 50-2 (0.962). The best record ever in A division is also the second best win percentage in any division, and was achieved by Robbie Phillips in the Fall 2014 season with a record of 41-2 (0.953). Overall, there have been 50 players since 1995 who have had an overall win percentage of 0.875+, with 19 of those coming in A division. And those 19 seasons in A (which pretty much have to be considered to be the best in RDL history, since they came against the best competition) have been achieved by only 9 throwers, with Phillips easily leading the way with 7 of those 19 seasons. The other 7 throwers are: Tom Brown (with 3), Mike Seward and Jim Budelman (with 2 each), and Marshall Chavis, Chad Massengill, Brian Blake, Don Butman, and Jason Kilts (with 1 each). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: there were three more seasons of 0.875+ this fall, with Dan Naylor in C posting the second best win percentage in league history, and Robbie Phillips posting the 20th A division 0.875+ season (his astonishing 8th time in that 20).]

Week 9 answer: 3 teams, by Liquor Posse (which was an entirely different team from the current team playing under the same name) in F division in the Fall 2013 season. That Liquor Posse won with 193 points, and all three teams immediately behind them had a higher total. One other team sort of joined them in the club though, as To The Point from Fall 1999's F division had fewer points than three teams chasing them, and that division only had 7 teams in it. To The Point DID take a 5-point penalty that season, but even without that penalty, all three of the other teams would still have outscored them.

Week 10 answer: We've had 6 weather postponements of league play during my 22 years here with the Tons of Newsletter. During most (all?) of those six, at least a couple matches were still played on the regular match date by a handful of hearty souls, but the larger portion of the matches had one or both exercise their 'postponed- if-either-of-us-wants-it-postponed' rights. Interestingly, 4 of those 6 delays have been in the past two years (Sp14 wk02, Sp14 wk04, Sp15 wk05, Sp15 wk06 - all four due to ice/snow road conditions).

Week 11 answer: Over the years, there have been many teams that have endured 1001 tiebreakers 3 weeks in a row. But only twice ever have RDL teams played an extra leg FOUR weeks in a row. The first was in the Spring 2012 season when the Grateful Darts in H division not only played 4 in a row, but also played 5 in a 6-week span. That record was tied this season by Hump Day! in F division in weeks 7-10. (A tiebreaker tonight would add a matching of that previous 5-of-6 run, so… we'll see.) A couple honorable mentions in this category also: first, the Fall 2005 Dead Stroke team in D, who played 4 in 5 weeks and lost all 4 of them… ouch; and also, the Fall 2009 Dive Bombers in E division, who played 5 tiebreakers in a 6-match span that covered 7 weeks (they had a bye in there). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Hump Day! not only didn't post a 5th consecutive tiebreaker, they didn't actually ever play a 5th tiebreaker this season.]

Week 12 answer: Holy cow, the Outlaws are the TWELFTH team to forfeit of out of a season. They are also the new league record holder for most forfeits ever in a season, having only played 2 of their 14 matches scheduled for this season. Most of the teams that dropped did so a little after the midway point of the season, with only 3 of the 12 forfeiting more than seven matches each. And of those 12 teams, none of them have come from either B or E division.

Week 13 answer: Thirteen times over the years, a team has taken matches into 1001 five times during a single season+tournament span. And those 13 tie for second place, as Constantly Corked from Spring 2012's B division threw it down in the extra leg an alarming SIX times (they went 3-3, including a 1001 loss in the B tournament semifinal). Just to prove they weren't a tiebreaker flash in the pan, the Corkers put up one of the 13 runner-up seasons in the Spring 2014 B division as well. (This season's tiebreaker leaders, Dartistic Differences in C and Hump Day! in F better get a move on if they on plan on joining this record…) [Answer update for the banquet Tons: not only did the previous leaders for the season not play any additional tiebreakers, they were actually passed by The Bunkers in C division, this season's Cardiac Kids.]

Week 14 answer: The Fall season is set such that the quarter-finals are eight days before Thanksgiving (leaving two tournament rounds after the holiday week), and the Spring season is set such that the banquet is held the weekend before Memorial Day weekend (as in 8-9 days before Memorial Day itself).

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "Old woman old woman, oh you treat me so mean, You're the meanest old woman that I've ever seen"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "Thirteen month old baby, broke the lookin' glass, Seven years of bad luck, the good things in your past"

Week 2, song #3: "Girl, you're looking fine tonight, And every guy has got you in his sights, What you're doing with a clown like me"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "Loving you, Isn't the right thing to do, How can I ever change things that I feel?"

Week 3, song #2 lyric: "Friday night and the lights are low, Looking out for the place to go, Where they play the right music, getting in the swing"

Week 3, song #3 lyric: "Come on, shake your body baby, do the conga, I know you can't control yourself any longer"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "It's been seven hours and thirteen days, Since you took your love away, I go out every night and sleep all day"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "But I can't be late, 'Cause then I guess I just won't get paid, These are the days, When you wish your bed was already made"

Week 4, song #3: "She's got big thoughts, big dreams, And a big brown Mercedes sedan, What I think this girl, She really wants…"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "Whiskey bottles, and brand new cars, Oak tree you're in my way"

Week 6, song #3 lyric: "Everybody needs a little time away, I heard her say, from each other, Even lovers need a holiday, Far away from each other"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "We can live beside the ocean, Leave the fire behind, Swim out past the breakers, Watch the world die"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "Hello, it's me, I'm not at home, If you'd like to reach me, leave me alone"

Week 7, song #3 lyric: "Root yourself to the ground, Capitalize on this good fortune, One word can bring you round"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "I know nobody knows, Where it comes and where it goes, I know it's everybody sin, You got to lose to know…"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "Just yesterday morning they let me know you were gone, Susanne the plans they made put an end to you"

Week 8, song #3 lyric: "Well, they showed you a statue, told you to pray, They built you a temple and locked you away"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "You hear my voice, your hear that sound, Like thunder, gonna shake your ground, You held me down, but I got up"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "Like a small boat, On the ocean, Sending big waves, Into motion, Like how a single word, Can make a heart open"

Week 9, song #3 lyric: "The glow that the sun gives, Right around sunset, Helps me realize, This is just a journey, Drop your worries"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "Pleased to meet you, Hope you guess my name, But what's puzzling you, Is the nature of my game"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "I found the simple life ain't so simple, When I jumped out on that road, I got no love, no love you'd call real"

Week 10, song #3 lyric: "Chicken's in the bread pan picking out dough. Granny, does your dog bite? No, child, no."

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "I don't care how much money I gotta spend, Got to get back to my baby again, Lonely days are gone, I'm a-goin' home"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "I've got your picture, I've got your picture, I'd like a million of you over myself, I asked the doctor to take your picture"

Week 11, song #3 lyric: "He picks up a bus and he throws it back down, As he wades through the buildings toward the center of town"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "I call you on the telephone my voice too rough with cigarettes, I sometimes feel I should just go home"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "He said, Son, I've made a life, Out of readin' people's faces, Knowin' what the cards were, By the way they held their eyes"

Week 12, song #3 lyric: "Knowing it ain't really smart,The joker ain't the only fool, Who'll do anything for you"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "Three, Four! All this energy callin' me, Back where it comes from. It's such a crude attitude, It's back where it belongs."

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "Tin soldiers and Nixon coming, We're finally on our own, This summer I hear the drumming"

Week 13, song #3 lyric: "Half Cherokee and Choctaw, My baby she's a Chippewa, She's one of a kind"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "When the party was nice, the party was bumpin', Hey, Yippie, Yi, Yo, And everybody havin' a ball, Hah, ho, Yippie Yi Yo"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "As I was walking down the street one day, A man came up to me and asked me what the time was that was on my watch"

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "It's always tease, tease, tease, You're happy when I'm on my knees, One day is fine and the next is black"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "Long as I remember the rain been comin' down, Clouds of mystery pourin' confusion on the ground"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "You broke my heart 'cause I couldn't dance, You didn't even want me around, And now I'm back to let you know"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "If you can just get your mind together, then come across to me, We'll hold hands an' then we'll watch the sun rise"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "I say a prayer with every heart beat, I fall in love whenever we meet, I'm asking you what you know about these things"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "Is she really gonna take him tonight? … Cause if my eyes don't deceive me, There's something going wrong around here"

Week 14, song #9 lyric: "Pussycat, pussycat, I've got flowers, And lots of hours to spend time with you"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "Tell me why, why, why, Tell me why, Why do birds sing so gay? And lovers await the break of day"

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "Back at the hotel, Lord we got such a mess, It seems that one of the crew, Had a go with one of the guests, oh, yes"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "Don't let them fool ya, Or even try to school ya, oh, no, We've got a mind of our own"

Week 14, song #13 lyric: "I wonder, wonder who, who-oo-ooh, who"

Week 14, song #14 lyric: "You said that irony was the shackles of youth, You wore a shirt of violent green, uh-huh, I never understood the frequency"

Week 14, song #15 lyric: "Tonight you're mine, completely, You give your love so sweetly, Tonight the light of love is in your eyes"

Week 14, song #16 lyric: "I seen you around for a long long time, yah, I really remembered you when you drank my wine"

Week 14, song #17 lyric: "Isn't she pretty, Truly the angel's best, Boy, I'm so happy, We have been heaven blessed"

[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week , including the week 14 twenty-song set that brought some pretty impressive sets of guesses… a few people knew more of these than I think I expected…

Week 2 theme: Musicians-singers who are blind. Yep, that's right, Jeff Healey lays a guitar across his lap and plays it a bit like a keyboard… very cool stuff. Week 3 theme: Bands with married couples as key members. No John and Yoko drama in these parts… Week 4 theme: Songs written by Prince that became big hits for other singers/bands. Week 5 theme: Cocaine, my friends… cocaine. I guess I'm glad this one wasn't a theme that was immediately obvious to everybody! Week 6 theme: I'm sorry, but that one's really too obvious to have to explain here. (Yes, it was apologizing.) Week 7 theme: Changes… progress… moving on… etc. Week 8 theme: Loss of a friend, not letting life pass you by, etc. Pretty obvious theme given the very surprising loss of one of our league members. Week 9 theme: Keeping up the fight, standing up for yourself, persevering, etc. Week 10 theme: A devilish nod to my 666th issue of the Tons of Newsletter last week. Week 11 theme: Our own Robbie Phillips getting a ticket for an airplane to fly over to Japan and start wrecking st! Yep, that set was a story. Airplanes, fast trains, Japan touring, and imminent destruction. Coolest thing to happen to an RDL-er in several years. (We will ignore the fact that Turning Japanese is actually sort of an homage to masturbation. :o) Week 12 theme: Gambling, of course. Not a lot of gambling in darts around here, but I sure have met a lot of people here that love to play poker. Week 13 theme: The Cleveland Indians in the World Series. (At the time I typed those in, they were up three games to one. Guess I should have gone with Chicago and Cubs songs, eh?) Week 14 theme: Song titles that are all in the form of a question, with the songs listed in order by the band/singer's last name, alphabetically.

MAYBE STARTING A NEW TREND HERE IN THE RDL?

Ya know, I'm not sure why this wasn't a "thing" before now. Just about every last one of us carries a pretty high-definition camera in our pockets every day. But do teams take team photos very often? It's entirely possible that you guys take them, but don't really feel the need to share them (or make the likely pretty common assumption that others might not care to see them). The reality though, is that team photos make pretty great memories, and popping a few into the Tons every now and then sort of 'puts a face' on some of your hobby-mates. And this tournament, a few teams shared theirs with us. I'm not going to go through the individual names (though I happen to know all the people here) this time, but am rather just sharing the joy. To the right is my own team, The Irreverent Element, from A division; bottom right is The Liquor Posse, this season's B division champs; and directly below is a combo photo of Darty McFly & Appetite from Destruction, at their A division quarterfinal (and the first RDL selfie-stick usage?).

IT'S TIME TO IDENTIFY SOME MORE OF RDL'S FINEST

Over the past many years, I've occasionally popped in a human interest story here and there in the Tons about one of our own. Sometimes those are just random inclusions, but there were a couple of series that I started that I want to go back and re-start. To get them jump-started, I'm including snippets and photos from the columns that have been included up until now. If you know of anyone on your team who would be a good candidate for one of these stories (even if it's YOU - please feel free to nominate yourself! - we really do want to hear about you), please let me know. I think stories like these give each of us a whole new appreciation for those we meet during our Wednesday nights out.

Category 1 - REAL RDL HEROES

Ever hear somebody say that they admired another RDL member's ability? Or that they were going to practice so that they could be like that thrower? They might have even jokingly said that some thrower was their hero. Hell, I've said "holy crap, you're my hero" on more than one occasion when my partner has ripped out some- thing like a Ton-12 with our opponents on 32. But none of the darting stuff is really all that admirable or heroic if you look at it objectively. That's just goofy stuff we say… There are, however, true heroes walking among us on most dart nights though. People that have risked far more than most of us ever had the guts or ability to risk ourselves. I, of course, am talking about our RDL-mates that have served on behalf of all of us in the armed forces. Now, no political debate of the merits of any specific military action or war - for the purposes of this newsletter item, I just don't care why Americans were where they were. All I care about is the fact that somebody that I didn't know was willing to put himself or herself through hellish grueling training, leave family and friends behind, pick up a weapon, and risk life and limb to protect the homeland and lifestyle that I as an American enjoy (and sometimes greedily so).

From Fall 2011, week 7 - Mark Knight

Many of you know Mark as the local dart supplier, but the "previous" Mark served in the Army for 2.5 year (before being discharged due to injury) in the 3/325 ABCT, an element of the 82nd Airborne Div. stationed in Italy. His unit's specialty was jumping into hostile airports/airstrips and taking them over while reinforcements were en route via aircraft.

From Spring 2012, week 7 - Tom Brown

Tom served in the Army Reserves and then the Army, from 1985 through 1992, being stationed with the 365th Medivac Unit, the 101st Cavalry, and the 89th Chemical Company recon platoon. He had specialty training as a Field Medic, an Operating Room Technician, an Indirect Fire Infantryman (mortars), and a Nuclear, Biological, & Chemical Warfare Specialist (his primary job during his active duty). He was deployed to Korea, Germany, multiple southeast Asian countries, and several stateside locations.

Category 2 - AWESOME RDL PEOPLE WITH AMAZING TALENTS

For this item, I was collecting stories and tidbits about the things that RDL members do for fun when they aren't out throwing darts. Predictably, some of the things are quite remarkable and interesting. With their permission, I'll be including some highlights here in the Tons. stories right here in the pages of the Tons.

From Spring 2014, week 3 - Mark Sellers

Remember the 40-foot commercial airplane/ clubhouse he built for his son's 12th birthday? It seated 28, and came complete with tray tables, galley, food cart, and TV!

From Spring 2014, week 3 - Ron Smith

The RDL's very own TV star is one of the four main characters on the reality show Garage Gold on the DIY Network. The show has been the network's top-rated series, and they've already aired six seasons!

From Fall 2014, week 12 - Meghan Howard

The RDL also boasts a state championships level USTA tennis player!! After a high school career that ended with playing in the Division 3A state finals (sadly, a finals loss), Howard left the game for a bit to tend to the rest of real life, but 2013 brought her right back, and she plays on teams in Raleigh, Cary and Durham, piling up state finals showings.

From Spring 2015, banquet issue - a 3-for-the-price-of-1 special - Mike Venable, Mike Horrall, and Brad Hamilton - otherwise known as Fat Heads BBQ

The Fat Heads (left to right, Venable, Horrall, and Hamilton) are mostly a competitive BBQ team, but also offer catering if you're interested. They're based out of Clayton, and they mostly compete in 4 categories - chicken, pork ribs, pork butt/ shoulder, and brisket (though they've actually taken top prize in a sauce contest as well). So far, they mostly compete in NC and SC, but already have a massive pile of victories, including the day Hamilton took down all-time winningest BBQ champion Myron Mixon and a few others stars while they were filming a BBQ PitMaster show episode! Holy crap!

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and this season is certainly no exception… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- As always... we lead off with Survivor time! And this season has made my head swim. Season after season, people scrounge around looking for hidden immunity idols that can save them when they think are staring down the possibility of being eliminated. And when they find them, they are elated like nobody's business, evoking phrases of winning the lottery, changing the game, of having just found the key to the most powerful position on the island. And then… most of them turn friggin' stupid… They start telling people they have the idol, because they can trust them (they can't). They make claims in alliances that it gives them all the advantage they need (it doesn't). And then they end up playing the damn thing for somebody else instead of themselves, because the others would do it for them and it's the best idea for their overall game status (they wouldn't, and it isn't). Being isolated on those islands must be far more toll than you could ever pick up on at home, because it actually seems to sap any intelligence or sound logic from most of those that play the game. Flippin' kills me to watch the stupid crap they do…

-- Just yesterday I was texting with a friend of mine and he dropped in a perfectly timed quote from Stripes. Made me laugh. Then I sat there for a minute and realized that Stripes references are often the funniest and most appropriate that I or others make as I go about my day. Can a movie that goofy and pointless be categorized as a 'classic' or a 'must see'? I'm thinking the evidence pretty clearly points to yes… (Quite a few great ones around me from History of the World, Part I also, but that was already pretty obviously a classic.)

-- Related side note: No, no line from Dumb and Dumber will ever make that movie into a classic of any kind. Aside from "so you're saying there's a chance", I can't find a redeeming quality in the entire film. And I likely just made half my friends look in my general direction with disbelief and disdain. Those are my friends that maybe grew up a little less than the others.

-- Time to start a new reader-interactive item… over the past few years, there have been some REALLY great television ads. Ones that I don't mind seeing during the break time and time again. And since I generally DVR shows and skip as many of the commercials as possible, it's really saying something if I've found an ad I love. My three favorites from the past several years, in no particular order: the Orbit gum ad where all the Springer-like insults have been changed ("who you callin' a cootie queen, you lint licker?!); the NFL Play 60 ad where the kid is asking Cam Newton if when he grows up if he'll take Cam's job and be Cam's mom's favorite player; and the Peyton Manning MasterCard ad in which he is worshipping the grocery store employees and treating them like football fans treat him. So… that's my three. Got a favorite ad of your own? By all means, please share. Send me a YouTube link, or even just a good description that I can use to find it. If I get any number of really good ones, maybe I'll start popping in something about them in the Tons every now and then. Always awesome to share a laugh, right?

-- I received one of my favorite dart emails in a long time just a couple weeks ago. A member of a losing team sent a post-loss congratulatory note about the team that had just knocked them out, but then added a straight-up awesome description of the result of the match next to theirs: "And a congrats to Team A (everyone's favorite) on punking Team B (nobody's favorite)." Everyone's favorite against nobody's favorite… maybe I just appreciated it so much because it simply matched perfectly with every last comment I've heard from every last team all season. How great to be 'everyone's favorite'… those people are doing things right. And how awful to be 'nobody's favorite'… ugh… maybe a little reassessment of things/people is in order there.

-- And while we're on the topic of things like the nice vs. the wicked… sometimes a situation presents an opportunity to see just who exactly will react in what way after whatever occurs. Some people immediately step in to do what needs to be done, while others prove themselves to be acquaintances more than friends. Confirmed a whole family of people who make the true friends list. And by this, I don't mean that they have to be MY true friends (though they are, in this case)… I mean that some people are just inherently good and nice, and they have the ability to be true friends. I'm not sure everyone does (or at least not for those outside their inner most circle of a couple friends). I count myself blessed to have had them come into my life.

-- Anybody out there notice that my Detroit Lions are 8-4? Oh, I hope they don't "go all Lions" and blow it all by one point…

-- Oh, holy crap… file this under "sometimes this thing writes itself"… Patrick Merkle of Dart Buddies let it slip some time ago that his fantasy football league has a cruel and unusual punishment for the owner who finishes last in a season. Care to guess who finished at the bottom last year? Yep. Thus, I've been all over Patrick for many weeks to share the photos of the ~~horror~~ awesomeness. And, quite literally, as I was sitting here typing this page while eating my lunch yesterday (no, yesterday as you read this, not as I type it), these gems hit my Inbox. I quickly confirmed with Patrick that it was indeed ok to share, and he proved (again, obviously) that he is a great sport. Ladies and gentlemen… Patrick Merkle doing his best Britney Spears impersonation at his draft this year. [Please note: "his best" is a comparative term that does not necessarily imply that someone actually is the best. Just that this is their best effort. :o)]

And here is the text from Patrick's email, which preps you for the coming season's loser's day…:

"Please see the attached photo evidence of why you shouldn't lose at fantasy football. You'll be happy to know that this year I made our playoffs, and have avoided the Christina Aguilera "Dirty" chaps that will be worn by this year's loser."

ALL-TIME TOP TEAM SECTIONAL AND OVERALL RECORDS, FOR SINGLE SEASONS FROM SPRING 1996 TO PRESENT (current season teams in bold)

Over the past 42 seasons (the amount of time for which full RDL records are available), there have bee2361 teams in the RDL. Below are the "Top 35" team records from any single season for each of the fou match sections, as well as overall records and all-star point averages. Just for a little fun, I've also included the "Bottom 3" (for this, teams that quickly forfeited out of the league are not included in the listing).

NCCDL "East" Division (tie) -- Dan Naylor - Wilmington - 12-0 (sets), 24-0 (games)
(this is the 2nd consecutive singles title for Naylor, with a combined two-year record of 20-0 in sets, 40-2 in games)

NCLC "West" Division -- Donna Ferber - Lake Norman - 12-2 (sets), 25-5 (games)
NCLC "East" Division -- Candi Ellis - Wilmington - 6-0 (sets), 12-2 (games)

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE OCTOBER MEETING

#1 - High County Dart Association (Boone) returned to the NCDO, and the 1 year waiting period was waived for play in the NCCDL (no team will be added to the NCLC at this time).

#2 - the penalty for use of an ineligible player was expanded and clarified. Offending teams will lose all of the ineligible games played to the opponent, and there will be an additional penalty equal to the number of points in which the ineligible player participated (and evidently, this additional penalty is directly applied to the match score and may affect the match win/loss).

#3 - a rule was added for instances in which a match is forced to be played on less than regulation number of boards - if captains can't come to an agreement on what to do, the host team would forfeit any games that would have been played on the missing boards (I "think" this is what that rule change intended - I will double-check on this one).

#4 - the division style for 2017 will again switch back to the Mountain/Beach and Central divisions. The BADA men (commonly referred to as Charlotte) offered to play in the Central division, while the QCDA women (also commonly referred to as Charlotte) will be playing in the Beach/Mountain division. This means that the NCCDL will be separated into divisions of: NCCDL Mountain/Beach (7 teams) = Ashville, Boone, Pineville, Lake Norman, Jacksonville, Wilmington, Port City; NCCDL Central (6) = Charlotte, Piedmont, Durham, Chapel Hill, Raleigh, Capital Area; NCLC Mountain/Beach (6) = Asheville, Charlotte, Pineville, Lake Norman, Jacksonville, Wilmington; NCLC Central (5) = Piedmont, Chapel Hill, Apex, Capital Area, Fuquay-Varina.

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Cary NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 21 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte
1997: Piedmont over Durham
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
2000: Durham over Charlotte
2001: Durham over Wilmington
2002: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham
2004: Wilmington over Durham
2005: Durham over Wilmington
2006: Durham over Charlotte
2007: Durham over Charlotte
2008: Durham over Charlotte
2009: Wilmington over Charlotte
2010: Wilmington over Durham
2011: Durham over Lake Norman
2012: Durham over Wilmington
2013: Wilmington over Lake Norman
2014: Durham over Wilmington
2015: Wilmington over Piedmont
2016: Wilmington over Durham

My annual request to the NCLC Ladies: if any of you have a history of the results like the one above for the NCCDL, I would love to have a copy of those so I can periodically run an NCLC history as well. Drop me a line please if you're willing to share.

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - This Is Element (13-5)
This final played out in three chapters: a very tight string of singles that left Element up 7-5; a quite lengthy DCkt group listing session; and a pretty abrupt DCkt sweep that makes the final look lopsided.

"B" Division - Shaunt Be Shutout (13-9)
Shaunt rolls twice and survives once to join Element as not just the only two teams to finish the season/tournament without a loss, but also as the only two teams to finish with fewer than two losses.

"C" Division - Mike's Garage (14-10)
The #6 seed Garage was the spring's tournament Cinderella, in the craziest of divisional tournaments (one dart away from the bottom four advancing to the semis), winning three consecutive nailbiters.

"D" Division - One Armed Bandits (13-11)
The Bandits finally come through on their high potential (somebody picked them as a top-two finisher at the season start), romping through the quarterfinals before taking out the top two in nailbiters.

"E" Division - Game of Throws (13-11)
In the season's most heart-stopping run to a set of Mugs, the Game comes from a bottom-three-in-the-division spot to full-on glory with clutch winning scores of 12+-12, 13-11 and 13-11.

"F" Division - All Flights Matter (13-9)
One-Eyed Willie and Company, sitting at 0-2 after week 3 of the season, run the table the rest of the way to become one of four teams this season to complete the season/tournament double.

"G" Division - Bull Hunters (14-8)
After doing Show Me Your Tips a favor in week 14 that got them the season title, the Hunters were having no part of being quite so generous to their ladder-climbing compadres in the finals.

"H" Division - Bulls Up! (14-4)
After an 0-2 start to the season (and their RDL existence), Bulls Up! put it all together and won 14 of their last 15, including a sort of leisurely tournament stroll that never included a set of 501.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - This Is Element (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Appetite for Destruction

"B" Division - Shaunt Be Shutout (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Them Handsome Devils

"C" Division - Dartistic License (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - The Bunkers

"D" Division - We've Got Big Bulls (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Bullseye Brewers

"E" Division - Hump Day! (9 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Red-eye Rangers

"F" Division - All Flights Matter (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Death Throw

"G" Division - Show Me Your Tips (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Wayne Gretzky

"H" Division - Bulls Up! (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Chalker's Nightmare

Rosters of all season- and tournament-winning teams are on page 4.)

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Ok, well, at first glance 37 tiebreakers doesn't seem like a big number for a full season, but when you consider that we had four divisions with three matches each week instead of four… and then we tossed in a whole bunch of forfeits… then poof, that's quite a total after all.

C division posted the top number with 8 tiebreakers (with 2 of those in the tournament). D and H were close behind with 7 each (with 2 in the tournament for D), followed by E with 6 (with 1 in the tournament), then G with 4, then B and F with 2 each (with 1 in the tournament). A division came in last again (as is often the case, it seems), this time with only 1 tiebreaker.

There were six teams (2 in C, 1 in D, 1 in E, and 2 in H) that played in three or more tiebreakers, and two of those went ahead and played in a fourth. Tips & Shafts in H division put up a 2-2 record, with all four of those coming during the regular season… which was fine… but the Cardiac Kids award for most tiebreakers played really has to go to Cheap Shots in C division. The Cheapies' fourth 1001 came during the tournament, dropped them to 1-3 in the extra leg, and sadly for them was the end of their season. That isn't going to also earn them the Heartbreak Award for the season though, as H division's Irish Ton went a crushing 0-3… and finished one match behind the 2nd place team and two matches behind the 1st place team. Yep, the 1001s pretty much cost Irish Ton the H title… bummer.

FALL 2017 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, July 29th - Fall season registration, The Upper Deck (online registration should be available in the days immediately prior to the 19th - Membership Director Heather Bohanan will likely be in charge of early registration, and she will likely hook it up through the website with Phil Robertson and accept payments through PayPal)

Wed., Aug. 2nd - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, August 9th - Start of Fall season match play

Monday, Sep. 11th - Fifth week captains' meeting, site TBD

Wed., Nov. 15 / 29, Dec. 6 - Fall season divisional tournaments

THE RDL FAMILY GROWS SOME MORE!

A couple more members of our RDL family have… added to their own personal families! To the right, we have Mr. Philip Gaertner, the brand new son of Rif Raf captain Brian Gaertner. That is, of course, Brian holding Philip, who joined us on March 17th. Brian also sent me some more "posed" photos, but I went with this one because it was candid, and it included our very happy new dad. But Philip wasn't the only newcomer! The lower left photo is Mr. Wyatt Palmisano, the brand new son of Never Trust A Dart's Andrew Palmisano and his wife Kathy. Wyatt made his debut on March 30th, and dad proudly reported that he didn't even miss a match. Ummm… Andrew… is that a good thing? Anyway, congrats to both the Gaertners and the Palmisanos on their fabulous new bundles of joy. See you two young men here in the pages of the Tons in about 18 years or so?

FALL 2017 PENALTY SUMMARY

Oh, my goodness… All I'm going to say (to 98% of the teams anyway) is YES!!! Two seasons ago I wrote that the league had probably set a record for fewest penalties, and then this season you went ahead and surpassed that effort. Congratulations, and thank you.

Overall, there were only SIX total penalties for a total of 61 lost points, and only 4 of the 60 teams had even one penalty. 1 team in C, 1 team in E, and 2 teams in G each got a penalty or two, and… that's it. The other 56 teams had a clean penalty slate this season. That is flippin' awesome.

All in all, there were 2 phone penalties (for a total loss of 10 points), 2 mail penalties (32 points), and 2 ineligible player penalties (19 points).

While the Big Bulls in C division led the league in penalties (well, tied, with 2) and points lost (32), and they dropped from 4th to 5th in the C standings, they were not the biggest penalty-based losers this season. That title absolutely, unequivocally, wholly goes to G division's Train Station Shooters, whose intentional ineligible players got them booted from the season and got some of their members banned for a year. Oh, and what else did they lose? I'm betting they lost the trust of pretty much everyone here in the RDL. Or maybe that was just mine…

NEED SOME SUMMER DART OPTIONS?

Leagues? Blind draws? Tournaments? We have 'em all!

Wednesdays - Brown's Billiards In-House Summer League

Brown's is hosting its 3rd annual In-House League, with a player draft for teams on May 24th (you do not have to be present). $20 per player, season is 10 weeks, and league plays starts May 31st at 8 p.m. The league has 100% payout, and Brown's adds $20 per team. For more info: David Huffman, (919)369-7656; or Rom Knight, (919)985-0378; or Brown's Billiards (919)878-9092.

Tuesdays - BCDL - Durham Handicapped Steel-Tip League

The Bull City Dart League continues its year-round play, but the season that starts in the summer doesn't match the RDL break quite as well as in some years. The final location of registration is The Tavern in downtown Durham, but that registration doesn't close until 7 p.m. on August 8th. The league website is www.thebcdl.org and the league plays Tuesday nights throughout Durham and RTP, and uses a rolling handicap system to level the playing field quite a bit. Teams consist of 4-8 players (about 6 is the norm), and dues are $25/player per season.

Thursday league - TDL - in Chapel Hill/Durham

The registration information for the TDL isn't out yet, but the spring finals are on June 8th. So I would expect the registration meeting to occur sometime soon after that. Check www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ for information updates soon. The teams in TDL consist of 6-10 players per team, and dues are $20/ player per season. I believe this past season the league used 4 bars in Chapel Hill and 2 in Durham, although I'm not certain that list is necessarily static, and is likely more determined by the number of teams that are registered (and bar availability).

Or maybe a blind draw…

Page 8 lists the regular weekly blind draws offered by RDL host establishments, and there are a bunch. But I have also confirmed both The Upper Deck AND Sharky's Place will be having weekly Wednesday draws for every week this summer. They will have basically the same features as their regular draws listed on page 8, except that there is no Wednesday "triple shot" at the Deck.

And for those lookin' for a bigger tournament…

"HOT DARTS" CALL-IN GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines you should use for the minimum number of all-star points to report when calling in your scores.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, call in any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Divisions "A" (except teams A3 and A5), "B", "C" (except teams C2, C4 and C7) and "H" (8 teams / division):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for Divs. "D", "E" & "F", and also team G5 (7 teams / div.):

min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams A3, A5, C2, C4 and C7 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played for teams G1, G3, G4 and G7 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 30 Total Games Played for teams G2 and G6 (due to 2 forfeits received):

min. of 14 Singles Games Played, 27 Total Games Played

THE FORTY-FIRST SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	This Is Element	E Division	Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers
B Division	Sal Reitano	Shaunt Be Shutout	F Division	Dave Surber	All Flights Matter
C Division	Will Bennett	Dartistic License	G Division	Joe Rigert Sr.	Wayne Gretzky
D Division	Patrick Merkle	We've Got Big Bulls	H Division	Jim Butterworth	Bulls Up!

All of RDL -- Joe Rigert, Sr. -- Wayne Gretzky

"A" Division

Tom Brown	This Is Element	Yet another season winning over 80%.
John Kramer	This Is Element	3 seasons and he has never lost a match.
Chad Massengill	This Is Element	Nearly broke the all-time singles record.
Tim Mozzetti	Appetite for Destruc	Gets more and more clutch set by set.
Robbie Phillips	This Is Element	Insert any phrase of awesomeness here…
Scott Stankevich	Appetite for Destruc	Was an absolute monster this season.
Wil Tan	This Is Element	Wednesday work is over, and game on.
Joe Work	North Raleigh Allian	Plays his best against the best opponents.

"B" Division

John Carroll	Shaunt Be Shutout	They won this division the day he joined.
Kevin Foushee	Shaunt Be Shutout	With more SCkt wins, could be B top dog.
Brian Howard	Shooter McGavin	Wow…had >71% of his team's DCkt wins.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	At some point he'll be a full-timer, right?
Dave Krasnow	Them Handsome De	Kras is making being on this page a habit.
David Martin	Rif Raf	Strong, but slowly lagged from set to set.
Sal Reitano	Shaunt Be Shutout	Breakthrough season was an amazing one.
Joe Zawrotniak	Rif Raf	3 super sets, followed by mediocre 501.

"C" Division

Will Bennett	Dartistic License	Led top C team every week from the start.
Jeff Cashin	Never Trust A Dart	I guess we just sit him in the DCkt sets?
Dennis Fitzgerald	Big Bulls	Started out hot in 301, and slowly tailed.
Matt Goss	Fire For Effect	Not his best season ever, but still strong.
Josh Hall	Cheap Shots	His solid season carried Cheapies to 3rd.
Simon Healy	Dartistic License	Now this was one heck of a solid return.
Andy Krestalude	The Bunkers	Top shot on an amazingly balanced team.
Hugh Vance	Dartistic License	This is your third guy? Runaway winners.

"D" Division

Ryan Madey	We've Got Big Bulls	Super solid 75+% in every set is awesome.
Patrick Merkle	We've Got Big Bulls	Holy cow… 34-2 in the last 3 sets? Geez.
Aden Simpson	Armed and Hammer	Uh oh… new leader of the Simpson line?
Mike Snyder	Bullseye Brewers	Three superb sets, and then some 501 slip.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	This guy has really become a machine.
Jason Thomas	Ted's DeploraBull E	Repeat after me: List…yourself…more…
Lou Tufillaro	We've Got Big Bulls	I suppose maybe we just sit him in 501.
Tom Winters	Dynamic Darts	Huge season considering the team's 1-11.

"E" Division

Tony Alcon	Sofa Kings	Captain was solid for oh-so-close finishers.
Randy Baldwin	Hump Day!	Just exactly how do the Randys win
Randy Deemer	Hump Day!	most everything except DCkt?
Jim Gallagher	Coach's Last Stand	Another solid showing, and full time now.
Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers	Every season getting even better. Sweet.
Roger Keim	Sofa Kings	If he played more often, do they win E?
Tim McNamara	Something Inapprop	He's really sort of out of place here in E.
Joe Munroe	Shark Shooters	Ummm… does not play well with others?

"F" Division

Sean Bosier	Death Throw	Really here because he rocked SCkt / 501.
Stan Converse	Ducks of War	Mr. Big Singles managed 50/50 doubles.
Sebastian Dehnel	Chatham Street Elite	You don't go 9-0 in SCkt by random luck.
Tim Ellis	Ducks of War	Started off great early, slowed toward 501.
Jeremy Limerick	All Flights Matter	One eye, three darts, piles of cricket wins.
Dave Surber	All Flights Matter	Clear top gun on division's clear top team.
Justin Vick	Don't Hit the Scorek	Biggest stick on a team close to climbing.
Zack Willis	Death Throw	Looks like there's a new top Willis, eh?

"G" Division

Andy Bowen	Walking the Wire	Best season yet for already good shot.
Mike Bumpass	Bull Hunters	Only team's 3rd best due to 501 napping.
Brad Bushman	Show Me Your Tips	Geez, 80+% in every set… flippin' wow.
Lee Jeffreys	Bull Hunters	At any point, top shot on G's top(?) team.
Bob Lane	Show Me Your Tips	Another with a great first-3-sets record.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	Most important to any team's success.
John White	Walking the Wire	Not spectacular, but another solid season.
Vic White	Bull Hunters	Really? They just found Vic hanging out?

"H" Division

Anthony Browndl	Chalker's Nightmare	Does no top player win in 501 anymore?
Jim Butterworth	Bulls Up!	How do you argue with 11+ wins per set?
Jeremy Cominole	Irish Ton	See Browndl (and many others) above…
Luke Davis	Brown's Bombers	Super singles, just stays afloat in doubles.
Chris Fox	Irish Ton	See Browndl (and many others) above…
Karl Frederick	Bulls Up!	Seriously? 11-0 in 501? That's amazing.
Jonathan Lawrenc	Chalk it Up	Led a 9-5 fourth place team in all 4 sets.
Jon Lisk	Tips & Shafts	Big singles… did he fuel the tourney run?

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Tough to make this group season, since four divisions had byes, and then one of those lost a team midseason. That leaves the Quadruple Double Club with four members this season: Sid Mitchell of Appetite for Destruction and Robbie Phillips of This Is Element in A division, Will Bennett of Dartistic License in C division, and Jim Butterworth in H division. The last two (and nearly Phillips also) actually joined the club of four-11-win-sets players… pretty impressive.

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: I will have to go back and look this up to be sure, but I think we might have a new record for lowest game total to lead a division (since G had both a bye and a team that was kicked out quite early in the season). In the end, this season's Iron Man Award goes to Mark Rossbach of Irish Ton in H division with 63 games played. And the possible new record holder is Lauren Gaines of Wayne Gretzky in G, who led her division with only 46 games(!). The lowest leader ever? Maybe… Anyway, the other honorable mentions (for divisional leaders) go to: Chad Massengill (Element), Robbie Phillips (Element) and Joe Work (Alliance) with 56 in A; Chris Schon (McGavin) with 60 in B; Mikey Hindle (Cheapies) with 62 in C; William McEwen (Ted's) and Frank Allison (Machine) with 51 in D; Dave Maley (Sofa), Walter Harrell (Sofa), Jeff Rudy (Game) and Larry Warshawsky (Hump Day!) with 50 in E; and Amy Elekonich (Chatham Street Elite) with 53 in F.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Four teams made a decent run at joining this club this season, but nobody is a slam dunk entrant. Hump Day! in E played mostly the same six, as did The Bunkers in C and Them Handsome Devils in B (who really just sort of lost their captain some nights… doh!). In the end, the closest-to-perfect nominee here is the same as last season, as B div.'s Shooter McGavin has only carried 6 team members for a full year now…

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I think I did really well. I hit four division winners, another of my picks won its tournament, and I completely owned a few divisions (A, C, and F). I had a little too much faith in Coach in E, I acknowledged then that I didn't know what to do with We've Got in D, and I had never seen Bulls Up! in H before (though I did pretty much nail the order of those I had seen).

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I kicked quite a bit of butt this season, falling just short of a 75% correct pick rate (which I think I would have easily hit if we hadn't had the pile of forfeits lost into the wind). That's really better than even I expect me to do. Only 5 teams ended up fooling me even as often as not, with two of those coming in my problem division (C, only 62% correct). My least successful team though was the One Armed Bandits in D, with whom I went 5-7… but only after I hit each of their last three matches (so this could've ended up much worse, eek!).

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And in these, I didn't do anywhere near as well as I usually do. I was a weak 19-8 in the quarterfinals (with yet another forfeit that day), a moderate 10-6 in the semifinals, and a sorta decent 4-4 in the finals. That makes my final record 33-18, and yes, it's true that often a wrong pick early can cost me a second or third pick later… but still, this wasn't all that great. To be fair though, a huge portion of those incorrect picks came ir C, D and E divisions… a disgusting 7-12 in those divisions. Wow. At least my dark horse picks delivered (my D #4 won it all, and my C #7 took out the #2), and my Surest Things indeed were (every one of those turned out exactly true).

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-seven seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the two 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the three 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not.[Oh, wow, this could have been a record-setting year for me. Nearly 75% correct is a pretty strong pick rate, and t's kind of alarming to see how many of my wrong guesses were fueled by not solving about 5-8 teams (mostly in C, D and H, with a bit of B and prinkled in there). That group drove a huge portion of the matches that I got wrong. Also, too many matches dumped due to forfeit… ugh. - JK

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

[Note: as with most historical statistics questions that I can ask here in the Trivia column, the following questions includes only the most recent 42 (now 43) seasons, as that is the amount of time I have been statistician - records prior to that are largely incomplete and unavailable, and some things like doubles and overall records for individual weren't even tracked in many of the prior seasons.]

Week 7 question: How many individual weren't even tracked in many of the prior seasons) times has a team being removed for the season (due to multiple forfeits in all cases prior to this season) resulted in a division with only 6 teams still competing for the remainder of the season?

Week 8 question: What is the record for longest team win streak, in terms of number of RDL weeks between losses (since some seasons have a bye and thus not as many matches by no fault of the team), and which team has it?

Week 9 question: In how many of my 43 seasons as the RDL statistician have there been one or more matches forfeited in A div.?

Week 10 question: (and this one already sets up the next week's question) There are presently 2 players showing up in the stats as divisional singles win percentage leaders who have yet to lose even one singles game. In my previous 42 seasons as statistician, how many people have managed an undefeated singles record (with enough games played to qualify for the season-long award)?

Week 11 question: As noted in the week 10 answer, nobody has ever made it all the way through an A division season undefeated in singles. What is the greatest number of games into an undefeated string to start an A season that anyone has ever reached, and who did it?

Week 12 question: Ok, let's run with this singles win stuff a bit… In the past 42 seasons, what percentage of the divisional singles win percentage champs (all divisions included) started their seasons with a loss in their first singles game?

Week 13 question(s): Last ones on the singles champions train of thought for now… Of those 328 divisional singles champs, how many of them were female, and what is the highest division title ever claimed by a female? Who was it?

Week 14 question: Has any team in the past 42 seasons finished 7-7 (or 6-6 in a 7-team division) and had both a win and a loss against every other team in the division (and who was it, and when)?

Week 7 answer: This season's removal of the Train Station Shooters is the 4th time a division has been left with only 6 teams. The first was in the Fall of 1999 when the Neighbors in C forfeited their third match in week 13, leaving the division with only 6 teams for one week. Then in the Fall of 2008, there were TWO divisions (A and H) that were left with only 6 teams - Shadows Fall in A forfeited out with 6 weeks to go, while the Pussy Kat Dolls forfeited out with a huge 8 weeks to go.

Week 8 answer: Well, when this question was asked, the answer was Lunatic Fringe, with 45 weeks unbeaten (starting in the Sp96 season and reaching into the Fa97 season). But as of the time that this answer was written, Element had tied that record! Element's win the week prior made for 45 consecutive RDL regular season and tournament weeks without a loss (one of those weeks was a bye). That string started at the beginning of the Fa15 tournament and is currently still active. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: With Element's run through the end of this season's A tournament, Element's record unbeaten string has now reached 54 RDL weeks, following the Fall 2015 tournament wins with three undefeated full-season/tournament runs.]

Week 9 answer: Surprisingly, there has been at least one forfeit in 9 of the 43 A divisions during my tenure here. And in those 9 seasons, 12 different teams have had at least one forfeit. Of those 12 teams, it turns out that 10 had exactly that one forfeit (although Nine Lives has time this season to add to their total, but let's hope they don't). The two teams that forfeited more than once both forfeited their way out of the season -- Here for the Beer in Sp05, and Shadows Fall in Fa08 (with that dropout leaving A with only 6 teams for more than half of that season). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: This season, Nine Lives later became the first A division team to forfeit 2 matches in a season without also forfeiting a third match and being removed from the schedule.]

Week 10 answer: There have only been 9 undefeated singles seasons in my 42 (now 43!) seasons here with RDL, and TWO of those came just last season! (Translation: It's frickin' hard to get through a full dozen or more games of 301 without a hiccup.) Those nine, from earliest to most recent (with division and record): Fa98 - Galen Gillett - F - 20-0; Sp05 - Mike Reynolds - E - 26-0; Fa06 - Robb Beeson - G - 19-0; Sp08 - Vicente Martinez - E - 28-0; Fa08 - Jimmy Davis - B - 22-0; Sp10 - Phillip Eastmead - C - 28-0; Fa11 - Stan Converse - G - 20-0; Fa16 - Dan Naylor - C - 24-0; Fa16 - Randy Baldwin - F - 25-0. Yep, that's right… never been done in A division, and the record for most singles wins in a season is 28 (the perfect number for 2 wins per night for a full 14-week, bye-free, forfeit-free season).

Week 11 answer: Ok, I'll admit it… I originally set this question up in anticipation of my teammate Chad Massengill still being undefeated in singles as I type this. But… the RDL is frickin' deep and any set can be a loss, and that's exactly what happened to Massengill at the hands of David Huffman in his week 10 cricket game (and that was after Huffman just barely missed the third dart of a shot at a 161-Out in 301 against Massengill - he really had it out for him!). That loss ended Massengill's season-starter A division streak at 19, which leaves him with the 4th-longest perfect start to a season. The 3rd longest was 20 games by Allen Smiith of Dart Shadows in the Fa99 season (losing wk12 cricket to Kent Butters on the way to a 23-2 season). The 2nd longest was 21 games by Billy West of So What! in the Sp98 season (losing wk12 cricket to Kurt Kunttu on the way to a 23-1 season). And the record-holding season starter A streak is a monstrous 26 games by Brian Blake of Just A Little High in the Fa11 season (losing wk14 301 to Tom Brown on the way to a 27-1 season - not surprisingly, that 27-1 mark is also the best A division singles win percentage season ever - and no, I haven't looked up whether any other division has had a season with a higher win percentage that obviously would have to include at least one blocker slot in addition to the typical 28 sets in a 14-match season).

Week 12 answer: Holy cow, this answer surprised even me. In the past 42 seasons, we've had a total of 309 divisions. And those divisions, due to tied records in the top spot, have produced 328 divisional singles win percentage champions. And of those 328, 16.5% of them started their personal singles seasons with a loss! 16.5%!!!! 54 of the 328 titlists started their seasons as a game loser. I was stunned when I saw that number come out. Just for kicks, let's go a little further… 2.6% of the titlists (8 of the 328) started out 0-2. And then there's John Iager of the Grateful Darts in the Fall 1999 D league… Iager started out a ridiculous 0-3 before running off 13 straight wins (barely making the 16-game minimum) and taking home the D crown! So if you drop a game or two to start out next season, fear not… maybe you're just setting yourself up to join a pretty large club. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: None of the 8 divisional singles win percentage champs this season lost their first game of the season, so we are now at 54 of 336, for a rate of 16.1% of titlists starting with a loss.]

Week 13 answer: In the past 42 seasons (the time that maybe soon we'll start calling "the modern era" of the RDL), we have indeed had 328 divisional singles champs. And of those 328, we have had 2 representing the ladies in the house. In the Fall of 1999, Ginger Rivenbark of Woody's Gang took the G division title with a stellar 21-1 record. But the real hero for the ladies here was Danica Kelso of Rocking "B" Jiggles (yes, that really was their team name), who took the C crown (yes, the team with "B" in their name played in C) with an 18-3 mark. Had lots of other ladies come close, but few as high as Kelso's C division run. [Note: yes, I too assumed that Deb Blackwelder and/or Kris Kilsdonk would've been on this list at least a couple times… feels like they've been knocking back wins for years and years. - JK] [Answer update for the banquet Tons : no ladies joined the division winners club this season, so our statistics now sit at 2 of 336 (instead of 2 of 328).]

Week 14 answer : Well, since we've completed this spring's regular season matches, we can answer this question for 43 seasons (instead of just 42). Due to the fact that no even-record teams this season fit the requirement for this question, the answer didn't change this season. And that answer is… Yes, 3 different teams have pulled off the '1-1 record against all opponents' scenario!! That's so crazy… both beating and losing to every opponent. Just awesome and weird at the same time. The maybe weirder part? All 3 times that it has happened have come in D division! In the Fall 2000 season, Smackdown's 7-7 landed them in 5th, 2 matches behind the leaders. In the Spring 2001 season, UZMALL's 6-6 also landed them in 5th. And then in the Fall 2013 season, Death Throw's 7-7 mark actually squeezed them all the way up into 3rd place of 8 teams.

[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week (except for the extended set in week 11 and the traditional long week 14 set) and also included a theme each and every week. Adds a layer to the game for everybody and has been hugely popular. Here are the themes for each week , including the week 14 fifteen-song set for which the top guesser impressively nailed 11 of the songs…

Week 2 theme: If you need me to explain this one to you, then you need to get your head out of the ground, ya ostrich. Also, If you don't see the theme in this one, there's a wall some of our group would like you to go stand behind for a bit. Week 3 theme: The objectification and use of women. Seems like I heard somewhere that it's not just sort of back "in" again, but is actually seemingly celebrated a bit, right? (Now there is a sentence I never thought I would type…) Week 4 theme: Well… it could be lying… or suspicions… or maybe what we consider to be truth… Alright, fine, how about we just call the theme 'alternative facts' and be done with it? Good? Great. Week 5 theme: The news not being what you want it to be any more… or maybe even just not being accurate, and just being tweaked to fit whatever someone else wants it to be. Either of those pretty much seems to be spot on for the past many weeks, eh? Week 6 theme: Hmmm… songs about asking who are, saying it's not you, and saying not to ask any probing questions… all in a week when we reported premeditated and intentional skirting of the league rules via player impersonation. Geez, sure was lucky timing that those songs all come up at exactly the same time. Week 7 theme: Narcissism and self-importance, in honor of any of our league members that put a little extra over-importance on themselves or their teams. Week 8 theme: Well, this one was a little more abstract… though some people's guesses were really pretty close! The theme was Ivanka Trump and her continued production of goods in China (nearly a shipment a day!) while everyone is supposed to be "buying American" and "hiring American". Or maybe I misunderstood, and really it's just "everyone else" who is supposed to be buying or hiring American. Silly me. Oh, wait… I guess maybe the theme was actually hypocrisy. Ha! (And yes, I realize that's almost a daily theme in some ways…) Week 9 theme: Well, after last week's theme, I said it was time for lighter and fun-ner… so… we just went straight to the fun. Week 10 theme: Marching… Crazy/Mad… Basket… UNC in the Final Four… of course it's March Madness/the Final Four! Week 11 theme: Well, this was a larger-than-usual set of songs for a regular season week, but that's because these artists were chosen for a specific reason. In honor of the St. Baldrick's event hosted by Keith Gibbs and The Upper Deck, and attended/supported in large part by RDL members, that was highlighted in the week 10 newsletter… these six singers are all cancer survivors!! That's right, some compilation of research and care, which may well have included events such as the one here, has led to advances that have kept these amazing artists right here with us, continuing to produce their art for all to enjoy… and continuing to fight on behalf of others that still need the help… and continuing to simply be loved by their families. Tough to ever put a value on that. Maybe at some point, somebody, somewhere, will write about childhood cancer and its survivors in some sort of past tense. Here's to hoping, and here's to those that care enough to help even when it isn't immediately for someone they know. Week 12 theme: Misery, pain, agony… anything you might feel right after you miss that one shot for the whole season title, right? Though admittedly, that specific example probably doesn't hurt 'so good'. Week 13 theme: Well, it was pretty simple… you just take the first word from each song and you have Saturday Night Live (and Elton's song almost even jumped ahead with the first two words!). Week 14 theme: Song titles that all include the word 'me'. Yep, it was all about ME!! The songs were listed in order by the band name/singer's last name, alphabetically.

RDL QUOTABLES

So this season I've saved a handful of my favorite quotes from throughout the season, to make one big happy, funny column. Should hopefully be good for at least a few chuckles…

Quote #1 : from Brian Gaertner of Rif Raf after their week 1 match, during which teammate Dennis Horger had to face past national champ Dan Naylor in SCkt: "It was 15 darts for Dan. Poor Dennis. He didn't know what hit him. As I was heading up to chalk that game, I said to Dennis 'May God have mercy on your soul.' And God did. Dennis only had to step up to the line 4 times."

Quote #2 : from Sebastian Dehnel of Chatham Street Elite, in reference to his previous team's (OT Outlaws in Fall 2016 D div.) removal from the season due to too many forfeits: "Glad to hear I was part of an unprecedented team melt down. I wouldn't have it any other way. Haha. Our mantra was "we made the playoffs", since all teams make the final tournament. Due to our meltdown, we didn't make the playoffs. Kind of ironic."

Quote #3 : from Shawn Budd of Just A Bit Outside, back in week 5 in reference to 'letting a player go' from their team: "And as for the severance, he gets to keep the team shirt I bought him. First generation JABO design shirt will be worth a fortune someday, so he's lucky he gets to keep it."

Quote #4 : from Tina Boutieller of Chalker's Nightmare back in week 6: "Oh, I suck real good." [Sure, maybe she was talking about her dart game… Or maybe she wasn't. And yes, I told her I wouldn't quote her that week. I didn't say anything about the bigger Tons issue a couple months later. - JK]

Quote #5 : from the Bull Hunters, to me in week 7, when they reported their score after winning in a week when I didn't pick them in my predictions: "Ye of little faith." [Seriously?! I picked against the Hunters TWO times this whole season. And one of those two they DID lose. Interestingly, I was only 6-4 in my Bull Hunters pick this season… so clearly I was he of too much faith. - JK]

Quote #6 : from an F division captain after his/her team had the actual pleasure of playing against the Ducks of War, a match after playing… well… a team that is maybe a bit less fun to be around than the Ducks: "After last match, it was really refreshing to play a team that had things like, ya know, intelligence… charisma…" [I wonder how many F teams are thinking they know what the other team sort of being reference here is. :o) - JK]

Quote #7 : from a B league player, assessing his opposition right after his team had just lost to the opposition being assessed: "You only have two good motherfuers on the team." [Ummmm… you get that this comment is a bigger putdown of your own team than of the other/winning team's, right? - JK]

Quote #8 : from Jason Thomas of Ted's DeploraBull Emporium in week 14: "Interesting story (it had to have happened before, but I don't remember it..) I was throwing on board 2, while Jimmy [Dzengeleski, of Dynamic Darts] was on board 1... I threw my first 2 trip20s, and heard everyone cheering behind me... Then I threw the third, and heard everyone gasp and say 'oh man, so close! That's a 140, and was so close to a 180!'... I turned around in a 'Y'all need to get your eyes checked, all three are in there!' tone... Turns out, they were all cheering for Jimmy, who was on pace (dart for dart) for a 180 with me... Opponent or not, that would have been pretty cool, simultaneous 180s." [You guys all heard that, right? I'm pretty sure that JT just said "hey, look everybody, I got a 180!" Yeah, yeah, yeah… yay for you JT. Sure, that was a story about Jimmy and nearly awesome timing. … … … Oh, and that sound that you just heard just now? That was probably JT smacking me for turning what was a pretty good dart story into a joke at his expense. Ah well… he's used to me. - JK]

THREE OF RDL'S COMPLETE BADASSES

Sometimes I collect stories and tidbits about the amazing stuff some of our league members do. Here are 3 of my recent favorites.

RDL BADASS #1 - David Romanchek, of Nine Lives

In week 13, Romanchek's Nine Live squad faced longtime RDL heavyweight Appetite for Destruction, who is led by Sid Mitchell, one of the league's very best for the better part of a decade. I will let Sid describe this one: "I'm still in shock on David R's finish against me in cricket! Best as I can remember… I'm relatively comfortably ahead going down to the final couple of numbers with a slight advantage. Basically the game was sitting where I had all numbers closed but 15's (still needed all 3) and he had all numbers closed but 20's (still needed all 3), and we both needed bulls and I was a few points ahead. We had both thrown mediocre to this point where I had a couple of 4 marks and he had a 5 mark. He then throws and blanks on 15's. I'm thinking trip 15 and 3 bulls in my turn to wrap the game up. Well, I only hit one 15 (not good but also not worried). He then proceeds to throw a 7 mark on the 15's to close and take about a 55 point lead. I answer with a 5 mark on the 20's to take about a 45 point lead. He then hits a trip 20 on first dart and one 15 on his other two to close all numbers and cut the lead to about 30. I close the 15's taking all 3 darts (again not great but not worried with only needing 3 bulls to his 5). Well you can guess what happens next! David steps up and throws a 5bull!! I never even got a chance to throw again, hence why I'm still in shock this morning! To top it off, he could hardly even walk with stitches in the bottom of his foot from a bad cut! Just shows you never get too comfortable or underestimate your opponent!"

RDL BADASS #2 - Robbie Phillips, of This Is Element

Alright, of course you already know that Phillips is a badass if you've read even one Tons in the past several years. But a couple weekends ago, he popped something that was awesome even for him. He was at Nationals (for about the 7,423rd time, right?), and was trying to advance out of his preliminary round-robin bracket (the field is generally broken into about four groups that each play a full round-robin among themselves, with the two from each group advancing to the final eight-man round-robin for the title). It came down to him needing to win his final leg of his final group match to force a tie and a one-game playoff to see who advanced to the final group. And what would you, the reader, do in that situation? Vomit? Pee yourself a little? Hide in a corner? Or would you set up 170 and then pop the damn thing to hammer home the win? I would probably opt for one of the body functions… but not Phillips. He goes all center-stage and sticks the perfecto. [Test results as to whether Phillips's body actually even contains adrenaline haven't come back from the lab yet…] Note: sadly, it was an "off day" for Phillips and he finished as only the first alternate for the trip to England. Flippin' slacker…

RDL BADASS #3 - John Jenkins, of Armed and Hammered

Ok, I've absolutely saved the best for last in this column. I think this item actually might start a new league record / trivia question / hall of fame item. Honestly, it's really pretty difficult to grasp just how freakin' cool this one is. In the final week of the regular season, Jenkins hit the second-highest out in the entire RDL (and easily the highest in his division) this season with a stellar Ton-49. Great shot, right? Even for national champ Phillips up above that would be a great one. But here's the kicker… Jenkins is 74 years old. Yep, he's one of the league's glorious elder statesmen. And he just hit an out in league play that is more than double his age. At the age of 74 . That HAS to be a league record. And maybe one that will stand forever? How many just 40- or 50-year-olds out there have never hit an out of twice your current age in a match?

WHEN YOUR TEAM… UMMMM… LOVES YOU??

All teams are made up of people that are at least "sort of" friends, right? Well, the reality is that some teams are definitely tighter than other teams, and being on those types of team is really pretty great. At least most of the time, that is. Then there are those times that are great and awful at the same time. Here are two of the very best of those… Upper right photo : according to The Handsome Devils, this is what happens when you rush out the door on your way to a 7 pm tournament match… yes, that's Alex Sarantos (of the Devils) wearing two different shoes and not realizing it. Yep, he went out the door wearing two completely different shoes! And his team had the immediate foresight to snap a photo… and then send it to me to share with all of you guys! Ha! Geez, thanks, teammates… Bottom photo : Jeremy Limerick, captain of All Flights Matter, had to have a bit of emergency eye surgery this season (he'll be fine), and then made the mistake of referring to himself as One-Eyed Willie in his next VoiceMail message. I, of course, immediately shared that with all of you (because… duh). And how did his teammates show their support for their fearless leader? Well, you can see for yourself below. Just to be clear, Jeremy's teammates are the five better-looking guys out of the six in the photo.

AND OUR VERY OWN PHOTOSHOP SCANDAL!!

A couple seasons ago, a few teams sent me team photos after their tournament matches, and I noted that I thought that was kind of great, and included them in the banquet Tons. Well, Shaunt Be Shutout followed suit this season after they clinched the B season/ tournament double. But… hey… Billy Maccini is out of town for work… and isn't his personal image (far left) a little bit lighter than his teammates'? Oh, how Kardashian of those photoshoppers…

Anyway, the B champ folks next to the ghostly image of Maccini are: John Carroll, Sal Reitano, Kevin Foushee, Eugene Foushee, C.J. Jobe, Rick Bradshaw, and Tyler Wright. Congrats, and welcome back to A…

RULE CHANGE IDEAS?

Just this month, I sent the RDL Board an 8-page document, offering 12 potential rule changes and/or clarifications. I'm sure they'll be talking about at least some of them this summer. If you want to put your two cents in, you should let them know soon. The topics included: == wearing headphones during matches == what happens when people play the wrong opponent == dumping the 2nd place plaques == what to do if the chalker's answer to a math question is "I don't know" == what chalkers can tell throwers during a game of cricket == throwing the remaining darts after busting == postponing matches to after the week 14 match date == moving the scoresheet deadline to Friday == dumping the VoiceMail system altogether == clarifying features of the webmaster role == rewriting the paltry by-laws requirements listed for the weekly newsletter == and maybe dropping the hard copy Tons. Is that enough stuff for you? :o)

I APOLOGIZE FOR… WELL… NOTHING

I have to be honest… I love that it clearly freaking kills some of you guys that I sit myself out of dart matches sometimes. There's a small group of you that just can't resist commenting about it, often repeatedly during the night, roughly every single time our teams play each other. You're obsessed with it. You stew about it, you re-hash it, and you bring it up over and over. And you know what? I… don't… give… a… st.

The reality is that I'm an average A division player captaining a team chock full of way-above-average A division players. And I have never made any claims to the contrary. I do the stats, trust me, I know how my game measures up to others'. I've played about 640 games in A before I formed Element, and just over 700 since I formed Element. I won just under 50% of my games before Element, when my team hovered from 2nd through 6th in A. After Element formed, my singles climbed to a little over 55% and my doubles jumped up to 78% (shocking, right?). Thus, I beat about half of my opponents when my team wasn't at the top, and more than that when I was no longer facing any of my current teammates.

I've averaged about 33 games played per season during my time in A, though that average has dropped to about 26 since the first season of Element. Given that my schedule usually makes me miss a match or two each season, and that we have two byes in about 40% of the seasons, I've averaged just under 3 games per match since I reached A, and just a little over 2 per match since the first season of Element. Sooo… as one of the lower-end guys on a team of state champs, national champs, even world champs, I play a little over half the sets. Not enough for your requirement for me? Well, guess how much I care about that fact.

The bottom line is that I sit myself in the bigger sets in the bigger matches because… I'm smart. Duh. Or maybe more to the point, I'm not stupid. Our team (which, contrary to a lot of grumbling opinions over the years, has been built entirely without recruiting any player on any of our A competitors in any season ever - don't believe me? I have a full all-time team roster and will go through every single player with you and whence they came) runs as well as it does because I'm completely honest with every guy on the team about their role, and about how I list when push comes to shove. Want to play more? Then play better. And that applies to me as well. So if I play others repeatedly in the biggest matches, it's because that's what is best for the competitive advantage of the team. And I am completely ok with that.

So, if you want an apology from me for sitting myself sometimes, please feel free to choose from among these apologies: #1 - "I'm sorry that I'm smart"; or #2 - "I'm sorry that you can't help spending more time worrying about me than about yourself"; or #3 - "I'm sorry that not only do not I care that it bothers you, but I actually find that part humorous"; or #4 - "I'm sorry that I seem to have the ability to turn a pile of huge talents and big egos into a cohesive family of friends, that rarely disagrees, and that happens to win lots of dart matches with me steering the ship." There… any of those apologies make you feel better?

Alternatively, how about we switch spots? You take multiple days each and every weekend for the next couple decades to write the newsletter, and I'll go hang out, practice, and hit blind draws every week. Sound good? [I do have to admit though, that one of my favorite things is when one of these guys starts making comments, then he draws me in singles, and then I whip his a. Happens at least half the times we line up. :o)]

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. I'm never sure what's about to hit the page, but anyway… whatever…

-- Generally, this column starts with a Survivor item, but I've got a few episodes recorded and I'm behind, so I will simply say this: the first time Debbie was on, when they listed a different profession for her every time she was on screen, due to her ridiculous stories about being an expert in… everything. I miss that hilarity this time.

-- Anyway, while I'm on the topic of television shows, whose brilliant idea was it to cancel Mike & Mike in the Morning from the ESPN2 lineup?? That news release might as well have said "the reason Jason won't watch anything but live sports or NFL news on ESPN ever again." Were they just too intelligent to be on television discussing sports? Seriously, what the hell? Maybe this means we'll get another thousand hours each year of Stephen A. Smith railing on and blustering nothingness and stupidity to anyone within earshot (which is a long radius when Smith opens his mouth). Oh, gee, lucky us. … … … The end of an era…

-- Music trivia bonus question for all the fans of the weekly lyrics quiz (I'll drop a hint later in the column, and then the answer toward the end): What one band or singer holds the record with FOUR albums that reached #1 on the chart during the same year?

-- I'm sure it's just me, and I have no idea why it's funny to me, but when Jeremy Limerick (captain of All Flights Matter) calls in his team's results and starts the message with a goofy "what's up, fuer?", I can't help but laugh. Every time. I guess maybe he just has the right personality and/or voice to pull it off repeatedly.

-- Write this down… some of the guys on Irish Ton are going to climb the talent ladder faster and higher than others who happen to have the same natural talent level. I have no idea if they are naturally inclined to be good at darts (face it, that is a huge factor in who does/doesn't become good), but at least a couple of them have the right desire level and approach to exceed whatever level would normally be their personal ceiling. Talked to a couple of them at my team's A division final… they were out seeing what was what, picking up tips, talking about practice routines, etc. Just a great early commitment to attacking the game from the start, with input from those who attacked it before them. Pretty excellent.

-- Quick vote… which is more pointless and boring? Watching someone eat a bowl of chicken broth with a disposable fork, or watching NBA playoff games? Good lord… I just saw a story about Cleveland and Golden State being a combined 19-0 in the playoffs so far this year. The people reporting said that they thought that 3 of those 19 games could have turned out the other way with a couple lucky bounces or a key play. Really… that's the state of a major professional sport here? Two teams, including one that gives its best players a vacation about every 3 or 4 games all season, are so much better than the other supposed top teams that it takes luck or huge key breaks for those others to win any games at all? Wow, where do I sign up to buy the preposterously overpriced tickets? Can't wait…

-- Bonus trivia music question hint: It's a band, and in 1967, they sold more albums than The Beatles and Rolling Stones combined.

-- This past week at my match over in the Bull City Dart League, one of our opponents started a turn in '01 with 39 points remaining, ended the turn with 3 points remaining, never had a shot at a winning double, and only missed the number at which he was aiming with one dart during the entire turn. No, seriously. Any idea what he hit? I'll give you time to think about it… I'll put the answer later in the right column on this page…

-- At what point did every frickin' movie become about a super-hero, or at least come from a comic book?

-- Two related thoughts on football(ish): First, I think it's really hilarious that Tom Brady has been listed on the NFL injury report 132 times in his career, and he has played in the game…132 times. Belichick loves playing with the system, and I love him for it. (Yes, there was also the season when Brady was immediately put on Injured Reserve, but those players aren't listed in the weekly injury list.) Second, could Brady's wife Gisele Bundchen be any bigger of an idiot? She tweets stuff about the organization and the league not respecting Brady… making him sooo popular with the league higher-ups. She tweets stuff about the Patriots losing because Brady can't both throw the ball and catch the ball… giving Brady a bunch of locker room explaining to do. And now she tells the world that Brady has had a string of concussions for years… bringing the entire sports world's attention right back to him. How tone deaf and utterly stupid is she? Well, like every-one else, I've always recognized the whole real-world "higher up the hotness scale let's you get away with more" reality, and she is soooo far beyond anything that any hotness could ever cover despite any ridiculous 'super model' status, whatever that is. She is… dumb, arrogant, oblivious… whatever. Ugh. Go away.

-- You ever watch Bones? I love the Lance Sweets character. I think that guy is awesome. Intelligently funny and interesting.

-- Remember back in week 1 when I wrote the "best new names" column? Well, I'm not changing my favorite for the season, but I do want to add a note: I had tagged Shaunt Be Shutout as a "name with a word that I'm not even sure is a word." Well, it turns out that "We shaunt be shutout!" was Donald Grubb's weekly battle cry after their A div. team had scored its first point of the night. Odd name? Yes. Awesome tribute? Oh, hell yes.

-- Bonus trivia music question answer: It was The Monkees! Yes, four actors who could sing, who were brought together to make a silly sitcom about a band that ironically couldn't hit it big like bands such as The Beatles. Four #1 albums, one year. How many of your favorite bands have even put out four albums in a six-year span, much less close enough that all four peaked in the same calendar year? Craziness.

-- Answer to how you get to 3 from 39 without even getting a shot (from left column): he threw at the 7, but hit double-7 and left 25; then he threw at the 9, but hit the 12, leaving 13; then he threw at the 5, but hit the double-5, leaving 3. Three darts, two hitting the number at which he aimed, never got even, and left 3. (No, he did not win that game, though my teammate did let him have a shot or two at the 3…)

-- So Chris Cornell (of Soundgarden and Audioslave fame) took his own life this past Wednesday… sure, that's a little different (and possibly even sadder) than dying due to a freak accident or a sudden heart attack, etc. But for me, it's yet another reminder that you had better live your life every day. No guarantees that there will be a tomorrow. And while you're at it, tell those you love that you love them… often. No guarantees that if there is a tomorrow, that you will have it with those people. We are fragile creatures, and life is precious. Take the time to appreciate it, and also to appreciate those that make yours so worth living. Until next time, my friends… I wish you a summer of health and happiness… already looking forward to seeing you in the fall…

RDL BOARD MEMBER HISTORY - 43 SEASONS - SPRING 1996 THROUGH SPRING 2017

Alright, if you read the newsletter with any regularity (and especially the trivia column), you know that I've been here keeping the league statistics and writing the newsletter for twenty-two and a half years (43 seasons). So, you're all familiar with me and my big mouth. But are you familiar with the folks that actually make the real decisions for the league? I sit up front here, and I type stuff to you all the time, and I send you stuff, and I use my loud voice at the captains' meetings and banquets, but the reality is that all league policies and rules are set by your elected set of Board members. It's those 5-7 volunteers per season who actually hold all the power (and have a bunch of responsibilities for the standard volunteer rate of… nothin'!). And a bunch of those volunteers have come back time after time after time to make sure that our hobby keeps rolling without a hiccup. All in all, there have been 7 offices for the first 26 of these 43 seasons, then 6 offices for the most recent 17 seasons (the External Organizations position was dropped after 2008), so there have been 284 total officer-seasons. Of those 284, 14 have remained vacant, leaving 270 total officer-seasons. And a grand total of only 39 league members have filled those 270 spots, with Heather Bohanan (33 seasons), Kevin Coyne (21), Jason Thomas (18), J.P. Evans (15), Dave Berry (11), and Cathy Moeschet (11) leading the parade of the selfless givers of their time (at least during this 43-season time window). Below are all the officers for all of my 43 seasons here, so you can see exactly who you can/should thank. (* = officer who joined the Board midseason due to a vacant office)

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - Appetite for Destruction (13-11)
Appetite ends Element's 5-Mug run by pulling out a 501 sweep (just as they did in their week 14 win), punctuated by a Michael Johnson T80 and a pair of quick 20-darters in the final 3-game set.

"B" Division - Dartistic Expression (13-11)
Dartistic finally escapes going to 1001 with Methodical (where Methodical had dumped them twice previously), thus completing an ultimate nailbiter Mug run, with 12-12, 13-11, and 13-11 wins.

"C" Division - Flightmare (13-3)
After winning the season race by 5 matches and 50 points (the second-biggest margin of victory), Flightmare rolls to one of the most dominant tournament runs this fall, only reaching 501 once.

"D" Division - Dysfunctional Outlaws (12+-12)
Dysfunctional becomes the only team outside of a "top two" from the regular season to take home a set of Mugs, outlasting the Bandits (who they also thumped during the season) in a 1001!

"E" Division - Inglourious Darters (14-4)
After trading equal wins and ending the season with identical win/loss records, Inglourious really separates themselves from WINNAU in the final, not even taking the match to the 501s.

"F" Division - Bull Hunters (14-6)
The Bull Hunters claim their third consecutive set of Mugs (first H, then G, now F), completing an absolutely dominant season/ tournament double in which no competitor was ever all that close.

"G" Division - Bulls Up! (13-9)
After a first-round bye, Bulls Up! gets pushed more than a bit by both the #5 and #3 seeds, but it all still ends in the team's second straight season/tournament double on their way up the ladder.

"H" Division - Why So Serious? (14-2)
In what had to be the least surprising result of this tournament session (with due respect to the other H teams, of course), Why So Serious? coughs up a total of 6 points (with one win by forfeit).

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Cardiac Element (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Appetite for Destruction

"B" Division - Methodical Madness (11 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Dartistic Expression

"C" Division - Flightmare (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Shooter McGavin

"D" Division - One Armed Bandits (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Pat's Blue Ribbon

"E" Division - Inglourious Darters (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - WINNAU

"F" Division - Bull Hunters (12 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Coral Reefers

"G" Division - Bulls Up! (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Walking That Wire

"H" Division - Why So Serious? (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Just A Bit Outside

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Given the fact that effectively 6 of our 8 divisions had a bye, this season's total of 42 tiebreakers is really quite a pile. We even had a tournament Mug decided in an extra leg! Nice…

B division posted the top number with a huge 10 tiebreakers (with 1 of those in the tournament), followed closely by the 8 played by G division. Next up were C (with 6), A (with 5, 1 of those coming in the tournament), D (with 5, also 1 of those coming in the tournament), and E (with 4). Tying for last were F and H, with 2 each (with 1 of H's coming in the tournament). That total of 42 tiebreakers thus includes 38 during the regular season and 4 in the tournaments -- interestingly, 3 of those 4 tournament tiebreakers were won by teams that won the Mugs for their division (so not all the winners were all dominant, eh?).

There were 10 teams that each played 3 or more 1001 games, with four of those playing 4 or more. In the end, the title of Cardiac Kids (for most tiebreakers played) was shared by Methodical Madness in B division and Irish Ton in G division, who each played in FIVE tiebreakers (with both teams posting 3-2 records).

This season's Heartbreak Award officially goes to Chalker's Night-mare in G division, as the only team that lost as many as 3 1001s (posting exactly an 0-3 record). But a case could certainly be made for an honorable mention for the One Armed Bandits in C division, who only lost one 1001 (their only one played)… in the C Mug final.

SPRING 2018 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, Jan. 3rd - Spring season registration, Upper Deck (online registration should be available in the days immediately prior to the 3rd - Membership Director Heather Bohanan will likely be in charge of early registration, and she will likely hook it up through the website and accept payments through PayPal)

Wed., Jan. 17th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, January 24th - Start of Spring season match play

Monday, February 26th - Fifth week captains' meeting, Upper Deck

Wed., May 2 / 9 / 16 - Spring season divisional tournaments

Saturday, May 19th - Spring season banquet, site TBD

THIS… THIS IS HOW YOU DO IT

The right way to come back from a thrower error

In our A division finals match, Michael Johnson of Appetite for Destruction made a critical error in DCkt, popping a triple on a closed number. The shot quite likely cost them the game and the set. But did he fume and blow up? Nope. He bonked himself on the head, then he forgot the hell all about it. And he came back and won the final set of 501 for the Mugs, hitting a 180 and both outs. He was smart enough to leave the shot behind. It's over and there's nothing you can do about it, so he didn't worry about it. And it paid off in a big way. I guess that's how you become a state singles cricket champion, eh? Lesson to be learned here, folks…

And while chalking doesn't carry the same pressure…

… it still has pressures, and there are still right and wrong ways to do things. Sid Mitchell of Appetite for Destruction, also in our A final, made a simple mistake. He started to write down Robbie Phillips's turn after Phillips's second dart (and he was throwing at the winning double). You could tell that as soon as he started writing, he knew his error, but this was where some serious higher-level instincts kicked in - he just proceeded writing and went back to his position, waiting to apologize until after the third dart instead of all of a sudden making the turn about him. He's human and errors happen, but he didn't pause/freeze/freak out/anything. And Phillips just wen on with his turn and the game progressed… smoothly. Small error, handled perfectly. Another lesson to be learned here, folks…

AND ON THAT NOTE…

There are lots of bad things you can do as a chalker - lean in, nod, rock back and forth, wiggle all around, etc. But add this one at the top of the list: freezing in the process of writing when someone is throwing. So they started throwing quickly or you have an error to fix… fine. But don't pause/freeze like some weird distorted statue.

TEAMS THAT WON THEIR REGULAR SEASON TITLE (but not divisional tournament) !!!!!!

FALL 2017 PENALTY SUMMARY

Alright, not our best season or anything like that, but not too bad for a season that has election ballots in it. Way too many forfeits though (yes, I know those aren't technically penalties, but we had two teams penalized for over-forfeiting by being removed from the schedule).

Overall, there were 25 total penalties for a total of 198 lost points. Due to the relative prevalence of ballot penalties for teams that don't care to bother voting, a whopping 19 of the 60 teams were penalized in some fashion. Also, at least one team in every division received at least one penalty, so no group was immune.

While F, G and H divisions each led the league with 6 penalties per division, F and G lost a few more points (52 to 48), but H actually had a match win(!) lost to a penalty. B, C and E divisions were least penalized, each losing only 5 points to only a single penalty per division.

All in all, there were 2 captain's meeting penalties (for a total loss of 10 points), 14 ballot penalties (70 points), 6 mail penalties (96 points), and 2 ineligible player penalties (17 points and one match win).

Even through Brown's Bombers in H was the team that actually had a win removed due to penalty, the even bigger losers were two teams in F that dropped a spot in the standings because of their lost points - Don't Hit the Scorekeeper (now 3rd instead of 2nd) and Show Me Your Tips (now 5th instead of 4th). Don't Hit the Scorekeeper also led the entire league in gross losses due to penalty (37 points on 3 penalties).

HOLIDAY BREAK BLIND DRAWS

UPPER DECK

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (although, I think the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still).

And an important note for December 24th…

Christmas Eve is a Sunday this year… and yes, the regular Sunday Upper Deck blind draw will indeed be held on the 24th! So, if you just need a little holiday darting action, you know now where you can find it…

And an important note for December 31st…

And New Year's Eve is a Sunday this year as well… and if you're going to play a blind draw on Christmas Eve, you're maybe one to also play a draw on New Year's. So, if you want to kick off 2018 with a little darting action, you again know where you can find it. Those Upper Deck darters are hardcore, brother…

SHARKY'S PLACE

Or maybe you live closer to Glenwood and/or just prefer Sharky's! Well, they've changed their regular blind draw nights from "Sat and Mon" to "Sat and WEDNESDAY" instead until the RDL starts back up. So make note! That and others in the weekly blind draw list on page 8 in the right column.

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

Looking to add a second league this coming season? Pretty good timing, as both other local leagues will be starting up right after the start of the new year. A little time to get organized!

Triangle Dart League (TDL - Chapel Hill & Durham)

The captains'/organizational meeting for the Spring 2018 season will be held at Sharky's Eat & 8 (4707 Hillsborough Rd, Durham) on Thursday, January 11th, at 7:00 p.m. Regular season play will start the following Thursday (the 18th). If you're interested in a bit of darting on the Chapel Hill side of the Triangle, visit them on the web at: http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/
Roster size is pretty wide at 4-10 per team, so get a group now.

Bull City Dart League (BCDL - Durham)

If you happen to be interested in trying out one of the very few handicapped steel-tip leagues anywhere, maybe the BCDL is in your future. The BCDL spring?/winter? 2018 season will close its registration with a meeting from 6:00 to 7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, January 16th, at Bralie's Sports Bar & Grill (1725 Carpenter Fletcher Rd, Durham), although they will take registration earlier if you want (shoot me a message and I'll put you in contact with their Treasurer). Teams in the BCDL consist of 4-8 players, and the home bars are primarily in RTP and the downtown Durham area. More complete information (and any updates in the coming weeks) can be found at: www.thebcdl.org That website also includes a wealth of information about the league and its rules, so if you're just interested in seeing how the league applies a handicap system to a steel-tip league, you can find all of that there, including rules, statistics, and scoresheet examples.

Sharky's Place 919-783-5448
5800 Duraleigh Road NW Raleigh
-in the Yuppie Center near US 70 intersection

Snooker's-RW 919-828-7665

"HOT DARTS" LISTING GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines that will be used for the minimum number of all-star points each week for the "hot darts" page.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, we will list any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: also report any new "fast games" leaders, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Divisions "B" (except team B8) & "C" (except teams C3 and C5),and team H8 (8 teams / division):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for Divs. "A", "D", "E" (except team E7), "F" & "G" (7 teams / div.), and for teams H2, H3 and H4 (due to 2 forfeits rcvd.):

min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams B8, C3, C5, H1, H5, H6 and H7 (due to 1 fft. rcvd.):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played for team E7 (due to 1 forfeit received):

THE FORTY-SECOND SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Michael Johnson	Appetite for Destruction	E Division	Jeremy Limerick	Inglourious Darters
B Division	Will Bennett	Dartistic Expression	F Division	Lee Jefferys	Bull Hunters
C Division	Randy Wilcox	Ghosts of Our Former Selves	G Division	Jim Butterworth	Bulls Up!
D Division	Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	H Division	Joseph Holmes	All About That Bull!

All of RDL -- Lee Jefferys -- Bull Hunters

"A" Division (if only there was a 9th spot for Peele...)

Tom Brown	The Cardiac Elemen	Yet another solid all-around season.
Dean Cusher	Appetite for Destruc	Climbing the ladder into league's elite.
Kyle Gaulthier	Dead Beats	Imagine if he didn't bounce out so much.
Michael Johnson	Appetite for Destruc	Mr. Clutch was a big game behemoth.
John Kramer	The Cardiac Elemen	From the first moment he joined RDL…
Chad Massengill	The Cardiac Elemen	3 A singles titles in just the last 4 seasons.
Robbie Phillips	The Cardiac Elemen	Still the best the RDL has ever had.
Wil Tan	The Cardiac Elemen	22-0 in cricket is probably enough alone.

"B" Division

Will Bennett	Dartistic Expression	Becoming a perennial league leader.
Simon Healy	Dartistic Expression	Mr. Fast Singles rolled along all season.
Mike Holly	The Bunkers	Became the team's real driving force.
Dallas Hudson	Methodical Madness	What an amazing find for the B champs.
Steve Polenz	Menace 2 Sobriety	Ok, so we'll just sit him in 501, right?
Robb Porcelli	Nine Lives	Maybe new top gun for upset kings.
Pete Stewart	Methodical Madness	The other half of the B winner's top duo.
Jeff Watson, Jr.	Kiss My Bulls	New fatherhood limited time just a bit.

"C" Division

Dana Bither	Flightmare	Not quite the doubles run of his mates.
Dave Buckman	Cheap Shots	Superb 301 string led a very solid record.
Ronnie Knott	Shooter McGavin	McGavin captain rolled in the last 3 sets.
Ryan Madey	Flightmare	Top shot for the awesome foursome.
Joe McCartney	Darty McDart Face	His favorite team name worked for him.
Patrick Merkle	Flightmare	Outshined only his own personal K.Fed.
Phil Robertson	Flightmare	Captain led power squad by example.
Randy Wilcox	Ghosts of O.F.S.	Always one of the best outside of A div.

"D" Division

Brad Adams	Pat's Blue Ribbon	Super cricket with some acceptable '01s.
Jeff Cashin	Pat's Blue Ribbon	Top shelf in every set for the captain.
Dan Clark	Dysfunctional Outla	2/3 or better in every set for Mug champs.
Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers	What a monster, carried his team weekly.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandits	Starting to make a home on this page.
Aden Simpson	Armed and Hammer	Looks like we have a new family leader…
J.J. Tant	Dysfunctional Outla	Tailed off just a bit as the night went on.
Ken Trezger	One Armed Bandits	Clearly best player, making the best team.

"E" Division

Deborah Blackwel	Inglourious Darters	Evidently becoming a cricket specialist?
Sean Bosier	Death Throw	Oh, where would DT be without him?
Jim Gallagher	Coaching Tom Seav	Certainly did his part for my E div. pick.
Jeremy Limerick	Inglourious Darters	One-eyed Willie won nearly everything.
Mike Roberts	WINNAU	Needs to list himself in some 301s too!
Jeff Rudy	Game of Throws	If we add a few 501s, he moves to top tier.
Dave Surber	Inglourious Darters	Would be top dog on several other teams.
Lou Tufillaro	WINNAU	His 30-3 in the final three sets is awesome.

"F" Division

Rich Bialaszewski	Show Me Your Tips	Rolled in singles, just got by in doubles.
Mike Bumpass	Bull Hunters	Led the F steamroller, at least after 301…
Chris Fournier	Show Me Your Tips	Division drop obviously agreed with him.
Lee Jefferys	Bull Hunters	One of the best seasons in RDL history.
Tim McNamara	Something Inapprop	Always one of the most dangerous around.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	Pretty much just a perennial stalwart now.
Justin Vick	Don't Hit the Scorek	A season built on SCkt and 501 success.
Vic White	Bull Hunters	Would shine as a #1 for any other team.

"G" Division

Andy Bowen	Walking That Wire	The SCkt dip is nothing but an anomaly.
Dan Butterworth	Bulls Up!	His numbers are really pretty astounding.
Jim Butterworth	Bulls Up!	Ok, this family is pretty good at this…
Sebastian Dehnel	Cold Blooded and T	SCkt carried the day on this one, I admit.
Dylan Musil	Is It In?	Singles champ's just a few dbls from MVP?
Mark Rossbach	Irish Ton	Wins, ASPs, carried his team quite a bit.
Parker Stark	Walking That Wire	I think I'm putting him in for more 501s…
Wes Wissinger	Walking That Wire	Top winner for one of the top squads.

"H" Division (I could've easily picked twelve players here!)

Anthony Cannizzaro	Why So Serious?	"What exactly am I going to…"
Richard Collins	Just A Bit Outside	Evidently we've created an '01 specialist.
Matt Havens	Why So Serious?	"… be able to write about a team…"
John Heath	Just A Bit Outside	A monster for three sets, then… um, 501.
Joseph Holmes	All About That Bull	Newcomer to the top of the division ranks.
Bill Leonard	Why So Serious?	"… this flipping' dominant, from…"
Anthony Shirey	Ballistic Behavior	Wow, he towed his team along some days.
Andrew Triggiano	Why So Serious?	"… start to finish? Wow. Welcome."

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): With only two divisions playing 14-week schedules (and another division with roughly a 13-week schedule due to a team forfeiting out), this is a very small club this season. Eight throwers got three 9-win sets in short-season divisions, four more got three 10-win sets (including one in a short-season division), two more achieved three 11-win sets, and one additional thrower put together four 9-win sets. But in the end, the only one to join this crowd (and actually doing it with four 11+-win sets) is Lee Jefferys of Bull Hunters in F division!

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: Well, this season had 5 divisions with a bye, and a sixth that dropped to 7 teams at about the mid-point, meaning the Iron Man numbers are a bit lower in lots of places. In the end, the Fall Iron Man is Bob James of Cheap Shots in C, with a stout 66 games played! An argument could certainly be made for Missy Shepard of All About That Bull! in H though, as she tallied 63 games in a 13-match season. Honorable mentions for the leaders of the remaining divisions go to: Joe Work of North Raleigh Alliance and Jerry Oakley of Brass Monkeys in A with 49 games each; John Wells of Thursday's Suck in B with 62; David Simpson of Armed and Hammered in D with 53; Gene Smelik of Game of Throws in E with 55; Lee Powell of Show Me Your Tips, and both Bryan Gaines and Joe Rigert, Sr. of Wayne Gretzky with 48 each; and Jeremy Gower of Dart Buddies in G with 55 games.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: There were as many as six legitimate candidates chasing this award (with a few them seemingly pretty unintentionally). Each of Flightmare, Dysfunctional Outlaws, and Game of Throws played mostly six, with an occasional sub. Cheap Shots played… well… mostly just five. Leaving The Bunkers, using one sub once, and Tips & Shafts, using only six throwers and sometimes a blocker, as the closest we had to a perfect 6-man run.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I had some very real successes. And a few very real failures. I had way too much faith in Thursday's Suck, Shooter McGavin, and Coaching Tom Seaver; and I didn't really recognize what the unknown Why So Serious? was going to turn out to be. But for the most part, I got the idea pretty much right for most of the stuff.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I reached my recent default goal of the season (70+% correct picks), even if it was by the slimmest of margins. Thursday's Suck and Show Me Your Tips were my problem children for the season, sinking me more often than not (one partly due to the craziest of attendance inconsistencies). I did manage to at least get 60% or more in every division, with that lowest rate being in B division and being heavily weighted by my Thursday's record. Ugh.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And in these, I did a pretty good job, but not really my best ever. In in the quarterfinals, I managed a 22-6 record, with five of those six incorrect picks coming in those infernal matchups of #4 and #5 seeds. I followed that up with 12-4 record in the semis, which I would say is pretty decent, no? Then I tagged on a somewhat paltry 4-4 record in the finals. I guess maybe I was subconsciously trying to not just blindly pick a bunch of #1 seeds… and when the #1 seeds do pretty well on the whole… well… My surest things came through for the most part (my own team, which I never guarantee for anything, being the exception… why? Because we evidently are all of a sudden unable to win even one point in 501… dangit.).

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-eight seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to call the RDL VoiceMail and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the six 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the four 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [I got torpedoed by the seemingly random attendance patterns of Thursday's Suck, and Show Me Your Tips must simply try to get my picks wrong for me. All in all, B division was my worst, but my pick rates aside from A & H were pretty consistent. - JK]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED (the answers to these are also continued on page 14...)

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 8 question(s): I write all kinds of goofy stuff in this newsletter, but sometimes I write serious stuff too. Maybe the best items are the columns that are both "a little serious" and "a little fun". I would say that the seasonal all-star team column certainly fits that bill, where I try to recognize people with strong seasons. Some of us never make those lists, but some people end up there a lot. Which leads to this week's questions, highlighting the best players our league has had to offer… How many people have been on my "A" division all-star team more than half a dozen times (out of the 41 times I've picked them)? And who are they?

Week 9 question(s): To follow up on the top story in the week 9 newsletter… Of the 520 currently active RDL members this season, how many of them have ever won a North Carolina state championship event? Who are they?

Week 10 question: In the Spring 2007 season, the RDL awards table on each week's page 3 changed from giving a leaguewide award for each fast game and high in/out category to an award in each division in each category. That means the awards have been divisional for 21 seasons prior to this one. In that time, what is the lowest value in each division that has won the High In award for a season? (Note: don't forget that starting in the Spring 2010 season, the High In added the requirement of being a "first turn of the game only".)

Week 11 question: We all know that in the week 1 issue of the Tons each season, I list all of the new team names (along with the team's name from the previous season), so that people can track who they are playing and not be surprised. But I also pick my own personal favorite new team names each season, including a lone top new team name of the season. It would be a tragedy if none of those great names ever hit awards, so… How many of my #1 favorite new team names have won a regular season or tournament title the season I picked them as my favorite? (This question will be fun just due to re-living all those awesome names.)

Week 12 question: Last week, Simon Healy of Dartistic Expression had one of the best half-hours of darts in RDL history, pitching a T77 and a 9m in his 9-dart 301 and 13-dart SCkt games. That means he only threw 24 darts in both of his singles combined, counting the frickin' diddles! In honor of that, and mostly in response to a great idea for a question from Simon's captain Fon Denton, I ask you this: Has anyone ever won both the fast singles 301 and fast singles cricket game for the season in the same night? Since we started giving divisional fast games (as opposed to leaguewide-only) in the Spring 2007 season, we'll accept answers that are for just one division… but since Healy's games are also both leaguewide fast to this point, it's the leaguewide achievement in which I'm really most interested.

Week 13 question: The new RDL Board, with a couple new volunteers taking office, will take their spots after this season. All five elected officers ran unopposed, a situation that has become a bit commonplace as our league has settled into relying on the time/effort generosity of the same people year after year. In light of this: When was the last time that an RDL election ballot actually contained more than one candidate for even one office?

Week 14 question: What is the greatest number of consecutive team match wins (in any division) any RDL member has had to start his/her time in our league? (or, in other words, the longest team winning streak to start a player's RDL career)

Week 8 answer : At some point (maybe in a banquet Tons), we'll make a list of all the people that have ever made one of my all-star teams. But today, we are talking about just the very best of the best - the players who have been at the very top of the league, and have been there for many years. I've named an all-star team for 41 consecutive seasons, for a total of 328 A division spots in that time span. And 13 throwers have been on that team more than half a dozen times each (accounting for 202 of the total A slots just among themselves!). Those throwers, listing from lowest to highest numbers of appearances: Jimmy Davis, J.D. Dixon and Dale Hyler, with 7 appearances each; Allen Smith and Keith Wall with 8 each; Kyle Gaulthier and Mark Knight with 10 each; Jim Budelman with 13; Bob Terry with 16; Robbie Phillips and Mike Seward with 26 each; Wil Tan with 28; and Tom Brown with an astonishing 36(!) appearances. Yes, four different guys have been on the team 26 or more times. That is amazing . And of the only five times that Brown wasn't on the team, in three of those seasons he hardly played at all due to various school and work commitments. Seriously, congratulations to all 13 of these guys on some pretty excellent extended awesomeness.

Week 9 answer : Of this season's 520 RDL members, 27 have at least one North Carolina state championship title to their credit. Since only 181 people have ever won a state title (though technically that number could be as high as 185, since the winners of the 1991 four-player 701 were never recorded anywhere), that means that 15% of the champions in the tournament's history are playing with us right now! The 27 champs are (listed alphabetically, with the numbers of titles won in parentheses): Deborah Blackwelder (2), Tom Brown (18), Barbara Cotton (1), Craig Elder (2), Kyle Gaulthier (1), Mike Hall (3), Dawn Hamilton (1), Georgia Hayward (1), Simon Healy (1), Doug Jeffcoat (1), Michael Johnson (1), Kris Kilsdonk (1), Mark Knight (1), Tim Lane (1), Nicole Kubel (2), Chad Massengill (1), Devin Massengill (1), Jerry Oakley (1), Robbie Phillips (22), Julie Scheppele (9), Mike Seward (5), Allen Smith (3), Michelle Stacy (4), Wil Tan (5), Tisha Taylor (1), Keith Wall (3), and Lee Whitehead (1). [Also, although she isn't presently throwing due to some wrist issues, we're adding Maridy Knight and her 2 titles to the list. If she's willing to serve as an RDL Board member even when not throwing, she's sure as hell getting a little recognition here too.]

Week 10 answer : Ok, first thing is, we've never given out an award for an "In" of under 100, so… we've got that going for us. And looking back at the records reveals just how often we sit with one of those Ton-20-logjams. Anyway, in the end here are the lowest "In" awards, by division: A div - Ton-20 - Sp11, Sp12; B div - Ton-20 - Sp12, Sp13, Fa13; C div - Ton-20 - Sp07, Fa07, Fa11, Sp14, Sp15; D div - Ton-08 - Fa16; E div - Ton - Sp15 (and no, this one wasn't even tied by more than one throw!); F div - Ton-10 - Sp15; G div - Ton15 - Sp07; H div - Ton-04 - Sp15; I div - Ton-06 - Sp10. [Answer update for the banquet Tons : You can go ahead and add this season to the list for both B and C divisions, as Ton-20 was once again the winner in both.]

Week 11 answer : Yep, I was right… reliving these team names was pretty great. But I also sort of came to the conclusion that the teams that have new teams often aren't the ones that have been winning, or that have gotten their team formula just about right. Thus, my favorite-named teams have not generally won all that much… But I still love them all just the same!! It turns out that I started picking favorite new team names in the Spring 2003 season, so this season's pick made for a nice even 30 winners. And of those 30, only 2 won their regular season title, and only 4 won a set of tournament mugs (with one team residing in both of those sets). Our lone season/tournament-sweeping great name was Sp08's Random Precision in B division. Fa13's Your Mom won the regular

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "So close no matter how far, Couldn't be much more from the heart, Forever trusting who we are"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "I think that any love is good lovin', So I took what I could get, mm-mm, Oooh she looked at me with big brown eyes"

Week 2, song #3: "You gotta have somethin' if you want to be with me, You gotta bring me somethin' girl, if you want to be with me"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "If someone said three years from now, You'd be long gone, I'd stand up and punch them out, 'Cause they're all wrong"

Week 3, song #2 lyric: "And I've been knocking, But no one answers, And I've been knocking, Most all the day, Oh, and I've been calling"

Week 3, song #3 lyric: "Just yesterday morning they let me know you were gone, Susanne the plans they made put an end to you"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "Everytime I think of you, I always catch my breath, And I'm still standing here, and you're miles away"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "You go talk to your friends, talk to my friends, talk to me (talk to me), But we are..."

Week 4, song #3: "Look inside, Look inside your tiny mind, Now look a bit harder, 'Cause we're so uninspired, so sick and tired"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "My eyes feel like they're gonna bleed, Dried up and bulging out my skull, My mouth is dry, My face is numb"

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "So take the photographs, and still-frames in your mind, Hang them on a shelf in good health and good time"

Week 5, song #3 lyric: "Hear the drum pounding out of time, Another protester has crossed the line (hey!), To find, the money's on the other side"

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "I'm your hell, I'm your dream, I'm nothing in between, You know you wouldn't want it any other way"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "I was justified when I was five, Raising cane, I spit in your eye, Times are changing, now the poor get fat"

Week 6, song #3 lyric: "But you fk so good, I'm on top of it, When I dream, I'm doing you all night, Scratches all down my back to keep me right on"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "Trying hard now, It's so hard now, Trying hard now, Gettin' strong now, Coming on, now, Gettin' strong now"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "So many times it happens too fast, You trade your passion for glory, Don't lose your grip on the dreams of the past"

Week 7, song #3 lyric: "Eye to eye, station to station, ..., Hand to hand, across the nation, ..., got to have a celebration!"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "Baby's in Reno with the vitamin D, Got a couple of couches, Sleep on the love seat"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "Like every word you said was meant to be, Babe, it couldn't have been that easy to forget about me"

Week 8, song #3 lyric: "You're getting closer, To pushing me off of life's little edge, … … And sooner or later you know I'll be dead"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "All I know time is a valuable thing, Watch it fly by as the pendulum swings, Watch it count down to the end of the day"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "How would I know, That this could be my fate, How would I know, That this could be my fate, yeah"

Week 9, song #3 lyric: "All the vampires walkin' through the valley, Move west down Ventura Boulevard, And all the bad boys..."

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "Well it's all right, riding around in the breeze, Well it's all right, if you live the life you please, Well it's all right"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "Its been a long year since you've been gone, I've been alone here I've grown old"

Week 10, song #3 lyric: "Well I'm not uptight, Not unattracted, Turn me on tonight, 'Cause I'm..."

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "Ever since you've been leaving me, I've been wanting to cry, Now I know how it feels for you, I've been wanting to die"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "I never hit so hard in love, All I wanted was to break your walls, All you ever did was break me"

Week 11, song #3 lyric: "So long ago, I don't remember when, That's when they say I lost my only friend"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "I never meant to be so bad to you, One thing I said that I would never do, A look from you and I would fall from grace"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "He picks up a bus and he throws it back down, As he wades through the buildings toward the center of town"

Week 12, song #3 lyric: "I've got a secret I've been hiding under my skin, My heart is human, my blood is boiling, my brain I.B.M."

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "Want to put my tender, heart in a blender, Watch it spin around to a beautiful oblivion"

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "Instinctively you give to me, The love that I need, I cherish the moments with you, Respectfully I say to thee"

Week 13, song #3 lyric: "Ah, don't take my heart, don't break my heart, Don't—, don't—, don't throw it away"

Week 14, song #1 lyric: "Looking at you, I can read your mind, I am the maker of rules, Dealing with fools, I can cheat you blind"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "Well, I've got to run to keep from hiding, And I'm bound to keep on riding, And I've got one more silver dollar"

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "More sweet than bitter, Bitter than sweet"

Week 14, song #4 lyric: "These five words I swear to you, When you breathe, I want to be the air for you"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "You say that you love me, All of the time, You say that you need me, You'll always be mine"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "You've got your ball, You've got your chain, Tied to me tight tie me up again, Who's got their claws in you my friend"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "All your life you've never seen a woman taken by the wind, Would you stay if she promised you heaven?, Will you ever win?"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "You love her, But she loves him, And he loves somebody else, You just can't win, And so it goes, Till the day you die"

Week 14, song #9 lyric: "With a boulder on my shoulder, Feeling kinda older, I tripped a merry-go-round, With this very unpleasing"

Week 14, song #10 lyric: "Say it loud, say it clear, You can listen as well as you hear, It's too late, when we die, To admit we don't see eye to eye"

Week 14, song #11 lyric: "Yes, don't turn your back on me baby, Stop messin' around with your tricks, Don't turn your back on me baby"

Week 14, song #12 lyric: "Where have you gone, Joe DiMaggio?, A nation turns its lonely eyes to you, wo wo wo"

Week 14, song #13 lyric: "Well my temperature's rising and my feet are on the floor, Twenty people knocking 'cos they're wanting some more"

Week 14, song #14 lyric: "Feed the babies, Who don't have enough to eat, Shoe the children, With no shoes on their feet, House the people"

Week 14, song #15 lyric: "I heard the news baby, all about your disease, Yeah you may have all you want, baby, but I got somethin' you need"

Week 14, song #16 lyric: "Yeah, you were here when I came, You'll be here when I'm gone, So don't be waiting on love, 'Cause I'll be waiting to ramble on"

[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week , including the week 14 sixteen-song set that brought some pretty impressive sets of guesses… a few people knew more of these than I think I expected…

Week 2 theme: Well, I was sitting there, pretty tired and spent after vacationing a bit in Vegas, trying to finish up the last tidbits of the Tons… and as I got to the lyrics section, I thought to myself 'aw, dangit, I got nothin'." Ding! Bells, lightbulb, idea. That's our train of thought… Nothing!!. Week 3 theme: Clearly, this one was all about the loss of a friend, and was very much in tribute to Bam Lupien and his recent passing. Week 4 theme: Now this could very easily be interpreted as a set about an ex-lover… Or maybe… these are the kinds of sentiments you might feel when somebody makes a commitment, has you plan everyone else around that commitment, and then you just never ever ever show up once or even reply to those trying to help you. Hmmm… suppose you could take that either way. I wonder why that second sentiment might even be in my head… here for the dart league newsletter… in this particular season... quite a mystery… Week 5 theme: Yeah, so I went to the Green Day concert a couple Fridays ago. And it was a really dark and rainy day. And maybe some of you skipped out on the show or sold your tickets. And… if you did… you freaking blew it!! The rain squashed pre-show tailgating, and it canceled the opening act. But what it also did was inspire Green Day to play for nearly 3 hours, and the rain only came during the first song of the night and the encore! It was one of the best large venue shows I have ever seen. So, so good. Good enough to warrant owning the entire lyrics quiz for a week. Week 6 theme: Well, the theme for this one is pretty evident. I heard a couple of these songs recently, and decided that they just fit with my recent contention that the word "bitches" makes just about every statement better! Try it. "Nice shots" or "nice shots, bitches". "Catch you later" or "catch you later, bitches." I even saw a variation on a t-shirt once - it had some cool graphs and said "Science. It works, bitches." See? The word 'bitches' makes the WHOLE thing! You can do it in the singular too, but you just have to be more careful, so that you aren't insulting anyone who might think you are actually just calling them a bitch. It has to be cool, and said with the proper tone to work really really well. But I still contend that the word is awesome. Week 7 theme: Yo, Adrian, these are all theme songs/main soundtrack songs from Rocky movies! Week 8 theme: Obviously, the theme was losers. Or, if you want, please feel free to adapt the theme to describe anyone who finds themselves sitting in a hotel room alone with a lot of weapons. Ill or not, those type of actions brand you a loser for this and any subsequent lives that might or might not follow. Week 9 theme: The far too early loss of some of music's most iconic singers - Chester Bennington of Linkin Park, Chris Cornell of Soundgarden, and Tom Petty of his self-named Heartbreaker band. Week 10 theme: Supergroups… bands mostly made up of members of multiple other acts. The Wilburys included Bob Dylan, George Harrison, Jeff Lynne, Roy Orbison, and Tom Petty. Velvet Revolver included guys from Guns 'n Roses, Wasted Youth, and Stone Temple Pilots. And The Firm included Jimmy Page, Paul Rodgers, Chris Slade, and Tony Franklin. Week 11 theme: Musical artists with famous musical parents. For those that didn't know, The Wallflowers is fronted by Jakob Dylan, Bob's son. Week 12 theme: Robbie Phillips tearing it up at the World Cup in Japan. Asia… stomping through Japan like Godzilla… and the last one was double-involved… not only is it a Japanese artificial intelligence story, but Robbie's nickname in the major darting circles is Robot! Love when the songs do double duty. Week 13 theme: Phrases for flipping things the opposite of how they normally are. (Personally I've always thought that 'heels over head' would make a LOT more sense, but it turns out that I don't get to pick and choose what the common language phrases are.) Week 14 theme: Bands named after a member of the band. (The songs were listed in order by the band name/singer's last name, alphabetically.)

I LOVE STORIES THAT HIGHLIGHT THE PEOPLE AND THE JOY WITHIN RDL

Received this message from Shawn Budd of Just A Bit Outside a few weeks ago. I love the interpersonal camaraderie stories like this, especially when it's something that carried on most likely completely unbeknownst to one of those involved. Good stuff here. I really love the RDL.:

"Also, something you might enjoy: Your teammate actually helped me win my singles cricket match. A few days ago while practicing at home, I hit a 9M and posted a pic with the caption "while I can appreciate the fact this happens on a somewhat regular basis, WHY CAN'T I DO THIS ON LEAGUE NIGHT?!". Robbie [Phillips, of my team The Cardiac Element] commented on it with simple yet highly effective advice: "You're trying to hit them in league instead of knowing they're going in. Calm and confident". I had BARELY won my 301 game and was not happy with how I was throwing, combine that with 2-3 extra drinks and I was pretty frustrated with myself and had zero confidence for cricket. I lost the diddle, then I hit only 1 mark on my first turn. I took a step back, thought about what Robbie said. My next two turns were 5M, everything was a breeze after that. Even the bulls seemed to fly right in without me really even having to try. It was a great feeling. This is not the first time his words have pulled me out of a slump....we were partnered up in a LOD match at Upper Deck when I first got into darts. I threw 3 20's....which to me was pretty damn good...then I watched him throw a T80 with ease. I immediately thought "oh shit I shouldn't be here", but he was really cool about the fact I could only contribute 3 fat 20's each turn and told me just to have fun, that's what it's all about. I must have used that line to my team about 50 times since then...."just have fun guys....that's what it's all about". So yea, an A division player helping an H division player lock down the W and advance to G next season...without even knowing he helped.....pretty cool stuff. "

[… trivia answers continued from the bottom of page 12 …] season G title, while Fa03's Tres Equis, Sp05's The Elements of Style, and Fa11's Black Mug Society (fittingly) won tournament mugs. All three of those other mug winners also finished second during their regular seasons, and we gave second place plaques then, so they got a second piece of hardware with their awesome names on them. Sp04's Well Hungarians, Fa05's The Hostile Amish, and Sp14's Inconceivable! also pulled in second place plaques. Just for fun, here are the other 22 team names that I've loved, with each for its own reason (some were simply timely references, but some will live on forever): Sp03 - Evicted; Fa04 - Got Pepsi?; Sp06 - Tir na hOg; Fa06 - Capital Punishment; Sp07 - Never A Dull Moment; Fa07 - The Misplacements; Fa08 - Nice Dittles; Sp09 - 95% Drunksten; Fa09 - Fighting Chuck Norris (which they later changed to the very boring Pride and Glory); Sp10 - Pounding the Neighbor's (best misplaced apostrophe in team name history); Fa10 - Duckin' D'Oh! Nuts; Sp11 - Antique's Roadshow; Sp12 - Carry Oakie; Fa12 - Ted's Blue Waffle Emporium; Sp13 - She Doesn't Look Druish; Fa14 - To B or not to B…; Sp15 - Something Inappropriate; Fa15 - Shooter McGavin; Sp16 - #thecork (and you had better pronounce this brilliant little entry correctly); Fa16 - Game of Throws; Sp17 - Beer View Mirrors; and this season's favorite - Cold Blooded and Thin Skinned (no regular season title coming here, but maybe they can put together a surprise tournament run? [Answer update for the banquet Tons : No, they couldn't.]

Week 12 answer : Obviously, I can only answer this question over the most recent 44 seasons, as that's the length of time for which I've been the RDL statistician (and is the length of time for which we have comprehensive records). For the first 22 seasons, we only gave out "leaguewide" fast game awards, and for the next 22 seasons (the current one being the 22nd), we've given out divisional awards. And it turns out that not one time has a thrower tossed leaguewide Fast 301 and Fast SCkt games in the same night! In fact, only 30 times has a person even won (or tied for) both fast singles over the course of an entire season, with 2 of those coming during the 22 leaguewide seasons, and the other 28 coming during the first 21 divisional seasons. --- There have been 5 instances of a player throwing division-fast (but not leaguewide-fast) games in the same night though: Sp11 - David Simpson in E division; Fa11 - Ted Marks in G division; Fa12 - Kyle Gaulthier in A division; Fa14 - Robbie Phillips in A division; and Sp15 - Tony Millage in F division. --- Maybe the more impressive thing is that there have 6 instances of one player throwing (or at least tying for) leaguewide fast games in both 301 and SCkt, when allowing the games to come on different dates. And those were achieved by only 4 throwers: Fa02 - Tom Brown - 9d-301(tie) & 13-dart SCkt; Fa05 - Tom Brown - 7d-301 & 16d-SCkt(tie) [and he also tied for the leaguewide low 501]; Fa07 - Brian Blake - 8d-301 & 12d-SCkt [also had the league-wide low 501]; Sp13 - Robbie Phillips - 9d-301(tie) & 15d-SCkt; Fa15 - Robbie Phillips - 8d-301 & 15d-SCkt [and actually had the untied leaguewide low in all four sets, though all four came on different dates]; Sp17 - Chad Massengill - 8d-301(tie) & 15d-SCkt(tie) [and actually also had the untied fast game in both doubles sets, with all the games coming on only two dates]. --- Simon Healy is presently tied for the leaguewide fast 301 and holds the leaguewide fast SCkt, and he threw them in the same night… will those games hold on? [Answer update for the banquet Tons : While Healy's 9-dart 301 was indeed tied by others, it was not outdone, and thus Healy IS the first RDL thrower to ever toss the leaguewide fast games in both singles sets, in the same night.]

Week 13 answer : This year's election was the ninth consecutive time that the annual ballot had no offices with more than one candidate. Back in 2009, there were two candidates for the position of Rules & Grievances Director, with incumbent Thom Dunn defeating Cathy Moeschet (who had actually served as the Membership Director for 11 seasons years earlier). That 2009 election was also the only time since 2006 that people ran against each other for an office, after it had been pretty common in the late 1990s and early 2000s.

Week 14 answer : This question might be the biggest landslide answer in the history of the trivia column. John Kramer (of Element) joined the team in week 3 of the Spring 2016 season, and until this past week, he had never been in an RDL match that his team lost! (yes, that was some pretty awful timing for the question, as our team dropped an 11-3 lead last week, ugh) Regardless, that means that Kramer did not lose a match for the first SIXTY-TWO weeks of play that he was in the RDL. And every week was in flippin' A division! In digging through the records, I haven't even found somebody else who ever even reached twenty yet…

NEED A DART MAT?

Jim Budelman, who sold a stanchion a couple seasons ago, still has a dart mat (rubber, rolls out to the designated distance from the board) that he is willing to sell. If you're interested, contact him at:

RDL MEMBERS GRAB CITY LEAGUE/LADIES' CUP TITLES

Some pretty big congratulations go out to 5 of our RDL brothers and sisters, as they are all members of either the Wilmington NCCDL (North Carolina City Dart League) or Lake Norman NCLC (North Carolina Ladies' Cup) teams. Those two teams just claimed the 2017 state titles this past weekend (see full results on pages 18 and 19). Dean Cusher, Craig Elder and Scott Stankevich (all of Appetite for Destruction) all play for the Wilmington NCCDL squad, while Nancy Andersen (of Dart Buddies) and Julie Scheppele (of Kiss My Bulls) both play for the Lake Norman NCLC team. Those two teams (and assumedly our five newly-crowned state champs) will host the 2018 tournaments next year, where they'll try to defend their titles (probably in large part against other bunches of RDL members! - our league is deep in talent, folks).

THIS MADE ME CHUCKLE

Back in week 12, the duo of Steve/Martin pulled in two (yes, two) 501 wins for the Quacks. Yes, humor really does rule pretty much all.

A SENTIMENT WITH WHICH I COULDN'T AGREE MORE

My wife recently shared or reposted or what-the-hell-ever something on Facebook that I thought was just fantastic. Now, I am well aware that Facebook is mostly full of stupidity, falsehoods, and the perpetuation of those things (yes, I fully think you should use Facebook for nothing more than sharing some photos with friends - aside from picking up some times and dates of stuff, it's pretty much a wasteland of anything of actual use, aside from the aforementioned photos and such). But every so often a little gem comes through, I'm sure, and I think she found one. Now the quote is attributed to Anthony Hopkins, and I'm sure that's on the list of possibilities for its origin, but so is "badly altered version of something some lying trolling in an Idaho basement typed", so the source is really of little importance here. What IS important is the most excellent message contained within the words: "None of us are getting out of here alive, so please stop treating yourself like an after thought. Eat the delicious food. Walk in the sunshine. Jump in the ocean. Say the truth that you're carrying in your heart like hidden treasure. Be silly. Be kind. Be weird. There's no time for anything else ." I say here it all the time - live every day, people. You never know which day might be your last. Or the last for the person next to you. Bad luck happens, so have no regrets if you run into some and your time is shorter than you wanted. Tell those you love that you love them. On that note… I love you guys.

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and this season is certainly no exception… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- Breaking tradition a little here, as I'm about a month behind in Survivor, just due to being so busy lately. But that highlights something else… I'm going to watch Survivor from my DVR recording, as I usually do. With the advent of DVRs taking over for cumbersome VCRs, and the invention of streaming services like Netflix, does anyone ever watch commercials anymore? Do networks still get the same advertising dollar as they have in the past? Honestly, I see more commercials at a movie theater than I do at home… and don't get me started on that one… movie previews are great… television commercials are… not.

-- So I dropped my son off and school this morning (actually at Durham Tech because he is in a hybrid high school / college), and the temperature was hovering right at 40°F. One of the kids in his class walked up to the building in a t-shirt, shorts, and Crocs (no pants, no socks, no jacket)… oh, and winter ski gloves. Ummm…

-- Here, let me break an odd speech pattern some of you have. If you have the habit of saying "don't judge me" as you do or say something, care to guess what the very first thing each and every one of us is doing?

-- Is it just me, or is there some small little pleasure and pride in yourself and your 'friends/teammates of the past six seconds' when a couple groups of cars swapping lanes (such as at close exit and entrance ramps at a highway) do so in really quick and organized fashion? Just something about everybody seamlessly getting on the same page in that first second, am I right?

-- And while we are on the subject of driving, I have an important clarification for all of you: "Free-flowing right turn" does NOT mean "stop in the lane and look all around in a panicked fashion for the next ten seconds." It means frickin' turn already, the entire lane is yours, all the way around the corner and likely down the road for at least a little ways! Ugh. It's a method meant to increase traffic efficiency, and protect most of us from… well… you.

-- I was about to type "can somebody please tell me why the television show Impractical Jokers is successful, or funny, or even still on the air?" But then I realized that if you know why or think the show is a good idea, then I don't want to hear what you are going to say. At what point did you or anyone else come to the conclusion that doing mean stuff to friends, or putting your friends in horribly awkward and demeaning situations for your own entertainment, was a good idea? We clearly employ different definitions of the word 'friend'. (And yes, I realize that this is a television show, and the people in it are paid, etc., but the whole idea of treating your friends badly on purpose is pretty repulsive to me.)

-- I'm not really sure what rental properties have to do with a sale at the Hickory Farms stand in the middle of the mall, but evidently they somehow do, at least according to their sale sign. And if you don't get this one, that's ok, don't you worry your pretty little head about it. There will be something else for you to laugh at here in just a second. Just ignore those that are still enjoying this one.

-- Time for the next installment of speech patterns of which I'm going to stop for you: if you find yourself continually saying "the whole entire (insert item here)", please stop. That is unnecessarily repetitively redundant. My damn kids picked this one up recently, and they say it all the time. Dangit.

-- Oh, and a hybrid bad speech pattern / worn-the-hell-out joke note: the phrase "… said no one ever" on the end of some line that is ridiculous intentionally? That's spent. It's over. Drop that one from your arsenal. You will get teenage eyerolls from people of all ages if you employ this dead horse any longer.

-- Ok, so this photo isn't exactly the "smell this" from one of my stories that my friends have clung to for years, but it's pretty close. Saw this in an airport gift shop and it immediately took me back 35 years to my niece and her (very) evil grin. Most of you will have no idea what I'm talking about here… and I'm good with that… this one is pretty much for my own teammates. And look at the little stuffed creature directly beneath the smelly thing - it looks like he's trying, right?

-- Quick question for which I will bet that you don't have any good quick answer: why the heck do you have to enter the 00s for the cents on most ATMs? If I want to withdraw $20, I have to enter 2-0-0-0. It's not like it's protective against mistakenly removing the money before you're ready, because you have to hit the enter button regardless of whether you typed in 2-0-0-0 or just 2-0. Did the original programmers really put in code that flexible in case the bank wanted to offer withdrawals of $14.62?

-- Ok, next exercise for you… you'll have to pay attention for a while for this one though. Over the next however long you think to watch for it, see what percentage of dart game stories your friends/teammates/opponents tell that involve them making the little throwing motions with their hands. It's not as though we don't know that when you threw at the double-4 your arm made a throwing motion… because, ya know… you were throwing the dart. Yet, there it is, almost universally. Most darters as they tell the stories will even make the little wrist throw motions for each dart of the turn in the story, sometimes even for multiple turns. And when the story changes targets, the wrist snap and the arm angle during the story changes a bit to match. :o)

-- Do you ever come across people in your day (work, darts, grocery store, wherever) about whom you think to yourself "how do they get through their day?" I mean, you literally wonder to yourself how they are physically able to get from one place to the next without walking in front of traffic, falling in an open manhole, etc.? And how do those people avoid being completely scammed of all their money about a hundred times per day, since they clearly have no concept of math… or currency… I don't want to badmouth or mock these people (well, not too much), but I genuinely wonder how they do it. Although I guess the answer is probably relatively obvious now that I think about it: how do they do it? likely in blissful ignorance. Bless their hearts…

29-SEASON LISTING OF REGULAR SEASON & TOURNAMENT WINNERS

Lots of us like to think back to "that one great season when it all came together." Others like to brag about how many times in a row their team came out on top. Probably even more of us like to refute the crap story that the bragging butthead is spouting about how many times his/her team won. Well, things like that are the reason that I run pages like this. Hard to make stuff up when the historical record is sitting right in front of you. So, here is a list of the recent season- and tournament-winning listed by division. See your team anywhere? [Note to those who are curious: the regular season winners in these 29 seasons also won the tournament less than 54% of the time. Not counting I's 1-season history, in no division are the season winners doing better than 66% in the tournaments (and in B, C, and D, the rate is only 45%, 45%, 48%, respectively.]

2017 SINGLES WIN/LOSS AWARD WINNERS

(Eligibility for these awards in the NCCDL requires playing in 60% of your team's singles sets, while also playing at least 2 "away" matches.)
(Eligibility for these awards in the NCLC merely requires playing in 50% of your team's singles sets.)

NCCDL "Mountain/Beach" Division -- Brian Blake - Wilmington - 9-1 (sets), 19-3 (games)
(this is the 2nd consecutive singles title for Blake, with a combined two-year record of 21-1 in sets, 43-3 in games)

NCCDL "Central" Division -- Robbie Phillips - Durham - 12-0 (sets), 24-3 (games)
(this is the 3rd singles title in four years for Phillips, and in the only one of those four year when he didn't finish first, he was actually still undefeated in singles sets and only lost by game percentage!)

NCLC "West" Division -- Donna Ferber - Lake Norman - 8-0 (sets), 16-0 (games)

NCLC "East" Division -- Kristen King - Piedmont - 5-1 (sets), 11-5 (games)

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE OCTOBER MEETING

#1 - The value of a late mail penalty was set to a uniform value (instead of the "your points from that match" penalty that has been in place for decades. The value will now be the base forfeit value for the season, regardless of the number of points that the winning/offending team had accrued during the match in question.

#2 - an appeals process was officially put in place, with a requirement of a majority vote of all teams (not including those involved in the complaint) required to overturn whatever the original ruling was. Note that this means "more than half", and that that number is determined from ALL teams, not just those that bother to vote.

#3 - the division style for 2018 will again switch back to the East and West divisions. The NCCDL will be separated into divisions of: NCCDL West (6 teams) = Asheville, Boone, Pineville, Charlotte, Lake Norman, Piedmont; NCCDL East (7 teams) = Chapel Hill, Durham, Raleigh, Capital Area, Jacksonville, Wilmington. Additional interdivisional matches will be added to bring the match number up to 8 per team (with one pair of teams in the East playing each other a second time due to the unbalanced sizes of the divisions). -- -- -- The NCLC will operate in a similar fashion, with the following divisions: NCLC West (5 teams) = Asheville, Pineville, Charlotte, Lake Norman, Piedmont; NCLC East (6 teams) = Chapel Hill, Fuquay-Varina, Apex, Capital Area, Jacksonville, Wilmington. [Note: the Charlotte NCLC team had been removed from the 2017 schedule due to their forfeits, but the NCLC captains voted to reinstate the team for the 2018 season.]

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Cary NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 21 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte
1997: Piedmont over Durham
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)
2000: Durham over Charlotte
2001: Durham over Wilmington
2002: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham
2004: Wilmington over Durham
2005: Durham over Wilmington
2006: Durham over Charlotte
2007: Durham over Charlotte
2008: Durham over Charlotte
2009: Wilmington over Charlotte
2010: Wilmington over Durham
2011: Durham over Lake Norman
2012: Durham over Wilmington
2013: Wilmington over Lake Norman
2014: Durham over Wilmington
2015: Wilmington over Piedmont
2016: Wilmington over Durham
2017: Wilmington over Durham

My annual request to the NCLC Ladies: if any of you have a history of the results like the one above for the NCCDL, I would love to have a copy of those so I can periodically run an NCLC history as well. Drop me a line please if you're willing to share.

TONS OF NEWSLETTER

Home to the Spring Session of the Raleigh Dart League for the Banquet, Saturday, May 19, 2018 Issue #JK720
The "Certainly Never Been A Better Time To Bust Out The Magic Sandpaper" Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - Element XXX (13-3)
Element takes the rubber match from Appetite in a 2-hour slugest, completing a tournament run with a total score of 40-8, and only even starting the third doubles cricket set in one of three matches.

"B" Division - Kiss My... (13-7)
After handing the RDL's only undefeated regular season team a defeat in the semifinals, the #5 seed Kissers sealed the deal with a win the #3 Thursdays (who had beaten the #7 in the semis).

"C" Division - DD 214 (14-6)
After barely surviving their semifinal, DD 214 handles the #6 seed Pat's Blue in the finals, making DD the only team in any division this season to pull off the season/tournament double victory.

"D" Division - Stick a Cork In It! (14-8)
Well, of course D division's final was a victory of the #6 over the #5 seed. You had to see this coming, right? Well, unless you bet on the last place #7 seed… which would've been understandable.

"E" Division - Double In, Stumble Out (13-9)
After nearly four months of some shmozer continually telling you all that Stumble Out "should" be winning E, they finally decided to make that foolish author a little bit correct. About time, eh!

"F" Division - Bulls Up (13-5)
Those back-to-back losses in weeks 7 & 8 feel like a very long time ago for Bulls Up, as they just stormtrooper-ed through this bracket, building on the super-hot finish they had in the regular season.

"G" Division - Irish Ton (14-4)
Winston Churchill called… he confirmed that Irish Ton is this season's new riddle, wrapped in a mystery, inside an enigma. Great finish for one of the most up-and-down RDL teams ever.

"H" Division - All About That Bull! (14-6)
Oh, after All About added a couple players in week 5, it was on like Donkey Kong! (and nope, that phrase didn't even make sense in the '80s) But what does make sense? A 10-1 run after week 5…

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - Appetite for Destruction (13 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Element XXX

"B" Division - Diddle Diddle (12 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Shooter McGavin

"C" Division - DD 214 (9 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - One Armed Bandits

"D" Division - Cheap Shots (8 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - Inglourous Darters

"E" Division - Game of Throws (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Sharky's Machine

"F" Division - Show Me Your Tips (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Bulls Up

"G" Division - I'm about to Ton! (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Just A Bit Outside

"H" Division - Brown's Bombers (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - All About That Bull!

Rosters of all season- and tournament-winning teams are on page 4.)

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

Alright, this was a weird dang season, in terms of tiebreakers. Just doesn't match any other season in recent memory. Why? Well, there are at least three reasons…

#1 - We only had 20 total tiebreakers in the entire league (18 in the season, 2 in the tournaments), despite one of the most parity-laden sets of divisions we've ever had.

#2 - The leading tiebreaker division (with 50% more than even the second-highest division) was A division!! A division almost always has the fewest tiebreakers, not the most!

#3 - There were two divisions that didn't have ANY 1001 games at all! And both were complete free-for-alls all season! Astounding.

In the end, A led the way with 6 tiebreakers, followed by D and E with 4 each (with one of E's in the tournament), F with 3 (with one in the tournament), G with 2, H with 1, and then B and C with ZERO.

Only 3 teams (Triple D in A, Alliance in A, and Walking in F) played as many as three tiebreakers, so they can all share the Cardiac Kids award for most tiebreakers played. The Heartbreak Award really has to go to Triple D Bronze Balls though, as their 0-3 record in 1001 is one of the main reasons for a bottom-two finish that could drop them to B.

FALL 2018 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, July 18th - Fall season registration, The Upper Deck (online registration should be available in the days immediately prior to the 18th - Membership Director Heather Bohanan will likely be in charge of early registration, and she will likely hook it up through the website with Phil Robertson and accept payments through PayPal)

Wed., Aug. 1st - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, August 8th - Start of Fall season match play

Monday, Sep. 10th - Fifth week captains' meeting, site TBD

Wed., Nov. 14 / 28, Dec. 5 - Fall season divisional tournaments

HOW'S THIS FOR HONESTY?

Erin Hartmann of The Bunkers gets mad props for calling herself out, and then for sharing it with us. Here's her story from about a month and a half ago: "...and you think YOUR opponent got lucky… I should tell you about my 54-out. I was aiming at 18. Hit a 4 instead. I looked at Mike and he did the slow nod. I had 2 darts left, so I had to try it – first dart - double bull. My opponent was pissed. But that isn't nearly as interesting as my 12 dart '01 [from the week prior]. Somehow I had 175 left. Tried to hit trip 20, hit trip 18 instead, leaving 121. Tried to hit trip 19, hit trip 16 instead, leaving 73. Tried to hit trip 19, hit trip 8 instead, 49. Next turn – Tried to hit 17, hit trip 3 instead, leaving 40. Hit double top with the next dart – the only dart in the entire sequence that I hit what I was aiming at. Shit luck for the rest of them! That's what happens when Erin drinks when she plays darts. Rather be lucky than good."

SPRING 2018 PENALTY SUMMARY

Alright, I officially love the removal of the phone/call-in requirement and the move of the scoresheet return deadline to Friday (from its old home of Saturday). The quicker mail deadline had little effect, and the removal of the call-in requirement removed all phone penalties as well.

Overall, there were only SIX total penalties this season for a total of 90 lost points, and none of our 57 teams had more than one penalty. 2 teams in C, 1 team in F, 1 team in G, and 2 teams in H each got one penalty, and… that's it. The other 51 teams had a clean penalty slate this season. How awesome is that, right?

All in all, there were only 5 mail penalties (for a total loss of 80 points) and 1 ineligible player penalty (for a 10 point loss).

None of the 6 penalized teams dropped even one spot in the standings due to the losses. However, the ineligible player penalty in C division did produce a whole different kind of "loss", that is probably one of the most painful individual losses from a penalty in league history… Jeff Cashin of Pat's Blue Ribbon threw 1 ASP in 4 games that night, all of which was removed from the official RDL statistics database as part of the standard RDL rules for an ineligible player. Why is a regular old 1-ASP night of interest? Because Cashin finished 3 games short of the minimum games requirement for the ASP Mug. And, oh, by the way… Cashin was WAY ahead in that category, and would have won the Mug even if he had hit 0 ASPs in NINE games that night (and no, you can't play as many as 9 games in a standard match, but he would have won even if he failed to hit one for that many more games). Pretty big loss for what was mostly just a misunderstanding and an oversight. Ouch.

NEED SOME SUMMER DART OPTIONS?

Leagues? Blind draws? Tournaments? We have 'em all!

Wednesdays - Brown's Billiards In-House Summer League

Brown's is hosting its 4th annual In-House League, with a player draft for teams on May 23rd (you do not have to be present). $20 per player, season is 10 weeks, and league plays starts May 30th at 8 p.m. The league has 100% payout, and Brown's adds $20 per team. For more info: David Huffman, (919)369-7656; or Rom Knight, (919)436-6692; or Ron Smith (919)604-6190.

Tuesdays - BCDL - Durham Handicapped Steel-Tip League

The Bull City Dart League continues its year-round play, with a summer season that fits the RDL summer break pretty well. Registration ends on Tuesday, June 5th at 6:59 p.m. That final registration location is Bralie's Sports Bar (1725 Carpenter Fletcher Rd, Durham 27713), but they accept registration earlier (such as at the league party on May 29th). The league website is www.thebcdl.org and the league plays Tuesday nights throughout Durham and RTP, and uses a rolling handicap system to level the playing field quite a bit. Teams consist of 4-8 players (about 6 is the norm), and dues are $25/player per season.

Thursday league - TDL - in Chapel Hill/Durham

The registration information for the TDL isn't out yet, but the spring finals are on June 7th. So I would expect the registration meeting to occur sometime soon after that. Check www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ for information updates soon. The teams in TDL consist of 6-10 players per team, and dues are $20/player per season. I believe this past season the league used 3 bars in Chapel Hill and 2 in Durham, although I'm not certain that list is necessarily static, and is likely more determined by the number of teams that are registered (and bar availability).

Or maybe a blind draw…

Page 8 lists the regular weekly blind draws offered by RDL host establishments, and there are a bunch. But I have also confirmed that ALL THREE of The Upper Deck, Sharky's Place & Cleveland Draft House-Garner will be having weekly Wednesday draws for every week this summer. In the case of the Deck and Sharky's, they will have basically the same features as their regular draws listed on page 8, except that there is no Wednesday "triple shot" at the Deck. Oh, and great Wed. drink specials at Cleveland!

And for those lookin' for a bigger tournament…

"HOT DARTS" LISTING GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines that will be used for the minimum number of all-star points each week for the "hot darts" page.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, we will list any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Division "A" (8 teams / division):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for all other Divisions (except team H3) (7 teams / division):

Singles win %-age: min. of 16 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 32 Total Games Played for team H3 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 30 Total Games Played

PENALTY LOG - All the penalties assessed this season.

Mail (16 pts.): Big Bulls (C,wk.13), Walking That Wire (F,wk.3), Old Darting Bastards (G,wk.4), Brown's Bombers (H,wk.4), Eazy Duzit (H,wk.10).
Ineligible Player (any match win, all points, all statistics): Pat's Blue Ribbon (C, wk.1, 10 pts.).

THE FORTY-THIRD SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF : JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	Element XXX	E Division	Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers
B Division	Joe McCartney	Diddle Diddle	F Division	Terry Blake	Sofa Kings
C Division	Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandits	G Division	Clint Little	I'm about to Ton!
D Division	Jeremy Limerick	Inglourious Darters	H Division	Joseph Holmes	All About That Bull!

All of RDL -- Clint Little -- I'm about to Ton!

"A" Division (oh, man, I wish I could pick 10 here…)

Tom Brown	Element XXX	Got better and better all season long.
John Carroll	Darty Minds	Singles champ might need a DCkt partner.
Craig Elder	Appetite for Destru	Part-timer was the top gun in big moments.
Michael Johnson	Appetite for Destru	Actually plays best in clutch situations.
John Kramer	Element XXX	One more game played = historical season.
Sid Mitchell	Appetite for Destru	Biggest winner for season-winning team.
Robbie Phillips	Element XXX	Simply the best. Again. No discussion.
Bob Terry	Lunatic Fringe	Triumphant return for friendly assassin.

"B" Division

Kevin Bottomley	Thursday's Still…	0-8 in 301, and 12-0 in SCkt? Seriously?
Jim Gallagher	Diddle Diddle	Great addition for a team climbing up to A.
John Iager	Diddle Diddle	Could be even better if he was full time.
Eric Klann	Kiss My…	Ckt wins, 9-marks… but he's sitting 501.
Ronnie Knott	Shooter McGavin	Captain of #2 finishers leads by example.
Joe McCartney	Diddle Diddle	Solid across all sets, led team to 12-0.
Julie Phillips	Kiss My…	Made her bones in cricket, got by in '01.
Trey Rodgers	Thursday's Still Su	Mr. Double-Bull-out is another Ckt shark.

"C" Division

Jeff Cashin	Pat's Blue Ribbon	One more match would have been a Mug.
Jason Irby	Big Bulls	Super singles guy tailed off a lot in doubles.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	Two-thirds and up in every set is sweet.
Stephen Long	DD 214	Top shot on the only double-title team.
David Martin	Rif Raf	Not spectacular, but balanced in all sets.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandit	Add a few more 301s and maybe the MVP.
Joe Thomas	DD 214	Antique got better as the night went on.
Ken Trefzger	One Armed Bandit	An absolute fixture on this page by now.

"D" Division

David Alvord	Stick a Cork In It!	What a great pickup for the Mug winners.
Angelo Azevedo	WINNAU	After a rocky 301 start, he became a beast.
Randy Baldwin	Hump Day!	The best Humper tore folks up in singles.
Ernie Gilyardi	Garage, Inc.	Higher attendance rate, even more wins.
Jeremy Limerick	Inglourious Darters	How many superb seasons in a row here?
Dave Surber	Inglourious Darters	Would be top shot on many other teams.
Lou Tufillaro	WINNAU	Ummm… what the hell is that 501 mess?!
Tim Welborn	Cheap Shots	Sorta fell in with the team's poor 501 trend.

"E" Division

Sean Bosier	Death Throw	Can you imagine this guy back down in F?
Grey Jones	Red-eye Rangers	Pure domination for the first three sets.
Scott Kirkpatrick	Red-eye Rangers	I guess we just sit him in SCkt? Odd, no?
Anthony Macias	Double In, Stumble	A trio of 9-3 sets to start the night rocks.
Jeff Rudy	Game of Throws	Don't remember last time he wasn't here.
John Schaefer	Sharky's Machine	Just great singles, with passable doubles.
Aden Simpson	Double In, Stumble	Joe Cricket managed a 0.500 spot in '01.
David Simpson	Double In, Stumble	Is he even the top Simpson anymore? Eek.

"F" Division

Terry Blake	Sofa Kings	Few players are this high above team ave.
Brad Bushman	Show Me Your Tip	Solid shot would shine on different roster.
Jim Butterworth	Bulls Up	Top gun for one of league's hottest teams.
Anth. Cannizzaro	Why So Serious?	Crushed for three sets, then ran out of gas.
Bob Lane	Show Me Your Tip	Excellent record got better with every set.
Mike O'Toole	Bulls Up	SCkt shines, rest of the record is decent.
Lee Powell	Show Me Your Tip	Even just 12-0 SCkt might've been enough.
Mike Raquet	Show Me Your Tip	Who doesn't want a guy who's 12-2 in 501?

"G" Division

Shawn Budd	Just A Bit Outside	Got by in '01, but kicked butt in cricket.
Jeremy Cominole	Irish Ton	Very solid captain led team to set of Mugs.
Sebastian Dehnel	I'm about to Ton!	Not his personal best, but still excellent.
Chris Gagner	I'm about to Ton!	10-2 in both of the doubles sets is superb.
John Heath	Just A Bit Outside	In any other (Little-free) season… dang.
Clint Little	I'm about to Ton!	22-0 in singles. > 90% overall. Holy crap.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	What a freaking monster season here too.
Mark Rossbach	Irish Ton	After solid 301, became a real beast.

"H" Division

Kevin Casey	Brown's Bombers	One of the leaders of runaway H winners.
Jason Crowe	Tips & Shafts	Best free agent recruit of the season?
Lee Haithcock	Eazy Duzit	Looking at a likely regular on this page…
Tom Holland	All About That Bu	Superb roster deadline addition part I.
Joseph Holmes	All About That Bu	All About winning a crapload of games.
James Murphy	Brown's Bombers	Big part of the Bombers long early run.
Gregory Neill	All About That Bu	Superb roster deadline addition part II.
Jeff Watson, Sr.	Dart Buddies	Rolled in singles, then got by in doubles.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Wow, SUPER tough to make this group this season, with all but one division playing only 12 matches. And that one division with 14 matches? That was A, where… well, where your opponents are freaking tough. Thus, only ONE person officially joins the club this season: Robbie Phillips of Element XXX in A, who actually had four 11-win sets. Some strong honorable mentions though: Sid Mitchell of Appetite for Destruction in A (three 10s, with the fourth being a 9) Grey Jones of Red-eye Rangers in E (three 11s); and three guys in 7-team divs with three 9s and an 8… Ken Trefzger (C), Terry Blake (F), Clint Little (G).

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: With 7 of 8 divisions having byes this season, the game totals are pretty low. And the Iron Man did NOT come from the 8-team division. In the end, this season's Iron Man Award goes to Chris Talton of Big Bulls in C div. with 61 games played. Not an all-time record, but still pretty low. The honorable mentions (for the leaders of the other divisions) go to: David Huffman of North Raleigh Alliance with 58 in A (the 8-team division); Chris O'Neal of Traveling Beer Bellies with 52 in B; Mike Gardner of Garage Inc., and both J.J. Tant and Dan Clark of Projectile Dysfunction with 49 in D; Chris Montesi of Game of Throws with 50 in E; Terry Blake of Sofa Kings and Mike Raquet of Show Me Your Tips with 51 in F; Harris Carawon of De Ducks Part Deux with 52 in G; and Simon Hayward of Ballistic Behavior with 50 in H.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Hmmm… not a whole lot going on in this category this year. I guess I would say that four teams kinda sorta made a run at being the "same-six-players-week-after-week" roster… Ballistic Behavior in H was probably the closest, with a seventh player playing 5 matches, so we'll go with them. Others that were pretty close and got consideration were: Sofa Kings in F, Game of Throws in E, and The Bunkers in C.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I pretty much kicked some butt. I hit 3 of the division winners, and another 3 of my picks took home tournament titles. I overestimated a few things (Big Bulls' attendance, and Walking That Wire in F, to name two), and underestimated a couple (McGavin, and Show Me… who I dropped super late when writing that up), but I frickin' nailed a couple divisions. One of those was NOT G division - holy cow, you would think I didn't have those rosters…

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I was… pretty awful, to be honest. Not even a 65% pick rate. That just isn't good. I just started off so poorly in some divisions that I couldn't get all the way back. 4 teams fooled me more often than not, and a huge nine(!) teams held me to a 50/50 record. And good lord, I was only 54-57% in C and D divisions… buddy, that is just terrible. I know those divisions were a full mess of parity, but that's still barely better than a damn coin…

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And I'll be honest in that it felt like I absolutely bombed these from top to bottom. But in the end, posted a decent 16-9 in the quarterfinals, a moderate 10-6 in the semifinals, and a sorta decent 4-4 in the finals. That makes my final record 30-19, which isn't too amazing, but considering that wrong pick early can cost me a second or third pick later… it's not too bad, all things considered. My best division was clearly H divisions, where I got every match correct (I OWNED H this season, which is pretty rare). I also came within one pick of a perfect run in A and E divisions. But over in crazy-ass D land? I got one pick right there and feel like I did ok…

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page twenty-nine seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to email, text, or call me, and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the nine(!) 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the four(!) 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [Sub-65% correct for the season… really, what the heck can I say about that? It's just not great. Ugh. I mostly blame C and D divisions, with a little help from B. Those divisions produced some amazing races… that fooled me so very very often. Sigh. - JK]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

[Note: as with most historical statistics questions that I can ask here in the Trivia column, the following questions includes only the most recent 44 (now 45) seasons, as that is the amount of time I have been statistician - records prior to that are largely incomplete and unavailable, and some things like doubles and overall records for individual weren't even tracked in many of the prior seasons. Pretty soon, I'm just going to start referring to my time here as 'the modern era', especially since my time now covers almost two-thirds of the time since the RDL even threw its first dart. - JK]

Week 9 question: Alright, we kicked off this season's column with a 'guest offering', which was actually posed by new RDL Secretary Andrew Borgna. Borgna, who won the H division ASP Mug last season, asked me this: "Am I the first RDL player to win a divisional ASP mug while posting a losing singles W-L record?" So, I'll ask you guys… Is Borgna the first to pull off such an 'interesting' feat?

Week 10 question(s): What is the earliest week of a season that the entire RDL has been left with 0 winless teams? What is the earliest we've reached a point with 0 undefeated teams?

Week 11 question(s): In light of the Robbie Phillips uber-efficiency article [in the week 10 Tons issue] (he had four quick games and only 14 turns for score in his 4-0 match the next week, by the way)… a question about perfect throw efficiency. Thus, how many people in RDL history (or at least my 45 seasons of it as statistician) have thrown two Ton-80s in the same match? [9-marks are way easier given the open-ended nature of cricket…]

Week 12 question(s): What is the earliest week of a season that a team has clinched a division title in an 8-team/14-match season? How about in a 7-team/12-match season?

Week 13 question: So I was asked how often anybody pulls off the triple-mug season (singles, all-star, team tournament), and I think that's a little too inclusive of a question… so let's amp it up just a touch. How many times, in a single season, has a player won the divisional singles win percentage Mug, the divisional ASP average Mug, the team tournament Mug, AND the team regular season title (the big coaster for all the Mugs!)?

Week 14 question(s): Who has won the most divisional singles win percentage titles, and how many titles has it been? Also, who has won the most in A division, and how many?

Week 9 answer: Well, it turns out that Borgna is not the first to ever win a divisional ASP crown with a losing singles record, but he is the new holder of the record for lowest singles win percentage by a divisional ASP champ. In my 44 seasons as statisticians, we've crowned 341 divisional ASP titles, and of those 341, 323 won greater than 60% of their singles games, leaving a lonely 18 in the 60%-and-under crowd. Those 18, in descending order by win percentage: Phil Robertson (0.600, Fa17 C div), Aaron Fitzgerald (0.600, Fa 15 C div), Jack Dowling (0.600, Fa98 C div), J.J. White (0.583, Sp14 D div), Jeff Watson, Sr. (0.579, Sp16 E div), Angelo Azevedo (0.579, Fa14 E div), Mitch Colton (0.579, Fa08 G div), Phil Brown (0.577, Sp09 E div), Jimmy Davis (0.571, Fa16 B div), Jenny Beebe (0.571, Sp15 H div), Paul Spaulding (0.571, Fa12 G div), Adam King (0.550, Fa00 E div), Brad Adams (0.529, Fa16 D div), Jerry Minx (0.500, Fa13 B div), Paul Sullivan (0.500, Sp98 G div), Butch Smith (0.500, Sp98 E div), Bill Buckley (0.474, Fa05 E div), and finally, the originator of this question… Andrew Borgna (0.444, Fa17 H div). Thus, it was Buckley who paved the way, and now the club has expanded to just him and Borgna. Incidentally, Buckley and Borgna are also the only two (of these 18 at least) who had losing overall (singles+doubles) records for the season (as all of the other 16 were also at or above 0.500 in doubles except Phil Brown, who still managed to reach 0.500 overall). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: None of this season's divisional ASP Mug winners had losing singles records or losing overall records, but one had a losing doubles record (Hugh Vance in B, at 7-15[!]), and another had a 0.500 doubles record (Jason Crowe in H).

Week 10 answer(s): The earliest that the season has been left with no winless teams is week 7 (meaning there was a winless team through week 6, who won in week 7). And when was that? THIS season!! Yep, this is the earliest (at least during the 45-season JK stats era) that the league is without any winless teams at all. Yay, parity!! -- As for the earliest that a season has been left with no undefeated teams, well, that's also week 7 (just obviously not the week 7 of this season, since we still have four undefeated teams even now). That has happened twice, in the Spring 1998 season (when the A and B leaders both lost in 1001 in week 7), and the Spring 2009 season (when three different teams all lost in week 7, one in 1001, one by a 14-10 score, and one in a 16-8 drubbing).

Week 11 answer: (Alright, I didn't think to put it in the question, but I really meant "regular season double-T80s", because you can play so many more games in the tournament. Two have done it in the tournaments, but we'll return to them later.) So, in light of that, the answer is that 3 people have achieved this amazing double, and 1 of those 3 has done it twice. Jerry Johnston of So What!! started things off on 3/10/1999, and he was followed on 4/7/2004 by Steve Wilcenski of Eight Blind Swine. Then, stunningly (not!), the person who has done it twice is that uber-lucky artist of dart randomness, Robbie Phillips, who did it as part of Not Non-Element on 10/12/2011 and as part of The Cardiac Element on 11/1/2017. (Finally, the two guys that have done it in the tournaments are Allen Smith of Dart Shadows back in the Fall of 1998, and Kyle Gaulthier of Hu Flung Pu in the Spring of 2012.)

Week 12 answer: In my 45 seasons as statistician (that's every season from Spring 1996 forward), the earliest a team has clinched a division title in an 8-team/14-match division is week 11 (and that has happened in 11 of the 45 seasons). And week 11 was also the earliest a 7-team/12-match division had been clinched (having happened in 7 different seasons)… until… this season!! That's right, I'm about to Ton! in G division is the first RDL team in any division of either size to clinch a regular season title as early as week 10. It takes a lot of factors (going undefeated [at least before last week!!], getting the other teams to all balance their wins against each other, likely a late bye on the schedule, etc.) to clinch a division that early, and they are the first to achieve it.

Week 13 answer: Well, it turns out this happens about once per year. In my 44 seasons (that's 22 years, for a total of 325 divisions) as statistician, it has happened 25 times (that's once for every 13 divisions). 18 different people have done it (with LOTS of others getting 3, but not all 4, of those awards). It has happened 6 times in A, 4 times in B, D and E, 3 times in C, 2 times in G and H, and not even once in F or I (though there has been an I division only once). The most noteworthy among the 18 who have done it are: Robbie Phillips, the all-time leader with FOUR times, all in A division(!), in the Fa10, Sp12, Sp14 and Fa15 seasons; Chad Massengill, the only other person with more than 2 times (he has 3), who actually won his in D/C/B in consecutive seasons(!) from Sp13-Sp14; and Jim Budelman (Fa97) and Tom Brown (Fa02), the only other two to garner this achievement in A division. The other 14 who have done it are: Jimmy Davis (Sp07, Fa08) and Robert Ray (Fa11) in B; J.D. Dixon (Sp97) and Shane Murray (Fa10) in C; Robb Beeson (Sp01), Gerald Ray (Sp02), and Mike Hall (Fa04) in D; Billy Hamilton (Sp97), Butch Smith (Sp99), Jeremy Dziczkowski (Fa08), and Jeremy Limerick (Fa17) in E; Shane Murray again (Sp08) and Steve Wilcenski (Sp09) in G; and Andy Bowen (Fa14) and Jim Butterworth (Sp17) in H div. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: nobody joined the group of triple-Mug/division-title-winners this season.]

Week 14 answer : Ok, so… now that the regular season is over, we have a full 45 seasons of records in the books. And in those 45 seasons, we have had 333 divisions, and have crowned 351 divisional singles win percentages champs (due to 18 ties for divisional top spots over the years). And pretty astonishingly, those 351 titles have been claimed by 224 different people! 161 people have 1 divisional win percentage title, 34 have 2, 11 have 3, 12 have 4, and only 6 people have won 5 or more in their RDL careers (at least during my 45 seasons here). The two throwers with 5 are Phillip Eastmead (with 1 of those in A division) and Tom Brown (with all 5 in A); the one thrower with 6 is Jerry Oakley (with 1 of those in A); the two throwers with 8 are Chad Massengill (with 3 of those in A) and Robbie Phillips (whose 8 were all in A, tying for the A record); and the one thrower with 9 is Mike Seward (with 8 of those 9 coming in A, tying Phillips). [I actually know that Seward had won another lower division title in the seasons before I was the statistician, so his lifetime total is actually at least 10.]

And for those who are curious, there have been 46 A singles titles in those 45 seasons, with 22 different people claiming them. The full list of A winners in my time here is: 8 - Phillips and Seward; 5 - Brown; 3 - Massengill and Wil Tan; 2 - Brian Blake and Jim Budelman (who certainly also won some before I was statistician); 1 - Curtis Avery, John Carroll (this season!), Marshall Chavis, J.D. Dixon, Phillip Eastmead, Billy Hamilton, Simon Healy, Mark Knight, Jerry Oakley, Brian Selby, Allen Smith, Bob Terry, Keith Wall, Billy West, and Joe Work.

Week 14 answers: Song 1 = "Deck the Halls" by Thomas Oliphant, and a pile of others === Song 2 = "Ace of Spades" by Motorhead === Song 3 = "Love Me Two Times" by The Doors === Song 4 = "Three Little Birds" by Bob Marley & the Wailers === Song 5 = "I Would Die 4 U" by Prince === Song 6 = "Nine to Five" by Dolly Parton === Song 7 = "25 Or 6 To 4" by Chicago === Song 8 = "Seven Nation Army" by White Stripes === Song 9 = "Eight Days a Week" by The Beatles === Song 10 = "Love Potion No. 9" by The Searchers === Song 11 = "Big Ten Inch Record" by Aerosmith === Song 12 = "Jack and Diane" by John Mellencamp === Song 13 = "Caribbean Queen" by Billy Ocean === Song 14 = "King of Pain" by The Police === Song 15 = "The Joker" by Steve Miller Band === Song 16 = "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band" by The Beatles === Song 17 = "Diamonds on the Soles of Her Shoes" by Paul Simon === Song 18 = "Two of Hearts" by Stacey Q === Song 19 = "Poker Face" by Lady GaGa === Song 20 = "Bridge Over Troubled Water" by Simon & Garfunkel === Song 21 = "War Pigs" by Black Sabbath.

[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week (except for the traditional long week 14 set) and also included a theme each and every week. Adds a layer to the game for everybody and has been hugely popular. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 twenty-one-song set for which the top (Josh Hansen) guesser nailed an amazing 17 of the songs and bands…*

Week 2 theme: The missing player from Pat's Blue Ribbon's roster… really don't wanna miss one… there's a blank space for that other guy… and wishing his name was there too. Yeah, just couldn't resist. Sorry, guys. Week 3 theme: Just three bands with some of the least explainable band names ever. Really nothing more… just that silliness. Week 4 theme: Well, it's Tommy, the Def (Leppard), dumb and Blind (Melon) kid, who happens to be the Pinball Wizard. Week 5 theme: How could I possibly let the Winter Olympics go by without a shoutout here in the Tons? Winter… Ring… Gold… Yeah, I know these were tougher songs than usual, but that's why I gave you guys two of the singers beforehand (in the issue with this question) for the first time ever. Week 6 theme: The upcoming (at the time of the weekly quiz, that is) St. Baldrick's event at the Deck! Week 7 theme: Political unrest and general public protest. Sort of like I imagine some felt when the headphone ruling came in. :o) Don't mind me, I'm just over here stirring my pot… Week 8 theme: The return of American Idol! Richie, Perry and Bryan are the new panel of judges, in the new incarnation of the show, now on ABC. [But honestly, I received one guess that week that had a simply better theme than the easily accurate one I had used… Jacquie Schmitt of Shark Shooters nailed every song and every band, and offered this simply-better-than-Jason's-theme" guess: "Let's Party or I'm hungover from partying all night. All I got to say is, borrowing a quote from Sharky's Bar - It is not the walk of shame, but the stride of pride!!" I didn't mean to pick songs that hit that particular theme so perfectly, but now that she says it, I'm not sure how I didn't see it. Plus... sounds like Jacquie might sorta own the party a bit, eh?! - JK] Week 9 theme: Pretty obviously, it's sunshine! Spring has sprung! Daylight savings time is here! It's the season for sunshine, and al fresco dinners, and driving with the top down on the convertible. Or at least it will be soon, I suppose… It's not lost on me that these sunshine songs were in the issue on the day that some parts around here experienced a brief wintry mix. Week 10 theme: All songs set in, or happening in, Michigan, the home state of the Final Four (basketball) and Frozen Four (hockey) college national semifinalists!! Woowoo!! (Yes, that's my alma mater. Just a coincidence that is purely random in every way.) Week 11 theme: People who kinda suck… and yep, this one was inspired by the quote about all the D division teams colluding to make sure that my match predictions were wrong as often as possible. Yes, I just said all the D team people screwing up my picks all suck. But they already knew that… Week 12 theme: Eric Clapton. It's pretty rare for one musician to be such a key component of three different bands that had big hits. And yep, these three are in sequential order, as they should be.

Week 13 theme: Solo songs by members of Fleetwood Mac, a set inspired by the recent ousting of Buckingham from the band (again). Josh Hansen extended the theme a bit, asking if it was a reference to playing a match shorthanded… which is a WAY better theme than my basic one, so that's the theme now!! Week 14 theme: A deck of cards, their suits, and some card games. The songs were listed in order by deck/number suit/game/etc. (and included 4 of the 664 songs that have been used in the lyrics quiz at some point in the past, simply because they fit the theme too perfectly to not employ them once again in this big week 14 set).

THE MOST AMAZING ROBIN HOOD EVER??

If you are one of the league members who participates in/reads the RDL Facebook page, then you might have seen this a while back. But most of you aren't, and this is just too dang amazing to not share (and I intentionally saved it for the banquet issue so that it would live on, since these are the issues that most closet league historians save). In one of the most odds-defying darting feats I've ever witnessed/seen/heard about/read about, Norm Klein of DD 214 threw a "flightless reverse robin hood". Yes, read that again if you must, but that's what it was. Norm was practicing with some of his at the American Legion in Fuquay-Varina, and on one of his throws, his flight came off and the dart flipped on its way to the board. The now open slit in the end of the dart's shaft perfectly met the flight of one of the darts already in the board, and attached itself backward on the end of that flight!!! (Awesome that they thought to hold a sheet of paper behind it so we could see better exactly what it is we are seeing.)

LOOK AT THE SIZE OF THAT GUY'S CUP!!

I ran a photo of this once many years ago, but it still astounds me (and it came into the realm of my existence again a couple weeks ago). My buddy (and original Element team member!) Wade Moricle moved to Georgia over a decade ago for work reasons, and at some point later he joined the Atlanta-Decatur Dart Association (ADDA). The ADDA holds a day-long weekend tournament of A, B and C divisions combined (yes, multiple matches throughout a Saturday), and the winner gets this ridiculously large trophy (Wade is holding it in the bottom left photo), that weighs over 70 pounds and extends about another foot outside the photo! Congrats to my boy, Wade! --- And while Wade and his team won the big prize, there was also a combined tournament for D/E/F divisions. And the winner there gets… the PBR trophy!! That thing of beauty is in the right photo. I just love that some of the cans are dented…

HMMMM…. I WONDER…

Anybody ever have a college dorm room? Or a basement play area (when you were no longer a toddler, for this case)? If so, then I'm guessing this photo probably looks pretty recognizable to you. Kenn Gardner of Inglourious Darters was doing a walkthrough of an historic building and came across this roughly 75-year-old door. He immediately (and in appropriately joking fashion) wondered "hmmm, no idea what could have caused this pattern?!" [Hey, who out there just said that this must be JK's door??? I heard that! And accurate or not (the joke, not the offending spears, which obviously were not), that's not nice. You're a buttface for even thinking it.]

KEEPING LIFE IN THE PROPER PERSPECTIVE

Some folks are uptight. Some folks are high strung. Some folks are constantly worried about their public image. Some folks… well, you get the idea. A lot of people are too worried about stuff, and it makes them suck to be around. But some people… some people have the proper balance of humility, sense of humor, and social adeptness. In this latter group, I present Mike Seward of Appetite for Destruction. Mike is one of the relatively-higher-up-the-ladder managers over at UL Laboratories - a position that might make some act a little haughty or superior, at least to those that work for them. Ummm… not Mike. Check out these photos… On March 14th, otherwise known as Pi Day in nerdy circles, UL held a bit of an employee fun/morale day. The employees played games, with the ultimate prize being the right to blast manager Mike in the face with a whipped cream pie!! How many of your bosses would be willing to stand for that? Seriously, how many? ANY?! Well, to make this an even more RDL-centric item… the winner of the right to pie him? Robbie Phillips of Element XXX!!! Yes!! How great is this? That's Phillips on the left and obviously that's Seward in the chair.

Check out this awesome "before and during" pair of photos!! And yes, there was actually video of it (including slow-motion pie splatter) on Facebook. So much fun for a work day, no? And so cool and relatable of Seward to play along as was promised (even after it was Phillips who won the pie rights).

OH, YAY! ANOTHER RDL BABY! (I really love babies…)

A huge congratulations to Dallas Hudson (of Darty Minds) and his wife Sydney! On April 13th (yes, Friday the 13th), they welcomed miss Baylor Grae Hudson into the world! 5 pounds, 12 ounces of pure joy. Everybody is healthy and doing fine (well, unless "Dallas's dart attendance" is part of "everybody" - turns out being a new dad is a little time-consuming). Welcome, Baylor… I'll make sure the local youth tournament directors have a spot for you around 2028…

ASS-KICK-ABLES #2!

Remember back in week 4 when I introduced this column with an item about people who pull up to the bank drive-through window without paperwork ready? Well, it's back for another installment… To refresh your memory, this columns highlights a very specific type of person who I am, as of right this minute, giving you the completely inalienable right to kick right square between the buttcheeks. Hard. People who just need a good ass-kicking for their own good, as well as for yours. And if you happen to see yourself in one of these descriptions? Well, you had better either change your ways or get yourself some very padded pairs of jeans… because I just gave 500 or so people the recognition of your type, and the directive to kick you directly in the rump. Good luck to ya, you annoying turds. -- And for today's ass-kick-able, we have… people who drive in the left lane in the rain with their hazards on (or really in any lane but the far right one)! If the rain just bothers you so much, just get the hell off the highway. Your hazards are NOT designed as some sort of 'sorry I'm in the way, but I have my lights flashing, so it's ok' excuse. Use your hazards when your vehicle is an actual hazard. In this instance, the car isn't the hazard… it's operating just fine, and it's not stuck in something… it's YOU that is the hazard. To be honest, I don't even want perfectly well-running vehicles driving with their hazards on in the right lane either, but I'm willing to just dub the turds in that lane 'annoying' and not actually kick them in the ass. Slower vehicles to the right… it's the same in the sun or the rain. This is not a difficult concept, morons. And turn off the damn flashing hazards… And by the way… YES, driving with your hazards flashing is actually ILLEGAL in many states, and not recommended in ANY. The police (AND I!) only want you to use them when stopped on the side of the road. You realize you can't use a turn signal when they're on, and they make distinguishing brake lights much more difficult, right? Brilliant…

ELEMENT'S FIRST 30 SEASONS

People often ask me what Element's records are up to, or how many times have we won, etc. (including 4 more times just this past Thursday). And of course I can look all that up (some of it I have easily retrievable), and if it was a different team, I would probably write stories about them endlessly. But Element is my team, and it feels weird to write big lists/articles about my own team. Maybe I will at some point in the future (as that's probably only fair to my teammates that have earned the ink), but for now, I will just leave Element's record as this: 30 seasons as a team; 24 A division season titles (with the other 6 all being 2nd place); 20 A division tournament titles (with the other 10 all being 2nd place); 362-28 combined regular season record; 66-10 combined tournament record (plus 14 first-round byes).

YOU, SIR… HAVE A NICE BUST

This was related to us by Erin Hartmann of The Bunkers, but she made clear to let me know that she was passing this on at the urging of Scott Stephenson (captain of We Be Trippin'). You see, Scott's teammate Joe Stallings rang up 3 perfect darts in one turn in week 9… ummm… ish…

"Scott wanted me to be sure that you caught the bonehead thing that Joe Stallings did – he had 176 left in his single 301 against me. He threw a T-80 and busted! In Joe's defense, the scorekeeper's 7s do look a little like 9s, so he thought he had 196 left. T-80 would have left him 16. But, if you are paying attention and really thought that was a 9, you probably should have told the scorekeeper that his math was wrong, conversation would follow and he would know what his true out is."

Oh, a funny and a dart lesson… Great throwing, Joe. Strategy and awareness? Well, maybe not so much. But at least you know that Scott loves you enough to make sure we all know about this one, right?

ARE YOU AT THE PARTY TODAY?

If not, you might have missed out on some pretty hilarious stuff. For example, check out this image from last season's party. That goober, right there? That's Jeremy Limerick of Inglourious Darters. He brought an actual storage bin to carry all of their teams awards! Sure, they won a bunch of stuff, but it was pretty awesome when he brought it up to the awards table for the first award called out for their team (I believe it was a 9-mark by Kris Kilsdonk). Giant crate, small individual plaque, and CLUNK, in the bin it went! Ha! Yes, they put a bunch of other stuff in there too, but the fact that he was so proud of the bin to bring it up right from the start? That's the stuff that drives this whole silly thing. I love the people in the RDL. They make regular days into so much more.

RDL QUOTABLES

As I sometimes do, I saved a couple of my favorites from during the season, to share with you now. Not always dart-related, but they always make me smile.

Quote #1 : from my longtime teammate (and technically, current teammate although he didn't throw this season) Dale Hyler: "I left my phone at the condo. How quickly we come to depend on what used to be a luxury - now almost a necessity… A funny on me, I am in the airport, realize no cell, so find a pay phone (yes, they still exist) to call Sue [his wife] and wish her luck on circling the airport when picking me up. Well, I have to buy a pack of gum for change. One dollar. Then I dial the number… MY number. Nice. Now I have two packs of gum."

Quote #2 : from Kenn Gardner of Inglourious Darters, in the course of a discussion we were having about the newsletter and related things. I said "We were talking about this with Show Me Your Tips last night... there are two groups of people in the league: those that are offended if I don't pick them, and those that never want me to pick them again. Pretty equally sized groups. :o)" Kenn responded with: "I knew a building mechanical engineer who once said that unless half of the people are too cold and the other half are too hot - you're not doing it right."

Quote #3 : from Sharon, my local Google Specialist (whatever the hell that is): "Hi, this is Sharon, your local Google Specialist." That was all I heard before I hung up. Do they really not know that my phone tells me they are calling me from Oregon?

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. I'm never sure what's about to hit the page, but anyway… whatever…

-- Generally, this column starts with a Survivor item, but while I'm certainly watching this season, I'm inspired to question a whole different type of Survivor game instead. Specifically, how in the flippin' hell do people that live in Raleigh and work in Durham or RTP survive the drive? Day after day after day… caught in a throng of roughly one hundred trillion cars, starting before 3:45 p.m. and extending to nearly 7:00 p.m. on a daily basis. I had to drive from Durham to Raleigh for three afternoons (just THREE!) two weeks ago, and I felt like I aged a year. The fools that fight that battle day after day are throwing their lives in a trash can, 90 minutes at a time, twice a day. Note to self… I am never ever ever moving to the DC area.

-- I find it pretty awful that there are so many television ads for the scratch off lottery. The total payout rate of those things is just awful, so every time I see one, all I'm thinking is "oh, here is an ad written by people who are good at math, targeting those who are bad at math." It feels a little predatory, and I'm not a fan. (And yes, here in NC the idea is that the lottery is for education… no idea what percentage of the proceeds actually go there, but either way it feels like a greater percentage should be spent on teaching math and economics…)

-- So the other day I drive up to the "drive-up ATM" at my bank, and I realize that there are instructions in Braille on the machine. Ummm…. I realize that they probably just mass produce the machines, but this style is specifically designed for a car drive-up.

-- It was tax season not long ago, and as I went through the book of instructions, I came upon the section about how to calculate the taxes on your Olympic medal if you happened to win one. Now, I realize that we tax all kinds of stuff that you earn or win, but isn't there a line somewhere? Do we really tax the winners of Olympic medals? Why, because there is such of prevalence of the winners "spending" them like money??

-- And while we're on the topic of the Olympics, I've decided that I have one significant problem with all of the millennial types of events. And no, it's not that they're basically just glorified Jeff Spicoli X-Games skateboarder events -- that part is ok because we have all sorts of sports that have no real-life utility or importance. My problem with them is that they "only count your best run". What?! This is the Olympics! EVERY second of every run is supposed to count. It ALL matters. But nope, not in the millennial crap… The first gold medal that an American got in one of those events this year was won by a guy who admitted to oversleeping about hanging out too late the night before, so he pretty much just blew off his first two runs and was counting on having a great last run. Well, that's what happened. He had to pay attention for almost a whole minute! Wow! Amazing! Pfffffffffttttt!!!

-- Anybody catch the sign over at Snoopy's Hot Dogs near High Park a while back, that read "Women who want to be equal to men lack ambition"? Ha! That's brilliant. And you know what they caught for that? A bunch of crap from women saying that they shouldn't put sexist anti-female things on their signs. Seriously? Sometimes the people who are offended should recognize the fact that their stupidity and inability to comprehend the English language offends me. That sign is hilarious, awesome, and spot on. And yes, I realize I'm a man and on the short end of that line. (Ok, well… it's not "spot on" for those who complained. Their ambition should be to gather a bit of reading comprehension.)

-- Remember the '80s term "tubular"? What the hell did that ever mean? I get "groovy", and I even get "radical". But what the hell is tubular in terms of being something good? I'll bet most of you older than 30 have some words from the past that you just can't wrap your head around even now…

-- Alright, so a few weekends ago, my Durham city NCCDL team had a match over in Jacksonville. And on the boards to our right was a match between the Jacksonville ladies and the Fuquay-Varina ladies. At that match, I had my first sighting of the Jacksonville ladies' new team shirts (well, tank tops, but those are shirts too). On the back of those shirts was the text in the box just up and to the right (although on the shirts, the exclamation points were made out of darts). Now… I get what the idea behind the shirt is. But there is one glaring absence that makes all the difference. If the shirt had a comma after the word "win", then the message would be telling the ladies (who evidently refer to themselves as bitches) to win. But without the comma, the shirt pretty much tells you that at Dukenfield's Tavern, you can... win bitches!! Wow, what a prize! Do I buy a raffle ticket? Just how exactly does this work? … … Grammar and punctuation matter, people.

-- It's not often that I disagree with anyone in my "rock family" (the awesome people with whom I travel to rock shows and festivals). But I completely admit that while I think bringing a young cancer survivor on stage is a very cool thing, to grab on to her and hold her right in your face for an entire song while your and her face are plastered all over the giant screens for 4 or 5 minutes is a bit of exploitation. That's simply too long to grab the 'good guy' applause. You were milking it at her expense more than 3 minutes ago. Let… go… of… her… head. Already was clearly not my favorite band, but this just tired me the hell out. (And this was after the last time I saw them and they brought a dozen kids out of the crowd on stage - again, pretty cool - but then proceeded to sing… I think it was… Die, Mother Fuer, Die… with all the kids standing next to you. Ummm… what the hell is the real goal here? Yikes.)

-- Time to point out a few speech patterns that need to die an agonizing death right now. #1 - stop saying "whole entire", you redundant fool. #2 - you "literally" don't know the meaning of the word you use every third sentence. #3 - Unless you have a friend named Me or Mi, the phrase "me and her were going" is never going to be acceptable. #4 - not actually a single phrase, but rather a piece of advice… most of us swear, and it doesn't bother me personally at all. But if you have a speech pattern in which you include an F-bomb or two in every single sentence, you have passed the point of using the word for emphasis, and have transitioned into an area where we all think you are a blathering uneducated fool with no further vocabulary at your very limited disposal.

-- Remember at the start of the season when I wrote some email to the league email list about things you could do that week to make you my buddy? I flat-out love how many people sent me messages back pointing out that they were doing it mostly to be my buddy. I think they really did it because it was the right thing league-wise, but who doesn't love having new buddies?

EVER WONDER WHAT THE LOWEST AWARD BAR HAS BEEN IN YOUR DIVISION?

I know most of you have done it… You play a game, and you maybe hit a "pretty good shot" or toss a "pretty quick game", and you wonder if just maybe it's good enough to warrant a little consideration for an award category. So you go and peek in the newsletter 'just to see', and maybe you write it on the sheet, and maybe you don't… Well, I wondered to myself, in the 23 seasons (Spring 2007 through the present season) that we have awarded divisional fast games/high ins/high outs, what is the 'least good' feat in each division that has taken home the divisional hardware? Soooo… I pulled the records and found out. And here they all are, listed by set and division. [The rock star in this list is, obviously, still the F division Fast Doubles Cricket!] (Also, please note that we had an I division in the Spring 2010 seasons, so the awards that season are obviously simultaneously the best and worst I division RDL awards ever. Those were: 106-In, 108-Out, 14-dart 301, 21-dart SCkt, 24-dart DCkt, and 24-dart 501.) (And note that 6 award categories over the years have had no game reported, and thus no award: Sp07 G DCkt; Fa07 H SCkt; Fa07 H DCkt; Sp09 E SCkt; Fa12 H DCkt; and Fa17 G SCkt.)

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Overall Element (14-4)
After surviving what would've been an ESPN Instant Classic in the semifinals against Appetite, Element finished the RDL's only undefeated run this fall (as one of only two #1s that won Mugs!).

"B" Division - Dead Beats (13-5)
The Beats roll through the entire B tournament without having to face their nemesis Dartistic, and ending as the only one of the eight Mug-winning teams to not reach 501 in any of their matches.

"C" Division - Rif Raf (14-6)
Rif Raf gets payback on Menace, the team that took them out in week 14 and removed any chance for a regular season title, and progresses though the tournament by bigger margins each match.

"D" Division - Projectile Dysfunction (13-11)
In the ridiculously crazy beast that is D division, Projectile (the #3 seed) ends the tournament not only with Mugs, but also as the only D team to win a tournament match as the better-seeded team.

"E" Division - Bulls Up (12+-12)
One of the RDL's most exciting and intense rivalries came about yet again in the finals, appropriately going the full distance, with Jim Butterworth's double-1 claiming the Mugs (with Show Me on 16).

"F" Division - Bulls On Parade (12+-12)
Brian Whitley's double-20 in 1001 (with the Sharks sitting on 66) brings home the Mugs for the Parade, making them one of only two Mug-winning squads that wasn't a regular season top-two finisher.

"G" Division - Don't Hit The Scorekeeper (13-3)
Scorekeeper saved their best for last, posting the biggest margin of victory in a tournament final this season, defeating all of the odd seeds except the #1 on their tournament path (#7, #3 and #5).

"H" Division - Dr.unks (14-8)
After a somewhat slow 3-2 start, Dr.unks finish with a 9-match win string (plus a quarterfinals bye) that ended with them one of only two RDL teams to pull the season/tournament double this season

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Overall Element (14 wins, 0 losses)
2nd place - Darty Minds

"B" Division - Dartistic Freedom (11 wins, 1 loss)
2nd place - Dead Beats

"C" Division - Inglourious Darters (9 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Rif Raf

"D" Division - Sharky's Machine (8 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - Double In, Stumble Out

"E" Division - Show Me Your Tips (9 wins, 3 losses)
2nd place - Bulls Up

"F" Division - Shark Shooters (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - Taylor Wants a Ton!

"G" Division - Chalker's Nightmare (10 wins, 4 losses)
2nd place - Don't Hit The Scorekeeper

"H" Division - Dr.unks (10 wins, 2 losses)
2nd place - You Diddled What?!

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

We had five divisions with a bye every week, and another division that started that way but then dropped to only two matches in some weeks. Thus, our 38 total tiebreaker games is a pretty high count.

D and F divisions led the way with 7 tiebreakers each (with 1 of those in the tournament in F, which was actually the final), followed by C and G divisions with 5 each. B, E and H divisions all put up 4 tiebreakers (with 2 in the tournament in B, and 1 in the tournament final in E), and A trailed the pack with only 2 total tiebreakers (though one was the instant classic semifinal that noted on the front page.)

There were 9 teams that each played 3 or more 1001 games, with three of those playing 4 or more. In the end, the title of Cardiac Kids (for most tiebreakers played) was shared by Garage Inc. in C division, Sharky's Machine in D, and Old Darting Bastards in F, with 4 each.

This season's Heartbreak Award officially goes to the previously mentioned Old Darting Bastards, as they were the only team to lose as many as 3 1001s (which is one of the main reasons the team might be headed to G in the spring). Probably need to add a pair of honorary Heartbreak Awards, though, for Show Me Your Tips in E and Shark Shooters in F - as both of those teams fell one tournament final 1001 short of completing their season/tournament victory doubles.

SPRING 2019 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, Jan. 2nd - Spring season registration, Upper Deck (online registration should be available in the days immediately prior to the 2nd - Membership Director Heather Bohanan will likely be in charge of early registration, and she will likely hook it up through the website and accept payments through PayPal)

Wed., Jan. 16th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, January 23rd - Start of Spring season match play

Monday, February 25th - Fifth week captains' meeting, Upper Deck

Wed., May 1 / 8 / 15 - Spring season divisional tournaments

Saturday, May 18th - Spring season banquet, site TBD

SOME RDL (AND DARTS IN GENERAL) OBSERVATIONS

-- It looks like maybe the RDL is a little bit ahead of the curve. More than a few people wonder why the league has gone to a 'no practice' during games blanket rule. Well, I've seen some things get a little bit ugly in other leagues recently, with practice on boards next to live games being the impetus. Maybe we're on to something…

-- Also, our league has time limits for reporting to the board for your game, for listing your team between sets, for starting the match itself, etc. Well, this past weekend at the state championships of the NC City Dart League, I walked out of the bar for a minute, stepping right into the middle of an actual fight. The cause? Tensions and alcohol, certainly, in a general sense. But what was the basis of the complaints that got amped up? Taking way too long between sets! Again, maybe we're on to something…

-- And on a related note, if you are a smoker and you choose to go outside between games for a few minutes, that's fine. But don't wait until your game is called and hold up the entire match for everyone , and when you come back in, don't think that taking a dozen dang warmup turns after everybody has already waited for you is ok. One of my teammates smokes, and his total season time delay that he causes is about two minutes… total. Not per set, or even per night. Total for the season. So don't even try to tell me that it can't be done.

FALL 2018 PENALTY SUMMARY

Like I said last season, I officially love last season's removal of the phone/call-in requirement and the move of the scoresheet return deadline to Friday (from its old home of Saturday). The quicker mail deadline has had little effect (except for the two teams that previously had always waited until late Saturday for some reason, but I mean in terms of mail penalties here), and the removal of the call-in requirement removed all phone penalties as well. And what we're left with is… a nearly complete void of penalties!!! Yes!! And we're doing it without any loss of weekly information speed (and actually getting them faster than previously).

This season had either 4 or 5 total penalties, depending on how you look at it (we assessed a penalty to the team that ended up never playing a match and dropping out completely). So the teams that ARE here had only 4 penalties: 3 mail penalties (for a total loss of 48 points) and 1 match reschedule notification penalty (for a loss of 5 points - by a team that later forfeited out of the league). And since the mail penalties were obtained by only two teams, we only have two candidates for who lost the most… The team that lost the most mathematically? Taylor Wants a Ton!, who lost 32 points to penalty. But the team that actually lost the "most" due to penalty? Don't Hit The Scorekeeper, whose 16 points lost cost them the G division regular season title. Ouch.

UPPER DECK

As in many previous years, throughout the holiday break the Upper Deck will be adding a weekly Wednesday blind draw for all those who just want to keep their regular dart night out rolling through the break. The Wednesday draw will be run just like the Friday and Sunday draws at the Deck (although, I think the Triple Shot will be exclusive to the Friday draws still).

SHARKY'S PLACE

Or maybe you live closer to Glenwood and/or just prefer Sharky's! Well, they've changed their regular blind draw nights from "Sat and Mon" to "Sat and WEDNESDAY" instead until the RDL starts back up. So make note! That and others in the weekly blind draw list on page 8 in the right column.

OR MAYBE YOU WANT TO ADD ANOTHER LEAGUE?

Looking to add a second league this coming season? Pretty good timing, as one of the other local leagues will be starting up right after the start of the new year. That leaves you a little time to get organized!

Triangle Dart League (TDL - Chapel Hill & Durham)

The captains'/organizational meeting for the Spring 2019 season will be held at The Tavern (1900 W. Markham Ave., Durham) on Thursday, January 10th, at 7:00 p.m. Regular season play will start the following Thursday (the 17th). If you're interested in a bit of darting on the Chapel Hill (and Durham now, as the league has widened a bit) side of the Triangle, visit them on the web at:

http://www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/

Roster size is pretty wide at 4-10 per team, so get a group now.

Bull City Dart League (BCDL - Durham)

If you happen to be interested in trying out one of the very few handicapped steel-tip leagues anywhere, maybe the BCDL is in your future. The BCDL spring/winter 2019 season is already under way, but that doesn't mean that teams can't still add one or more players. You would need to contact individual team captains directly, or email the BCDL executive council to see if they know of any teams that are still in need of throwers. Teams in the BCDL consist of 4-8 players, and the home bars are primarily in RTP and the downtown Durham area. More complete information (and any updates in the coming weeks) can be found at: www.thebcdl.org That website also includes a wealth of information about the league and its rules, so if you're just interested in seeing how the league applies a handicap system to a steel-tip league, you can find all of that there, including rules, statistics, and scoresheet examples.

OR POSSIBLY PICK UP SOME TOURNAMENT ACTION?

The QCDA down in Charlotte will have their annual full weekend event on the weekend of January 4th-6th. I hear it's a lot of fun. Check out the flier on page 21 for specifics. Orrrrrrr… maybe you really just want to get in a couple of days of really intensive, long-format practice against some solid competition. If just getting that chance to throw a crapload of 501 games sounds good to you, check out the Carolina Open (flier also on page 21).

"HOT DARTS" LISTING GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines that will be used for the minimum number of all-star points each week for the "hot darts" page.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, we will list any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Divs. "A" & "G" (except teams G4 & G7) (8 teams / div.):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for teams G4 and G7 (due to 1 forfeit received):
min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played for Divisions "B" (except team B6), "C", "D", "E", and "F", and also team H7 (7 teams / division):

Singles win %-age: min. of 16 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 32 Total Games Played for teams B6, H2, H3, H5 and H6 (due to 1 forfeit received):
min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 30 Total Games Played for teams H1 and H4 (due to 2 forfeits received):
min. of 14 Singles Games Played, 27 Total Games Played

Jeff Reygers	Dead Beats	A key to team success when he's there.
T.J. Scheppele	Kiss My Tips	Welcome to the Triangle, deadly youth.
Randy Wilcox	Dead Beats	Pretty much always on these lists, no?

"C" Division

Josh Hall	Cheap Shots	Was a beast in the first three match sets.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	Part-timer is always a tough draw to get.
Jeremy Limerick	Inglourious Darters	How many division MVPs is this for him?
David Martin	Rif Raf	Singles efficiency carried him to here.
Chris O'Neal	Inglourious Darters	Tournament game is helping Wednesdays.
Dave Surber	Inglourious Darters	Just overshadowed by his partner in crime.
J.J. White	Menace 2 Sobriety	Honestly, not his best. But still decent.
Steve Witz	Cheap Shots	Steady Freddy here is always dependable.

"D" Division

Jimmy Bateman	Sharky's Machine	Simply shined above most even div. ever.
Jeff Cashin	Just The Tip	Beaker's making a little home here on pg.9.
Dan Clark	Projectile Dysfuncti	Mr. Clutch back captaining Mug champs.
Rob Ehrmann	That's a Huge Cork!	Newest Corker might be biggest Cork!
Anthony Macias	Double In, Stumble	Why would anyone pick him as blocker?!
Aden Simpson	Double In, Stumble	The Simpson torch feels kinda passed on.
Kevin Stewart	Big Bulls	My only question: What is that 501 mess?
J.J. Tant	Projectile Dysfuncti	Cricket hound that just gets by in the '01s.

"E" Division (there was such a clear top TEN here…)

Randy Baldwin	Hump Day!	Season after season, he is simply solid.
Rich Bialaszewski	Show Me Your Tips	Ok, so we don't list him in 301… all good.
Mike Bumpass	Why So Serious?	Drop back down in divisions did him well.
Brad Bushman	Show Me Your Tips	2/3-timer might be division's top gun.
Jim Butterworth	Bulls Up	I'm guessing his 501 picked up in Mug run.
Karl Frederick	Bulls Up	Another 2/3-timer who is among the tops.
Lee Haithcock	Show Me Your Tips	Consistent, solid, heading up the ladder.
Lee Powell	Show Me Your Tips	Captained and led a "near" juggernaut.

"F" Division

Ryan Anderson	Shark Shooters	Simply cannot overstate his importance.
Merrill Bowman	Shark Shooters	How's this for a really big second fiddle?
Travis Ferguson	Schlitz & Giggles	Oh, if only he wasn't a part-time player.
John Heath	Bulls On Parade	Nothing flashy, just solid (until 501 :o).
Dylan Musil	Old Darting Bastard	Singles crusher just missing a few doubles.
John White	Just Playing	Really strong cricket offsets losing '01s.
Brian Whitley	Bulls On Parade	Super strong singles, but trails off a bit.
Wes Wissinger	Schlitz & Giggles	Was a great starting piece for a new team.

"G" Division (sooo many in this division)

P.J. Davis	Chalker's Nightmare	Only 1 loss in each of the last 3 sets. Huge.
Tom Holland	All About That Bull	Put the team on his shoulders sometimes.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	Mr. Machine was nearly leaguewide MVP.
Mark Rossbach	Irish Ton	12-1 SCkt erases lots of 0.500-ish doubles.
Jeff Russell	Don't Hit The Score	25-3 in the first three sets is pretty stout.
Phillips Shearin	Don't Hit The Score	14-2 in DCkt?! He was picked twice there?
Dave Woodard	Coach's Crew	#1 Crewman cruised most of the time.
Jason Zelinack	Chalker's Nightmare	Well, this was pretty easily predictable.

"H" Division (short season made this set tough)

Tim Ellis	Make Ducks Great /	I almost called this a split divisional MVP.
Jeremy Gower	You Diddled What?	His team just barely out-finished Ellis's.
Ray Larson	Ballistic Behavior	Who wouldn't want a 10-0 501 deal closer?
Nick Murdock	Dr.unks	Newcomer is going to be heard from again.
David Powell	Tips & Shafts	Make… him… play… more… matches.
Robert Reece	Dr.unks	Carried a rookie team to double victory.
Adam Schoch	Make Ducks Great /	Got here with big singles & 50/50 doubles.
Jeff Watson, Sr.	You Diddled What?	Methodically pulled in lots of wins again.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): With only two divisions playing 14-week schedules (and another division that really only played about an 11-week schedule due to a team forfeiting out), this could have been a nearly empty club this season. But, it turns out that four throwers got three 9-win sets in short-season divisions, while four throwers (including one in a 12-week seasons) managed four double-digit win sets! This year's winners are Robbie Phillips of The Overall Element in A, Kevin Foushee of Darty Minds in A, Joe Rigert, Sr. of Wayne Gretzky in G, aaaaaaand… doing this in just a 12-week season, Ryan Anderson of Shark Shooters in F.

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: Not only did this season have 6 divisions with a bye (due to a team never playing a match), but then that same division fell further, down to 6 teams. Pretty clear that either A or G was going to produce this season's Iron Man, and that's exactly what happened. Chris Robertson of Don't Hit The Scorekeeper rang up a big old 61 games. Not a record or anything, but respectable, especially since no other division even had a player with 60. The honorable mentions to the other division leaders: A=56, Joe Work, Cody Lange, and Kevin Foushee; B=54, Tony Keller and Grey Jones; C=53, Pete Hartmann and Louie Cuevas; D=51, Anthony Macias; E=50, Sean Bosier; F=51, Andy Bowen and John White; and H=48, Mike Young.

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Some seasons a bunch of teams are all "sort of" in the running for this award. But this season, it's as cut and dried as it has been in many years. There are TWO candidates, and they both win. Period. Both The Bunkers in C division, and Double In, Stumble Out in D division registered with only six players each, so it was pretty clearly going to be them. One person on The Bunkers missed two matches, while two people on Stumble Out missed one match each… pretty close to perfect six-man runs…

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I better give real results… dang.

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I really OWNED some stuff. It's impossible to nail every spot in every division, but check out this result: my preseason division winner picks did win the division for 5 of the 8, and my pick finished in 2nd for 2 more of the 8 (with one of them losing to the all-rookie team in H about whom I had zero prior knowledge). The only pick I really blew was… in D. Shocker.

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. I missed my recent default goal of the season (70+% correct picks), but as any loyal readers already know, that was almost fully the fault of D division. My record there (35.7% correct… yes, 35.7%, not a typo) is almost certainly my worst record for a division ever. Not one team outside of D division fooled me more often than not, while every team in D division fooled me more often than not. That has certainly never happened before. Wow. D.

Last but not least were my tournament predictions… And in these, I did a pretty good job again. In in the quarterfinals, I mustered a monstrous 22-3, with two of my three incorrect picks being last-place teams advancing (because that happens a lot, right?). I then meandered to a moderate 10-6 in the semifinals, which was decent, but nothing to really write home about (got both wrong in C, so that was kind of a bummer). Then I hit 3 of the 5 tournament champion teams, which is ok given that I have to get them right all the way up to that spot. My favorite pick of the finals though, is that I predicted that the Sharks and Bulls On Parade would meet in the F final, and also that the final was likely to go all the way to 1001. Which it did. If only I had picked the other team in that 1001.

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page thirty seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to email or text me and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the six 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the four 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [Ok, the good news? Not a single team outside of D division fooled me more often than not. The bad news? EVERY team in D div. fooled me more often than not. And some by a lot! Don't think I've ever done so poorly with a division before now. - JK]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

Week 9 question(s): How many people have played in the RDL in every season since I took over as statistician in the Spring 1996 season? Who are they? (And before you ask, yes, I've really been writing the newsletter for 46 seasons. So maybe I have no life. Or maybe… I just enjoy making fun of you guys so much that I keep coming back for more!!)

Week 10 question: Most league members probably (correctly) assume that the Upper Deck has hosted the most RDL teams over my 46 seasons here as statistician. But can you name the next five establishments in terms of number of teams hosted?

Week 11 question: How many of the prior 45 seasons (my tenure as statistician) have ended with no undefeated teams and no winless teams (yes, including the divisional tournaments)?

Week 12 question: What is the worst record to ever (in my 45 seasons as statistician) finish in a top-two position in the division (presumably earning the right to climb up a division if the team numbers/rosters stay something close to static)?

Week 13 question: While we're on the topic of things achieved with the lowest success rate involved… What is the lowest win percentage to claim a divisional singles win percentage title (during my 45 seasons as statistician)? (and we'll go ahead and list the lowest for each division in the printed answer)

Week 14 question(s): Which three teams have played on their current home boards for the most consecutive seasons? How many seasons for each?

Week 9 answer: Alright, I'm going to alter this question just a bit here… I wrote "how many have played" and I'm going to change it to "how many have been on a roster" in each and every season that I've been the statistician (that's 46 seasons, by the way). The reason I'm making that change is that we have players on rosters sometimes who don't end up throwing a game, but who IS an active member of the roster (and to be honest, the search algorithm that I used simply returned the names of people that have indeed been on a roster for all 46 seasons). So, with that caveat in place, the answer is: 16 people! Those 14 super-diehards are Tom Brown, Gary Burney, Bob Carawon, Randy Deemer, Bob James, Jason Kilts, Joe Kunesh, Tim Lane, Chuck Rouse, Pete Rutten, Mark Sellers, Mike Seward, Butch Smith, Michelle Stacy, Bob Terry, and Charlie Wilkinson (who prompted my disclaimer above, as he never did throw a game this season).

Week 10 answer: As noted, the Upper Deck leads the way, having hosted an alarming 271 teams over the past 46 seasons (5.9 teams per season). After that comes three more establishments that have also been in the RDL for all 46 seasons - High Park (which was also The Profile and Upper Deck Profile) with 185 teams hosted, Sharky's Place with 160 teams hosted, and Snooker's with 136 teams hosted. Rounding out our top six are Mac's Tavern (with 97 teams hosted in its 30 seasons in the league) and After Hours (which hosted 81 teams in its 24 seasons before closing its doors).

Week 11 answer: Wow, it turns out that it's pretty rare for a season to end with neither an undefeated team nor a winless team. In my 45 seasons here with the Tons, we've had at least one undefeated team in 26 seasons, while we've had at least one winless team in 28 seasons (teams that are removed from play before ever throwing a dart are not counted here). But only SEVEN times have those two things coincided such that every team had both a win and a loss. Those happened in the Fall 1998, Spring 2004, Spring 2006, Fall 2013, Spring 2014, Fall 2014, and Spring 2018 seasons. Yep, that's right… of the seven seasons that this happened, three of them were right in a row from Fa13-Fa14 - evidently the golden age of parity! Only 3 teams (1 undefeated, 2 winless) keep this season from joining that list as well. [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Since we don't count teams that registered but never played a match (having folded before ever throwing a dart, this season also did not qualify for this rare club.]

Week 12 answer: In the 333 divisions during my tenure prior to this season, a whole bunch of teams have finished 2nd at 9-5 or 8-4. Below that, we have had 16 teams with 7-5 records finish 2nd (including in the RDL's only I division ever in 2010, as well as in three divisions just last season). Then, we've had another 7 teams with the even worse record of 8-6. But this question's headliners are two teams that finished 2nd with 6-6(!) records: Kozmic Debris in the Fall 1999 D division, and Dazed & Confused in the Spring 2002 B division. (and yes, both teams moved up the next season...) [Answer update for the banquet Tons: D division didn't produce another of the amazing 6-6 second place teams, but it did produce a 7-5 squad. And the most amazing part? The division didn't have some 12-0 or 14-0 monster that just doled out two losses to all the other teams, as the division was so balanced that the winner was only 8-4, the second place team was 7-5, and all other teams were either 6-6 or 5-7. Just crazy.]

Week 13 answer: In the 45 seasons (now 46!) that I've written the newsletter, only one person has been able to reel in a divisional singles title while losing as many as a quarter of his/her games. In the Fall 2007 season, Timothy Lane (of Craig's Swine Crew in B division) took home the singles Mug with a record of 15-5 (0.750 win rate). Pretty much the epitome of parity in a division when nobody can surpass three-out-of-four. Kind of interesting if maybe this season's D singles champ might move that bar just a touch lower (seems kind of fitting for that mess of a division, no?). The lowest singles title win percentages for all other divisions: A = 0.808, 21-5, Tom Brown of Lunatic Fringe in Fall 1996; C = 0.786, 22-6, Vicente Martinez of Can't See The Board in Spring 2011; D = 0.783, 18-5, Tom Winters of Dynamic Darters in Fall 2007, and Randy Baldwin of We Be Triplin in Spring 2014; E = 0.769, 20-6, Stan Converse of M.R.Ducks in Spring 1998; F = 0.760, 19-6, Tim Davis of Freebirds in Spring 1998; G = 0.826, 19-4, Craig Millikan of Measure From The Tip in Fall 20014; H = 0.810, 17-4, Rich Bialaszewski of Northern Flights in Spring 2015, and Anthony Shirey of Ballistic Behavior in Fall 2017; and finally, I = 0.813, 13-3, Sheldon Citrak of Mug Hunters in Spring 2010 (since that was the only season of I ever, this is thus also the highest win percentage to win an I Mug… :o). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Kevin Stewart of Big Bulls in D division tied this record for that division, posting an 18-5 record that matches that of Winters and Baldwiin listed above. Given how balanced that division was in terms of team win/loss and points, I'm guessing that really isn't all that surprising, no?]

Week 14 answer: Well, first let's note that my question is about playing on the exact same home boards - thus, if a team moved around to a different set of boards in the same bar, that resets that team's clock for this question. With that said, going back and looking at the records reveals 10 teams that have played on their current boards for at least 14 seasons. Now, of course, many of the teams listed here have undergone name changes or continual roster evolutions. But these team lineages are clear and constant, so they make the list. The seven teams that are in the top ten, but not in the top three longest home board tenures: The Overall Element in A; Rif Raf and The Bunkers in C; Sharky's Machine, Game of Throws, and That's A Huge Cork! in D; and Irish Ton in G. Which brings us to the third-longest-tenured team, Darty Minds in A division (Cleveland Draft House-Garner 3&4), which is now in its 21st season at their current location. And tied for the longest location tenure are… Sofa Kings in F division (Mac's Tavern 1&2) and Make Ducks Great Again in H division (Snooker's-RW, sort of boards 1&2), who have each now reached 28 consecutive seasons.

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "I want to love you, and treat you right, I want to love you, every day and every night, We'll be together"

Week 2, song #2 lyric: "Good friends we had, Oh, good friends we've lost along the way, In this great future you can't forget your past"

Week 2, song #3: "So don't treat me like a puppet on a string, Because I know how to do my thing, Don't talk to me as if you think I'm dumb"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "And it's all your fault, I screen my phone calls, No matter who calls, I gotta screen my phone calls"

Week 3, song #2: "I must have called a thousand times, To tell you I'm sorry for everything that I've done, But when I call you never seem to be home"

Wk03, #3: "Seeing you, or seeing anything as much as I do you, I take for granted that you're always there, I take for granted that you just don't care"

Week 4, song #1 lyric: "Well you lie like a penny in the parking lot at the grocery store, It just comes way too natural to you, The way you lie"

Week 4, song #2 lyric: "Tell me all that you've thrown away, Find out games you don't wanna play, You are the only one that needs to know"

Week 4, song #3: "I live on the second floor, I live upstairs from you, Yes I think you've seen me before"

Week 5, song #1 lyric: "No is the saddest experience you'll ever know, Yes, it's the saddest experience you'll ever know"

Week 5, song #2 lyric: "I sit around and watch the tube but, nothing's on, I change the channels for an hour or two, Twiddle my thumbs just for a bit"

Week 5, song #3 lyric: "She told me, don't worry about it, She told me, don't worry no more, We both know we can't go without it"

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "Into this house we're born, Into this world we're thrown, Like a dog without a bone, An actor out on loan"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "Seems like yesterday, But it was long ago, Janey was lovely, she was the queen of my nights, There in darkness..."

Week 6, song #3: "And thinking about what I've been missing in the city, And I'm not missing a thing, Watching the full moon crossing the range"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "She grew up in an Indiana town, Had a good lookin' momma who never was around, But she grew up tall..."

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "I said, no, no, no, Yes, I been black, But when I come back, you'll know, know, know, I ain't got the time"

Week 7, song #3 lyric: "I don't know what's worth fighting for, Or why I have to scream, I don't know why I instigate, And say what I don't mean"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "Till now I always got by on my own, I never really cared until I met you, And now it chills me to the bone"

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "If I looked all over the world, And there's every type of girl, But your empty eyes seem to pass me by, And leave me..."

Week 8, song #3 lyric: "Move yourself, You always live your life, Never thinking of the future, Prove yourself, You are the move you make"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "Did you know when you go it's the perfect ending, To the bad day I was just beginning. When you go, all I know is..."

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "I played with your heart, got lost in the game, Oh baby, baby, Oops, you think I'm in love, That I'm sent from above"

Week 9, song #3: "Jump down the shelters to get away, The boys are cockin' up their guns, Tell us general, is it party time?, If it is can we all come"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "I'm bulletproof, nothing to lose, Fire away, fire away, Ricochet, you take your aim, Fire away, fire away"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "But then I spent so many nights thinking how you did me wrong, And I grew strong, And I learned how to get along"

Week 10, #3: "And you cast your fears aside, And you know you can survive, So when you feel like hope is gone, Look inside you and be strong"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "You put your left leg down, your right leg up, Tilt your head back, let's finish the cup, M.C.A. with the bottle..."

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "Now I've seen you in blue and I've seen you in yellow, But only you red will do for this fellow"

Week 11, song #3 lyric: "...you make me feel so grand, I feel a million dollars when you're just in my hand"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "If you are confused, check with the sun, Carry a compass to help you along, Your feet are going to be on the ground"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "You've been told, so maybe it's time that you learned, You've been sold, maybe it's time that you earned"

[Like the last several seasons, we used three-song groups each week and also included a theme each and every week. Added a layer to the game for everybody and has been quite popular. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 eighteen-song set that brought two pretty incredible sets of guesses… I'm honestly stunned at how many Mikey Hindle and Paul Jacobi knew…*

Week 2 theme: Yep, that group was all Marley, all the time. And while some of you had some pretty great theme guesses, it was really was just me still grooving off my vacation in Jamaica that I had completed just hours before writing the newsletter. Week 3 theme: Lack of communication or the ability to reach someone by phone - very much in honor of the week 1 H division mess with a non-responsive H team that ended up losing its captain and other team members (and subsequently dropped out of the league). Week 4 theme: Well, this is kind of a sad one. Lying… trying to cover up stuff (and keep things away from the authorities, in this instance)… and domestic abuse. Yep, all adds up to Urban Meyer and the Ohio State football coaching staff. At least Ohio State took the extreme measure of saying Meyer couldn't be on the sideline for three meaningless non-conference games as a punishment. I guess that's THE Ohio State University way… Evidently it's tough to be a pillar of righteousness (or even the most basic level of humanity) when there is a dollar to be made. Awesome. Week 5 theme: I threw you guys off a bit, and went with one based on band names instead of the song titles or lyrics. This one was all about the Three-Day-Weekend, in honor Labor Day Weekend. Week 6 theme: Ummm… Hurricane Florence, maybe. Possibly one of the most obvious themes we've ever had, no? Week 7 theme: Well, when I first thought about a theme, I thought of "recovery" in terms of recovering from the storm devastation south of us. But then I realized that wasn't really a music theme in most contexts, so I just switched to substance abuse recovery. Yep, as simple of a thought string as that… Week 8 theme: Pretty simply, it's all about being alone. Which is exactly what one of the H teams recently found itself… twice… both times left with no match to play by the same opponents. I guess that means the absent team was inspiring in more ways that one - they inspired a lyrics quiz from me, and I'm betting they inspired some choice words by the team that actually did bother to show up… both times. Week 9 theme: Well, making a mistake, of course. And this one was inspired by the team that marked the 1001 win for the opposing team and then didn't respond when my confirmation noted that they were sending it for the opposition. Oops… (but hopefully not again, eh?!) Week 10 theme: Empowerment and standing up for yourself (especially for females). I have no idea at all what might have been in the media recently that might have inspired that theme. No idea at all. None. I guess I could have just made the theme about drinking beer… but would I have had to list songs 30 times there? (Note added for banquet Tons : obviously, this one was about the Supreme Court appointment hearings for Kavanaugh.) Week 11 theme: Well, after the previous week's theme of empowerment and standing up for yourself (especially for females), somehow I just had the phrases "I liked beer" and "Still like beer" stuck in my head. No idea how the two are related of course… certainly wasn't anything all over the media for many weeks. Anyway, last week's theme was obviously drinking. Because many of us have liked to drink, and still like to drink. Here's to hoping your drinking has never led to you doing anything horrible. Week 12 theme: Well, standing. Honestly, I just heard Stand by REM, and was thinking "hey, you should just 'stand' there when chalking, and it all just kind of became stuff about standing. Week 13 theme: Carrying a heavy weight. Absolutely no truth to any rumor that I'm referring to the task/workload of any of my own doubles partners at any (or all) points of this season. As far as you know… Week 14 theme: Artists/bands with initials that make up a large part of their name

A DIVISION FOR THE AGES

I know that I've gone on and on about the amazing level of parity in D division this season. And I know that we've had divisions where 7-5 and 6-6 fight for second place and a climb to the next division. But those situations generally come with a single team way out in front of the pack, handing every other team two losses each - which is NOT what we had in D this season. Instead, we had seven teams grouped together, with every single one of them fully able to beat every other team in the division on pretty much any night of the season (or tournament). To highlight just exactly how true this is, let's highlight a few notes/results within the D division experience…

-- The first place team won less than 55% of its singles points, less than 53% of its doubles points, and subsequently, less than 54% of its overall points. And they were first in the division in both singles and overall. (The top doubles team won less than 57% of its doubles points… and finished 5th in the final standings.)

-- Only the first place Machine had any win streak longer than 3 matches at any point in the entire season, including tournament.

-- The entire division was separated by only 18 points from the lowest to the highest season point total. And the team with the highest point total finished in 5th place.

-- D was the only division without either of its top two teams from the regular season in the tournament final.

-- The ASP average for all 7 teams was in the range of 0.319 and 0.476. And one of the only two below 0.415 was the 2nd place team.

IN MEMORIAM

Very recently, Game of Throws in D division (and really the RDL family as a whole) took a hit with the passing of Steve Johnson. Generally, it's up to me to try to convey the feelings of those who knew the person we've lost, but this time Steve's teammate Chris Montesi has done it far better than I ever could. Honestly, my new goal in life is that I lived well enough that someone would feel enough to write something like this in my honor. Chris writes: "The void created by the death of Steve "Moonshine" Johnson is still hard to grasp. He was someone we took for granted would be around a lot longer, because he was a fighter. Steve fought cancer for many rounds, over many years and always with an attitude and conviction he was going to "kick cancer's ass". Steve became a part of the fabric of our team. His laughs, his yelling, his smile and his thumbs up. He was well aware that friendships were special bonds for life and he cherished his time with us, as we did with him. Over the years as a teammate, Steve was steady, committed and consistent. He played as long as he could physically. He was proud. And only stopped coming to games when he felt he was no longer an asset to our winning. We'll always remember Steve's sense of humor. He loved to shock. And when he did release a biting observation or critique, he liberated those around him. In that instant he made us realize that the social rules that constrict our lives are not actually very important. That humor could be found in all things. In all situations. And he wasn't one to let an opportunity to shock get by. Now we are all left thinking how sad it is that such a man, with such kindness would so suddenly be taken away at the age of only 52. He had a lot more to do and many more things in which he was capable of achieving. Steve leaves behind two daughters and his wife of only two months, Lina "Sunshine" Johnson. For a living, Steve was a Project/Construction Mgr. at Ft. Bragg. But that wasn't who he was. He was a fighter. An inspirer. A dad. A husband. And all around, one hell of a good dude. At this point, Steve would say "Enough" or "Suck it up buttercup". So we'll end it here. "

SOME SHOTS YOU REMEMBER MORE THAN OTHERS

We all come out and play every week, hoping to do great things. And sometimes we do, and sometimes we don't. But the reality is that we genuinely remember very few of our individual throws for more than a night, a week, or a month. But I'm guessing these two will make that "tell the story for a while" list… First up is Dan Clark of Projectile Dysfunction in D division, who kicked off his team's championship run (of three close wins) by punching out 90 to clinch the quarterfinals with a turn of 20 / 20 / double-bull! And then we have Dennis Horger of the C champion Rif Raf, who ended their semifinal win with a cool Ton-09-out! Memorable finishes, eh?

RDL MEMBERS GRAB CITY LEAGUE TITLE

Some pretty big congratulations go out to 8 of our RDL brothers, as they are all members of either the Wilmington NCCDL (North Carolina City Dart League) team. They just claimed the 2018 state title this past weekend (see full results on pages 18 and 19). Brian Blake, Ron McCarthy and P.J. Stewart (all of Darty Minds), Dean Cusher, Craig Elder, Dan Naylor and Scott Stankevich (all of Appetite for Destruction), and Lee Scott (of Spank That Monkey) all play for the Wilmington NCCDL squad, and their team will again host the 2019 tournament next December (as will the Wilmington NC Ladies' Cup team, as they also claimed the title last weekend).

DON'T YA JUST HATE HIM?

Ok, probably not… pretty much nobody actually hates Robbie Phillips, in spite of the fact that he has already had more success than most of us will ever dream of having. But does he have to ben all thin and healthy and crap, too?! For those of you who can't read the shirt he is wearing in this photo, it's "North Carolina 1998 State Champion - Youth Singles." Yes, Phillips was the NC state youth champ two decades ago. Not surprising, right? Well, this photo was taken at our NC City Dart League match two months ago! He can still wear his damn youth champion shirt from two decades ago. And, if you look closely here, the shirt was actually a little big on him! Seriously? Thinner than he was twenty years ago as a youth?!

SOMETIMES WRITING THE TONS KINDA ROCKS

It's pretty tough to convey how much the game of darts has brought into my life. But it's pretty clear that the game has brought me a huge percentage of my friends. And sometimes I don't even know I have them until a situation pops up that brings them to me. Case in point, the Beer Bourbon & BBQ festival in Cary this past July. I'm walking along, and the guy in this photo yells out my name! What the heck? Turns out that it's Tony Williamson, who played here in the RDL from the Fall 2007 season through the Fall 2011 season, with the Overtime Outlaws, Tips & Shafts, and Mug Hunters. He then moved out west (to Arizona, I believe), but still follows along watching his friends and the rest of the league via the Tons, and he recognized me immediately from past Tons items. Made my frickin' day. You just never know who you might reach out there, as the RDL family roots are strong. It's a great thing we have going here, and I love when I'm randomly reminded of that. Here's to you, Tony… Cheers.

SOME THINGS YOU CAN'T UN-SEE…

Many of us play Fantasy Football. And some of us are good sports and call laugh at ourselves. And very very rarely, those two things come together with the force of a lightning bolt. I present to you, Patrick Merkle (yes, the B division singles champ from Dartistic Freedom) dressed as Jessica Simpson from the Dukes of Hazzard. You see, in Merkle's football league, whoever finishes last has to come to the next draft dressed in the costume of the other owners' choosing. Merkle lost = Merkle is Jessica Simpson. And he shared it with us! Ha! (Just as he did a few years ago when he was last and was dressed as Britney Spears…)

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

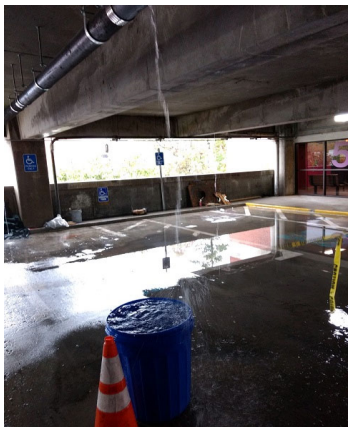
Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. As always, this is just about the last thing that I'm writing and this season is certainly no exception… soooo, also as always not even I know what's about to hit the page…

-- You know what I think is hilarious? Those signs on dump trucks that say that aren't responsible for broken windshields. Ha, what a load of crap. If your stuff (including your pile of gravel) isn't in your control, you abso-freaking-lutely are responsible for where it goes and whatever damage it does. Do you think that if I painted "not a good driver, so I'm not responsible for slamming into your car or running you over as a pedestrian, so stay away from me" on my car that it would absolve me from liability? It's insulting that they think I would believe that crap. Because they write that on there, you know what the very first thing I do when I am near a dump truck is? Memorize the license plate and trucking company name. Yep. Because they reminded me. Doh.

-- I'm betting that for about half of you, you turned to either this page or page 9 (the one listing my all-star teams) first when you picked up a Tons. So many look to see who I picked for each of the divisional all-star teams, and they gab about it, and they ask me how or why I could pick certain people, etc. And sometimes they challenge me about why I didn't pick them personally for the team. Here's one of my personal favorite exchanges that I've ever had… The other guy: "Dude, what's with the all-star team snub?" Me: "Of you?" The other guy: "Yeah, why wouldn't I be on it?" Me: "You have a losing singles record." The other guy: "But look at my doubles record." Me: "You have a losing singles record." The other guy: "I was X and X in doubles!" Me: "You have a losing singles record." I said it with the same unwavering quarter-smile each time I said it. Some days this job is really fun.

-- I have come to the conclusion that the quickest way to make friends out of complete strangers is to walk down a hallway or through a lobby or something carrying a pizza box. There's something about a pizza box that just invites comments/conversation from pretty much everyone. Some sort of Italian pie magic…

-- Are you on social media? Then either you know someone who does this, or you ARE someone who does this. If it's you, cut it the hell out. If it's someone you know, simply don't take the bait. For the good of us all, don't ever again take that bait. Ugh. This empty drama is something exactly nobody needs in their lives. Either talk to people or don't… but lose this silliness. Or better yet? Just stop living your life and your emotions via social media. Hey, now there's a thought…



-- You ever see Porsches and other similar sports car on the road? And I'm not talking those weird Mom SUV things that Porsche built to grab an extra share of the market. I'm talking the actual sports cars. Now referring to just those (or any similar high end sports car), is it just me or do all those cars travel at only two speeds… 4 miles per hour under the speed limit, or 30 miles per hour over it? Either they rip the paint off my car on the way past, or they make me cuss how in the way they are.

-- Did you know that the National Climate Assessment, a very comprehensive study detailing the effects, causes, etc. of global warming is a document that is required by Congress to produced every several years? It is compiled by the government, due to a requirement by the government, and reported in the format designed by the government. It doesn't really carry much aside from a compilation of all of the recent scientific evidence on the topic, regardless of which side any specific article supports. And the White House, having lost its fight to try to keep all links to the actual scientific articles out of the report (despite the requirement that it contain exactly those), now tells us to ignore the government's own report. You just can't make this stuff up anymore. Reality is far more ridiculous than any silly fantasy.

-- You know what cracks me up? People that compete like crazy for something, talking junk the whole time… and who then denigrate the victory/prize when they don't get it. Seriously, it's about the most juvenile and petulant little ball of whininess… Just grow the hell up already, and shut your damn mouth.

-- This entry in the "painfully obvious signs" category brought to you by the parking deck at the Durham VA Medical Center. The initial warning that they would be doing repais said that they would take 3 weeks. That was 3.5 months ago, and the end of the project is nowhere in sight. To be fair, I can't see any difference yet, so…

-- Of course, that construction is being done by the same company that set up this amazing water overflow retention system. For those who can't make out the picture, it's a pipe with water just flat-out flowing out of it, with a single trash can under it to catch all the water. The can was likely full in 45-60 seconds… thus the flooding of the many parking spaces around it. Now, mind you, it wasn't raining… this is just construction water overflow. Being caught by a single trash can. That did about 0.3% of the job. Can't make this stuff up.

-- Back in week 2 of the NFL season, one of the Buffalo Bills went into the locker room at halftime, and… retired. Before the second half. Without being injured. Have any of you ever heard of that happening in this or any other sport before this time?!

-- One last thought for you to ponder… If you're a person who goes through life just pissing people off, what the hell is wrong with you? Seriously. It's a serious question. What inspires you to just suck as a human being? Is it fun for you, or is it just as exhausting for you as it is for the rest of us? On behalf of the very large majority of us who don't suck… cut it the hell out. And if you're wondering if this point is directed toward you, well then be a little honest with yourself. If you think it might be, that's probably reason enough to maybe try for a little change.

THE BEST SEASON SINGLES+DOUBLES WIN %-AGES -- Spring 1996 through Fall 2018

This list of the best seasons contains results from the last 46 seasons, as that is the time during which I have been statistican. The statistical records prior to that (pre-1996) are not quite as complete, at least in the newsletter issues that have been made available to me thus far

Best Seasons (by SINGLES+DOUBLES Win Percentage) in only "A" Division in the Most Recent 46 Seasons

(Given the fact that the level of play in "A" division is obviously generally higher than in the rest of the divisions, I have pulled out the best season in just "A" division in this section for a quicker perusal of what would most fairly be considered the best seasons at the highest level in the RDL.

NCCDL / NCLC MEETING RESULTS FROM THE OCTOBER MEETING

#1 - (for the NCDO) Maridy Knight has finally officially taken over the office of NCDO Secretary. Nancy Coley finally decided that it was time to (VERY deservedly) take back a bit of her free time for herself. Knight is handling the Secretary (and Treasurer, because they're sort of one position) as of… right now! Her email address is maridy16@gmail.com .

#2 - the NCLC (North Carolina Ladies' Cup) voted in favor of the proposal (made my me!) that the tournaments should be only three teams per division, with the two division winners getting a bye into the semifinals. Depending on location of the tournament, that decision could save a team or two a night of hotel need, and it decreases the requirement to host the tournament from four sets of boards for the quarterfinals down to just two. MUCH easier to coordinate that event. // // The NCCDL (this league) did NOT vote in favor of the proposal, so we continue onward with 8 teams in our tournament (the vote was one more 'against' than 'for' -- I think it was 6-5, but it might've been 7-6 or 5-4… can't remember exactly… regardless, it was a one vote difference).

#3 - the division style for 2019 will again switch back to the Mountain/Beach and Central divisions. The NCCDL will be separated into divisions of: NCCDL Mountain/Beach (7 teams) = Asheville, Boone, Pineville, Charlotte, Jacksonville, Wilmington, Port City; NCCDL Central (6 teams) = Lake Norman, Piedmont, Chapel Hill, Durham, Raleigh, Capital Area. One additional intradivisional match will be added (bringing the match number up to 8 per team for the Central division, and to 7 for all but one Mountain/Beach team [with the lone remaining odd Mountain/Beach team playing just the 6 interdivisional pairings]). -- -- -- The NCLC will operate in a similar fashion, with the following divisions: NCLC Mountain/Beach (6 teams) = Asheville, Boone, Pineville, Charlotte, Jacksonville, Wilmington; NCLC Central (6 teams) = Lake Norman, Piedmont, Chapel Hill, Fuquay-Varina, Apex, Capital Area. Due to the fact that the NCLC divisions are of equal size and with an even number of teams, the one intradivisional match for each team will simply bring the total number of matches to 7 for all teams in both divisions.

HISTORY OF THE NCCDL…

It was back in 1995 that Tim Lane (now of the Raleigh NCCDL team) first introduced the idea of the statewide year-long season style of play to replace the old "one team holds the cup against a string of challengers" sytem. It's still possibly the most popular and successful idea ever for anything larger than a local league. Here are the 23 tournament final results so far:

1996: Raleigh over Charlotte	2004: Wilmington over Durham	2012: Durham over Wilmington
1997: Piedmont over Durham	2005: Durham over Wilmington	2013: Wilmington over Lake Norman
1998: Piedmont over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)	2006: Durham over Charlotte	2014: Durham over Wilmington
1999: Wilmington over Raleigh/Charlotte(?)	2007: Durham over Charlotte	2015: Wilmington over Piedmont
2000: Durham over Charlotte	2008: Durham over Charlotte	2016: Wilmington over Durham
2001: Durham over Wilmington	2009: Wilmington over Charlotte	2017: Wilmington over Durham
2002: Wilmington over Durham	2010: Wilmington over Durham	2018: Wilmington over Durham
2003: Wilmington over Durham	2011: Durham over Lake Norman

My annual request to the NCLC Ladies: if any of you have a history of the results like the one above for the NCCDL, I would love to have a copy of those so I can periodically run an NCLC history as well. Drop me a line please if you're willing to share.

The "How Great It Is When A Person You Respect Deeply Comes To You Offering A Serious Honor" Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Unintimidated Element (14-8)
Element completes the league's only undefeated season at their home-away-from-home (3 wins and 1 loss in A finals at High Park in the last 6 seasons) in huge clash full of clutch turns with the Bullies.

"B" Division - Things That Bounce (12+-12)
Matt Veith delivers the double-3 knockout punch in 1001 (with the sadly-Surber-less Irrelevants sitting on 32!) to right the ship a little bit, and at least take the tournament title after their week 14 agony.

"C" Division - Consistently Inconsistent (13-5)
It seems like I read somewhere that the semifinal pairing of Nine Lives and Inconsistent would be the biggest match of this bracket - Inconsistent squeaked out that win, 11-10, then rolled to the Mugs.

"D" Division - Show Me Your Tips (14-4)
Show Me's tournament curse/albatross/weight/voodoo hex (always ending with Mugs in Bulls Up's hands) was nowhere to be found in this one, as Show Me ended this final without having to play 501.

"E" Division - Why So Serious? (12-3)
Wow, Why So Serious? somehow just has Game's number, taking out a team that was 9-3 this season against the rest of the division by a total score of 48-15 in their three matchups in the season.

"F" Division - Hump Day! (13-11)
With this season's tournaments full on non-upset finishes, the Humpers became the only Mug winners this season that didn't at least tie for either the match win lead or point lead in their division.

"G" Division - Dr.unks (14-4)
Dr.unks only pushed to 501 in the tournament by the last place team in the quarterfinals, and they claim the Mugs with a win over the only team below a 3-seed (Wayne Gretzky) to make it to a final.

"H" Division - Darty Sanchez (13-11)
After a narrow 13-11 loss in week 1, league newcomer Sanchez (led by the league's newest pair of Trefzgers) ran off 11 straight wins (plus 2 forfeit wins) to complete the season/tournament double.

REGULAR SEASON WINNERS

"A" Division - The Unintimidated Element (14 wins, 0 losses)

THIS SEASON'S TIEBREAKERS

For the second season in a row, our amazing recent level of elevated parity has produced a whole friggin' pile of tiebreakers. There were 39 1001 games this season (37 in the season, and 2 in the tournaments, with both of those in B division)! A and H divisions only had 2 of the tiebreakers each, while C led the way with a whopping 9. Given that C (like all the rest of C-H divisions) had a bye each week, that means that almost 19% of C matches went to overtime.

A whopping TEN teams played at least 3 extra legs, with two of those playing a 4th extra leg, and another playing a FIFTH 1001 (in only 13 total matches played!). Thus, this season's Cardiac Kids award for most tiebreakers played goes to C division's Cheap Shots and their 2-3 1001 record.

The Heartbreak Award has a few candidates… as both C division's Sharky's Machine and F division's Accoutrement Stuff posted 0-3 records… but the "winner" of this one is G division's Banging The Wire, who went 0-4 in 1001. And lost them in 4 consecutive weeks!!

Finally, who made the most out of the tiebreaker? Oh, hands down it was B division's Things That Bounce. The Things were the only team that won 3 1001s, and the last of those was the B tourney final!

TEAMS THAT WON BOTH THEIR DIVISIONAL TOURNAMENT AND REGULAR SEASON TITLE !!!!!!

FALL 2019 RDL SEASON INFORMATION

I am putting these dates in many locations (pages 1, 4, 8, 40) because they might be the most important thing for you in this newsletter.

Wednesday, July 24th - Fall season registration, The Upper Deck (online registration should be available in the days immediately prior to the 24th - Membership Director Heather Bohanan will likely be in charge of early registration, and she will likely hook it up through the website with Phil Robertson and accept payments through PayPal)

Wed., Aug. 7th - Preseason capts.' mtg./packet pickup, Upper Deck

Wednesday, August 14th - Start of Fall season match play

Monday, Sep. 16th - Fifth week captains' meeting, Upper Deck

Wed., Nov. 20, Dec. 4 & 11 - Fall season divisional tournaments

Saturday, December 14th - Fall season banquet, site TBD

RDL QUOTES

I saved a few favorites from the season, some cool, some funny.

Quote #1 : from Jeremy Limerick of Irrelevant Details, who lumped me in with him (not sure if this should worry him, or worry me, or both of us… or maybe it should worry ol' Swine captain Pete Rutten): "We both are merely infected with Similar Dry Blunt Humor Syndrome, or 'Swine Flu' as some call it."

Quote #2 : from Ronnie Knott of Shooter McGavin, after their week 6 win: "Btw, this match was a lot closer than it appeared." [Really? A lot closer than a one-dart outcome? - JK]

Quote #3 : from Shawn Budd of Accoutrement Stuff, after a local blind draw night: "We had a great group of people tonight at the Neighborhood LOD, lots of laughs, good competition. My favorite part? When Robbie Phillips points to my shirt and says "hey, thanks for wearing my shirt!". A temporary moment of panic ensued as I had no idea what he was talking about and I certainly didn't want to look down (I don't own a Shot! shirt, do I?!) but I did...picture attached. Well played, Robbie." [Ok, it appears I didn't save the photo, but it was an Element skate gear t-shirt - which, of course, just says Element. Hey, we'll claim fanboys any way we can! - JK] [Also, major points for immediately jumping to the Shot sponsorship. - JK]

Quote #4 : from an unnamed player who might possibly end up in B division next season: "Fear me, B division." [Ha! No way I'm telling you who said this, but I just wanted to make sure I got this in here for the potential B thrower. :o) - JK]

Quote #5 : from an F division captain who will remain nameless: "Also don't forget we are in F Division, not like your stuffy A boys." [And my response: "Biggest myth in the RDL, by far - that the most complaints for decorum and behavior and etiquette come from the top division. Not. Even. Close." It is certainly true that many A players expect decent behavior. I think we all probably should. The problem is that far too many lower division players use their lower division status as an excuse to act poorly. There's your reality.]

TEAMS THAT WON THEIR REGULAR SEASON TITLE (but not divisional tournament) !!!!!!

"B" Division - Irrelevant Details

SPRING 2019 PENALTY SUMMARY

The new world of the RDL is a beautiful place. We are now 3 seasons into the removal of the call-in requirement, so there is one lesser source for penalties… but… we've also added penalty paths too (earlier sheet return deadline, mandatory 1001 names, new penalty for lack of blocker names). And despite all those new paths for losses, the league as a whole just doesn't ring up many penalties anymore. There have been 6 or fewer penalties 3 seasons in a row now!

And this season, basically nothing resulted from any of the 6 penalties. There were 5 mail penalties and 1 ineligible player penalty - and that one ineligible player penalty was earned by the team that folded before they ever played another match. The mail penalties were earned by a team in A division, a team in C, a team in F, and a team in H (which had two of the five penalties). Yep, that means four full divisions were penalty-less, which is way cool. And the team that lost the most this season (though the penalties didn't even drop them a spot in the standings) as the new Neighborhood Dart Knights in H, with 2 mail penalties for 32 points.

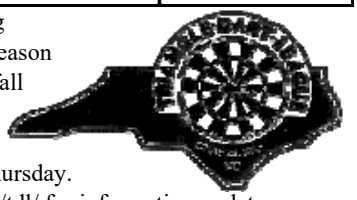
NEED SOME SUMMER DART OPTIONS?

Leagues? Blind draws? Tournaments? We have 'em all!



Wednesdays - Brown's Billiards In-House Summer League

Brown's is hosting its 5th annual In-House League, with a player draft for teams on May 22nd (you do not have to be present). $20 per player, season is 10 weeks, and league plays starts May 29th at 8 p.m. The league has 100% payout, and Brown's adds $20 per team. For more info: David Huffman, (919)369-7656; or Rom Knight, (919)436-6692; or Ron Smith (919)604-6190.

Tuesdays - BCDL - Durham Handicapped Steel-Tip League

The Bull City Dart League continues its year-round play, although the current season is already several weeks in. Some teams might still need a player or two, but you would need to join an existing squad. The league website is www.thebcdl.org and the league plays Tuesday nights throughout Durham and RTP, and uses a rolling handicap system to level the playing field quite a bit. Teams are 4-8 players (about 6 is the norm),' dues are $25/player per season.

Thursday league (for fall?) - TDL - in Chapel Hill/Durham

The TDL isn't currently holding summer seasons, but that's no reason you can't set up a team for the fall now. Registration will likely take place around August 1st, with darts to follow the next Thursday. Check www.ibiblio.org/ncdarts/tdl/ for information updates soon. The teams in TDL consist of 6-10 players per team, and dues are $20/ player per season. Recent seasons have used bars in both Chapel Hill and Durham, but I suspect that might vary a bit from season to season based on team preferences and signups.

Or maybe a blind draw…

Page 8 lists the regular weekly blind draws offered by RDL host establishments, and there are a bunch. But I have also confirmed that The Upper Deck, Sharky's Place & Cleveland Draft House-Garner will be having weekly Wednesday draws for every week this summer. In the case of the Deck and Sharky's, they will have basically the same features as their regular draws listed on page 8, except that there is no Wednesday "triple shot" at the Deck, and the Sharky's one replaces the Monday draw for the summer.

And for those lookin' for a bigger tournament…

"HOT DARTS" LISTING GUIDELINES

Here are the guidelines that will be used for the minimum number of all-star points each week for the "hot darts" page.
"A" Div. = 4.5 or more ASPs; "B" Div. = 4.0 or more ASPs
"C, D" Divisions = 3.5 or more ASPs
"E, F, G" Divs. = 3.0 or more ASPs; "H" = 2.5 or more ASPs
Also, we will list any fast games, high ins, high outs, or other amazing feats that you think warrant a little recognition (e.g., Ins & Outs higher than a Ton, 24-dart cricket games, 15-dart 301s, 24-dart 501s, Ton-70s and up, 5-Bulls+, etc.).

Extra note: it's also ok to call in "fast games" in each set, even if they don't necessarily meet the maximum dart counts above.

SEASON-LONG TROPHY DART MINIMUM GAMES PLAYED REQUIREMENTS

To be eligible for all-star point ave. & singles win %-age awards, you must play at least 66% of this season's projected games:

for Divisions "A" (except team A4) and "B" (8 teams / div.):
Singles win %-age: min. of 19 Singles Games Played
All-star pt. Average: min. of 37 Total Games Played for team A4 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 18 Singles Games Played, 35 Total Games Played for Divisions "C", "D", "E", "F" and "G" (7 teams / division):

min. of 16 Singles Games Played, 32 Total Games Played for teams H1, H2, H3, H4, and H7 (due to 2 forfeits received):

min. of 14 Singles Games Played, 27 Total Games Played for team H5 (due to 3 forfeits received):

min. of 12 Singles Games Played, 24 Total Games Played for team H6 (due to 1 forfeit received):

min. of 15 Singles Games Played, 30 Total Games Played

THE FORTY-FIFTH SEMI-ANNUAL EDITION OF: JK'S DIVISIONAL ALL-STAR TEAM PICKS

(Players within each division are listed alphabetically) (Players are chosen any way I damn well please - not purely by the numbers!)
(This is not purely my own guesses at who is simply the best thrower, but also who is important to their team, who is good in the clutch, etc.)

Divisional MVPs

A Division	Robbie Phillips	The Unintimidated Element	E Division	Jason Zelinack	Chalker's Nightmare
B Division	Jeremy Limerick	Irrelevant Details	F Division	John Heath	Bulls On Parade
C Division	Tim McNamara	Consistently Inconsistent	G Division	Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky
D Division	Angelo Azevedo	WINNAU	H Division	Ken McNamara	We're Sexy & We Throw It

All of RDL -- Ken McNamara -- We're Sexy & We Throw It

"A" Division

John Carroll	Unintimidated Eler	One of 3 leaguewide w/ 9+ wins in all sets.
Pat Gibson	Neighborhood Bull	Ohmigod, he just keeps coming at you.
Michael Johnson	Neighborhood Bull	The bigger the game, the better he plays.
John Kramer	Unintimidated Eler	7 RDL seasons, all in A, 0.808 win %-age.
Chad Massengill	Unintimidated Eler	I admit I'm stunned when he loses a game.
Robbie Phillips	Unintimidated Eler	Teams plan their entire listing around him.
P.J. Stewart	Neighborhood Bull	See page 16. Get used to photos like that.
Wil Tan	Unintimidated Eler	Been one of RDL's best for over 25 years.

"B" Division (this was a really tough set to choose)

Michael Bracco	Rif Raf	Starting to challenge for top shot on team.
Dennis Horger	Rif Raf	Huge resurgent season with killer DCkt.
Brian Howard	Shooter McGavin	A slow 301 starter, but then he was fire.
Jess Jur	Rif Raf	Uh oh, he's bordering on being a regular.
Jeremy Limerick	Irrelevant Details	What a couple year climb to A he's had.
Joe McCartney	Things That Bounc	Captain Joe must play himself in the 501s.
Shane Richardson	One Armed Bandit	Like a true OABandit, great up until 501.
Tom Winters	Things That Bounc	Simply took hold of the first three sets.

"C" Division

Kevin Bottomley	Bangin' the Neighb	Several strong seasons in a row now.
Ed Grubb	Consistently Incon	Alright, Ed, stop sitting yourself, dammit.
Josh Hall	Cheap Shots	Pulled the Cheapies along in the doubles.
Mikey Hindle	Cheap Shots	Fell in team's crazy DCkt curse this season.
Dallas Hudson	Bangin' the Neighb	Has returned strong after some dad time.
Tim McNamara	Consistently Incon	Nearly named him the league overall MVP.
Chris Moody	Consistently Incon	Would be top player on most other teams.
Robb Porcelli	Nine Lives	Top shot for league's most 'so-close' team.

"D" Division (sooo many options here)

Angelo Azevedo	WINNAU	Easily the lead horse in team's win streak.
Dan Butterworth	Bulls Up	If the Butterworths start stealing some
Jim Butterworth	Bulls Up	301s, their numbers will be just nuts.
Mike Gardner	Garage, Inc.	After 301, he was pretty much money.
Randy Lueneburg	WINNAU	This season felt like a great resurgence.
Lee Powell	Show Me Your Tip	Leader of a band of strong, even talents.
Kevin Stewart	Big Bulls	Singles champ needs a bit o' doubles help.
Lou Tufillaro	WINNAU	Slowed a bit in doubles, but still decent.

"E" Division (really needed 10 for this list)

Brad Adams	Just the Tip	Sure, teams share sets… more 301 here.
Ryan Anderson	Shark Shooters	With a few more DCkts, fights for MVP.
Mike Bumpass	Why So Serious?	Just a beast since he came back from A.
Jeff Cashin	Just the Tip	Has kinda just set up camp on this page.
Mike Cole	Why So Serious?	Uh, #1 newcomer of the season. Duh.
Zach Powell	Red-eye Rangers	20-1 in the crickets? That is just sick.
Jeff Rudy	Game of Throws	Monster singles, good doubles, as usual.
Jason Zelinack	Chalker's Nightma	So clearly still playing like a top div. guy.

"F" Division

Sean Bosier	Death Throw	Seemed to just will DT to some wins.
Randy Deemer	Hump Day!	Hmm… that 501… = Wednesday party?
Jon Hall	Bulls On Parade	Made a good living in 301 and DCkt.
John Heath	Bulls On Parade	Dominant winner for most dominant team.
Andy Krestalude	Hump Day!	Geez, are he and Deemer 501 buddies?
Jeff Russell	Don't Hit the Scork	Biggest shot on pretty explosive roster.
Brian Whitley	Bulls On Parade	Starting to become a habit being here.
Wes Wissinger	Accoutrement Stuf	When you win 10 of team's 21 501s…

"G" Division

Brian Bowser	Irish Ton	Super solid once the 301 set was over.
Jeremy Gower	Dr.unks	Was this his last pre-Air Force tour?
Tom Holland	All About That Bu	Holy cow, his last 3 sets are awesome.
Spencer Mickler	Irish Ton	He came, he joined, he kicked ass. Nice.
Nick Murdock	Dr.unks	Biggest winner for the Mug champs.
Dylan Musil	Old Darting Bastar	Not too sure what happened in doubles.
Joe Rigert, Sr.	Wayne Gretzky	This is the easiest choice, year after year.
Mark Rossbach	Irish Ton	Cricket heavyweight got by in the '01s.

"H" Division

Ahmed Al-Hoory	Grip It Lightly	Only got 7 matches, but they were great.
Luc Davis	Grip It Lightly	Part of top trio for new contending team.
P.J. Davis	Grip It Lightly	Turns out that SCkt makes up for a lot.
Andrew Hamer	Another Coach Cre	Ok… WHY does he sit half the SCkts?!
Ken McNamara	We're Sexy & We	No player means more to his team. Period.
Eric Trefzger	Darty Sanchez	Are we about to see the Trefzger torch
Mike Trefzger	Darty Sanchez	passed forward (against Ken's will!)??
Matthew Wilson	Tips & Shafts	Rising star for a team on the rise too.

QUICK STAT TIDBITS

-The Quadruple Double Award winners (double-digit wins in all 4 sections): Wow, once again SUPER tough to make this group this season, with all but two divisions playing only 12 (or fewer, in H!) matches. Thirteen players (with eight of those in the 7-team divisions) had three 9-win sets. And a couple guys in A and B had three 10-win sets. But only three guys in A even achieved 9+ wins in all four sets. Our two honorable mentions (for four 9-win sets) are John Carroll and Wil Tan of The Unintimidated Element in A. And the lone true member thi season (with four 11-win sets) was Robbie Phillips, also of the Element in A div.

-The Iron Man/Woman Award: With 6 of 8 divisions having byes this season, and one of those 6 dropping another team, these numbers are TINY by normal standards. In the end, really only A and B division even had a shot at this one, and those teams were generally not shorthanded. Thus, this season's Iron Men, with only 58 games played, were Kenny Persson of Jameson's Monkeys in A, and Brian Howard of Shooter McGavin in B. Honorable mentions (for leading the other six divisions) are: Mikey Hindle and Josh Hall of Cheap Shots in C, with 53; Angela Jeffcoat of My Cork Fell Out in D, with 52; Pat Ball of Chalker's Nightmare in E, with 53; Olivia Mathews of Death Throw in E, with 50; Joe Rigert, Sr. of Wayne Gretzky in F, with 50; and Charles Tompkins and Matthew Wilson of Tips & Shafts, and Terron Amos of The Neighborhood Dart Knights in H, each with 42 (yes, that's correct, no player in H division had more than 42).

-The Team Attendance Award winners: Alright, we had a few teams that sort of peeked in on this one this season. I would say there are 4 honorable mentions: Shooter McGavin in B, Menace 2 Sobriety in C, and both Projectile Dysfunction and Show Me Your Tips in D division. But the team that came the closest to the old "play-the-same-six-players-every-set-all-season", and thus the winners of this award this season, is clearly Double In, Stumble Out, also from D division.

MY PRESEASON, WEEKLY, & TOURNEY PREDICTION RESULTS

As usual, I'm left with the option of trying to bluff my way through this part, or just telling the truth. And since I know that some of you squirrel away every last thing I've ever written about your team, I guess I once again give real results…

In my preseason picks (usually the toughest every season given the imminent roster changes/additions), I sort of rocked it in a few places (and not so much in a couple others). I overestimated the Monkeys a touch in A, and I under-estimated Projectile a touch in D, or I would have had those lists exactly. Also was really close to nailing C. Didn't give Kiss This enough credit in B, gave the Nightmare too much credit in E, was pretty strong in F, and didn't know to see Sanchez (a purely new team) coming in H. All in all, pretty good. But my one super gaffe (and I mean "SUPER")? I had G winner Irish Ton slotted for… last!!

My weekly prediction results you can peruse pick-for-pick on the other side of this sheet of paper. Not too bad, since I started out slowly but still managed to finish above 70% for the season. Considering the extreme parity that has taken hold of many divisions, I actually consider that pretty stellar (considering how many one-dart results I lost!). In the end, I'm relatively happy with most of my picks that didn't involve the terms "G division" or "Red Eyed Jedis".

Last but not least were my tournament predictions - the ones where one early incorrect pick can cost me one or two more picks down the line. And with that extra hurdle, how did I fare? I frickin' OWNED you guys!! You almost didn't need to play the dang tournaments - coulda just checked out my pick list in advance. In the quarterfinals, I went 21-3 (with the other eight semifinalists determined by six byes and two forfeits); then in the semis, I popped a rockin' 13-3 pace; and in the finals, I nailed 6 of the 8!! That's a 40-8 total tournament record. Aaaand… I hit perfect brackets in A, B AND C divisions (and came within one dart of a perfect bracket in F also)!! One of my best runs, I think.

JK'S TEAM-BY-TEAM, WEEK-BY-WEEK MATCH PREDICTION RESULTS

(I introduced this page thirty-one seasons ago, and it has become almost expected as a newsletter staple. Feast your eyes on the success...)

For several years, many of you have taken no greater pleasure in your weekly darting endeavors than to email, text, or call me, and point out to me just how wrong I was in my prediction of your match result. On a related note, I have noticed that many of you seem to have relatively selective memories saving only the weeks when I was wrong. Further, many others of you regularly embellish your statistics of how often you fool me. It's not so easy to get away with those rambles anymore, however, as you can see below. Each W is a week when I picked your match correctly, and each L is one I picked incorrectly. Division totals are to the right of the team totals, weekly totals are at the bottom, and in the space between the 14 weeks and the team totals, the nine(!) 'o' symbols indicate the teams for which I was only 0.500, and the four(!) 'x' symbols indicate the teams that fooled me more often than not. [After a pretty rough start, I managed to bounce back in most divisions, despite one of the most parity-laden seasons the league has ever seen. Became ever more of a mess in G division as things progressed though… At or below 0.500 for 4 of 7 G teams!? - JK]

THIS SEASON'S TRIVIA QUESTIONS… REVISITED

I now run this column during seasons in which I've included trivia questions all season. Each question is listed exactly as it was during the season, so there is potential for a question to now be out of date, but it's usually not too much of a problem. Each question is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers follow the questions. No peeking…

[Note: as with most historical statistics questions that I can ask here in the Trivia column, the following questions includes only the most recent 46 (now 47) seasons, as that is the amount of time I have been statistician - records prior to that are largely incomplete and unavailable, and some things like doubles and overall records for individual weren't even tracked in many of the prior seasons. Pretty soon, I'm just going to start referring to my time here as 'the modern era', especially since my time now covers almost two-thirds of the time since the RDL even threw its first dart. - JK]

Week 6 question: (We actually started the season with a reader-submitted question! This excellent idea for one came from Robbie Phillips of The Unintimidated Element.) What are the six 'outs' in '01 that have only one route (as in what starting scores for the out throw have 'no variation' in the targets that can be used to complete the 'out')?

Week 7 question: During my 47 seasons as statistician, how many different host establishments has the RDL had? And for this one, places that changed names (such as The Profile/High Park) only count as one establishment. (I think the answer is going to surprise some people…)

Week 8 question: (This was great… another reader-submitted question! This one came from Mike Seward of Darty Minds.) What is the greatest number of 6-Bulls recorded by a league member, and who has it?

Week 9 question(s): While we're on a perfect throw run, let's go with these: How many people are in the RDL Ton-70-In Club? And how many are in the RDL Ton-70-Out Club?

Week 10 question: (a third reader-submitted entry!, this time by Dan Butterworth of Bulls Up - it's one we did a while back, I think, but it could use an update) What is the lowest season finish of any team that actually led its division in total points?

Week 11 question: In the Fall 2003 season, the league instituted the "Fulton Crowley rule" - the addition of a match loss for each late scoresheet penalty after your first two in a given season. How many times since that rule was instituted has a team lost a match win for a 3rd (or more) late sheet? (Note: many years prior, as in pre-1996, every late scoresheet also cost you the match win! Ouch. Pretty harsh, eh?)

Week 12 question(s): It's about this week in the season when some start caring about who I put on my unofficial seasonal all-star teams (and some of you care a LOT). In light of that, which five league members (just a taking shot here that there isn't a giant tie for 5th on this list) have the longest current strings of seasons on my divisional all-star teams? How many seasons?

Week 13 question: Last week, Chalker's Nightmare won with only 4 players. How many times in the last 10 seasons has a double-shorthanded (for the entire match!) team won?

Week 14 question(s): Tonight there is a head-to-head matchup for a spot in A division's top-six (and very likely a spot in A next season). In the past 45 seasons, how many of the 90 teams that finished with a top-two spot in B then finished in the top-six in A (if an 8-team division) or top-five (if a 7-team division) the following season? Also, how many times in those 45 seasons have BOTH top-two B teams climbed up to A and avoided a bottom-two finish in A that very next season?

Week 6 answer: 2, 3, 153, 156, 167, and 170. The first two and the last two are pretty clear and self-explanatory. But it's working out that 153 and 156 can only end with double-18 that was probably the trickiest part. [Had a lot of guesses on this one, and lots of people got it after a couple guesses, but only John Carroll of The Unintimidated Element got it on the first try.]

Week 7 answer: You ready for this? Since my time as newsletter editor started 46.5 seasons ago, the RDL has had ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-SIX host establishments! And that's unique places… if we added in bars that simply changed names when they changed ownership, that would add another dozen establishment identities to the list. Since we are throwing in only 28 places this season, that means we have left nearly a hundred places behind in just the last 23 years (granted, a few have closed down or burned down, but that still means they are in our past). And right about now you're probably trying to remember how many you can think of, and you're just at a complete loss for what the last 60-80 could be. Well, if you reference back to the week 8 issue of the Tons from this season, page 6 that week provided a very expanded version of the amazing answer of 126 establishments - we revisited this with all the bars, their number of seasons, most recent season, etc.

Week 8 answer: Ok, in addition to the 46.5 seasons for which I've been statistician, I was able to cobble together partial information for 15 additional earlier seasons. And that info has brought us just a bit more 6-Bull knowledge. In my time here, there has been a total of 79 6-Bulls (regular season and tournaments combined), and we picked up 4 more from the older newsletters. So, I have record of 83 total 6-Bulls, and those have been thrown by 72 different people. And only 8 of those 72 people have hit more than one. 6 of the 8, Scott Butters, Steve Hoffmann, Sid Mitchell, Tim Mozzetti, Trey Rodgers, and Wil Tan, each have hit 2. Leaving only two throwers with more than 2: Robbie Phillips with 3 6-Bulls, and then… Mike Seward with 4 (one each in the Sp04, Sp07, Fa11 and Fa16 seasons). Yep, the question author turned out to be the answer…

Week 9 answer: Alright, soooo… first thing we have to point out is that an "In" in 301 could happen on any turn of the game prior to 2010. Yep, if you blanked for nine turns and then threw a 170, you would be averaging only 17 points per turn… and… you would own a 170-In. Thus, for the throws in this list before 2010, they might well have happened on the first turn. Or they might well have happened sometime much later when the opponent was already shooting at the out. So there, there's the disclaimer (and no, the question of "how can anyone defend throwing at the bull to start as a solid strategy?" is not a disclaimer… it's just a very mathematically defensible question in an argument :o).

Ok, so the 170-In Club (7 people): Phillip Maxwell (Sp96), Will Benson (Fa97), Don Graves (Sp99), Tom Winters (Fa07), Tom Flood (Sp13 - must be first turn), Tim Mozzetti (Sp14 - must be first turn), and Mike Seward (the only person to do it more than once, in Fa00 in the tournament, in Fa04, and in Sp06).

And the 170-Out Club (8 people who actually had to win their games!): Dale Hyler (Sp04), Jerry Oakley (Fa04), Jason Kilts (Fa05 tournament), Robbie Phillips (Fa06), Tim McNamara (Fa09 tourn.), Fon Denton (Sp13), Justin McCurry (Sp14), and the only person with two recorded 170-Outs… Mike Hall (Sp95 tourn., from my 15-partial-season pre-JK-record collection, and the Fa04 tourn.). Best part about Hall's Sp95 one? He had 172 when he started his prior turn, and he wired two single-1s and had a 3rd-dart bounce-out to leave the 170!

Week 10 answer: In the past 46 seasons (the amount of time I've been the statistician), we've had 341 divisions (note added for banquet Tons: now 47 seasons, and now 349 divisions). And in those 347 divisions, only 12 times has the division point leader finished lower than 2nd place. And of those 12, a whopping (and unsurprising) 9 finished just down in 3rd place (Freebirds, Sp98 E div.; Grateful Darts, Fa00 D div.; The Replacements, Fa03 E div.; Dogs of War, Fa07 B div.; The SurReal Decoys, Sp10 F div.; Cork A Diddle Do!, Sp11 C div.; Force 8 from the Planet XXX, tied with the division winner in Fa11 E div.; Bull Hunters, Sp17 G div.; and Double In, Stumble Out! in Sp18 E div.). The 10th of our 12 on the list finished in 4th place - Chalk It Up in Fa14's H division. Which

SOME TEAMS GET MORE OUT OF THEIR DART NIGHT THAN OTHERS DO

I have told people for many years that I think my Element team is more successful than we would otherwise be due to the fact that we are a very tight group of friends. Honestly, for many of us it approaches almost a family level of closeness. And it has certainly worked out for us, both competitively and interpersonally. Thus, I kind of applaud the teams that sort of find the same. And with that in mind, I present to you… Irrelevant Details (pictured here). If you think back to the week 4 Tons from this season, the team had busted out name tags for the whole team, with all of them indicating that their names were "Irrelevant" except for captain Jeremy "EVIL" Limerick. Later, during the B division tournament, they busted the name tags back out. This time though, all eight name tags (note that their team has nine players) read "Dave". Longtime teammate Dave Surber is missing from the team photo, due to an illness that advanced him to a stay in the intensive care unit. And because Irrelevant is pretty quickly making its way from "team" to "family", they immediately paid homage to their missing brother. They even brought a card for a bunch of the B division players to sign if they felt so inclined. I truly hope that people sent some strong inappropriate humor, as Surber is one of those who would appreciate it fully.

leaves just our two top point earners who fell way down their division lists… Both teams finished an astonishing 5th out of 7 teams in their divisions, and neither due to any penalty losses or anything. Big Bulls, just last season(!) finished 5th in D division, narrowly taking the division point crown despite their 5-7 record. And FYL&EMS, back in the Sp03 season, finished 5th in E division with a 6-6 record, despite having 15(!) points more than the next-highest-scoring team (a team which actually only finished 2nd themselves).

Week 11 answer: Ok, the very first rule I pushed the Board to change when I took over as statistician was the "late scoresheet costs you all your points AND your match win" rule. The Board agreed that was overly harsh and switched it to just "all your points" (and it was later changed to the constant value of 16 points so that a team wasn't punished more or less than another team for the same offense). And that all worked just fine… until the Spring 2003 season when Fulton Crowley of Mangina Douche in F division just decided that the points no longer mattered after the second of his eventual SIX late scoresheets that season. Since he didn't care about the points anymore, he would just save his sheets up and send them in every couple weeks. His team won the division despite having ONE HUNDRED fewer points than the 2nd place team. Thus, the current 3rd-forfeit-starts-costing-match-wins rule went into effect. And in the 29 seasons since the rule was enacted, we've had exactly ONE team reach a 3rd forfeit in a season (although quite a number have danced the line by having two). In the Fall 2006 season, No Maam in G rang up late sheets in weeks 2 and 3, and then ripped off three more in weeks 4, 9 and 12!! Their 8-6 record (yes, they had 5 late scoresheets in just 8 wins) dropped to 5-9 and dropped them into 5th place. That team was officially captained by Worth Pearsall, but I'm pretty sure it was "run" by Shervin Ejlali of this season's Another Coach Creation in H.

Week 12 answer: Most seasons, the RDL has 8 divisions, meaning I name 64 people to divisional all-star teams. Of last season's 64, a whopping 43 of them now have a 1-season "streak" of making that page. Another 10 have a 2-season streak, 2 have a 3-season streak, 3 have a 4-season streak, and 1 has a 5-season streak. Which leaves just our current top-5… Three of them sit with a 6-season streak: Tom Brown (all in A div.), John Kramer (all in A div., and encompassing his entire RDL career since moving here), and Joe Rigert, Sr. (with three in F div. and three in G div.). In second place is Jeff Cashin with a 7-season streak (two in C div., four in D div., and one in E div.). And all alone at the top, to roughly nobody's surprise at all, is the RDL's top player ever: Robbie Phillips. Phillips is currently on a 27-season run of all-star teams, all of them in A division, and covering every full season since he returned from school toward the end of the Spring 2005 season. And not only has Phillips been on the team 27 straight times, he has been the A division MVP a whopping 17 times (including 10 of the most recent 11 seasons), and the overall league MVP 7 times (including 4 times in a 5-season span from Fa12 through Fa14). [Answer update for the banquet Tons: Four of the top five (Phillips, Cashin, Rigert and Kramer) extended their streaks this season. Brown's extensive travel for work left him just short.]

Week 13 answer: In the last 10 seasons, we have had a total of 16 wins by double-shorthanded squads. However… 5 of those 16 were won against another shorthanded team (and 1 of those was actually a matchup of two four-player groups!), so it's really only 11 wins against a full 6+-player opponent in that time. So that's 1.6 times per season counting them all, and only 1.1 times per season against a non-shorthanded opponent. Interestingly, a quarter of those 16 happened in week 14 - teams out of the hunt having a hard time getting their lesser players to attend, maybe? Anyway, a few other facts on this topic: #1 - we've had at least one four-player win for 9 consecutive seasons now; #2 - it occurs most often in B division (an astonishing 7 of those 16), but has not happened even once in A or G in that timespan; #3 - Fall '18 was the super-shorthanded king season, with 4 wins by those teams; and #4 - the largest margin of victory by a recent 4-player team was last season's 13-5 win by Dead Beats over Nine Lives.

Week 14 answer: Ok, I pulled the Fall 1995 banquet issue (the last season during which the statistician wasn't me), so I expanded this to 46 seasons. And then I actually was able to add this season now that the regular season is completed, so we'll actually answer this one for the last 47 seasons instead of the last 45. In those 47 seasons, 31 of the 94 teams that had finished top-two in B the previous season were able to earn a spot above the bottom-two in A division. 33.0% is actually a good bit higher than I expected the rate to be. 22 times neither of the top two B teams made it above the bottom-two in A, 19 times one of the teams did, and 6 times both(!) of the teams did. Those six times happened in the Fall 1997 season, in Spring 1998, in Fall 2002, in Spring 2005, in Fall 2008, and… this season!! Dartistic's late charge gave the two teams that moved up "staying spots" for the first time in the last 21 seasons. [Bonus answer: the highest finishes by a team moving up from B during those 47 seasons were a pair of 2nd place finishes - by Shameless & Aimless VII in the Fall 1998 season (after they had won F, been 2nd in E, won D, won C, and won B, in the 5 previous seasons), and by Varina Sports Bar in Spring 2003 (which had 4 of the same players as the Shameless & Aimless VII roster from 1998!).]

THIS SEASON'S LYRICS QUIZZES… REVISITED

Much like the column of this season's trivia questions on the previous page, I've listed here each lyrics quiz from this season. Each lyric is listed exactly as it was during the season. Each lyric is listed under the week number when it ran, and the answers are listed at the bottom of the page (and continuing onto the next page). No peeking… So who's ready to re-play "Name the band/singer and song (and weekly theme)"?

Week 2, song #1 lyric: "I've been alive forever, And I wrote the very first song, I put the words and the melodies together, I am music and…"

Week 2, song #2: "You're more than a one night date, All I had to take me was just one look, My heart began a thumping babe you had it jumping"

Week 2, song #3: "Well you walk into a restaurant, Strung out from the road, And you feel the eyes upon you, As you're shakin' off the cold"

Week 3, song #1 lyric: "How can I explain it? I'll take it, frame by frame it, To have y'all all jumpin', shoutin', sayin' it, O is for other, P is for peoples'..."

Week 5, song #3 lyric: "How can I help it if I think you're funny when you're mad? Trying hard not to smile, though I feel bad, I'm the kind of guy..."

Week 6, song #1 lyric: "And I'm here, to remind you, Of the mess you left when you went away, It's not fair, to deny me"

Week 6, song #2 lyric: "You go talk to your friends, talk to my friends, talk to me (talk to me), But we are..."

Week 6, song #3 lyric: "Yeah I'm sorry I can't afford a Ferrari, But that don't mean I can't get you there, I guess he's an Xbox and I'm more Atari"

Week 7, song #1 lyric: "But I'm holdin' on, I'm gonna be your number one, I'm not the kind-a girl who gives up just like that, oh no"

Week 7, song #2 lyric: "Crying won't help you, Praying won't do you no good, No, crying won't help you, Praying won't do you no good"

Week 7, song #3 lyric: "Mississippi moon, won't you keep on shining on me?, Yeah, keep on shining your light, Gonna make everything"

Week 8, song #1 lyric: "When you're with me I'm smiling, Give me all your love, Your hands build me up when I'm sinking, Touch me..."

Week 8, song #2 lyric: "I'm your knight in shining armor and I love you, You have made me what I am and I'm yours, My love, there's so..."

Week 8, song #3 lyric: "Let me take a look at you now, You're there on the dance floor, Making me want you somehow"

Week 9, song #1 lyric: "Times have changed and times are strange, Here I come, but I ain't the same"

Week 9, song #2 lyric: "Life is old there, older than the trees, Younger than the mountains, blowing like a breeze"

Week 9, song #3: "I'm sitting in the railway station, Got a ticket to my destination, On a tour of one-night stands my suitcase and guitar in hand"

Week 10, song #1 lyric: "And I... will swallow my... Pride, You're the one that I love, And I'm saying goodbye"

Week 10, song #2 lyric: "But if you want to leave, take good care, Hope you have a lot of nice things to wear, But then a lot of nice things .."

Week 10, song #3 lyric: "And now's the time, the time is now, To sing my song, I'm goin' 'round the world, I got to find my girl, On my way"

Week 11, song #1 lyric: "Got to keep on pushin' mama, You know they're running late, Without love, where would you be now"

Week 11, song #2 lyric: "Wrong way on a one way track, Seems like I should be getting somewhere, Somehow I'm neither here nor there"

Week 11, #3: "Crazy, but that's how it goes, Millions of people living as foes, Maybe it's not too late, To learn how to love and forget how to hate"

Week 12, song #1 lyric: "He had nasty reputation as a cruel dude, They said he was ruthless, said he was crude"

Week 12, song #2 lyric: "So I signed my name on number 24, hey, Yeah the judge said, "Boy, just one more, huh"

Week 12, song #3 lyric: "See my old man's got a problem, He live with the bottle that's the way it is, He says his body's too old for working"

Week 13, song #1 lyric: "She never compromises, Loves babies and surprises, Wears high heels when she exercises, Ain't it beautiful"

Week 13, song #2 lyric: "Buddy, you're a young man, hard man, Shouting in the street, gonna take on the world someday"

Week 13, song #3 lyric: "There's a party goin' on right here, A celebration to last throughout the years, So bring your good times..."

Wk 14, #1: "wider than a mile, I'm crossing you in style someday, Oh, dream maker, You heartbreaker, Wherever you're going I'm going your way"

Week 14, song #2 lyric: "...And the bells were ringing … … And all the people were singing, They went, 'Na, na, la, na, na, na' "

Week 14, song #3 lyric: "You saw me standing alone, Without a dream in my heart, Without a love of my own"

Week 14, #4: "...and I've been working like a dog, … … I should be sleeping like a log, But when I get home to you, I find the things that you do"

Week 14, song #5 lyric: "Everybody here is out of sight, They don't bark and they don't bite, They keep things loose they keep it tight"

Week 14, song #6 lyric: "...and I ain't got nobody, I got some money 'cause i just got paid, How I wish I had someone to talk to, I'm in an awful way"

Week 14, song #7 lyric: "Screams break the silence, Waking from the dead of night, Vengeance is boiling, He's returned to kill the light"

Week 14, song #8 lyric: "In between the dark and the light, Coming right behind you, Swear I'm gonna find you Get 'ya baby…"

Wk14, #9: "Some may say, I'm wishing my days away, No way, And if it's the price I pay, Some say, Tomorrow's another day, You stay, I may as..."

Week 14, #10 lyric: "You and I go hard at each other like we're going to war, You and I go rough, we keep throwing things and slamming the door"

Week 14, #11: "Now, Andy, did you hear about this one?, Tell me, are you locked in the punch?, Andy, are you goofing on Elvis? Hey, baby"

Wk 14, #12: "Radio playing softly some singer's sad sad song, He's singing about standing in the shadows of love, I guess he feels awfully alone"

Week 14, song #13 lyric: "Let me play among the stars, Let me see what spring is like, On a-Jupiter and Mars, In other words: hold my hand"

Week 14, song #14: "...Never reaching the end, Letters I've written, Never meaning to send, Beauty I'd always missed, With these eyes before"

Week 14, song #15: "And if I ever lose my hands, lose my plough, lose my land, Oh if I ever lose my hands, Oh if... I won't have to work no more."

Week 14, song #16 lyric: "Summer lovin', had me a blast. Summer lovin', happened so fast, Met a girl crazy for me, Met a boy cute as can be"

Week 2 answers: Song 1 = "I Write The Songs" by Barry Manilow === Song 2 = "You're More Than a Number in My Little Red Book" by The Drifters === Song 3 = "Turn The Page" by Bob Seger. Week 3 answers: Song 1 = "O.P.P." by Naughty By Nature === Song 2 = "Whoomp! (There It Is)" by Tag Team === Song 3 = "Things That Make You Go Hmmmm…." by C&C Music Factory.

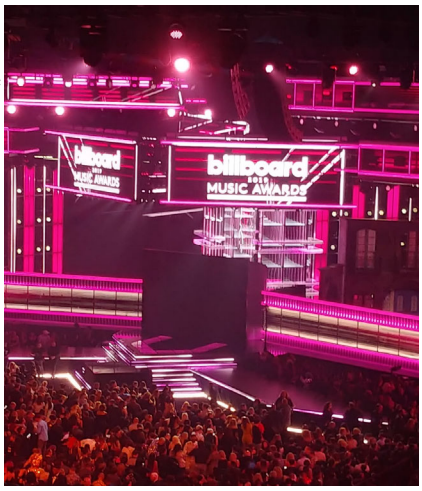
THAT WAS ALL IT TOOK?



For over two decades, I chased down scoresheet information on a nearly weekly basis - with a huge percentage of those times being instances in which I was trying to track down the identities of players who filled shorthanded teams' "blocker" slots. Week after week, season after season, teams left lines with nothing more than "blocker" on them (and with no help from games-played information on the back of the sheet). Well, we finally go ahead and make it a penalty to fail to include the names of blockers, and you guys DON'T MISS EVEN ONE THE ENTIRE SEASON. It used to happen weekly, despite me yelling at you, putting it on the scoresheet, running reminders in multiple places in multiple weeks' newsletters, like you guys just didn't give a crap. But we make it a penalty and… poof! All of a sudden it's completely important. Well, I don't care why, I guess. I just love that it's finally a priority for you guys. Full info, with way less effort. Yay.

HMMMM… WHAT SHOULD WE PENALIZE NEXT? :o)

Taking a full day to turn in a tournament score? Not checking to see if your scoresheet photo is all blurry or cutting off player names? Probably not time yet… but you guys could still jump on those, no?

THIS IS HOW YOU TURN IN A TOURNAMENT RESULT

Misty Wilson of Wayne Gretzky, this season's lone underdog tournament finalist (in G division), sent her team's quarterfinal win result along with this bit of awesomeness. Wilson had a work conference in Las Vegas (one of my favorite places in the whole world), and the Billboard Music Awards were taking place while she was there. Talk about spending your quarterfinal match night in a far better way! Holy cow. Super bonus for her was that her team won (and continued winning) and sent her the result so quickly that even from Vegas she beat lots of other teams in terms of match score result speed.

[Like we have for many seasons, we used three-song groups each week (except for the traditional long week 14 set) and also included a theme each and every week. Adds a layer to the game for everybody and has been hugely popular. Here are the themes for each week*, including the week 14 sixteen-song set, which the top guesser (and lyric game legend) Mikey Hindle fully nailed… every song, every artist.*

Week 2 theme: Pretty simple one… just books. Writing, books, pages. I just heard the Seger song and it became a set. Nothing deeper than that this time around.. Week 3 theme: Songs that pretty much became conversational catch phrases. Had a few others that I considered here too, but we kept it at the standard three-song set. Week 4 theme: Bands whose names are pretty much nonsense. Week 5 theme: Songs with super-fast lyrics that most can't learn without spending way too much time doing it. Week 6 theme: Well, of course this was all songs about horrible breakups… in honor of the team breakup from last season that was the root cause of the premeditated no-notice no-show forfeit a couple weeks ago. There was no chance you thought I was letting that go by, was there? I actually broke with my own normal guidelines to run that set, as both of the last two songs are ones that we have had at some point in the past in the lyrics quiz (the 11th and 12th second-use lyrics in the [at the time] 760-song history of the quiz). Week 7 theme: Ok, this one wasn't actually consciously inspired by the number of rainy days we've had already this year, but who is to say that a song set about rising or flowing rivers/tides wasn't put in my thought processes subconsciously by Mother Nature? I love me some sunny days, so maybe I was hoping this was a set I couldn't run as appropriately later in the spring/summer. (Plus, these are just three really damn cool songs.) Week 8 theme: Well, three songs of the same name that aren't covers of each other… in this case, it was all about the ladies. Week 9 theme: Clearly, this one was all about coming home. Sometimes, there are few things as great as getting to go home. Although, man… going back to the town where I grew up is a little sad to me sometimes… how did so many of those people never seem to grow forward from exactly where we were on the last day of high school? Yikes. Week 10 theme: Well, after a week in which everything was about coming home, it only made sense to have set about… leaving. Obvious follow-up, no? Plus, I kinda love that Cat Stevens song and I just wanted to use it. Week 11 theme: Technically, this was a set inspired by all of the light rail news swirling around the Triangle, but I would accept basically anything that focused on trains. Week 12 theme: Going really fast, which was entirely inspired by the speed with which the week 11 winning captains sent me their scoresheets! Weeks with early information rock. Week 13 theme: The recent NCAA basketball championship won by the University of Virginia. We'll call this the Donald Grubb lyric set. If you didn't know Donald (and thus why this is the Grubb set), we'll just politely leave that as your loss. Week 14 theme: moon songs and night songs, alternating with each song. The songs were listed in order by the band's/artist's name, alphabetically (but within each group, moon or night).

REMINDERS FOR FUTURE SEASONS

Two-Up / Two-Down is a guideline, not a guarantee

We always track which teams finish in the top-two or the bottom-two of a division, because that is our general guideline for seeding the following season. But please do remember that this is NOT set in stone. If teams change composition, or teams fold, or new teams form, all of those factors can result in situations where the Membership Committee has to move up (or down) more or less teams. Our league composition is "pretty static", so it's often no issue… but sometimes. Just know there aren't guarantees, and divisons are not determined until all rosters are actually submitted.

There are minimum games played requirements for awards

It never ceases to amaze me how often people miss out on Mug awards by simply not paying attention to the minimum games requirements. They are in every newsletter of the entire season. Page 4, week after week. Yikes.

This makes you a d*ck

This season, we had a team trying to get in touch with an opponent to ask for a reschedule. It wasn't very easy, because the opposing captain's phone number had changed. And of course, that captain never notified the statistician, or the Board, or… anyone. Thus, once the other captain finally got in touch with him via conversations with one of the few team members with a phone number on record, the captain with the new phone number just said "sorry, but notifying the dart league of my new phone number is nowhere on my list of priorities." I will translate for the rest of you, so you all know what he really means: "I don't care enough about the time and effort anyone else puts into our hobby to bother spending 30 seconds to make myself reachable, and too bad for you if you can't reach me to handle the simplest of dart league requests." Awesome…

DO YOU GUYS REALIZE JUST HOW GOOD THE RDL IS?

If you never really look outside the bounds of the RDL news and home bars, you might never quite grasp the level of the talent we have. Darts is an incredibly difficult task to try to master, and members of our league rank among the most talented in the entire nation. Don't believe me? Well, check out this trio of stories. Just one set of recent inter-related examples!

#1 -- THIS. IS. SO. BAD. ASS.

Ok, so maybe we don't have a new sheriff in RDL town, but we might well have a new deputy. It was a hell of a four-day span for the youngest member of the RDL family, P.J. Stewart of The Neighborhood Bullies. On the final night of the regular season, in a non-intentionally-arranged matchup, Stewart ended up in a head-to-head singles cricket pairing with the undisputed RDL G.O.A.T. Robbie Phillips. [Sidebar: yes, G.O.A.T. is completely overused and almost always incorrectly applied, as people are prone to labeling whatever the hell they are presently seeing as the greatest of all time in whatever it is. Well, I'm not one of those people. I only use tags like that when they are indisputable and accurate. And it is simple fact that Phillips is the greatest RDL player ever.] Aaaaaand… it is also indisputable that Phillips is not the A division singles champ this season because in that head-to-head pairing with Stewart, Stewart grabbed the lead and just waltzed away from him with this season's title!! Yes, the top singles winner in the top division in the top league in the state is a ripe old 13 years of age. Oh, I didn't mention that Stewart is THIRTEEN?! Well, he is. And he's now one of the RDL's top players (and one of the very few who have ever claimed an A singles title). And he earned it in the hardest set against the best opponent he could have faced. So how do you celebrate that?! If you think back to the top of this column, I told you that Stewart had a great "four-day" span. Just a couple days after taking out Phillips here in RDL-land, Stewart headed to the Youth National Masters finals in Cleveland. And…. won that too!! He smoked through five (I think) rounds of the best 17&under (yes, the youth go all the way up through 17!) with a 17-4 final record in legs, never facing an elimination game in any round! The 16- and 17-year-olds had to be psyched that last year's best players had aged out, and along comes a 13-year-old who frickin' mops the floor with them! Uh, bummer for them. And double-bummer because he is still eligible for four more years! Ha! So what do you do with a Masters National youth title? Well, you advance to the Winmau World Masters in England in October!! Oh, that is so freaking great! [And my favorite part of Stewart's win? Phillips streamed the finals live on Facebook, providing pretty excellent commentary during the set! Watching Stewart flat-out roll his finals opponent without a bit of hesitation and shakiness sort of makes me wonder if his body contains a normal nervous system though. So cool and calm. At… thirteen.]

#2 -- AND NOT ONLY OUR YOUTH KICK BUTT!

You know what else was going on at the Masters National finals in Cleveland? Amanda Preciado of DD 214 was staking her claim as one of the nation's best female darters! Nineteen ladies from across the nation had qualified for the finals, first broken into three groups of 6-7 throwers, and then with a final six-thrower group to determine who would also earn invites to the Winmau World Masters. Preciado tied for the top spot in her first group and then squeezed out a one-leg advantage in one of the most even final group standings I've ever seen, taking the overall national title (and advancing to England with runner-up Bonnie Wei). In talking with Preciado (more commonly known as Stitches at dart matches), my favorite line from her was "still a long way to go… and now I actually have to practice more and also be all professional and stuff… the latter of the two might be more difficult. Ha! We all get that, I think. She also threw in a great shoutout as well: "But I do feel that if it wasn't for the DD 214 / Fire For Effect crew who invited me to play in the league, and all the support since, not to mention the competition in the RDL, I would not have gotten this far this fast [after retiring two years ago]." Pretty cool recognition there…

So, now with P.J. Stewart heading to the World Masters, and Preciado heading to the World Masters, it's pretty clear the RDL sits somewhere at the forefront of national darting excellence. Well, it was almost even clearer. Notice above where I said Preciado advanced to the finals group by tying for her group lead? Well, the thrower with whom she tied (and with whom she advanced to the final group) was none other than Julie Phillips of Kiss This Crüe! Yep, three more leg wins in the final group and Phillips would be headed to the Winmau Worlds too. So dang close.

#3 -- BUT WHAT ABOUT…?

This guy? The guy on the right in the picture to the right? How the heck can the RDL be represented at a world-level event without this guy? Well, don't you worry your little head about it. It turns that RDL G.O.A.T. (hey, callback to the P.J. Stewart column! woowoo!) Robbie Phillips of The Unintimidated Element won the BDO-ranked singles event at the Las Vegas Open, and thus also secured his invite to the Winmau World Masters. So, he's in too. Youth… women… men… the RDL just sends 'em all to England for the Worlds! Total representation. Boom.

RANDOM THOUGHTS FROM JK

Nowadays, it's a fact… this column has become a banquet Tons staple. I have no idea why so many are so keen on taking a peek into the oddness that is my head, but you are. So without further ado, let's open up my head again and see what falls out. Some of these observations are dart-related, and some of them clearly are not. I'm never sure what's about to hit the page, but anyway… whatever…

-- Alright, back to tradition, as we kick things off with a Survivor comment (beware, spoiler alert!). Although things didn't come out the way I wanted, my boy Rick Devens has become my favorite contestant ever (and this isn't close, and I've watched this show for a long dang time,). He is funny, smart, humble, aware, and simply a guy with whom I want to hang out. He also deserved to win it all. Which brings me to my conclusion about this season's format: I don't think a guy who spent only 11 days "playing" should win…

-- Saw a funny post on Facebook the other day. Might be the truest thing I have ever read (generally not true for things on Facebook: "Cataract is the third biggest cause of blindness. Religion and politics remain the first two."

-- You know what I really friggin' hate? When somebody says something in a way to make it sound so much bigger or more eventful than something really is. I was watching 60 Minutes a few weeks back, and they were examining the differently evidences of global warming. The story was interesting and well done, but they went to visit this weird Russian geologist that used to get dismissed in the field a lot, but it turns out he was right about a whole bunch of stuff. Well, they traveled a LONG way to go see him - they said they "traveled 15 time zones to go see him"! Holy cow, fifteen?! That's so far away. More than half way around the world, no? Ooooooooor… you could just say you went 9 time zones away… Sigh. Turns out that some of us know there are 24 time zones around the world. Ya know, the whole 24 hours in a day (which is a single rotation of the earth, people) thing. Don't build things up to make them sound bigger - it takes away from the weight your actual story could tell. But… hey… later this year, I'm going to Vegas! Did you know that is 21 time zones from here?!?! Yeah, now you see my point.

-- One extra one on the item immediately above… I complained about this at work the next day, and the two people who work near me (career scientists in both industry and academia) looked at me, clearly not getting it. One said "is that really far?" The other said "how many times zones are there?" I… I… I… have no words… Pardon me, I need to go cry for a little while now.

-- I don't know enough about radio waves. I know this because for many years, button 4 of my car radio has been 98.7 Simon from Greensboro/Winston-Salem. [I use all eight of my radio buttons regularly, because it is far important to me to avoid all commercials (yes, I know, defeating the radio model) than to stay on any one station/music type.] And a couple weeks ago, I got in the car in the morning and I had clearly been listening to Simon last when I got out of the car the prior night. But… it wasn't Simon coming out of my radio, despite the fact that it was still 98.7 on the dial. Holy cow, was Simon sold overnight? Turns out, nope, it wasn't. What I was hearing was Modern Rock 98.7 from Jacksonville (and it's actually the other side of Jacksonville, and their tag line has stuff like "rocking Wilmington and the beach" in it). About four hours later, Simon took back over and I haven't heard the other 98.7 since (which sucks, because I loved that station, it turns out). What the heck was going on atmospherically that all of a sudden I was hearing a radio station from the opposite direction, at least twice as far away?! And then… it was just gone?! So much I don't know in this world.

-- So we go to one of our sons' senior class awards nights (we have three graduating this year… yes, three… the college fund donation bucket will be by the door on your way out), and it's pretty much a little parade of awards and local scholarships. And included in the awards list (and I'm copying this verbatim, AND this is exactly how they read the name out) was this gem: "Linda Moore & Excellence Award in English". A person and a trait. If there was no ampersand, it's all good. If there was a second person's name after the ampersand, it's all good. But as it is, it is NOT all good. And this award is for ENGLISH, people.

-- Speaking of being bad at a basic subject in school… this is either a test or a joke, right? Nobody actually pays $55 for a $50 gift card, do they? Tell me again why this is smarter than just giving the person $50 in cash. Or heck, give them the $55 in cash - it's pretty clear that you have no idea what to do with money if you are buying this, so it's better off with them anyway.

-- Hey, you know what's hilarious? Grandmas texting, that's what. And no, I don't mean your 47-year-old sister who started her family early, and has been a grandmother for about an hour now. I mean grandmas. One of our kids' grandmas (I say it like that because it's my wife's ex-husband's mom - he's out, but she's still a great grandma), sent this little string to my wife: Grandma - "Could you.for lunch and s" My wife - "Um, when?" Grandma - "ed." Grandma again - "Best has Sat saw QQ has is saw he was" As you might have guessed, a phone call from my wife followed (probably along with a checkup for a stroke, no?). It was something about an afternoon with a lunch and a massage (and nope, I have no idea which random characters are 'supposed to be' which words);\

-- Oh my goodness, what a debacle the Epicenter Fest became, eh? (Note: I will not call this the new Carolina Rebellion, as it is clearly not. Different place, different ideas, different dates. And at least in the first year, evidently roughly none of them are as good - not even as good as the crappy year Rebellion was down in Rockingham.) Charging for parking, then running out of said parking? Parking areas with no lighting, no security, and only one way in or out (people only escaped one night when they literally cut down a fence)? Waiting in traffic for 3-5 hours to get in, and then another 2-5 hours to get out? Talk of a class-action lawsuit before the event even ended? People bailing without ever getting in the event? And all this while the ticket prices fell from full price, to buy-one-get-one, to $20 for a day, to $1 for the weekend. How the hell do they ever look the people that paid full price (and maybe even didn't get in) in the eye? At least on the day canceled due to severe weather, everyone could go back to their hotels for safety… oh, right… camping only, for about a half an hour around. Not that they could get out of the parking lot anyway. I never missed a day of any Rebellion - I'm glad that so far I've never attended a day of Epicenter. Danny Wimmer Presents used to get my money at the drop of a hat - with the same thing happening at their other festival, now maybe not so much… I guess it was AEG Live (Wimmer's old partner, who is suing him, I believe) that actually made Rebellion the glorious beast it was. I guess… at least… it wasn't the Fyre Festival?! :o)

RDL's ALL-TIME HIGHEST ASP AVERAGES

Alright, let's just begin with two facts right up front: #1 - people love this statistic; #2 - as far as statistics go, it pretty much doesn't follow any rules of logic or fairness. Yep, that's right, it combines the open-ended cricket with the finite-length '01, it combines singles with doubles, it compares divisions where games take more or fewer turns to complete, and it ignores the scores hit between ASP turns. It even compares seasons that did or did not include games of 1001 in the calculation. Also, we only have the complete data for the last 47 seasons (the amount of time for which I have been statistician, representing just a bit less than 2/3 of the league's existence). Regardless, the league membership loves this stuff… so let's see what the best numbers ever are, shall we?

[For these lists, we've used a simple '30 games played' minimum, regardless of whether or not that was sufficient to win an award in that division that season.]

The "It's All Over!… It's Over!… You Know It's So Over!… … … I'm Still Waiting For My Handshake" Edition

TOURNAMENT WINNERS

"A" Division - The Neighborhood Bullies (13-3)
The Bullies straight up roll through the finals match to become the first non-Element team to tally an undefeated season in A division since Element's roster formed sixteen and a half years ago.

"B" Division - Darty Minds (13-5)
Darty Minds never see 501 in the tournament, turning what was expected to be a super-exciting third matchup with Atonsamongus into a romp in the finals, closing out their season/tourney double.

"C" Division - Boom Baby (12+-12)
The Boom Baby-Show Me rivalry got extra airtime in the tourney, as their finals pairing (just like their first matchup in the season) went all the way to 1001, with Boom taking the W all three times.

"D" Division - Why So Serious? (14-2)
Serious completes this season's most dominant run by winning the regular season by FIVE matches and taking the tourney final by the season's biggest margin (they did need 501 in the semis though!).

"E" Division - Treble Yell (14-6)
In what shaped up as maybe the most balanced division all season, after squeezing out a narrow win in the season, Treble seemingly wasn't ever in much danger in a strong tournament title run.

"F" Division - Kings of the Board (14-10)
